"Texas shippers have reduced their asking prices from 1 to 2 cents a pound for cars to move out by express. That same situation applies to Oklahoma. In other words, turkeys can be bought in these two States from 1 to 2 cents a pound less today than yesterday.

"Last-minute advices indicate that farmers are bringing their turkeys in to the shippers quite freely, all of which would indicate that the supply of turkeys coming forward to the New York market will be liberal.

"The turkeys are reported to be in much better condition this year than they were last year. The heavy movement will be about the middle of the week. We have every reason to look forward to a liberal supply with the turkeys in better condition than they have been for several years past for Thanksgiving.

"There is an abundant supply of roasting chickens which are to be obtained at fairly reasonable prices.

"The supply of ducks, however, is moderate and the prices probably will be somewhat higher than they were a year ago. There will be a liberal supply of geese for the Thanksgiving market, but it is customary to have the heavy supply of geese here for Christmas."

Roy M. Finley, representative of the Texas Wholesale Carlot Poultry Shipping Association, said last night that freight receipts from Texas were not as heavy as expected. He said, however, that the great bulk of the Texas shipping would be made by express.

Mr. Finley said shippers in Texas generally paid from 27 to 28 cents a pound for live turkeys, but in some sections the competition has been so keen that they have increased the price to 30 cents. This price, he said, is equal to 40 to 41 cents in New York.

The Texas turkey growers, Mr. Finley said, also are cotton growers, and the low price of the latter staple probably would result in heavy shipments of turkeys.

He was a member of the law firm of Rosenson & Lorence, 291 Broadway, Manhattan, and prior to the elevation to the bench of Supreme Court Justice Reigelmann, was associated with him in law practice. REINDEER FOR SANTA CLAUS

Two Captured at Rye for His Visit to New York City Next Month.

RYE, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP).—Santa Claus was saved from a most embarrassing situation today when a young man with a lasso captured two of a team of four reindeer which the Christmas saint expects to use in his yearly visit to New York City next month. Suburban New Yorkers, determined that Santa Claus shall be able to make his round in proper style, are still hunting for the rest of his team.

The reindeer escaped from a corral on the farm of Harry G. Hunt at Harrison, N. Y., where they were being broken to harness for a Christmas celebration, and had some hours start when the hunt began. The hunters came suddenly upon two of them basking at the water's edge at Rye Beach on Long Island Sound. Cut off from escape by land, the deer took to the water and the hunters followed in boats. Both were lassoed and towed ashore.

GIRL-WIFE SLAYER UNMOVED IN COURT

Mrs. De Nino Is Held Without Bail for Killing Man She Says Betrayed Her.

ARRAIGNMENT IS TOMORROW

Husband in Chicago Is Not Sure Whether He Will Forgive Her or Not.

Betraying no more emotion than she had several hours before when she shot and killed the man she says attacked her and tried to blackmail her, Mrs. Catherine De Nino, 16 years old, was held without bail yesterday in Morrisania Court for arraignment tomorrow in Bronx Homicide Court.

The killing, which was witnessed by several hundred Saturday night shoppers, took place at 149th Street and Bergen Avenue, the Bronx. About 9:30 o'clock Mrs. De Nino shot Luigi Fino, 34 years old, of 607 Concord Avenue, the Bronx, as he emerged from a barber shop.

Mrs. De Nino told the police that four years ago, when Fino was a boarder at the home of her mother, he had attacked her. She was afraid to tell any one of the occurrence, she said, until last Spring when her conscience forced her to tell her husband, Rocco, whom she had married in July, 1925, and with whom she had moved to Evanston, Ill. Her husband was willing to forget the past, she said, until a fortnight ago when they received a letter from Fino demanding that his silence be purchased. Her husband was furious, she said, and forced her to leave their home.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Catherine de Nino, who shot and killed a New York man on Saturday because he had dragged a discreditable incident from her past and used it as a means of blackmail, was quoted as having declared today in New York that she believed Rocco de Nino, the husband, would forgive her now.

But de Nino, in his home at 1,235 Darrow Avenue, Evanston, isn't sure what he wants to do. He explained tonight that his love for Catherine was opposed to his fear of what his elder brothers in Manhattan would think now that they knew his wife's whole story. And he added that he couldn't go to her because he hadn't the railroad fare.

MINISTER KILLS WIFE, 4 CHILDREN, HIMSELF

SOUTH TORRINGTON, Wyo., Nov. 14 (AP).—The Rev. J. B. Minort, aged 45, pastor of the Baptist Church here, early today shot and killed his wife, aged 40, and four of his five children, ranging in age from four to fifteen years. He then committed suicide.

One son, John, aged 10, survives. He is attending school at Liberty, Mo.

Mrs. Minort was shot to death with a shotgun while she lay in bed. The children were slain with a revolver as they slept, with the exception of Hubert, who was shot to death in his mother's bedroom.

The motive for the deed has not been established, but it is supposed that gossip and domestic troubles are responsible.

In addition to his duties as minister of the Baptist Church, the Rev. Mr. Minort was Police Court Judge and manager of a grain elevator. Some years ago he was humane officer in this town.

Dies in Fall Into Elevator Shaft.

Falling to the pit of the shaft from an elevator as it neared the fourth floor of a garage at 134th Street and Riverside Drive, Jacob Glassman, 40 years old, of 624 West 139th Street, was killed yesterday afternoon. Nathan Scarbough of 155 West 142d Street, who was operating the elevator, said Glassman lost his balance.

SAY FUTURE OIL FUEL MUST COME FROM COAL

World Delegates to Pittsburgh Conference Predict Use of Gasoline Substitutes.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14 (AP).—Solution of the world's dwindling oil fuel supply hinges on the manufacture of gasoline substitutes from soft coal, in the opinion of leading scientists, engineers and technologists from all parts of the world assembled here tonight for the opening tomorrow of the four-day International conference on bituminous coal.

The shortage of oil fuel has become so serious, delegates say, that representatives of several of the larger oil companies plan to join hands with research workers in an effort to bring about a remedy.

Two German scientists, Dr. Friedrich Bergius of Heidelberg and Professor Franz Fischer, Director of the Mulheim-Ruhr Institute of Coal Research, have assumed the initiative on the oil question.

Dr. Bergius is the inventor of a method for the production of liquid petroleum from coal and Professor Fischer has achieved a liquid fuel oil he calls "synthol," a mixture of alcohol, aldehydes and hydrocarbons, which already has been used in automobile engines as a substitute for gasoline.

Many problems pertaining to coal will come up before the meeting, the first of its kind ever held in the world. The conference was sponsored by Thomas Parker, President of the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Besides Drs. Bergius and Fischer the foreign delegates to the conference include Dr. C. H. Lander, Geoffrey M. Gill, Dr. R. Lessing and Harold Nielsen of England, General Georges Patart, inventor of a process for making ethyl alcobol from coal, and Jean Bing of France, and Dr. Yoshikiyo Oshima, Director of the Imperial Fuel Research Institute of Japan.

The Dotted Line

symbolizes the sale. Dotted line results from advertising are those that bring customers into the store and up to the counter to ask for your goods.

The tips in this book will aid the advertiser to win the Chicago Market*

No matter what you are selling you can be well advised by Chicago's retail space buyers. They are interested in "dotted line" results . . . . in cash sales from every line of advertising.

THOSE who know most about selling goods in Chicago are the ones who have the most goods to sell.

Chicago's "Loop" is the greatest retail market in the world . . . nowhere else can be found concentration of such volume . . . $275,000,000 yearly . . . stores with departments selling every conceivable kind of merchandise.

If there are any short-cuts to success in a market, certainly these retail merchants know them. The opinion of those who have so successfully developed this market is priceless!

It is most significant that department stores in Chicago, whether in the "Loop" or in outlying districts, depend more on The Daily News than on any other Chicago paper to move merchandise. The new book, "The Dotted Line," illustrated above, deals plainly with the results you, too, can get.

The consideration that moves the retail space buyer to use space in any paper is: will it sell goods?—will it bring buyers to-morrow?

In the first nine months of 1926 more than 39% of all the department store lineage used in Chicago papers, daily and Sunday, appeared in The Daily News . . . MORE THAN TWICE the volume any other daily or Sunday paper carried.

YOU cannot hope to be as successful with other methods—which retail merchants have found wanting.

A tremendous buying power lies within the Chicago Market*—where The Daily News has 94% of its circulation. The greatest factor in moving goods in this responsive area is The Daily News. Otherwise retail space buyers would not spend the bulk of their appropriations in this paper

Why is The Daily News so important a factor in selling goods in Chicago? What conditions exist to justify this overwhelming preference of retail merchants?

With this book, which we are asking permission to send you, with the compliments of The Daily News, you can be well informed on the Chicago newspaper and merchandising situation. You need it to get the whole picture.

Write Today This significant book, entitled "The Dotted Line," gives a dramatic and timely picture of the advertising and merchandising situation in Chicago. If you are selling or plan to sell goods in Chicago, you can benefit by knowing the methods used by those who are already successful. A copy will be sent free to business or advertising executives who write for it on their business stationery. Address The Daily News, 15 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

$73,000,000 DRIVE STARTS AT N. Y. U.

Formal Opening Set for Today, P. S. Straus, Chairman of the Committee Announces.

TO SEEK $47,750,000 FIRST

The campaign to raise $73,000,000 for the Centennial Fund of New York University will be formally opened today, Percy S. Straus, Chairman of the Executive Committee announced yesterday. The amount sought is needed by the university to keep pace with its ever-growing needs, and to round out the first century of the institution, in 1931, with a secure foundation for the future.

Of the total needed, $47,750,000 should be raised in the next few years, according to the annual report of Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of the university. This sum is needed for new buildings and to make needed improvements on existing ones.

The first step, as outlined by Mr. Straus, will be the organization of an active body of workers among the 164 trades and professions of the city. Representatives of these trades and professions will be invited to visit the various branches of the university to get a better insight into the things it is doing.

The officers of the executive committee of the Centennial Fund are: Chairman, Percy S. Straus, Harvard '97, Vice President, R. H. Macy & Co.; Vice Chairman, William H. Nichols, N. Y. U. '70, Chairman of the Board of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation of America; Treasurer, William M. Kingsley, N. Y. U. '83, First Vice President of the United States Trust Company; General Manager, Philip O. Badger, Yale '15, Professor of Marketing, New York University; Editor, Horold de Wolf Fuller, Harvard '98, Professor of Journalism, New York University.

The other members are: The Rev. Dr. George Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church; Elmer E. Brown, chancellor of the university; John J. Carty, Vice President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Dr. John P. Munn, President, United States Life Insurance Company; Finley J. Shepard, railway official; Percy S. Young, Vice President, Public Service Corporation of New Jersey. Manny Strauss is Chairman of the special advisory committee.

SHIPPING BOARD MEETS IN NEW YORK THIS WEEK

Entire Membership Will Come Here for the First Time and Will Seek Local Views.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—All members of the Shipping Board will meet in New York this week to get the views of interested persons as to how the board should follow the merchant marine law so that the country "shall have a merchant marine of the best equipped and most suitable types of vessels."

This will be the first time that the entire membership of the board has met officially in New York. Chairman T. V. O'Connor will preside.

The main purpose of the hearings is to help the board make recommendation to Congress as to whether the merchant marine can best be maintained through private ownership or through construction, operation and ownership by the Government.

These hearings will be held on Nov. 18 and 19 in the auditorium of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building. The first hearing will begin at 10 A. M. on Thursday. The board members are Chairman O'Connor, Vice Chairman E. C. Plummer, Admiral W. S. Benson, W. S. Hill, Philip S. Teller, Jefferson Myers and R. K. Smith.

Representatives of the various governmental shipping activities will be present. While in New York the headquarters of the board will be the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The board will hear only those whose interests are in the New York area of the board, being all persons identified with the shipping industry, such as importers and exporters, manufacturers, bankers, lawyers and farmers.

The board has had similar hearings in all other important shipping centres. There will be only one other hearing, to be held in Washington on Nov. 22-23. The board must report to Congress by Jan. 1.

LOSES DOG SUIT BOTH WAYS

Owner Sues for $35, but Is Assessed $35.25 Instead.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 14.—The decision in the recent trial of a dog case in Walden, near here, is considered one of the most remarkable in the history of jury trials.

Kenneth Van Black of Poughkeepsie brought suit against Herbert Keane of Maybrook for $35, alleged to be due through the sale of a dog to Mr. Keane.

The defendant said he had only taken the dog on two week's trial, within which time the dog broke loose and killed chickens, for which Keane had to pay $17.

The jury not only found for the defendant but ordered that he be reimbursed by Mr. Van Black in the amount of $35.25. Of this amount $17 is to pay for the chickens the dog killed, $16 is for the dog's board, and $2.25 for a dog license.

PRAISE FOR J. L. LONG.

Superintendent of Prisons Popular With Sing Sing Officials.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Published reports that James L. Long will be dropped from his post of Superintendent of Prisons after Jan. 1 when the prison department, together with numerous other State departments, is reorganized, came as a surprise to attachés at Sing Sing prison. It is said that Mr. Long has enjoyed greater popularity with members of the official organization at the prison than any previous superintendent.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, formerly chief physician at the prison and now Medical Examiner of Westchester County, an organization Republican, said today of Mr. Long, a Democrat: "He has been a good superintendent and a better one than any of those who preceded him."

Italy Has Favorable Trade Balance.

ROME, Nov. 14 (AP).—During October, Italy, for the first time in several years, succeeded in accomplishing a favorable trade balance. The exports were valued at 1,828,000,000 lire and the imports at 1,767,000,000, as compared with exports of 1,808,000,000 and imports of 1,907,000,000 in October, 1923.

WOMAN HEIR FAILED TO COMPLY WITH WILL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14 (AP).—Refusal of Sarah E. Rathburn to change her name to Sarah E. Swan, as requested in the will of Daniel Swan, who died forty-seven years ago, has resulted in a legal tangle in Probate Court here.

For nearly half a century, Sarah Rathburn acted as executor and beneficiary of the estate of Swan and the failure to carry out some of the terms of the will was not discovered until recently, when the executor of the estate of Sarah Rathburn, who died July 9 last, found a sum of $5,000 idle and accumulating interest since 1897 in a New London bank. The amount now totals more than $12,000.

The sum of $5,000 was ordered set aside by Swan for financial aid to his brothers and sisters should they need it. The interest on the money was to go to Sarah Rathburn as compensation for her custody of the fund. The money was deposited in the New London bank and never touched.

This is only incidental, however, to the real contest over $56,000 left by Swan to Sarah Rathburn on the condition that she change her name in his honor. This she never did.

EAT, THEN ROB LUNCH WAGON

Two negroes, one armed, took $75 from the cash register of Sheldon Gibbs's lunch wagon at 75 West End Avenue yesterday afternoon after eating a meal in the place, and escaped.

When the negroes rose from their meal one reached in his pocket as if for money, but he drew out a pistol. Gibbs and a negro employe stood in a corner with upraised hands while the armed man took the cash from the till.

The two robbers then ran out and disappeared northward in West End Avenue.

Burglars entered early yesterday morning a fur store at 714 Lexington Avenue, owned by Adolph Vaso, but before the safe could be tampered with a Holmes desk alarm rang. The burglars fled through the rear, leaving their tools behind.

WAR SHELL KILLS TWELVE.

Italian Peasant Strikes Missile With His Spade, Causing Explosion.

TRENT, Italy, Nov. 14 (AP).—Twelve peasants, ranging in age from 18 to 20 years and including three women, were killed and two were seriously wounded today by the explosion of a shell left over from the World War.

They wouldn't think twice about buying a postage stamp

AND yet they put off getting an extension telephone because they think they can't afford it! They trudge from one end of an apartment to the other; they climb miles and miles of wearying stairs, answering the telephone; under the impression that an extension telephone would be a rank extravagance.

When it really costs less than three cents a day—less than the price of a spool of thread—a little more extravagant than buying a postage stamp.

For true economy of effort and energy, there's nothing like an extension telephone. Call our nearest Business Office today, and let them arrange to have one installed in your home.

ONE OF THE

Ferncliff Cemetery Mausoleum and Cloister

NON-SECTARIAN GROUP

To Be Erected at Hartsdale, Westchester County, Within a Few Minutes by Automobile, Bus or Train From New York City Line

Among the towering hills of Westchester lies beautiful Ferncliff Cemetery, away from the rush, turmoil and madding crowds, where one's loved ones may rest in safety, quiet and peace. No more beautiful spot can be found; located at Hartsdale, Westchester County, New York, and within a few minutes by motor, bus or train from the New York City line and its environs.

It is the intention of the Directors and Trustees to spend a large sum of money to make Ferncliff Cemetery one of the most select and magnificent burial places in the world, with its great multi-crypt mausoleums, private tombs, cloisters, obelisks, gardens, statuary, etc. There is nothing approaching it in beauty and grandeur in the world: From this spot one may see the Orange Mountains, Palisades of New Jersey, and Oyster Bay, Long Island, in the distance.

HERETOFORE ONLY THE WEALTHY COULD ENTOMB THEIR DEAD IN A MAUSOLEUM OR TOMB, BUT NOW THE MUTUAL PLAN MAKES IT POSSIBLE FOR THE PEOPLE OF MODERATE MEANS TO HAVE THE SAME PRECIOUS PRIVILEGE.

The cost will surprise you, being lower than first class ground burial or cremation, and this is the last and only expense

Since the beginning of the world it has been the recognized duty of man to reverence his dead—to give appropriate expression of his sincere affection and fidelity, by providing a suitable resting place for them, according to the custom of the times. It is a comforting thought, as far as consolation is possible, to know that one has done all he can to make the last abode of those who have gone before beautiful and soothing to the eye of the living who come there to reverence their memory. Just as nations honor their illustrious dead by providing an enduring monument so that their names may be perpetuated for all time, it is now possible to do as much for your own beloved dead at no greater cost than that of decent ordinary ground burial. You should bear in mind that mausoleum entombment is the ideal way to-care for your dear, beloved dead, and is in keeping with the progress of the times; other methods belong to bygone ages. The directors of this humanitarian movement personally request you to clip the coupon from this notice and send it to the address below, and you will receive a beautifully illustrated book describing this magnificent and imposing edifice that will enable you to get a full, comprehensive idea of its scope. In the event of death before the completion of the mausoleum, the remains will be placed in the Ferncliff Cemetery Vault, free of charge, until the mausoleum is completed.

You have the choice of just two things. The one typifying death in darkness; death in the depths; looking down, always down, into the grave. The other typifying death in light; death in sunshine and brightness; death in the hope of resurrection.

$22,391,055 PAID IN PANAMA TOLLS

5,197 SHIPS USED CANAL

United States Led in Tonnage, but England Increased Her Traffic by 833,785 Tons.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP).—Tolls amounting to $22,931,055 were collected from 5,197 ships passing through the Panama Canal in the last fiscal year.

These figures, the annual report of Governor Walker said today, represented an increase of more than $1,500,000 over the previous year in tolls and a gain of 524 toll-paying vessels.

The commercial traffic through the canal was greater during the year as compared with the previous one, but less than 1924, which established a record. This is accounted for by the decline in oil shipments. However, the net tonnage of passenger ships, general cargo carriers and others, excluding tankers, showed a consistent increase from 13,231,402 tons in 1923 to 18,450,351 tons in 1926.

The combined net revenue for the year was $17,340,865 as compared with $15,757,751 in 1925. With the exception of the Panama Canal Railroad Company, all of the business enterprises of the canal showed an increase over the preceding year. A loss was shown for the railroad on account of a decrease in work in the marine repair yards.

Vessels of United States registry led in the total tonnage using the waterway, with approximately 53 per cent. Others were British, 26 per cent.; Norwegian, 4 per cent. and German, 3½ per cent. As compared with the previous year, cargo passing through the canal was greater by 2,078,612 long tons. British cargoes increased by 833,785 tons and American by 630,756.

Trade routes, the report said, remained virtually the same as during the last four years, the most important of these being between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States. As in the past, the bulk of this movement was from the Pacific to the Atlantic. European cargoes routed through the canal to the West coast of South America showed a slight decrease, while the trade between the East coast of the United States and South American West coast showed an increase.

PLANS AVIATION BASE AT CRESCENT CITY, CAL.

Navy Sends Airplane Photographers to Map the Area Intended for the Station.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14 (AP).—Crescent City, located on the Northern California Coast near the Oregon line, will be the scene of intensive naval airplane photograping operations within thirty days, preparatory to the establishment of a naval aviation base at that point, The Examiner says today.

The planes and crew comprising the engineering staff of the Pacific battle fleet will leave for Lake Earle, proposed base, within a fortnight and will work under the direction of Commander Karl Smith. The "Mosaic" operations will be directed by Lieutenant Ben H. Wyatt, who will take with him the crew he commanded in the mapping expedition of the Alaskan littoral last Summer.

In cooperation with the Navy Department, the War Department has inspected the location with a view of adding such harbor works as may be necessary to facilitate the naval plans and an appropriation of $1,578,750 will be asked of the next Congress to construct harbor works sufficient to handle naval traffic, The Examiner says.

WOMAN CONVICTS DECREASE

State Prison Total Drops 12½% In Five Years—36% Rise for Men.

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Women do not take the desperate chances that men do to obtain easy money nowadays, Superintendent Amos T. Baker of the State Reformatory for Women in Bedford, declared today.

To this he attributed the fact that, while the number of men imprisoned in State institutions had greatly increased in five years, the number of prisoners in State institutions for women had decreased.

From other sources it was learned that there were about 5,500 prisoners in institutions for men, including Sing Sing, Auburn, Great Meadows and Clinton prisons and Matteawan Asylum for Criminal Insane, five years ago. There are now about 7,500 inmates. Five years ago there were 800 prisoners in institutions for women, including Auburn Prison, Bedford Reformatory, Western House of Refuge in Albion and Matteawan Asylum, whereas there are today about 700 inmates. This is a decrease of 12½ per cent. In the number of women compared with an increase of 36 per cent. in the number of men.

BEATEN BY ANGRY THUGS.

Victim's Lack of Money Incensed Yonkers Hold-Up Men.

Provoked because all they found when they rifled his pockets early yesterday morning was $2.80, four thugs beat severely Henry Wilhelm of 32 Mulberry Street, Yonkers. Wilhelm received a broken jaw and was treated at St. John's Hospital.

The four men, the victim said, got out of a green automobile with the shades down on Mulberry Street, near Franklin Street, Yonkers, stopped him and robbed him. Later, Thomas Powers, 21; Salvatore Mancuso, 16, and John Labey, 27, all of Yonkers, were arrested in connection with the case and held by Judge Broderick for further investigation.

WEAF IN NEW HANDS WILL OPEN TONIGHT

MARY GARDEN WILL SING

To Broadcast From Chicago and Will Rogers From Kansas—Public's Representatives to Attend.

The inaugural ceremonies of the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., which was organized to control the destinies of station WEAF after today, will be put on the air from that station tonight in a network that will tie up some twenty-three stations besides the KDKA-WBZ-WGY-WJZ quartette. The program will last until midnight.

Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Radio Corporation of America, which announced recently that it had purchased WEAF from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for $1,000,000, will make the introductory address tonight. This will be followed by the announcement of the members of the advisory council of the company.

The council, which will be composed of twelve members, has been announced as representative of the various shades of public opinion. The members who have been chosen so that the company "may be advised as to the best type of program, that discrimination may be avoided, that the public may be assured that the broadcasting is being done in the fairest and best way," will, from time to time, give the company the benefit of their judgment and suggestion.

M. H. Aylesworth, formerly Chairman of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission and more recently Managing Director of the National Electric Light Association, is President of the National Broadcasting Company, Inc. The Vice President and General Manager is George F. McClelland, who managed WEAF under the regime of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The entertainment part of the program has been arranged with a view to carrying out the company's announced purpose "to provide the best programs available for broadcasting in the United States." Three hundred guests will see the proceedings in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf, which has been turned into a studio for this occasion.

Mary Garden will sing from Chicago and Will Rogers, from Independence, Kan., will fulfill his part of the program. The team of Weber and Fields will be broadcast for the first time, and there will be Harold Bauer, piano; the New York Symphony Orchestra, Goldman Band, the New York Oratorio Society, grand and light opera companies, Olsen, Lopez, Bernie and Rolfe Orchestras.

The new company plans to make WEAF the nucleus of a national broadcasting service. Another of its main objects is to stimulate the sale of radio receiving sets by broadcasting interesting programs.

METEOR STIRS UP-STATERS.

ALBANY, Nov. 14 (AP).—A ball of fire, believed to be a large meteor, blazed a path across the sky west of Albany at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Newspaper telephones were kept busy soon afterward, answering calls for information. The phenomenon was not seen by the Dudley Observatory.

THREE SHOT IN HARLEM BY JEALOUS HUSBAND

Couple in Critical Condition, Police Hunt Son-in-Law, Who Wounded Them and Rival.

Albert Jones, 42 years old, his wife Margaret, and William Ried, 28 years old, who boarded with them at 63 West 137th Street, all negroes, were rushed to the Harlem Hospital last night with gunshot wounds while the police started a search for Claude Martin, Jone's son-in-law, also a negro, who they believe was the assailant. The couple were said to be in critical condition.

According to the detectives of the West 135th Street Station who made an investigation, Martin, who was married to Jones's daughter Lillian, had lived with her at her parents' home until recently when he left in a fit of jealousy and went to live with his mother at 124 West 134th Street. His relation with his wife from then on had been that of a casual caller. The police said that they had learned that Ried was the object of his jealousy.

Last night when Martin, who had come to call on his wife, was with her in the parlor, Ried entered and Martin was said to have fired three shots at him. One bullet took effect. Jones and his wife hurried into the room. Martin opened fire on them, too, it is said.

One bullet took effect in Jones's left chest, while another entered the woman's abdomen. Ried received only a slight flesh wound and left the hospital for his home.

SEATTLE GIRL FOUND DEAD.

Police Believe She Was Murdered and Arrest High School Companion.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 14 (AP).—Letitia Whitehall, aged 14, missing for two weeks from her home at Kirkland, near here, was found dead today in a slough ten miles from Kirkland.

Police said they believed she had been murdered. Water in the slough was not of sufficient depth for a person to drown. The girl's clothing had been torn.

Ralph Jackson, 17 years, was held for questioning. He was arrested at Olympia, Wash., and maintained he left Kirkland in a stolen automobile before the disappearance of Miss Whitehall, who was the daughter of George Whitehall, a gasoline engineer. The father said his daughter was of a quiet nature and not socially active.

Jackson, on parole from the State Reformatory, had been a student with the girl at the Kirkland High School.

Radio has passed the battery stage!

The Colonial Power Receiver

Operates on House Current Exclusively (Models for Direct as well as Alternating Current)—With No Batteries or Separate Eliminators. It Has Ushered in a New Era of Radio Reception—Establishing Entirely New Standards of Performance.

PLEASE NOTE: Do not confuse the Colonial Power Receiver with so-called "electrified" radio. There is a vast difference. "Electrified" sets are merely ordinary receivers equipped with storage batteries, trickle chargers and B eliminators attached to the light socket. They give no better (and often poorer) reception than before the so-called "electrification." The Colonial Power Receiver operates on house current exclusively. It draws more than four times the power of "electrified" sets, at less than one cent an hour to operate. No battery or "electrified" set can possibly equal Colonial performance.

One of several Art Consoles

Power! SURPLUS POWER for Perfect Reception

Dr. Fulton Cutting
Designer of Colonial Radio

THE power which the light socket puts into radio gives us what? Engineers will tell you two things.

1st—GAIN—The use of radio frequency tubes in a manner that greatly increases their amplifying power. This provides ability to get distance. It also allows greater selectivity.

2nd—VOLUME—But why volume? Most people play radios quietly. Because capacity for volume is essential to realism at low volume. The power in low notes is enormous. Anyone can appreciate this when they remember that the large pipes of an organ can cause a large church to vibrate. To pass this power through a set requires real power behind it. Without power a radio leaves out some tones and puts in a lot that are not in the radio wave. These extra tones, moreover, are discords and produce a harsh and ruinous effect.

At high speeds most cars have vibration. Their crank shafts are overloaded and vibrate under the exceptional strain. At low speeds they run smoothly; the strains are low. Radio receivers are much the same. To work smoothly, realistically, they must be used far below their maximum power. Power tubes should not be used above 1/20 of their maximum power. So to get what we want we must start with an ample surplus of power. This power Colonial gets from the light wire.

SURPLUS POWER is being added to all modern machines with progressive engineering behind them. Automobiles, radios, electric refrigerators, washing machines or vacuum cleaners all should have a margin of power above what is required of them. To get that margin in radio Colonial uses power from the light line. Convenience is incidental. To get out of radio the astonishing values that are in it Colonial uses power.

JERITZA IN ORIENTAL GARB

Six hundred performers on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House and some 200 guests in its darkened auditorium comprised those who "assisted," in the phrase of the theatre world, at yesterday's complete private view and hearing of Puccini's "Turandot," to be sung publicly tomorrow at a special Tuesday night performance "for the first time in North America." Puccini's posthumous score, with its thrills of Chinese legend and its music of many tympani, owed a last duet and chorus to his friend, Franco Alfano, who supplied the finale from the original sketches left by the composer.

Mr. Gatti-Casazza, after the three-hour rehearsal, declined to comment on the Metropolitan's spectacular production. "That will speak for itself," the impresario said. He added, however, that for him the new opera was Puccini's most forceful writing since "Tosca," more dramatically convincing than "Butterfly," "La Fanciulla" or the "Triptych." The choral climaxes, little used by Puccini in these intervening works, recalled to Gatti the youthful musical exuberance of Puccini's less remembered "Manon Lescaut."

Mme. Jeritza, who with Lauri-Volpi sustained the central drama of two personages throughout three acts and five scenes of "Turandot," was not fatigued when seen in her dressing room later. She was chatting gayly while her Oriental costumes, with their "dragon" embroidered trains, the Chinese headdresses and even the long gold "fingernail cases" befitting an imperial princess were put safely away. Mr. Gatti reminded her that Puccini had "discovered" and commended her to him as a dramatic soprano in 1919, a year before her first Metropolitan season.

One solitary mishap yesterday that will naturally not be repeated tomorrow night marked the love scene in a Chinese garden in the last act. As Lauri-Volpi at last tore the veil from the face of his unseen heroine, it caught in the coronet she wore. Mme. Jeritza hastily made a gesture to save her entire headgear from falling and, since it was the tenor's cue to sing just then, the soprano was occupied for some moments in fastening up her hair with such pins as the costumer had supplied her. The incident attracted attention as the only informal note in a full-dress rehearsal.

Four of the opera company's recent newcomers were in yesterday's cast, the Misses Lerch and Flexer as leaders of a little chorus of maids to the Princess, while Miss Attwood and Mr. Ludikar, both of whom make their debuts tomorrow, took the parts of the faithful girl slave, Liu, who kills herself rather than disclose the hero's name, and his father, Timur, exiled King of the Tartars.

Louise Lerch sang for the second time at a Sunday night concert last evening, when the Metropolitan again rang with applause for the young Allentown soprano. She gave the "Caro nome" air from "Rigoletto," in place of Queena Mario, who was ill. There were tenor airs for Messrs. Fullin and Tedesco, and airs and ensembles from "Trovotore" and "Cavalleria" for Florence Easton, the Misses Telva and Wakefield, the two tenors and Mr. Basiola, baritone, while Mr. Bamboschek conducted a Verdi-Mascagni program.

Gives "Turandot" Lecture-Recital.

Charlotte Lund gave the first "Turandot" lecture recital last night at the Princess Theatre, having put forward the date to anticipate the new opera's premiere. Miss Lund, with Samuel Ljungqvist and N. Val Pavey, sang excerpts including the arias of Liu, Prince Calaf and King Timur, the Emperor and Turandot, as well as the final duet. The Chinese trios of Ping, Pang and Pong were illustrated at the piano.

MME. BUCCIANTINI'S DEBUT.

Italian Singer Is Greeted With Enthusiasm by Audience.

Alina Bucciantini, Italian soprano, made her New York début at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Bucciantini evidently prefers the dramatic to the lyric, for she accentuated some of her songs with many gestures. She had four operatic airs on her program, one from Puccini's "Turandot," "Manon Lescaut," Meyerbeer's "Huguenots," and Verdi's "Traviata." The last gave some idea of Mme. Bucciantini's operatic training. In some respects it followed the current Italian school, sharing its advantages and disadvantages.

Her shorter songs, the Respighi group in particular, were done with sparkle and charm, the "Scherzo" being repeated. Mme. Bucciantini had an enthusiastic audience.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

There are three premieres on tonight's schedule—"Pygmalion," at the Guild Theatre; "A Proud Woman," at Maxine Elliott's, and "Gertie," at the Nora Bayes.

Robert Keith will have the leading role in the revival of "Beyond the Horizon," which will be the second production of the Actors' Theatre.

Vivienne Segal has been engaged for "Lady Fair," which Schwab and Mandel will present at the Casino Theatre during the week of Nov. 29.

The opening of Maurice Schwartz's Yiddish Art Theatre, Second Avenue and Twelfth Street, has been postponed for the second time. The event is now scheduled to take place on Thursday evening.

An adaptation by Cosmo Hamilton and Frank C. Reilly of Dickens's "Pickwick Papers" is to go in rehearsal soon under the title of "Mr. Pickwick." Mr. Reilly is the producer, and it is probable that the play will be seen in Boston in February before its New York presentation.

Florenz Ziegfeld announces the engagement of Ada May for "Rio Rita," now in rehearsal, and of Madeline Cameron for "Betsy Kitzel," the musical comedy in which Belle Baker will appear.

DINNER TO FROHMAN 44 CENTS FOR ACTORS

Others Who Attend Actors' Fund Celebration Will Be Charged $1,000.44.

Colonel Arthur Little has accepted the chairmanship of the testimonial dinner to be given to Daniel Frohman at the Biltmore Hotel on Dec. 19 in honor of Mr. Frohman's forty-four years of service to the Actors' Fund of America.

Each layman who attends the dinner will be charged $1,000.44, but Colonel Little has announced that for members of the theatrical profession the charge will be only 44 cents, plus whatever they feel able to give. Particular efforts will be made to get actors and actresses to attend the dinner.

In recognition of Mr. Frohman's many years of service to the fund, he has recently been elected to honorary membership in the Lambs Club, the Mayfair Club and the Actors' Order of Friendship.

FRANCIS ROGERS IN RECITAL.

Francis Rogers, baritone, gave a recital at Town Hall, before a large audience, yesterday afternoon, being assisted by Isidore Luckstone at the piano. Mr. Rogers told the audience in the course of the concert that this was their twenty-fifth annual joint appearance in New York recitals, whereupon an ovation greeted the artists. In these years of constant collaboration they have learned a perfect ensemble. It would be difficult for Mr. Rogers to find anyone who could follow his moods as closely as Mr. Luckstone.

The baritone's program was a treasure-chest of songs, and he brought to it a craftsmanship that gave each song its individual color. The singer's knowledge of the classic style made the group containing Handel, Purcell and Haydn an invigorating experience. Purcell's air, "There's Not a Swain," had to be sung twice. Mr. Rogers also brought impeccable taste and the refinement of tradition to the German lieder of Schubert, Schumann, Frans and Strauss. Songs by the two last compoeers won a repetition.

In Mr. Rogers's third group were choice selections in French, Italian and English, of which Nevin's "Dites-moi" and "O, That We Two Were Maying," and Powell Weaver's "Moon-Marketing" had to be repeated. Mr. Luckstone's "Clown's Serenade" brought the concert to a successful close.

Hughes Piano Recital Pleases.

Edwin Hughes and Jewel Bethany Hughes gave a two-piano recital at Aeolian Hall last evening before a large audience. The program, which was much applauded, included "Variations on a theme by Beethoven," by Saint-Saëns; a suite by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach; a concerto pathetique by Liszt, and a suite by Arensky. The "Variations on the theme by Beethoven" gave the most pleasure. The pianists were recalled after every number.

Amelia Laboranti Heard.

Amelia Laboranti, soprano, gave a matinee program in Steinway Hall yesterday, assisted by Nicola d'Amico, tenor, and by Gennaro Curci at the piano. Miss Laboranti sang airs from "Bohème" and "Tosca," besides old English songs, Gounod's waltz song of Juliet, the Spanish Valverde's "Clavelitos" and with Mr. d'Amico, a duet from "Carmen."

WALKER IS STAR AT PRESS CLUB SHOW

$7,000 FOR CHARITY FUND

The New York Press Club celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last night with a show at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre in which Mayor Walker had the star act. The frolic drew a house which was expected to add $7,000 to the club's charity fund.

The Mayor was advertised as an end man in a minstrel show, but there wasn't any minstrel show, and he did a monologue instead. The audience greeted him warmly and some one in the gallery whistled so shrilly that Mr. Walker's first remark was:

"I didn't know this was a rodeo."

At his insistence the spotlight had been turned off and the Mayor spoke humorously of his ability as an actor and to the various sorts of actor that different persons considered him to be.

"I'm getting onto this picture actor business," he said. "These celebrities come over here and get photographed with me and send the photographs back home as a self-serving advertisement. They think that if a 125-pound bird can be Mayor of New York each one of them should be potentate of all Europe."

The Mayor ended his speech in a serious vein and paid high tribute to the Press Club and to newspaper men. He said that never in his seventeen years of public life had he known a newspaper man to betray a confidence, and added that they often received the most important secrets of the municipality in confidence.

Borough President James J. Byrne of Brooklyn sang several songs to the accompaniment of his son and received much applause. Bernard J. Granville and Mary Hutchinson of "Castles in the Air," and Marian and Randall of "Wild Rose" were enthusiastically applauded for their dancing, and Arthur "Bugs" Baer was warmly greeted.

PLAY IN WEBER'S MEMORY.

Philharmonic Gives Wagner's Funeral Music for Composer.

The Philharmonic Orchestra's first concert in its Sunday afternoon series at Carnegie Hall yesterday was marked by Mr. Mengelberg's tribute to the composer, Weber, the centenary of whose death falls in the present season and but a few months before that of Beethoven.

Weber's overture to "Euryanthe," which opened the matinee, was followed by a concert arrangement, for instruments only, of a memorial ode for male voices on themes from that opera. It was the funeral music prepared by Richard Wagner when he secured the transfer of Weber's body from London to his native land. The performance was heard yesterday by a large and interested assembly.

Charles Stratton was an assisting tenor soloist in Casella's suite of eight episodes from the ballet, "La Giara," which is to be a novelty this season also at the Metropolitan. The orchestra closed the afternoon with a performance of Beethoven's eighth symphony.

"Sisters" at the Ritz Next Monday.

"Sisters," a comedy by John Willard, will be presented at the Ritz Theatre next Monday evening by Sam H. Harris, with Roberta Arnold and James Spottswood heading the cast. The play will be shown in Atlantic City this week. "Loose Ends" is, accordingly, in its last week at the Ritz Theatre.

'Ned McCobb's Daughter' on Nov. 22.

The Theatre Guild production of Sidney Howard's latest play, "Ned McCobb's Daughter," will open at the John Golden Theatre next Monday night, Nov. 22. In the cast will be Alfred Lunt, Clare Eames, Earle Larimore, Edward G. Robinson, Margalo Gillmore, Philip Loeb and Philip Leigh.

SAY AIR SUPREMACY RESTS ON PRIVATE AID

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP).—The United States must look to private enterprise, in the opinion of some aviation officials here, if it aspires to regain its racing aircraft supremacy.

While Major Mario de Bernardi, Italian royal air force, was being congratulated here tonight for his smashing victory at Norfolk yesterday in winning the coveted Schneider International Seaplane Cup with a time of 246.496 miles an hour, aircraft officials, with their eyes to the future, found little consolation in Federal funds available for racing plane development, and suggested it might be well if private persons came forth with some aid in this field.

Apparently they had in mind the fact that Major Bernardi and his companions, Licutenant Adlano Bacula and Captain Arturo Ferrarin, were backed by Premier Mussolini with money especially provided for well laid plans to turn out "the last word" in airplanes, but the two naval and one marine corps aviators who flew for the United States in the Schneider Cup event used old planes with no late improvements.

What plans the navy has for entering races in the next Schneider event, the time for which has not yet been decided, but which undoubtedly will be flown in Italy, will not be known for some time, but keen observers of aviation were certain tonight that if the Americans are to stand an even chance in future with such planes as the Macchi-Fiat monoplane racers exhibited by the Italians, patriotic private citizens must furnish some aid.

"The Italians flew a very fine race; they were well prepared and deserved to win," declared Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics. "They had the last word in machines and indicated that they had made great progress in planes and motors, especially in the last year."

The Rear Admiral added that aircraft racing resulted not only in keen competition as a sporting event, but developed motors of new design and planes that inevitably must be adopted for fighting and pursuit purposes in times of war.

PUPILS ART SHOW GOES ON

Exhibition at Metropolitan Museum Extended a Week.

So much interest has been shown in the exhibition of the art of children of the New York public schools at the Metropolitan Museum that the museum authorities have requested the United Parents Association to allow the exhibit to remain an additional week. The work will therefore be on display at the Metropolitan during the rest of this week, it was announced yesterday.

TO AID FOREIGN MISSIONS.

A popular platform gathering will be held each evening of the three-day meeting, when the work of missions in many fields will be presented by home and foreign speakers.

Bishops and members of the board, secretarial staff, editors and missionaries spoke in 100 pulpits in Northern Indiana today, making a united appeal on behalf of foreign missions.

Girl Shot by Brother Near Death.

The condition of Ruth Huifer, 10 years old, 413 Twenty-fourth Street, College Point, Queens, who was accidentally shot on Saturday by her brother, Edward, three years her senior, is still critical, it was said at the Flushing Hospital last night. She is so weak that surgeons have been unable to remove the .22-caliber bullet.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Vaudeville Troupers.

STARDUST, with Norma Shearer, Oscar Shaw, Tenen Holtz, Gwen Lee, Dorothy Phillips, J. Frank Glendon, Ward Crane, Charles Meakin and others, based on a story by Waller Da Leon, directed by John Bell; overture, "Southern Rhapsody"; Celia Turrill and Julia Forest; "Mouth Trape," a Ufa short subject; Julia Glass; "Atop New York," with Dave Coles and the ballet corps. At the Capitol.

Part sketching of the colorful existence of vaudeville troupers behind the scenes redeems "Upstage," the new musical offering at the Capitol, from its unconvincing situations, the frailty of the story and also the artificial characterization of the central role. This intelligent attention to detail turns an otherwise banal offering into quite an engaging entertainment.

The uneveness of this photoplay is surprising, for it was directed by Monta Bell, who, in the unfurling of human narratives, has matched his wits against the best producers. And, curiously enough, it is occasionally the skipping of necessary detail that makes an episode to be almost ridiculous. As Norma Shearer and Oscar Shaw render an excellent account of themselves, the falsity of some of the doings of the characters they impersonate falls upon Mr. Bell's shoulders.

At "Upstage" Dolly Haven is presented into stage life as no other young woman has ever been projected into a film career. The opening scene shows the Pennsylvania Station, and then afterward Dolly, a college graduate, is perceived paying the rent for an unfurnished room. Dolly looks like an intelligent person who would have sought to live at one of the institutions for young women which would not have cost her any more than he paid for the wretched chamber. Dolly strikes one first as a philosopher; then as a blind egoist and an ingrate, and she ends by being rather maudlin.

Dolly goes to a theatrical manager's office to apply for a stenographer's position, and through some slight misunderstanding she meets Johnny Dunn, who even before hearing that she had won a Charleston contest applies his willingness to engage her as his dancing partner. Dolly is not available as Johnny thought she would be, but at the opening of the picture, although she does nothing beyond looking attractive, one is interested that she "stops the show." Success goes to her head and she deserts Johnny, who is in love with her, for the saturnine Wallace King.

A knife-thrower and his wife are looking forward to having their child with them at Christmas. When the little girl is brought into the picture Mr. Bell decides to give the spectators their money's worth of suspense and is therefore delays in letting the child tumble from a balcony until one thinks that he will forgo this tragic note. The youngster, however, finally falls, and then Mr. Bell, after showing the portrait little figure behind the canvas scenery, turns to a ventriloquist's dummy, the face on which is decorated with an inane smile.

At that instant the child's mother is standing against a board and her husband is throwing knives around her. Then the mother rushes off stage to get to her child, Dolly proves her right to be a "trouper" by taking the other woman's place.

Mr. Bell's glimpses of life in the wings are filmed with splendid sincerity. There is a flash of wild animals and then a dancer. In another sequence there is a woman packing a big snake. The ventriloquist amuses a baby with his big doll and the child evidently believes that the lay figure really can talk.

The troupers are shown in their dressing rooms, in the restaurant, and even at the railroad station. You sense the tediousness of the existence and also dislike these performers feel for some towns.

Mr. Shaw's portrayal of Johnny is genuinely clever. He makes the hero exceedingly sympathetic without indulging in any extravagant gestures or expressions. Miss Shearer's drawback is the wabbly character she is called upon to impersonate. One is informed that Dolly is a college graduate, and in another caption it is to be inferred that she is beautiful but not classy. Tenen Holtz is active as the theatrical manager.

The Sands of the Desert.

THE SILENT LOVER, with Milton Sills, Natalie Kingston, William Humphrey, Arthur Edmund Carewe, William V. Mong, Viola Dana, Claude King, Charlie Murray, Arthur Stone, Alma Bennett and Montagu Love, adapted from Lajos Biro's play, "The Legionary"; directed by George Archambaud; overture, "Robespierre"; Joseph Plunkett's "Mark Strand Frolic," with John Quinlan, Mlle. Klemova Miller and Farrell and others. At the Mark Strand.

A picture reminiscent of "Beau Geste," because of the background and the Foreign Legion, is at the Mark Strand. It is styled "The Silent Lover," and its adventures and dwelling kissing scenes cause one to leave the theatre reflecting that it is only a jest.

Milton Sills, the portrayer of hard-boiled fighters who never go down to defeat, officiates in this new photoplay as a mythical kingdom Prince, who, through generous use of the legation's bank account, finds it necessary to seek seclusion within the ranks of the Foreign Legion. Of course he is never one of the rank and file, but a good-looking, noble and courageous lieutenant.

The attractive heroine, who obviously is not opposed to close-ups, is Vera Voronina. In everyday life she is Natalie Kingston. The director of this subject is George Archainbaud, who expresses upon one the idea that if things are not as he pictures them in the Foreign Legion forts or on the hot sand, then they ought to be. Vera often looks as if she were posing for her photograph rather than acting. She is attractive, and on her visit to the fort, possibly with the idea of making more sure that she captures Pierre Renaud's heart, she dresses in white linen and satins, such as one would expect to see at a garden party on a lawn. But in a lonely, sun-scorched desert this dainty and diaphanous apparel is about as fitting as a Follies girl or Scalia at a Sunday school class. In all his pictures, Mr. Sills gets his men invariably after a hard and fought battle. This current photoplay is no exception, for Pierre Tornai (Mr. Sills), in a gallant mood, decides to test his strength against Ben Achmed, the angry Sheik, to save a native lassie, named Scadza. Achmed is reviewed over the sands of the desert as a wrestler, but in the allotted time he has to bow to Tornai, the winner of the bout.

In the introductory scenes, Tornai always wears a monocle. He is evidently a fast and furious anti-prohibitionist and when in his cups he finds a bed of mud in the gutter not uncomfortable. The first time he sees Vera, her chauffeur nearly runs over this Princess of Moriavia. As might be anticipated, Tornai next perceives the handsome Vera on the Sahara sands, and when Achmed's troops are about to attack the fortress, Tornai finds inspiration by taking Vera into his arms.

Montagu Love is delightful as the wicked Sheik. Viola Dana is competent as Scadza and Arthur Edmund Carewe makes most of the role of an overbearing French Captain.

EARL CARROLL VANITIES—is the most unique institution on this side of the Atlantic. It is the one American revue comparable to the FOLIES BERGERE or the MOULIN ROUGE, the meccas of all Parisian pleasure seekers. Devoted to smart mirth, bizarre spectacle and intriguing music, it is the only spot on the Western Hemisphere where that Frenchy care-free atmosphere prevails. No visit to the city is complete without seeing VANITIES, and New Yorkers revel in it.

Here are a few reasons
why "The Ladder" is liked by every one who sees it. The play is rich in entertainment value; the story is of a woman who cannot choose between two men. In rapid, vivid scenes the life she has lived in other ages flashes before you. First we find her in Norman England, accused of murdering a husband to favor a lover, condemned to burn at the stake; next she is a famous actress of the time of Charles II., beloved of London, sought by the King; then she is a quiet, sweet lady of early New York shaping the lives of men. The drama is full of romance, beauty and exciting scenes. Primarily it is thrillingly entertaining; and when you leave the theatre you take away with you something to think about. "The Ladder" was produced by Brock Pemberton. It was written by J. Frank Davis. It is acted by an excellent company of players. It is at the Chanin-Mansfield Theatre, West 47th St. Matinees are Wednesday and Saturday.

DELAY INTOLERABLE IN OTHERS.

Sunday brought us a new explanation of what President COOLIDGE said about the World Court in his Kansas City speech. It was intended to end the unbearable delay of other nations in stating their positions about the Senate reservations. Only a few have answered, as yet, and the dawdling of the others has become intolerable to the President. His address was meant as a sharp reminder to them that they must seize their pens and sit down and write quickly whatever they have to say to our State Department.

As foreigners are notoriously without a sense of humor, they probably will not ask their Washington physician to cure himself. They might point out that the United States Government is not always a miracle of promptness, especially in international matters. For fully ten years the Republican Party has been promising the people that it would do its best to secure the establishment of an international tribunal of justice. That was to be the favorite Republican substitute for the Democratic League of Nations. For it, indeed, President HARDING wrote and worked for two years. But he could not make his dilatory party in the Senate budge. He died, and Mr. COOLIDGE took up the task. Again, after two years of exhortation and postponement, the Senate was finally induced to vote in favor of joining the World Court, although it tied up its action with restrictions which many Senators confessed that they did not understand. After this record, it might seem to ignorant Europeans and South Americans that it does not lie in our months to rebuke any other Government for being slow. But no doubt President COOLIDGE would be capable of replying that with us long delay means only due deliberation, while they, having at last before them the ripe fruit of American wisdom in the matter of the World Court, are inexcusable if they do not hasten to pluck it.

It is also reported that the President has now an alternative to the World Court. He is said to have returned from Kansas City with the conviction that "the most valuable service the United States can perform at this juncture in behalf of world peace is to work for the codification of international law." As this task might easily consume twenty-five or thirty years, it again appears that it is only in others that Mr. COOLIDGE condemns delay as insupportable. Moreover, would not the codifiers of international law be certain to adopt some principles which the United States could not accept? In that case, we should have to upset the apple cart once more and go off with a nice little international law of our own. What does Mr. COOLIDGE think would happen to the Monroe Doctrine in a code of international law? It is not recognized there now, as Lord SALISBURY pointed out at the time of the Venezuela controversy. President WILSON got it recognized in the Covenant of the League of Nations, but that abhorrent thing the Republican Administration has thrown over. It is clear that if the codifying of international law were to be completed by 1950, and were to leave out the Monroe Doctrine, the Coolidges and Borahs of that day would insist upon repudiating the entire work. But that would not be delay. It would be only patient consideration.

THE MAYOR'S WALKS ABROAD.

As a visiting and traveling Mayor, our Mr. WALKER marchee from triumph to triumph. He was the observed of all observers on New York Day at Philadelphia. The jauntiness of his demeanor, the gayety of his processional step, delighted the watchers on the sidewalks. Always attentive to the budget, he bounded like a chamois after a lady's pocketbook and gave it back to her with a bow worthy of a sixteenth century hidalgo. Rich in the art of pleasing, he had hut to be himself to win the hearts of his hosts. One may almost say that New York Day was his day and that he is as well known at the Philadelphia, as at his home, City Hall. And the night crowned the day. Mayor KENDRICK made him a subtle compliment by saying that Mr. WILLIAM S. VARE "was "overwhelmingly elected and has the "confidence of the people of Phila-"delphia." This is equally true of Mayor WALKER.

In a characteristically happy speech our Mayor dweit not on mere accidents of division, but on essential unity. Politics is but the chameleon of geography. The Republican statesmen of the Philadelphia wards would be Tammany statesmen in this town. "We're all God's children," said Mr. WALKER, imhued with brotherly love, "and I don't believe in taking partisan politics too seriously." As office is usually attained by means of partisan politics, the imalication follows that a statesman in power shouldn't take his office too seriously. He didn't mean pleasure before business, of conrse; hnt a merry heart goes all the day and official responshilities may be lightened notably by it.

Especially admirable was the Mayor's appreciation of the faithfuiness of the municipal servants who accompanied him:

When those New York cops and firemen walked down Broad Street this afternoon, I got a kick. The only difference between them and me is that they work longer hours for less pay.

While the New York firemen and policemen are perhaps too accustomed to a praise which they constantly deserve to care much about it, the Mayor's genuine feeling of sympathetic fellowship will be none the less welcome. One may even feel in it a tonch of generous envy. His pay, fixed hy statute, he is powerless to diminish. His honrs, already notoriously long, are incapable of addition.

REICHSTAG POLITICS.

When German Socialists and Nationalists join in voting against the Government, the situation may properly be described as "confused." Yet it is doubtful whether Chancellor MARX faces a real crisis. Conditions in the Reichstag may be said to be normally unsettled. Party manoeuvres are peace-time manoeuvres. On an issue of the first magnitude the Socialists would be found in their regular position of benevolent neutrality toward the Marx Cabinet. But the two major problems of the last two years are now disposed of. Locarno, the League and the general policy of rapprochement with the Allies have the support of an impressive majority among the German people. In the matter of evicted royalty's property claims a settlement has been reached. Nationalists occasionally permit themselves the luxury of a fling at STRESEMANN'S foreign policy. Socialists view with alarm the overkindly attitude to the Hohenzollern family. Friends of the republic draw anxious lessons from the disclosures in the Feme trial. Yet from the general situation in Germany emerges an impression of progressive stabilization.

Beneath the tumuit and trials of the last half dozen years the German people have given evidences of a strong sense of responshility. With the liquidation of Communist uprisings and monarchist coups d'état during the first two years of the republic, the dominant motive has been the feeling of self-preservation. Only a very few extremists have attempted to go to extremes. Nationalists have fulminated against the Dawes plan and Locarno, but have accepted both. Socialists have refused to he driven into panic by the election of HINDENBURG to the Presidency. Elections and plebiscites have been won by narrow margine in a voting population of thirty millions, hut have secured acquiescence from the losers. There bave been numerous Cabinet cbanges in the Reich and changes in the Prussian Cabinet, but it is significant that for more than half a dozen years Herr GESSLER, Democrat, has retained the post of Minister of Defense, and until the other day Herr SEVERING, Socialist, was continuously Minister of the Interior in Prussia, two strategic positions for the defence of the republican régime.

Now there is criticism of GESSLER from two sides. The Nationalists are angered by his removal of General von SEECKT from command of the Reichswehr because of the General's excessive tenderness for the Hohenzollern family. The Socialists regard GESSLER as not enough of a militant republican. Yet the talk is of replacing him with SEVERING. Behind the party cries there seems to be solid satisfaction with two men who have maintained the Constitntion, law and order in hard times.

Precisely because the prospect of major crises has grown dim the parties can afford to play politics. Chancellor MARX'S reported efforts to reconstitnte the Great Alliance by drawing the Sccialists into the Government may prove difficult in normal times. But should a first-class emergency arise there is very little douht thet Socialists would be found once more in cooperation with Democrats, Centrists and the moderate People's Party.

"GENTLEMEN'S JOBS."

MONTAVILLE FLOWERS of California has made a survey of the high school boys and girls of five States, and deduces from his figures that students of that age contemplate almost any other occupation after leaving school tban farm work or the ministry. Although he found tbat many of the children came from rural districts or were still living on farms, they had every intention of getting away to the city to a "gentleman's joh." Among the 25,000 who were questioned, only seven boys announced plans for entering the ministry.

Yet to judge from the statements of tbese children that in a short time our farming population will be reduced to the extent indicated seems hasty. Lists of candidates for the ministry, which may be seen in catalogues of theological seminaries, show that many a youth who may have thought of some other life work while he was in high school must later have changed bis mind. Adolescents, tasting for the first time the comparative freedom offered hy the high school, are often day-dreaming of the wonders they are going to accomplish after school days are over. If they are ambitious, their imagination leads them to pinnacles of fame and fortune sucb as they have never been able to visualize in the everyday surroundings of home. But after a few years of actual struggle with the beginnings of life, their aims become, not necessarily lower, bnt more practicahle. It is idle to expect a lad of 16 to have his mind fixed unalterably on the goal of a lifetime of work.

Another point makes the inferences from this survey questionable. The States selected for the inquiry were California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. Results tabulated from a group in wbich New England, tbe South and the Middle West are unrepresented should not be taken as characteristic of the whole country. In such States as Indiana, where school gardening and farming are done by boys and girls of the elementary grades, and where a strong interest is felt in the scientific agricultural work of the universities, a similar canvass migbt yield different conclusions. Great changes have taken place everywhere in agricultural production; and others are constantly being planned to make farm work and farm life more attractive. But the need of greatly speeding up the process simply because the youngsters of five States think they prefer city jobs cannot be so pressing as this particnlar educator thinks.

A WORKINGMEN'S COLLEGE.

Viscount GREY presented the prizee a few nights ago at the seventy-second anniversary of the Workingmen's College at St. Pancras in London. There RUSKIN and KINGSLEY, BURNE-JONES and DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI taught in other days, and Major Gen. Sir FREDERICK MAURICE, today the Principal, foresees "an early resuscitation of the glories of the former "teachers." It has a thousand students now, but it had a pioneer part in seeking to give especially to workingmen the fourth item in RUSKIN'S catalogue of "sure good," which consisted, "first, in feeding "people, then in dressing people, then "in lodging people and, lastly, in "rightly pleasing people with arts or "sciences or any other subject of "thought."

The first three needs of civilized life are satisfied in vain if the fourth gift is not added. Viscount GREY recalled a well-known legend. It was that of the King who, falling ill, was advised that the only cure was to wear the shirt of a really happy man. After diligent search by courtiers and doctors the really happy man was found—but unfortnnately had no shirt. The speaker surmised that this shirtless man must have got a good deal of pleasure out of work or outdoor life. At any rate, the happiness which he found was within the reach of the poorest, and also within the courses of the Workingmen's College, for Viscount GREY speaks of it as a place where things are taught which are abiding pleasures: history, literature, science, languages and the love of outdoor things—"pleasures within the "reach of everybody regardless of "class," though in most things in England one has still to be regardful of class.

It is this eagerness for education which will prove the salvation of democracy!

Things are changing in the world. We have Fascism and we have Communism, and democracy is now on its trial as never before in our lifetime. It is not an ideal way of selecting the wisest people to govern the country, and if it is to endure and succeed, it must be instructed. Wisdom without sympathy is as inadequate as sympathy without wisdom. I believe that the people worthy of liberty can only secure it hy maintaining their democratic institutions.

Maintaining democratic institutions is not the chief end of man, but what is necessary to it is, fortunately, at the same time the surest means of happiness—the "sure good" that justifies the feeding and clothing and sheltering, viz.: the rightly pleasing of people with arts or sciences or any other subject of thought.

THE FRANKLIN METHOD.

Books without end have been written on the subject of logic, arguments and debate. The world has never lacked recipes for starting quarrels between men and nations. SCHOPENHAUER wrote his quizzical "Art of Controversy," wbich consisted mainly of artifices and stratagems by which to defeat your opponent. But we greatly need a work on the art of avoiding controversy. Writers interested in that subject might find a hint in the following extract from the autohiography of BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, who has just been called in a new Life of him "The first civilized American":

I made it a rule to forbear all direct contradiction to the sentiments of others, and all positive assertions of my own. I even forbid myself the use of every word or expression in the language that imported a fix'd opinion, such as certainly, undoubtedly, etc., and I adopted, instead of them, I conceive, I apprehend, or I imagine a thing to be so or so; or it so appears to me at present. When another asserted something that I thought an error, I deny'd myself the pleasure of contradicting him abruptly, and of showing immediately some absurdity in his proposition; and in answering I began hy observing that in certain cases or circumstances his opinion would be right, but in the present case there appear'd or seem'd to me some difference, etc. I soon found the advantage of this change in my manner; the conversations I engag'd in went on more pleasantly. The modest way in which I propos'd my opinions procur'd them a readier reception and less contradiction; I had less mortification when I was found to be in the wrong, and I more easily prevail'd with others to give up their mistakes and join with me wben I happened to be in the right.

The spirit of this migbt well he commended to some of our present-day keen controversialists. It might do good if a marked copy of it were sent to the President of the United States, the Premier of Italy, the Foreign Ministers of France and Germany, "Emperor" COOK in England, and the athletic authorities of Princeton and Harvard. Nor should the editors of The Lampoon be overlooked.

CURBING THE QUESTIONNAIRE.

Who is so bold as the engineer? He must cull something indomitable from the rocks through which he is wont to blast his way. Here is the American Engineering Council, only the other day tackling the big job of reorganizing the whole Federal Government, and now undertaking to dam the flood of Government questionnaires. Ashokan and Assuan are not comparable to the works which will be required to restrain that torrent. There is something in the blood of a bureau clerk that makes his eye light with desire at the prospect of devising a new questionnaire. He has been able to find rich indulgence lately, for statistics are the vogue. The humhle statistician has become lord of the business cycle, and sometimes it has gone to his head. Questionnaires fairly pour from State and Federal bureaus, uncouth, motley, disordered, to the endless discomfort of business.

Some of these questionnaires, perhaps most of them, are necessary in the modern scheme of things, but a lot of them are not, and only serve to prejudice the welcome of those that are. The National Association of Manufacturers complains that some of its members have to fill out as many as a hundred separate returns annually. Secretary HOOVER once gave an instance where "a low estimate of "the cdst to the citizen of making the "returns would be fifty million dollars "in bookkeeping alone." One firm stated that a reply would cost them $20,000; a country doctor complained that it would cost him $100. This particular questionnaire carried every earmark of peremptory demand, yet as a matter of fact no citizen was required by law to furnish the information asked for. Such activitiee, as Mr. HOOVER remarked, are a definite form of oppression, lending themselves to "doubtful constitutional practices of search and inquiry."

"GETTING TOGETHER" IN ASIA.

Americans need hardly lie awake nights worrying about the suggested "League of Asiatic Nations," which appears to be a slgbtly westernized version of the famous "Pan-Asiatic movement" to which the erstwhile Kaiser WILHELM of Germany gave periodic publicity. Strange indeed are the bedfellows in the proposed undertaking. Russia, by geography an enemy of Turkey, whose control of the Bosporus Imperial and Bolshevist Russians alike have resented, is to be warmly supported by the new Turkey. Persia, catspaw of Russia during the last half century, is reported to be especially anxious to join the new League; Afghanistan is also keen to be "one of the boys." India, against whose northern borders the Rnssians have exercised constant pressure for half a century, and China, wbose northern territories have been detached from her by the Soviet Russians, are the other two candidates, both described as particularly desirous to join.

This is indeed a formidable bloc. The great Continent of Asia, with all its hundreds of millions, is thus to be made a unit. The hated Europe and the United States (and presumably South America) are to be excluded. The League of Nations and the Pan American Union are to become insignificant. Presumably the downfall of Western civilization will be complete and a new world, motivated by the spirit of brotherly love and "anti-imperialism" (whatever that mey be), will march forward to everlasting peace.

To this fine ideal there is a minor obstacle which may have escaped the notice of the new league's creators. The members are hut indifferent masters in their own households. They are sadly torn hy jealousies, racial as well as religious, and by internal political discord. Russia, to be sure, is more or less of a unit. She, at least, knows what she wants. Turkey is perhaps in the same class. But India and China are divided within themselves. Incidentally, the only tie that binds these countries together is an artificially stimulated hatred of a thing which has been advertised as "imperialism," and which apparently is a cloak for each different group's particular hatred of some special hrand of foreigner. In most cases "imperialism" is synonymous with "Britain." By the same token "anti-imperialism" has come to be identified with Soviet Russia. Under the label of "anti-imperialism" Soviet Russia is steadily pushing forward plans for Asiatic hegemony devised hy the old Czarist Government.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

It Looks Like Propaganda.

Zealous opponents of the League of Nations are certain to see something sinister in a new effort to establish the fame of WOODROW WILSON. This glorious climax of the football season has artfully been seized upon to make the point that Mr. WILSON was an ardent devotee of that game. He actually coached a Princeton team. When be went to Weeleyan he not only attended all the contests, hut devieed new plays and formations on the gridiron, some of which are still highly approved. The first thing we know he will be ranked alongside WALTER CAMP.

All this seems like a subtle and wicked attempt to make college undergraduates believe that WOODROW WILSON was a great man. They might know nothing abont his books; they may ignere his fame as a professor and college President; they may hold lightiy his achievements during eight years of the Presidency of the United States; they may despise the League of Nations—but if Mr. WILSON was a great devotee of football, all may be forgiven.

Who knows but this endeavor to beighten his repute has not been set on foot by the devilish international bankers, or the irrepressihle propagandists for the League of Nations, who hope thus to decelve young students into favoring what a great football enthusiast favored? It is time for Senator REED of Missouri, and all the other lynx-eyed detectors of plots to entangle us with Europe, to expose and brand properly this nefarious plan to make WOODROW WILSON a football hero.

Why Do the Heathen Rage?

Threatened men live long. Who knows that so well as Republican County Chairman KOENIG? The President of the New York County Republican Club, founded last Spring to chuck the perennial Chairman, has resigned in disgust. The Fifteenth Assembly District, wbere Mr. MILLS has his milk delivered, was ancientiy a Republican "stronghold." It gave Governor SMITH a plurality of some 1,500. The resigning Presidebt and founder of the clnb, still unresigned to Mr. KOENIG, charges that some members worked against Mr. MILLS.

The charge is denied on what seems sufficient grounds. No Republican candidate for Governor has carried the district against the irresistible SMITH, and none of the numerous rebellions against Mr. KOENIG has amounted to a hill of beans. So unsuccessful hut undiscouraged virtue is going to "adopt a waiting policy." Somehow some day there will be a "reorganization" of Republican disorganization and Mr. KOENIG will be hurled from his throne.

It is good for the eoul to see the long patience of this Repuhlican Band of Hope. Perhaps its members will have the chance to vote for Governor SMITH for President in 1928. His deportation to Washington seems to be the only way of unseating Mr. KOENIG. One may have a superstitious feeling that even that might not prove effectual. Mr. KOENIG has never been a tenant-at-will. Is he a tenant for life?

Greetings Should Be Sanitary.

There is much to he heeded in the warning that thousande of deadly germs change hands with each handclasp. If ever again we have a plague of influenza, people should take greater pains to avoid personal contacts.

But the socisl implications of abolishing the handshake in order to eliminate this danger of catching some communicahle disease are great. Like all human beings we enjoy exchanging some form of salutation on meeting. The handciasp has saved much embarrassment by giving the shakers something to do wbile mumbling "Pleasetameecha." Furthermore, it has long been the mark of democracy, inasmuch as tbe bow and the salute have both been regarded as unworthy recognition of self-styled superiors.

Remains the Oriental method of clasping one's own hands. The only danger in this procedure is that it will gradually develop into an imitation of the Japanese greeting, which, though highly picturesque, has disadvantages for a haste-obsessed people like the Americans. It is not uncommon in Japan to see traffic held up because two elderly ladies have met and recognized each other in the middle of the street, and have stopped to place their hands on their knees and to bow to each other repeatedly as they remark about the weather. New Yorkers would die of apoplexy if this eystem were introduced into subways and commuting trains as well as in the streets and elevators.

"Patience" in the Little Theatre.

The Baltimore Sun has been offering consolation to those Baltimoreans who bewail the passing of their old Academy. The mourners have seen it as a reflection on the culture of the city that it now supports only two legitimate commercial theatres. But when all the facts come out, it appears that tbe responshility rests with others than theatre-lovers.

Enough people to support three little theatres of good standing are steadily advancing the skill and prospects of the amateur players. All three have been going forward so surely that they are no longer in the experimental stage, though they do not attempt to make money, but only to pay expenses.

The particular venture which The Sun points out as an excellent substitute for the uncertain pleasures of a dying commercial theatre is a production of "Patience" hy the Guild. It has been running now for three weeks, and by visitors to New York is compared in taste and charm with the Winthrop Ames production of "Iolanthe." Professional theatre people of Baltimore may yet profit by tbe example of tbe amateurs.

HE IS A NEW YORKER, TOO.

Crestor of Kansas City Memorial Not Mentioned at Dedication.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES, like other newspapers, gave considerable space to the dedication of the Liberty Memorial in Kansas City and the President's speech upon that occasion. The subject was also found worthy of an editorial, which opens with the words:

"There seeme to be no douht that the War Memorial dedicated at Kansas City yesterday hy President Coolidge is one whicb New York might well envy for its splendor of conception and impressive beanty."

The name of the man-who designed the memorial and brought it into being is not mentioned.

President Coolidge, in his speech of dedication, said: "Today I return, in order that I may place the official sanction of the National Government upon one of the most elaborate and impressive memorials that adorn our country." The identity of the man who conceived this shaft, however, is apparently of little consequence either to the President or to his hearers, for his name is not mentioned.

I found the name of the Reception Committee's Chairman, the names of many other dignitaries who graced the occasion with their presence. The names of the clergymen and rabbi who offered various prayers were duly reported, as was also the name of a woman who loaned the President her wool robe. But tbe man who created this monument, the man but for whose conception it might still be a mere pile of stones and bronze, cement and marble, was not thought worth mentioning.

The bald truth, I fear, is that as a people our interest is more in the facts that this memorial cost $2,000,000, that it is 217½ feet high, that it required five years to build, than in the identity of the American architect who conceived this "pillar of cloud by day and pillar of fire by night."

His name, if any one should by chance be interested, is H. Van Buren Magonigle of New York, whose design was selected in a nation-wide competition and to whose genius we owe also the national Maine monument and the Robert Fulton memorial in New York and the McKinley national memorial in Canton, Ohio.

Causes of Airplane Accidents.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Several airplane accidents have been reported as having been caused by the airplane dropping into an air pocket, or, as reported lately, running into a vacuum where the wings of the airplane had nothing to support them, hence the crash and the loss of two lives.

One can find information in any textbook on meteorology that will show such a case to be highly improbable. The only time any serious reduction of pressure exists is in the centre of a cyclone or tornado. In the event of a crash, due to the vacuum, it would doubtless be reported that the airplane was destroyed by the storm.

The so-called air pockets and bumps are, to be exact, rising or descending currents which are encountered near the earth. They are not considered at all dangerous at an altitude of 500 feet or more, even though they are present up to about 5,000 feet. These currants are caused by convection, that is, the rising of heated air or the descending of cool air, or the effects of irregular terrain, such as high buildings or cliffs.

In a given locality these currents can be charted, and, if the pilot is familiar with them, they can be avoided. Using extremes for comparison, they will be found over a shore line or over an oasis in a desert.

It has been found that when a flight in calm air is desired, particularly for research or experimental purposes, the flight should be made not much later than two hours after sunrise, or at sunset or later. It is generally known among aviators that the air at night is usually very calm.

I believe that fatal accidents have been caused by these currents, but very seldom if the airplane has reached an altitude of 500 feet or more. ROBERT E. NIXON.

CLOUDS.

The giants use the hills for stepping-stones;
Late afternoons you see them stealing by,
Crouched low, so not to bump their funny bones
Against the purple sky.

And all the little people in the town
Go scampering into their homes before
A giant can reacb do.n.

NANCY LORD.

TO BRING OUT THE VOTE.

Withholding of Personal Licenses Suggested as a Means.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The selection of public officials rests, of course, with the non-affiliated voters—those who pledge allegiance to no party and fall into three groups: the independent and conscientious citizen, the blasé and indifferent citizen and the calculatingly inactive citizen. The last-named group includes those who for business reasons reserve the right to appeal to either party for business favors by never voting either way and who bave carried their calculations to the point of discovering that hy failing to enroll, register or vote they conceal their existence as citizens and escape jury duty, taxes and other inconvenient obligations.

It is practically impossible to appeal successfully in any campaign to these non-affiliated voters. The intelligent appeal designed for the independent, conscientious citizen fails to reach the blasé and indifferent. The appeal to the blasé and indifferent by sensationalism properly offends the independent and conscientious citizen. For the calculatingly inactive citizen the appeal must be so fundamental as to interest neither of the two other classes.

The obvious course of compulsory voting will not, in my opinion, ever be generally accepted in American politics and would he resented hy the independent and conscientious voter. He can be counted on to do his duty if given a reasonable opportunity by the sincere and intelligent presentation of real issues. He may, therefore, be omitted from our present consideration.

Compulsory civic pride is a contradiction in terms. Hence, for the calculatingly inactive citizen we have left only the supreme appeal of loyalty and patriotism. Might we not accomplish something, at least, hy indirect suggestion to this group by holding our national and State elections on Armistice Day? There would be as well the advantage of memorializing as a national holiday that great event in world history and the practical benefit of avoiding double holidays within a fortnight or less within those States where Nov. 11 is a legal holiday and remove that day, with its soul-stirring patriotic appeal, from the shadow of election day so shortly preceding it. Without indulging in rhetoric, it seems to me the symbolism of the day might elevate the tone of our elections and enforce the patriotic appeal on the now deaf ears of calculatingly inactive citizens.

Mixing, as it were, a little authority with this patriotic formula, I suggest a modification of our statutes and municipal ordinances, wbereby no license of any sort would be granted to a citizen except upon satisfactory evidence of having voted in the last general election or proper reason for not having done so. For the non-citizen (not here concerned but whom I would not overlook while we are at it), licenses should not be granted until analogous requirements calling for proof of application for citizenship, or some good reason excusing therefrom, are complied with.

Any license or franchise is a matter of grace from the local sovereign, be it State or municipality. It is not a matter of right; it may be granted or withheld on terms. This extends from the marriage license to the motor vehicle license and includes all special privileges in between, from the street peddler up.

Mechanically, I perceive no difficulty in making the plan work. At the time of voting the voter would receive, either mechanically in the case of voting machines, or by hand otherwise, a certificate that he has exercised his privilege and performed his duty as a citizen. As to excuses, it would be only a slight addition to the duties of our Judges, if any Judge of a court of record were empowered to grant certificates, just as he excuses jurymen.

Of course, the field where this plan would be most potent would be in motor-car licenses and motor-car operators' licenses. It would, however, extend further, as those familiar with the operation of State and municipal licenses will readily appreciate. There are scores, perhaps hundreds, of different kinds of personal licenses issued in this State, ranging from the right to beg to the rigbt to hunt and fish.

From a background of some little laboratory experience in politics I have no hesitancy in saying that the results of more than one election in the past twenty years would have been appreciably affected by such a plan, and, leaving other elements out of consideration, that with the growing use of motor cars the enforced exercise of the suffrage by all who own or drive them would prove a most effective tonio for the blasé and indifferent citizens who hold a practical power in the inverse ratio of their civio seal.

New Rochelle's Police Markemen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am heartily in accord with the statement in a letter to THE TIMES that "compulsory training in the use of revolvers should be instituted in all Police Departments," and also appreciate the good work that is being done along this line by the Pelham Manor Police Department, but it may be interesting to your readers to know that particular attention has been paid to this phase of police work in New Rochelle.

We have in Police Headquarters a thoroughly modern, scientifically equipped pistol range, and have had compulsory training for all men in the department, under expert tutorage, since 1924. Last Winter, with a force of 113 men, including the Chief, Captains, Lieutenants and detectives, we qualified 112 in the following grades: 65 experts with a percentage of 80 or better; 37 sharpshooters with a percentage between 70 and 80; 10 marksmen with a percentage between 60 and 70. The only man who did not qualify was ill at home suffering from a paralytic stroke. A. H. TITUS, Badges for Tipplers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is more than one solution to the prohibition problem. There are those who can tote guns without making themselves public nuisances; there are those who can drink, with similar display of strength of character. The fault of the saloon was that there were few bartenders who would not sell to minors or habitual drunkards, if they had the money to pay.

A system of individual license, with a badge designating a high degree of character, would drive the bootlegger out of business, abolish poison liquor and make the prosecutions of improper liquor traffic entirely just as well as beneficial to the communities. CARL EICKEMEYER.

ARMISTICE DAY 1926.

Lines on Reading President Coolidge's Speech.

Have we kept faith with those who made
For us their rendesvous with death?
That they have not our trust betrayed
The whole world witnesseth.

A few short words while heads are bowed,
Names carved in stone upon a hill,
A moment's silence of the crowd—
For those forever still!

'Twas not for pageants which reflect
The symbol of a nation's pride,
Nor the mute aspects of respect—
'Twas not for this they died.

Still more, 'twas not that we should keep
The tenor of our ancient ways.
They had high dreams, whose dreamless sleep
We trouble with our praise.

Turn not the cynic lip in scorn
When we those tragic hopes recall;
Our pledge to them—our pledge foresworn—
For which they gave their all

Truly inspired the great emprise,
Whether in war's dire murk it past
Or in undisillusioned eyes
Was cherished to the last.

A world made safe, a world made free,
For this we sent our sons to die;
For this they died; 'tis only we
Who failed. Their haunting cry

Comes from lone places where they dwell
By streams of France or hills of home,
An echo of their last farewell,
And evermore will come

Sad hut accusing like the wind
That stirs above their sacred dust—
The call to those they left behind
That we make good their trust.

Conscious of only right intent,
Repeating phrases unfulfilled,
Grown nerveless while our heads are bent,
Courage and spirit chilled.

Mindful of gain or loss, we stand,
And our constructive efforts cease.
The same tribunals which we planned
Are used by others for our peace.

Our efforts end? They little know
The fibre of our hearts, who lead
Down from the heights to planes so low,
Who fail us in our need.

Ah, no! Some dawn inviolate
When through our darkness breaks the sun
Will find this land reconsecrate,
Honor and faith rewon.

FOR BETTER BANKING.

Graduate General Managers as Alternative to More Branch Banks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The inefficiency shown in the management of banks, both in rural communities and cities, by untrained bankers would seem to point to branch banks as the solution of the difficulty. But the resulting centralization of financial control is rightly considered by many persons to be as dangerous to national welfare as too much political centralization.

There seems to be one alternative to branch banking that probably would be effective in preventing disasters brought on by the good-intentioned "lumber dealer" bank President, who is ignorant of banking (referring to Horace Foster's excellent article), or by the nice young man of the community, with perhaps a high-school education and an elementary knowledge of bookkeeping, who becomes cashier.

Make banking a profession. Establish schools of banking, just as there are schools of medicine and law, in connection with our leading universities. Make the courses comprehensive, and provide by law that every bank shall have a general manager who shall be a graduate in banking from an accredited school, and who, perhaps, shall have been required to pass a stringent State examination.

Greater efficiency in banking practice is all that branch banking, or this plan, can bring about; neither can guarantee character. But the adequately trained man is likely to be a better all-round executive, character included, than the man who is passed, as manager, from institution to institution, because of his experience alone.

Like the inside accountant of character, the manager would not do, or permit to be done, any wrongful act, or certify to any statement or act of a Board of Directors, an officer or employe which would contravene the best banking practice, including the more prudential "ethics of the profession."

The Baumes Crime Laws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the most valuable features of the Baumes crime-curbing laws is their inflexibility. Although this inflexibility may seem occasionally to be excessive, responsible New York citizens should not allow their judgment regarding the importance of keeping the law strong and stern to become warped or confused.

The Baumes laws represent an earnest and determined revolt of public-spirited New Yorkers against the city's constantly increasing crime conditions of the last eight years. These serious conditions have been generally recognized to be the direct result of a lax and weak administration of the crime-curbing machinery of the city and State.

Sympathizers with criminals, instead of seeking to weaken or interfere with present efforts of public-spirited citizens to check dangerous crime conditions, should warn their proteges that New York citizens are awake at last and that crime has become a really unpleasant business.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Needed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With the approach of cold weather we will have men and boys coming to us from along the waterfront suffering from the cold. Most of these are deserving, and we will be unable to supply them with the clothing that they need.

There must be many of THE TIMES readers who can spare old clothing, underwear, shirts, ties, coats, suits and shoes. Every contribution will be used for a deserving case, and any one who is willing to help need only call Watkins 8831 and we will send for bundles which will relieve the suffering homeless boys of the Seamen's Branch of the Y. M. C. A. at 525 West Twenty-third Street. C. A. BRAIDER,
Executive Secretary.

PRESBYTERY UPHELD IN MODERNIST STAND

State Synod Approves Licensing of Two Pastors Opposed by Fundamentalists.

JUDGMENT IS UNANIMOUS

Dr. Buchanan Led Attack on Hall and Fuller, Holding Their Doctrines Clashed With Presbyterianism.

The action of the Presbytery of New York in licensing to preach Cameron Parker Hall and receiving into its membership the Rev. Carlos G. Fuller, who had been accused by the Fundamentalist group of "not believing certain doctrines of the Presbyterian Church" alleged by the complainants to be essential, has been upheld by the Synod of New York State. Mr. Hall was licensed as a graduate of Union Theological Seminary and Mr. Fuller came from the Baptist denomination.

This action, announced yesterday, terminates a case that has gone through three courts which the Presbyterian form of government provides. Meanwhile Mr. Hall has been installed as pastor of Christ Presbyterian Church, Thirty-sixth Street, near Ninth Avenue, the west side branch of the Brick Church, and Mr. Fuller has become the minister of the Featherbed Lane Church, at University Avenue, the Bronx.

The judgment of the Judicial Commission of the synod in dismissing the case against the Presbytery was as follows:

"Since the records in the cases of the complaint against the licensure of Cameron Parker Hall and of the complaint against the receiving into membership of the Rev. Carlos G. Fuller show that the Presbytery of New York was satisfied with their examinations and that they affirmatively answered the constitutional questions, and since the record contains no evidence that the Presbytery acted improperly in the licensure or the admission into membership, it is ordered that the said complaints be, and hereby are, dismissed.

The preamble says that the commission, to which was referred the complaint by the Rev. Dr. Walter Duncan Buchanan, pastor of the Broadway Church, Manhattan, had heard Dr. Buchanan; the Rev. Albert Dale Gantz, the Rev. Mebane Ramsay and the Rev. David Roswell Wylie, appearing for the complainants, and the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, for the Presbytery, and, having "duly deliberated declared the following to be its unanimous opinion and judgment."

Dr. Buchanan and his followers first took their complaint to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, which is the highest court of the denomination. The Assembly in May, 1925, remanded the case to the synod, which is the court between the Presbytery and the Assembly. It took this action because the Presbyterian Book of Discipline "requires that complaints against an inferior judicatory must be made to the next superior judicatory in a non-judicial or administrative case."

"This case is in that class," continues the pronouncement. "The case must be remanded to the Synod of New York for appropriate action and is so ordered."

Y. M. C. A. AT MONTCLAIR FORMALLY DEDICATED

Hospital Patient Gives $50,000 for Institution—Building for Negroes Planned.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 14.—Montclair's new Y. M. C. A. was officially dedicated this afternoon. The principal speaker was Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the National Y. M. C. A. Council.

It was announced by C. Everett Bacon, President of the association, that an additional gift of $50,000 had been received from David C. Mills, now ill in Mountainside Hospital, and that Mrs. Benjamin Moore had donated a suite in the natatorium to be known as the Benjamin Moore Pool in honor of her late husband.

Within the last forty-eight hours General Secretary Merton L. Beebe said an emergency campaign for funds had yielded $117,625, making the total in three campaigns $697,625. This amount will pay for the new association and also a negro Y. M. C. A. here.

"We must have a program drastic enough," declared Dr. Mott, "to meet the need of the younger generation to guard them against the perils growing out of luxury, ease, soft living and softness, which are ruining our homes. We must guard against these as well as against the five old-age enemies, ignorance, poverty, disease, strife among men and sin."

BELGIAN IN GOLF TOGS EXCLUDED FROM CASINO

BIARRITZ, France, Nov. 14 (AP).—Albert Loewenstein, the financier who offered $50,000,000 to Belgium and then was robbed of jewels variously estimated at between 10,000,000 and 15,000,000 francs within the past two months, is again in the public eye, this time for the alleged hitting of a Casino employe, not in the eye but in the ear.

The financier was refused admittance to the Casino here because he was not in regulation evening clothes.

"I guess you don't know who I am," Mr. Loewenstein is quoted as having told the doorkeeper.

"No, but I know evening clothes when I see them," replied the employe.

The doorman's description of the banker's latest golf suit as a "gunny-sack" is said to have so enraged its proud possessor that he swung heavily on his critic.

The case will come up on Dec. 9. Mr. Loewenstein will be defended by Anatole de Monzie, former Minister of Finance.

For Union Square as Bus Terminal.

Use of Union Square for an interurban bus terminal, a plan originally suggested by H. Prescott Beach, President of the Fourteenth Street Association, was endorsed yesterday by Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the Washington Square Association. "Buses will be always on the increase and, being at the best cumbersome, traffic blocking affairs, we must find some parking space for them other than in the most densely congested districts like Times Square," Mr. Kirby said.

NATIONAL GRANGE HONORS ITS DEAD

Opens Its Convention in Portland, Me., With Memorial Services for Its 'Unknown Heroes.'

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 14 (AP).—A feature of the National Grange memorial service this afternoon was the first official recognition at such a service of the "unknown heroes" of Grange work.

The "plain men and women of the Grange ranks" were eulogized by the National Master, Louis J. Taber, and Mrs. Taber placed flowers upon the altar in the Grange hall, which had been extemporized in the centre of City Hall Auditorium, where the services were held.

Previous to that feature, the Rev. W. W. Deal of Nampa, Idaho, chaplain of the National Grange and a Methodist minister, had preached a brief sermon upon "Immortality," and representatives of several State granges had eulogized distinguished members of the local body who had died during the year. Flowers in their memory were placed upon the altar.

Those so recognized were Warren C. Jewett and George S. Ladd, Past Masters of the Massachusetts State Grange; Mrs. Levi A. Booth, wife of the Past Master of the Colorado State Grange, and Mrs. C. F. Smith, wife of the Past Master of the Vermont State Grange. The floral tribute for Mrs. Booth was placed by Mrs. Eva McDowell of New York, whose husband was one of the seven founders of the National Grange.

The patrons of husbandry held their official service of worship in the Chestnut Street Methodist Church in the morning. National Master Taber, in an introductory address, said nearly all of the members of the Grange were interested in religion, and many were active members of churches.

Presentation of resolutions will be the first important move at the business sessions, which will open tomorrow and extend through Thursday. Among the more important of these will be declarations covering the Middle West view of farm relief legislation. These are being prepared by the Illinois and Indiana delegates.

In 1907

The Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company built the first modern scientific pasteurizing plant ever constructed. It changed the entire trend of the milk handling industry.

Previous to this, pasteurization had been regarded with indifference or open antagonism. But the news of what the new Sheffield plant was doing spread rapidly. It soon came to be a center of interest to physicians, health authorities, and milk dealers from all parts of the world.

The new method of pasteurization did not affect the taste of the milk. It did not destroy the cream line in the bottle. And, most important, the flavor and cream line had been retained without any sacrifice of safety.

Sheffield Perfectly Pasteurized Milk has been, and is the standard of quality and safety not only in New York but throughout the country.

This plant is at 524 W. 57th Street, the main office of Sheffield Farms Company. Built in 1907 it has for 20 years been the fountain head of progressive thought on matters pertaining to milk and milk handling. Changes and improvements in equipment, without number, have been made, but the basic method employed by Sheffield Farms in 1907 is the method accepted throughout the world today.

It simmers down to a choice of three

THE finer the things we seek, the more we expect of their influence in our life, the narrower grows our choice. Nowhere is this more true than in the choosing of a fine playing piano. For there are only three instruments which can bring a lifetime of great music to the home.

Welte-Mignon is one of them—the only one that embodies the perfected playing device in the piano perfected to play for it. The musical critics of Europe have long known what this means in subtlety of rendition. You, too, will appreciate it fully after you have heard the other two.

Let them play for you first; hear the Welte-Mignon last. Perhaps this may seem too generous, too risky. But we will chance it. For enraptured though you may have been, the Welte-Mignon still will cast its spell and probably, you, too, will want it for your own.

103 YEARS OF A. T. STEWART HERITAGE ~ ~ ~ 65 YEARS IN AMERICAN BUSINESS

maintains the distinctive character it had in Mr. Stewart's lifetime, to which has been added the life and spirit of Mr. Stewart's old friend, the Founder of all our undertakings in New York as well as Philadelphia.

The prosperity of this business since the new sign was placed at the corner of Ninth Street and Broadway on the old A. T. Stewart building a quarter century ago—is still there. Across Ninth Street from Broadway to Fourth Avenue the big New Building, more than twice as high as the Stewart Building, looms up, doing a noble part as a staunch witness to the enduring principles of the two founders of this great, ever-increasing business.

JOHN WANAMAKER
FORMERLY

Mr. Stewart's first quality of merchandise.
A fair price and but one price.
An art in Storekeeping distinctly different from a mere warehouse of merchandise.
A wide civic and national vision—fixed a famous leadership that has not died and never will.

The A. T. S. and J. W. flags of business principles are nailed to the mast as business signals to the public.

From the Wanamaker Advertisement, November 17, 1896.

At the opening hour the crowds began to come, and great flocks of people passed through our hospitable building all day.

Many were ambitious to be the first to purchase, to open an account or to assist in the first day's success.

Members of old families drove down to renew with the old store the old familiarity that long acquaintance had developed into a sentimental sense of ownership.

Newspaper men saw in the throngs what a notice only twenty-four hours old would do to help the new enterprise if placed in the proper newspapers.

Neighboring merchants came to express satisfaction in the revived life of the vicinity, and to say they were "so glad that the old doors were open for business again."

Downtown business men, bankers, lawyers and judges brought their words of welcome with the closing hours of the day.

It was pleasant to hear the compliments that were passed around, but none so pleased us as "The great stock and generous service with the general air of refinement everywhere apparent makes it seem like the old days when A. T. Stewart was here."

There is a high ideal in this business—we shall work hard to give it full and complete expression.

If the store is worthy of the city—New York deserves the best—it will, in its way, aid in the making of the greater New York.

There are no sensations now, nor will there be. But there will be no stagnation.

The power is in the best collections of the best and newest merchandise to be sold at just such prices as we can and do continually make—always in the interest of the retail buyer—the sort of goods that will be speedily sought by people who want really good articles for personal uses, or for housefurnishings and decoration.

"This is not to be a Department Store, but an aggregation of stores, each complete of its kind—an evolution of the ideas that made A. T. Stewart the model retail store of the world."

—November 16, 1896.

"This store is to be an institution of New York. It was such in the past. We are determined that it shall be such again."

—November 27, 1896.

"We expect you will say that we improve on acquaintance."

—November 28, 1896.

WOLL ASSAILS EDDY ON RUSSIAN REPORT

Civic Federation Head Writes to Coolidge Denying Soviet Has Altered Its Regime.

PLEA AGAINST RECOGNITION

Scores 'Colossal Impudence' of Y. M. C. A. Commission and Questions Impartiality.

CITES STALIN STATEMENTS

Matthew Woll, Acting President of the National Civic Federation and a Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, bitterly attacks Sherwood Eddy of the International Y. M. C. A. and his associate members of the commission which recently returned from Russia in a letter to President Coolidge, made public yesterday.

Mr. Woll, discussing the movement in this country for recognition of Soviet Russia, refers to Mr. Eddy's "self-appointed commission" which spent several months in Russia, and says the commission's campaign "is built largely upon the allegation that the character of the Soviet Government has undergone a fundamental change since Stalin became chief dictator."

Says Stalin Has Not Changed.

"There is no vestige of evidence to support these assertions," declares Mr. Woll. "Stalin has not renounced a single one of his recent and voluminous revolutionary declarations. He has given no proof that he has abandoned a single one of the main positions of Lenin, either in Russia's internal affairs or in her foreign relations. The revolutionary Soviet Constitution declaring for a world-wide class war remains intact. The Red Army is still taught that it exists to wage a revolutionary war against the existing Governments of all other nations. All countries bordering upon Russia are still constantly menaced by the Red Army. They are overrun by another army of subsidized Communist conspirators. The wildest forms of world revolutionism are still taught in every school. The Soviets still exercise a monopoly of the press and of politics. Every attempt to break this monopoly is adjudged to be treason, punishable even by death. The whole Soviet system remains entirely subject to the dictators of one political party—a party in name only, since no other is legally tolerated. There is no freedom of discussion within its ranks. No member has any rights whatever against its leaders.

"Not only have there been no acts of the Soviet Government indicating a fundamental change of policy but, on the contrary, Stalin has continued his revolutionary and anti-foreign pronouncements. At a recent congress of the so-called party controlling the Communist Government, he not only described at length the plan of his 'Internationale' for 'revolutionizing of the workers of all countries,' but again declared Soviet Russia to be 'the fundamental lever of the development of the international revolutionary movement.'

"The American principle laid down by you in your message of Dec. 7, 1923, is a perfect answer to the Stalin propaganda. In view of the record of the Soviet in shamelessly and openly breaking their agreements with every Government and with nearly every individual or corporation having economic relations with them, you were certainly fully justified in demanding not words, but deeds, before recognition could be considered.

"There is nothing to be gained by an American citizen in Russia unless he has openly or tacitly sold himself into the service of the dictators. Therefore, no reciprocity nor mutuality could result from recognition of the Soviet by the United States nor from any other kind of an agreement. Under recognition, Russian citizens in America would have all rights accorded by any civilized nation to its residents. On the other hand, the status of American citizens in Russia would be that of the citizen serfs under the present ruthless régime. In other words, they would have no rights whatever.

Outlines Possible Results.

"Again, under recognition, a Soviet consular service would be established in this country. Under the diplomatic immunity granted, the Soviet Government would be able to make of all its poets, centres for the promotion of Red propaganda. It would thus be afforded a direct medium for the undermining of our democratic institutions and the overthrow of our Government. This has been and is still the practice of Soviet Russia in every country which has recognized it. Even in the absence of recognition by the United States, we find the Bolsheviki engaging in their destructive propaganda in our country. They are seeking to accomplish their ends here through the formation of Communist political parties and the establishment of trade bureaus, workers' educational and defense movements and the like. Would we be granted similar privileges in Soviet Russia today?

"The colossal impudence displayed by the Eddy aggregation in describing itself as a 'fact-finding commission' is only equaled by the utter hypocrisy of well-known Soviet defenders and propagandists pretending to make an 'impartial report.' If the letter sent you had been published in full, its silliness would have been its own antidote. Unfortunately from this standpoint, few will see the complete document. Mr. Eddy has stated in a magazine article that the commission sent one expert ahead to gather material and that it had also four interpreters, all of whom were 'impartial.' If the type of impartiality shown in the personnel of the commission itself is the standard accepted by that body, we should like to know the identity of that expert and of those 'impartial' interpreters."

GIRL, 5, DIES OF BURNS.

Child's Dress Catches Fire as She Puts Wood Into Stove.

NEWTON, N. J., Nov. 14.—Laura Metzgar, 5 years old, died in the Franklin Hospital in Franklin early today as the result of burns received in her home yesterday when her dress caught fire.

The child, alone in the kitchen, opened the stove door to put another stick of wood into the fire. In some unexplained manner her dress caught on fire. Her cries brought her mother and father into the room and the flames were extinguished before they reached above her waist.

Cattle Rustlers Still Range Over Ranches of Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 14 (AP).—Cattle rustling is not confined to the movies and fiction. It is a problem for peace officers in Wyoming today, with hundreds of head of stock being "rustled" yearly.

Dan Hudson, State Commissioner of Law Enforcement, opines that the problem is a bigger one now than it was in the early days of the West, when a cowboy's chief adornment was a capable shooting iron or two.

"It used to be that when cattlemen caught a band of rustlers they held a necktie party, and that was that," said Commissioner Hudson. "But now we first must have evidence and then often long-drawn-out hearings in the courts before a rustler can be disposed of."

Hudson commands a force similar to the Texas Rangers. But just now, due to a fast vanishing appropriation, there are only two of them. One is kept busy with bootleggers and gamblers and that leaves the other to chase rustlers, Hudson says.

D. J. Vaughn of Arvada, Wyo., who owns several large ranches, estimated that 15 per cent. of his cattle had been stolen this year, Hudson said.

CITIZENS UNION AIDS IN RESERVOIR FIGHT

It Urges City to Add the 35 Acres Under Water to Area of Central Park.

WOULD TRANSFER CONTROL

Landscape Study Urged to Make It Conform to General Plan—Value Put at $100,000,000.

The Citizens Union joined yesterday in the Central Park Association's campaign to induce the city to fill in the reservoir in Central Park and thus add thirty-five acres to the park. As a preliminary step the union, in a letter to the Sinking Fund Commission, urges transfer of the reservoir from the jurisdiction of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity to that of the Park Department.

The union also sent a letter to William B. Roulstone, President of the Central Park Association, which has been trying to bring about the transfer of the reservoir, suggesting that Olmsted Brothers, successors to the original planners of Central Park, be called upon to make a study of the treatment of the reservoir area and to recommend a plan which would harmonize with the plan of the park as a whole.

Letter to City Commission.

The letter to the Sinking Fund Commission follows:

Nov. 13, 1926.

Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund,
Municipal Building,
New York City.
Gentlemen:

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is taking steps to acquire the comparatively small amount of acreage remaining within the city suitable for public park development. The Citizens Union is in hearty sympathy with this undertaking and hopes for its early accomplishment. At the same time your board has a rare opportunity to make a notable addition to the area of Central Park. This may be done under Section 205 of the Greater New York Charter, without the expenditure of city funds.

We refer to the territory constituting the south reservoir. This is now under the jurisdiction of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. We are informed, however, that it is no longer needed for water supply purposes and that it has, in fact, been disconnected for some time.

The abandonment of the reservoir makes possible its conversion into some thirty-five acres of new park property. This addition would be in the very heart of the existing park, and the public benefits to be derived therefrom are obvious. The property has a tangible value estimated at more than $100,000,000. Translated into terms of scenic beauty and recreation, its possibilities reach far beyond even such an estimate.

The recreational needs of the public in Manhattan greatly exceed the city's resources in that borough. This addition to Central Park would undoubtedly be of immediate benefit to a far greater number of persons than any other proposed park development within the city.

We respectfully urge that your board proceed without delay to effect a transfer of the south reservoir in Central Park from the jurisdiction of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity to that of the Department of Parks.

Very truly yours,
CITIZENS UNION OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
By R. E. McGAHEN, Secretary.

In his letter to Mr. Roulstone Mr. McGahen said that the union would like to cooperate with the Central Park Association in any efforts to bring about the transfer of the reservoir.

WILL PLEAD FOR SLAYER.

Counsel for Casimir Barszyouck to Appeal to Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Three points, which his counsel consider in his favor, are to be stressed when Governor Alfred Smith is asked in a few days to commute the death sentence of Casimir Barszyouck, scheduled to die with his brother, William and John Maxwell in the Sing Sing electric chair on Dec. 9.

Barszyouck's attorneys will contend that he is only 21 years old; that he had never been convicted of a previous crime and had a good record before he participated in the robbery that cost the life of Mrs. Mary Betsch in a chain grocery store at 173 Lee Avenue, Brooklyn; and that Casimir did not even enter the store but remained outside during the robbery. The lawyers will contend that Maxwell did the shooting.

It is reported that Governor Smith will grant a hearing on applications for executive clemency within the next two weeks.

APPEALS TO MAYOR ON BUS FRANCHISES

Eastman Asks That Awards Be Made to Existing Companies Rather Than to New Ones.

ATTACKS PROPOSED PLAN

Declares System as Adopted Loses All the Benefits of Unification—Sees Two Fares.

Grant of the proposed bus franchises in the boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens to existing transportation companies was urged yesterday by Lucius R. Eastman, President of the Merchants' Association, in a letter to Mayor Walker.

Mr. Eastman in his letter, which contained an amplification of the views expressed last week by the association's Committee on City Transit, condemned the Board of Transportation's plan for a series of bus systems as economically unsound and against the public interest, because it would compel most of the bus passengers to pay a second fare to existing transit lines to reach destinations.

He suggested that the bus franchise for Manhattan should be granted to the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, which controls the New York Railways Company; for Brooklyn, to the B.-M. T. and the Brooklyn City Railway Company, and for the Bronx, to the Union Railway Company, a part of the Third Avenue Railway system. For Queens, he suggested a combination of the three existing surface line companies as a backbone for additional bus routes.

Provides for 68 Routes.

"The Board of Transportation has recommended, and the Board of Estimate has adopted, a series of motor omnibus routes which, taken together, penetrate all parts of the city," Mr. Eastman wrote. "Sixty-eight routes are indicated for the combined boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, grouped to form fifteen distinct systems, distributed as follows:

"Manhattan—Number of routes, 12; number of systems, 1; average miles per route, 4.4.

"The Bronx—Number of routes, 13; number of systems, 4; average miles per route, 4.4.

"Brooklyn—Number of routes, 20; number of systems, 3; average miles per route, 4.

"Queens—Number of routes, 23; number of systems, 7; average miles per route, 4.1.

"The distinctive feature of this plan is its sacrifice of potential service capacity and the greater outlay for fares which it will impose upon the public.

"None of the proposed fifteen systems has any operating relation to any of the others nor to existing subway and trolley systems. All the benefits of unified service are lost. All the disadvantages of separated facilities and uncoordinated operation are retained.

"What the Board of Transportation proposes is not a unified system so correlated with existing facilities as to permit passengers to move a maximum distance for minimum fare cost.

Must Pay Two Fares.

"Another characteristic in common is that each so-called system is a complete and independent operating unit, with a proposed initial fare of 5 cents, and (in most cases) an additional charge of 2 cents for transfer to another line of the same system. If transfer is made to a line in another system, the passenger must pay a second full fare.

"With unification the public will pay less and get more. With segregation the bus companies will get more and give less.

"The present trolley companies have franchise rights in many of the principal streets. Some of the motor bus routes advocated by the Board of Transportation pass over parts of streets already occupied by trolley lines. It may confidently be predicted that under these conditions the trolley companies will defend their rights to the court of last resort.

"The true remedy is to be found by promoting consolidation which will speedily afford needed relief, and not by promoting competition, which will defer relief for years."

Budget Allows Only 33 Cents, Which Cuts Force From 118,000 to 110,000 Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP).—The "garrison ration" of the army for the last fiscal year cost 36.12 cents, Major Gen. B. F. Cheatham, Quartermaster General, announced today in his annual report. The figure has some bearing upon the fact that the army has found it impossible to maintain its average strength of 118,000 enlisted men for the present fiscal year on the estimated ration cost of 33 cents per man laid down by the Budget Bureau, having been forced to hold the average strength for the year to 110,000, as the ration cost did not go down.

General Cheatham's report showed also that army laundries, which caused something of a stir in debate in the session of Congress, earned $260,913, "after deducting all expenses for operation, supplies and depreciation."

WORK OF THE BLIND ON SALE

Fifth Avenue Christmas Benefit to Start at Biltmore Today.

The fifth annual Christmas sale of the New York State Commission for the Blind starts this morning at the Italian Garden of the Hotel Biltmore and will continue through Nov. 27, according to an announcement yesterday. Articles made by the blind living in the State will be the only things on sale and each blind worker will receive the full price received for his or her article. The "overhead" will be carried by the commission.

The saleswomen will be committees of New York church women. Each denomination will have its own day. Today will be Jewish Day; tomorrow will be Episcopal Day. Baby sets, baskets, dresses and scarves, cushions, bath mats, brooms, bags, dolls, luncheon sets, aprons, &c. are among the "blind wares" offered for sale.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, a supporter of the commission, has sent word to Miss Emily Smith, Sale Chairman, through Miss Mary V. Hun, Chairman of the commission, that he will attend on one of the days.

Gales and Heavy Seas Delay Incoming Liners; Ships 15 to 24 Hours Late; None Arrives in Day

Strong westerly gales and heavy head seas have delayed the incoming passenger liners and not one arrived here yesterday, which is unusual so early in the Winter season.

The White Star liner Majestic, due tomorrow morning with passengers and mails from Southampton via Cherbourg will not dock until Wednesday, according to a wireless message received yesterday from Captain George R. Metcalfe, R. N. R.

Other liners reported from fifteen to twenty-four hours late are the Hamburg of the Hamburg-American Line, which will arrive tomorrow morning; the White Star liner Celtic from Liverpool, which also will dock tomorrow morning; the Cunard liners Franconia and Lancastria, which come in late today; the Anchor liner Caledonia, the Red Star liner Lapland and the Atlantic liner Minnetonka, which will arrive this morning.

None of the shipping companies received word last night of any of the incoming vessels being in difficulties.

The sacred white elephant of Siam, which has been on exhibition in the Zoological Gardens, London, since July, is being brought over on the Minnetonka for exhibition here.

FAMILY ROW STIRS STRIFE IN CHURCH

Trustee in McCaul Flock Wants His Brother-in-Law Ousted From the Board.

PASTOR BLAMES ENEMIES

Congregation in Uproar as Call for Special Meeting to Act on Matter Is Read.

The injection of domestic difficulties into the question of church policy threw the congregation of the Washington Avenue Baptist Church, Washington and Gates Avenues, Brooklyn, into a turmoil yesterday and once more brought the dispute between the pastor and factions of the congregation into the limelight. The row yesterday occurred when Joseph Ortiz, 60 New York Avenue, Brooklyn, former church Treasurer and a member of the Board of Trustees, tried to have a special meeting of the church members called to consider the fitness of his brother-in-law, Alfred Didier, to serve on the Board of Trustees in view of the fact that he had been summoned to Domestic Relations Court for non-support.

The Rev. Robert McCaul, the pastor, who had testified in court that in his opinion Mr. Didier provided a good home for his family, did not read the call for the meeting, which Mr. Ortiz had previously given him. Mr. Ortiz then rushed to the front of the church, fumbling at his pocket as he separated a copy of the notice from other papers. As the import of Mr. Ortiz's action dawned upon them members of the congregation shouted objections. Others shouted encouragement. Mr. Ortiz continued his reading in the din of contradictory voices and finished in competition with the heavy peals of the organ, which the Rev. Mr. McCaul had ordered the organist to play.

The notice which Mr. Ortiz read was:

"A special meeting of the members of the Washington Avenue Baptist Church will be held Friday evening, Nov. 19, in the church parlor at which time Mrs. Didier will bring her case before the fellow members. Other important matters are to come up. Your presence is urgently requested, as this involves the future welfare of the church.

"William Vanderwag, Mrs. G. Rasch, Mrs. G. J. Mahon, Gilbert Howe, Mrs. R. Howe, Mrs. Bertha A. Searing, Mrs. J. L. Mobley and Mrs. N. M. Smith."

The congregation filed out of the church at the close of the reading. A block from the church Mr. Didier and another brother-in-law, Julius Ortiz, engaged in an altercation which brought two policemen. They seized a man who had separated the belligerents and went to the church, but released him when he satisfied them that he had been trying to fulfill the role of peacemaker.

The Rev. Mr. McCaul said that he had not read the notice because he questioned the standing of some of the signers as members of the church, and added that a church meeting was not the proper place to settle such differences. He also said that the present outbreak had been instigated by members of the congregation who oppose him.

Mr. Ortiz had supported the Rev. Mr. McCaul in previous difficulties and denied that he acted at the behest of any faction. So bitter has been the feeling between factions of the church that policemen were called last December to quiet a row at which the ousting of the Rev. Mr. McCaul was being discussed. Court action was resorted to later but the Supreme Court refused to appoint a court officer to supervise the election of trustees. The pastor has also been sued for slander by one of his parishioners.

The Rev. Mr. McCaul took the Hall-Mills case for the subject of his sermon last night. He raised the question whether the illness of Mrs. Gibson was a "divine intervention."

TRUST COMPANY RESOURCES

New York leads all other States in the volume of trust company resources with a total of $5,204,189,000, marking a gain of $260,000,000 for the year, the United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York reports. The total for the United States as of June 30, last, was $19,335,270,000, a gain of $1,190,000,000 for the year. Deposits were about $16,000,000,000, a gain of $900,000,000.

"The present strong position of the trust companies reflects a healthy condition in this field," says John W. Platten, President of United States Mortgage and Trust. "Further development along the lines now so clearly marked cannot fail to result in a much wider acceptance of the trust principle, with a corresponding increase in the volume of business entrusted to fiduciary institutions."

GOLF BALL HITS POLICE CAR

Smashes Windshield, and Flushing Patrolman Is Cut.

Patrolman Herman T. Cook of 5,316 Junction Avenue, Elmhurst, attached to the Flushing Precinct, received lacerations of the face, nose and hands yesterday in an unusual accident. He was operating a Police Department automobile on Union Turnpike. When he reached the grounds of the Hillcrest Golf Club, located between Jamaica and Flushing, a flying golf ball smashed the windshield and showered the patrolman with bits of glass. He was treated by Dr. Jackowitz of the Flushing Hospital and went home.

The ball was driven by Matt Wiesen of 895 West End Avenue, Manhattan. It was not learned whether the golfer called "Fore" before making the drive.

To Sail for Brussels Conference.

William Pickens, Field Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, announced yesterday that he would sail in a few days for the international conference on oppression of minority races and peoples to be held in Brussels early in January. In connection with the trip, lectures are being arranged for Mr. Pickens abroad before the conference opens.

Harmon Haff, Coal Man, Hurt When Thrown Through Windshield After Collision.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Nov. 14.—Harmon B. W. Haff, wealthy coal dealer, with offices at 1 Broadway, Manhattan, was thrown through the windshield and seriously injured tonight when his automobile collided at Hempstead and Ocean Avenues, near here, with another machine operated by Edward Erwin, 20 years old, of Lynbrook.

Emil A. Goenthe, a coal broker, also with offices at 1 Broadway, who was driving the Haff car, received internal injuries and six broken ribs. Mrs. Haff, suffering only from shock, was taken home. One of Erwin's ribs was broken.

Dr. Cocks, of the Glen Cove Hospital, who was passing when the accident occurred, administered first aid while Patrolman Lee Husser of the Nassau County Police summoned an ambulance from the Nassau Hospital at Mineola. The injured men were taken to the hospital, where it was said last night that Mr. Haff's injury was probably a fracture of the skull.

The accident occurred as the Haff car was turning into Ocean Avenue. Goenthe told the police that he was confused by the lights of the approaching car, while Erwin said that the Haff car was too far to the left of the road. A summons was given to Erwin for driving a car without a license.

Mr. Haff lives in Hewlett Bay, L. I. In addition to his wholesale coal activities, which he operates under his own name, he controls retail establishments in Long Island City, Brooklyn, Hewlett, here and at Lynbrook. He is also president of the Lynbrook Bank. Mr. Goenthe lives in Marvin Lane, East Islip.

Two Hurt When Bus Hits Pole.

After a large eight-seeing bus had skidded against an electric light pole in front of 185 East Second Street last night, Edward Clifford of 621 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, the driver, was attacked by pedestrians when it was found that two persons had been injured. The pole crashed to the pavement, striking Abraham Coopersmith, 17 years old, of 195 East Second Street, and Wolf Sherik, 52 years old, of 159 East Second Street, both of whom were removed to Bellevue Hospital.

A patrolman rescued Clifford, hurried him into a drug store and called an ambulance. The younger victim of the crash suffered a fracture of the skull, while Sherik received a fracture of the left arm. No arrest was made. According to the police, Clifford's action in suddenly applying the brakes to avoid striking an aged pedestrian caused his bus to skid.

Mrs. Jacob Kanner, 1,045 Avenue St. John, the Bronx, was injured last night in a three-fold collision at Fifth Avenue and Seventieth Street which tied up traffic so that it was necessary to send automobiles to Madison Avenue until the wreckage had been cleared.

Taxicabs approaching in opposite directions sideswiped at the intersection and the cab driven by Joseph Radigan, 3,747 Sixty-fourth Street, Woodside, Queens, skidded into Kanner's machine. Mrs. Kanner was taken to Reception Hospital.

William Mattimore of Detroit who was a passenger in Radigan's cab was cut by glass. He returned to his room at the Hotel Commodore after treatment at Presbyterian Hospital. The three automobiles were badly damaged, but all three drivers escaped injury. Albert Green, 153 Edgecombe Avenue, the Bronx, was the driver of the other cab.

Dies From Her Injuries.

Injuries to her spine, received last Thursday in an automobile accident near Danbury, Conn., resulted last night in the death at Bellevue Hospital of Mrs. Louise Hinckley, 34 years old, of 205 Coles Lane, Bay Terrace, Staten Island. Following the accident Mrs. Hinckley was removed to a hospital in Danbury, but insisted on being brought back to this city. The trip from Danbury to New York was made in a private ambulance in five hours.

BRADLEY BEACH, N. J., Nov. 14.—Helena Denicke, 15 years old, of 217 Newark Avenue, Bradley Beach, was instantly killed here today when an automobile driven by her brother, Neil Denicke, was in collision with a car operated by Dr. J. A. Worthington. The victim's sister, Bella, 12 years old, was injured. The accident attracted hundreds who had been attending mass at the Catholic Church. Several of the communicants assisted in taking the injured from the car.

The cars struck with a terrific impact, which could be heard for several blocks. Denicke's car turned turtle. Dr. Worthington was not injured.

HORSE BITES POLICEMAN.

Animal Turns on Him When He Goes to Rescue of Children.

Although the animal was muzzled and the wheels of the milk wagon to which it was attached were chained, a horse, which had been left by its driver at the curb near Eighth Street and Avenue A yesterday morning, bit the left hand of Patrolman Joseph Keough, of the Fifth Street Station, when the latter went to the rescue of several small children who were playing nearby and whom the horse was trying to reach with its teeth.

Keough, who lives at 3,413 Forty-first Street, Queens, had his hand dressed at St. Mark's Hospital and went off duty for the remainder of the day.

INSISTS LEFKOWITZ IS MISREPRESENTED

Teachers' Union Charges Attack Is Based on Hearsay and Unofficial Material.

DEMANDS AN INVESTIGATION

Wants Education Board to Sift the Report of Superintendents, and Especially Mandel's Conduct.

Replying to the attack by Associate Superintendent of Schools Edward Mandel on Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz and the reasons assigned by Dr. Mandel for opposing the promotion of the latter to first assistant in History in the Textile High School, the Teachers' Union, in a letter signed by President Henry Linville and addressed yesterday to the Board of Education, declared the charges of Mr. Mandel against a teacher who had served twenty-two years "constitutes an offense against public decency and calls for a challenge from every public-spirited citizen."

"That the Board of Education is, perhaps, unwittingly a party to this offense is at least occasion for regret," said Dr. Linville. "The Teachers' Union urges your board to take immediate steps to remedy the wrong you have done by investigating at once the conduct of the Board of Superintendents in this affair and especially the conduct of Associate Superintendent Mandel."

Calls Hearsay the Basis.

After asserting that the recent report against Dr. Lefkowitz was prepared by Mr. Mandel, it was charged that none of the allegations in the report had been submitted to a legal test and that hearsay and unofficial material had been accepted as true.

For the most part, according to Dr. Linville, the material on which the charges were based was obtained from a report made to the Teachers' Council by Aaron I. Dotey, a teacher in De Witt Clinton High School, a report which failed to win the approval of the Board of Superintendents and the Board of Education, having been collected "by agents of what was familiarly known as the 'Spy Squad,' organized and conducted by Dotey and pupils who were associated with him in that agency."

The much-discussed remark attributed to Dr. Lefkowitz on his return from the Legislature at Albany that he "had just left a delousing camp" or "should go to a delousing camp," appeared to have been conveyed by a boy to the "Spy Squad," it was said. The boys in Dr. Lefkowitz's class maintained their teacher did not use the phrase, according to Dr. Linville.

An article contributed to The New York Labor News by Dr. Lefkowitz and interpreted by Superintendent Mandel as a plea for Bolshevism is just the reverse, said Dr. Linville. The fictitious characters of Dr. Lefkowitz "attacked the Bolshevist without mercy," he asserted.

Sees Spirit of Luskism.

The union further called the attention of the Board of Education "to the recrudescence of the spirit of Luskism in the dictum of Mr. Mandel that 'as a school teacher he has not the same rights as other citizens to print, publish, or declare his thoughts and opinions. He is no longer at liberty to freely write, speak or publish.'

"Mr. Mandel has forgotten Governor Smith's epoch-making veto of the first Lusk bill in 1920, in which he said, 'The bill confers upon the Commissioner of Education a power of interference with freedom of opinion which strikes at the foundations of democratic education.' "

The Public Education Association in its current issue of The Public and the Schools says that the policy of denying teachers promotion, not for lack of professional fitness, but solely because the Board does not approve of their political affiliations and their expressed political opinions outside the classroom, "is loaded with dynamite."

"It seems evident that this policy of the Board of Superintendents is not only untenable in the light of our historic ideals and the vision of our present leaders, but also almost ridiculous in the manner in which it is being enforced," the publication says. "If alleged character and disloyalty of the persons in question are as dangerous as the Board maintains, why are they tolerated in the school system at all? Merely to deny them promotion is a weak and fruitless way to meet the critical situation the Board envisions."

PLANS FREE-SPEECH TEST.

Liberties Union Says Meetings in Coal Fields Were Stopped.

The American Civil Liberties Union is planning a free speech test in the anthracite region, it was announced yesterday by Forrest Bailey, a director of the union, who asserted that more than half a dozen meetings of "progressive miners' union leaders" had been broken up or halted by the police or "reactionary forces."

The police were charged, said Mr. Bailey, with refusing permits for meetings at which John Brophy, candidate for President of the United Mine Workers of America; Frank Keeney and Alexander Howatt were scheduled to speak, on the ground that they would advocate violent policies.

Four Iowa Men Find Their Texas Oil Stock Is Valuable.

Special to The New York Times.

HUMBOLDT, Iowa, Nov. 14.—Eight years ago an oil stock salesman visited this city and interested four prominent men in a proposition he had in Texas. He succeeded in selling each of them a share of stock at $100 each.

For several years there was no return from the investment. Then it began to pay a small dividend, which gradually was increased. After a time the quartet had drawn out as much in dividends as they had paid in, and were satisfied.

A few weeks ago each of the stockholders received a letter from a St. Louis concern offering them $1,000 each for the stock. Sensing that something was in the wind, a representative was sent to Texas to make an investigation. He returned a few days ago and reported that one well was producing 13,000 barrels of oil a day and a second, about ready to be shot, promised to be as good.

FIRST TEST OF YEAR BY PLAY JURY TODAY

Meeting in Banton's Office to Weigh "The Captive" and Rule on Salaciousness.

JURY STRUCTURE ALTERED

Sponsors Declare the Faults Which Brought Opposition in Courts Last Season Are Remedied.

The play jury which was active in the early part of last Summer will hold its first deliberation of the season today when a jury of twelve men and women will meet in the office of District Attorney Banton at 2 P. M. to decide whether "The Captive" is an objectionable and salacious play. "The Captive" deals frankly, although delicately, according to the reviewers, with highly complicated and suggestive psychopathic relationships.

The play jury met with opposition in the courts last June after it had returned a verdict directing the closing of "The Bunk of 1926." The producers obtained a temporary injunction restraining the police and the District Attorney from enforcing the verdict. The revue remained open during hearings on a motion to make the injunction permanent, but before the court's decision was handed down the producers closed the revue of their own accord. Another verdict of the jury, made about the same time, directing the deletion of a scene from another revue, was obeyed by the producers without opposition.

Say Faults Are Remedied.

Sponsors of the jury said recently that certain deficiencies in its structure which laid its verdicts open to court opposition last year had been remedied, and if this is so on the decision to be handed down today will depend whether "The Captive" may continue, whether certain parts must be deleted or whether it must be taken off the boards entirely. The votes of nine of the twelve jury members are sufficient to condemn it.

Mr. Banton said yesterday that the reason the jury was meeting at his office was that the New York Drama League, one of the organizations behind the play jury, has no meeting place available at the moment. The jury plan provides that:

"Unless at least nine jurors are in agreement, there shall be no verdict and the play shall be acquitted as unobjectionable. The verdict is final and shall take effect immediately after it has been delivered. The dramatists, the producing managers and the actors include in their mutual and respective contracts and agreements a provision that the verdicts of the jury shall in all cases be complied with."

The jury is selected from a panel of 500 persons who have offered their services. None knows his fellow jury members until they meet for a decision. They are notified singly and attend the play in question singly, so that they have no opportunity to consult until they meet for final decision.

No member of the Charles Frohman organization which is producing the play was reached last night.

THE THEATRE DISCUSSED.

Garland Blames New York's Cosmopolitanism for Nature of Plays.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the American Theatre Association, Inc., at Town Hall last night, Hamlin Garland, novelist, called New York a foreign city and said that much of the filth in its theatre was due to its position as port of entry for all the world. Several hundred persons attended the meeting of the organization, the purpose of which is "to foster the promotion and production of clean plays and engage in other theatrical activities of high standard."

Another speaker was John Golden, theatrical producer, who in offering to help the association with its production problems told some of his experiences, notably with "Three Wise Fools" and his current play, "2 Girls Wanted." When asked from the audience "How do you recognize a good play?" he answered that the producer or committee in charge must be sure he or they liked it very much. A good play, he said, contained the elements of strife and had a love story.

Mrs. Clara Dickson, mother of Dorothy Dickson, American actress, who has been appearing in London, and Thais Lawton were other speakers. Frank Lea Short presided.

The movement recently started in the Bronx for a clean theatre brought about a mass meeting last night in St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, Dawson and 156th Streets. Greetings were exchanged with the Town Hall meeting in session at the same time. Dr. Lyman P. Powell presided. H. S. Parsons of the Little Theatre movement in Washington described the work already done in the Bronx. George Field Andrews, head of the Church and Drama Association, also spoke.

HONOR CHOPIN IN WARSAW.

Delegates Bring Wreaths From Many Lands to Composer's Statue.

WARSAW, Nov. 14 (AP).—As part of the three days' ceremonies in honor of Frederic François Chopin, a statue of the famous composer was unveiled here today. The representatives of musical organizations in various countries were invited in order to impress upon them the fact that Chopin was a Polish composer, despite his French name.

America was not represented, but delegations came from all Europe, except Germany, and also from Japan. The delegations deposited wreaths, among them the Soviet delegation, whose wreath was the first Soviet floral offering at any Polish ceremony.

ESSAYS FROM MANY LANDS

Prizes Won by Writers in South Africa, Porto Rico, France, Bulgaria and America.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—As a result of a voting contest participated in by thousands of high school boys and girls in America and Europe the following have been voted as the twelve "greatest world heroes." The names are arranged in the order of the number of votes each received:

LOUIS PASTEUR.
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS.
GEORGE WASHINGTON.
BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.
WOODROW WILSON.
FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.
JOAN OF ARC.
SOCRATES.
JOHANN GUTENBERG.
DAVID LIVINGSTONE.
GEORGE STEPHENSON.

The voting contest was established last year by Clement M. Biddle of New York and was conducted by Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, Commissioner of Education of Maine and President of the World Federation of Education Association. Dr. Thomas was chairman of the Committee of Awards in an essay contest incidental to the voting on the question, "Who are the twelve greatest world heroes?"

Winners of the prizes, one for the best essay on each of the dozen heroic characters, were announced today simultaneously in Washington and Augusta, Me., as follows:

WILLIAM SCHUYLER PETTIT of the Burlington High School, Burlington, N. J., essay on Louis Pasteur.
ALICE J. WATSON of the Burlington High School, Burlington, N. J., essay on Abraham Lincoln.
ALMA KATHRINE FREDERICKSEN of the Jefferson High School, Portland, Ore., essay on Christopher Columbus.
VICTOR MIDDLETON of the High School of Grand Rapids, Mich., essay on George Washington.
JOHN E. LAKE Jr. of the High School of Oakaloosa, Iowa, essay on Benjamin Franklin.
ALFRED DENNIS JACOB of the George School, Bucks County, Pa., essay on Woodrow Wilson.
PRUDENCE MARIA RYAN, of the High School at Aguadilla, Porto Rico, essay on Florence Nightingale.
FLORENCE MILDRED CONNELL of the Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic, Conn., essay on Joan of Arc.
PAUL EDOUARD FULH of the Ecole de la Rue Hugo-del-senger of Plainpalais, Geneva, essay on Johann Gutenberg.
KATHLEEN MONTGOMERY of the Pretoria High School for Girls of Pretoria, South Africa, essay on David Livingstone.
GARABED H. ASSARULKIAN of the American School for Boys of Samokova, Bulgaria, essay on George Stephenson.

Each of these students will receive $100 and a gold medal in recognition of his or her accomplishment. The winning essays, with portraits of the heroes, are being published in a "Portrait Calendar of Twelve World Heroes," which will soon be ready for distribution by those in charge of the competition.

Essays came from nearly all the countries of Europe, England, France, Germany, Austria, Latvia, Esthonia, Spain, Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and Greece, as well as from the United States, Canada, Mexico, Porto Rico, Jamaica, the Virgin Islands, Hawaii, the Philippines, Turkey, India, Persia, Morocco and Tasmania.

In a statement issued by Dr. Thomas, he said:

"It is an interesting and really remarkable coincidence that the prize for the best essay on David Livingstone goes to a student in the high school for girls in Pretoria, South Africa. A girl in the Roman Catholic Parochial Academy of the Holy Family in Connecticut wins the prize for her essay on Joan of Arc. The high school in Burlington, N. J., has the extraordinary distinction of winning two of the twelve prizes. A boy in that school will receive the prize for his essay on Pasteur and a girl pupil there the prize for her essay on Lincoln."

The Committee of Award, in addition to Dr. Thomas, was composed of Richard Bartholdt of St. Louis, former member of Congress and President of the Interparliamentary Union for Promotion of International Arbitration; James William Crabtree, M. A., Secretary of the National Education Association; Albert F. Coyle, editor of The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Journal; Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin; David Starr Jordan, Chancellor Emeritus of Leland Stanford Jr. University; Bishop Francis John McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Parker Thomas Moon, Professor of Political Science in Columbia University; the Rev. Dr. John Augustine Ryan, Professor of Moral Theology and Industrial Ethics in the Catholic University of America; Mrs. William Tilton, Chairman of the legislative committee of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, New York City.

FIND SEA LION ON BEACH.

Brigantine (N. J.) Residents Startled by Howls of Stranded Mammal.

BRIGANTINE, N. J., Nov. 14.—Residents near the Brigantine Beach ran out of their homes this morning to investigate a terrifying howl and found a five-foot sea lion high and dry on the sand, thirty feet from the surf.

No one could solve the mystery of the "critter's" visit, but experiments with food offerings revealed that it was fond of fish. In spite of the friendly curiosity of the crowd, the sea lion permitted none to come near. It is expected that the New York Aquarium may be enriched by the find.

Hurt as Horse Dashes Against Auto.

Edward Tietjen, 17 years old, of 436 East 136th Street, the Bronx, was thrown from a horse and his left arm and left leg were fractured when the animal shied yesterday afternoon and crashed into an automobile at Pelham Parkway and Baychester Avenue, the Bronx. Tietjen was taken to the Fordham Hospital and the horse, which was owned by a riding academy, was destroyed by Policeman Steininger of the Kingsbridge Station.

DR. FOSDICK TRACES FLIGHT FROM EGYPT

Tells Park Av. Congregation of His Own Trip Over Course of Moses and Israelites.

EXPLAINS RED SEA PASSAGE

And Accounts for Tales of Manna and Smiting of Rock for Water —Impressed by Mt. Sinai.

Two weeks spent in retracing the probable course of Moses's flight when he led the Israelites from Egypt, which expedition formed part of his recent visit to Europe, furnished the framework of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's sermon last night at the Park Avenue Baptist Church. Starting in the simple narrative vein of a travelogue, Dr. Fosdick explained various miracles and references to the biblical account of the same journey. He brought out also the spiritual import of Moses's accomplishment.

The church proper was filled early, and more than 300 late comers were accommodated in the auditorium in the basement, where they listened through amplifiers.

Always careful where he dwelt on matters not susceptible of historic proof, Dr. Fosdick pictured the biblical story in the setting which he found. His story reached a climax at the present Mount Sinai. He explained that theories which placed the biblical Mount Sinai elsewhere were quite possible.

"I hope it was into those rocks that Moses fled for a retreat," he said, "because every detail of the biblical story dovetails into the present geography with such unique precision."

Passage of the Israelites:

In his rationalization of miracles, Dr. Fosdick touched first upon the passage of the Israelites "through the Red Sea waters." The passage from Egypt to Asia Minor he located as probably across the territory which is now northward of the boundary of the Red Sea, in the isthmus cut by the Suez Canal.

"In those days the water extended north in a thin sea over what is now dry land," he said. "A strong wind blew from the east. And a strong wind in present times has driven a similar thin sheet of water back seven miles."

He mentioned in his discussion the biblical account which places the number of Moses's band at 600,000 families. Noting the improbability of this, he further noted that the miraculous appearance of food and water would not have solved the problem. In this connection he mentioned the feeding of the Israelites with quail, the finding of manna and the smiting of the rock, whereupon water flowed forth.

Of the quail, Dr. Fosdick explained that even today, when strong, steady winds blow, they swept before them quantities of quail from the Island of Cyprus, which fall in the desert from exhaustion and which form a considerable item in the contemporary markets of the region.

Of the manna, he said it might well be the gum of the tamarisk, which drops to the ground and is, in extremities, eaten by men today. The Biblical admonition that it must be gathered before sunrise accorded with this explanation, he said, for with the rising of the sun the gum melts and dissolves.

Dr. Fosdick said he himself had seen Arabs scoop in the gravel, which appeared utterly dry, and collect water in the little depressions they thus made. The apparently miraculous production of water was a familiar thing to the natives of the desert, he said. And its cause he attributed to some remarkable geologic formation which controlled the seepage from the mountains and "would probably not change much through the centuries."

Made Journey by Camel.

Dr. Fosdick made the journey by camel. He regretted the probability of motor cars invading the region in the near future. He drew vivid contrasts between the Biblical and the modern way of life. He described his delight over a scraggly and weedy oasis reached after a day on the desert and added that "a sybarite at the Plaza, surrounded by every luxury, would have felt soft delight in such a scene after such a day." Comfort, he added, was wholly relative.

Of his own trip Dr. Fosdick said that each day's journey, as nearly as could be calculated, duplicated one day's journey of Moses, and each night's camping place was quite probably in the identical spot where the Israelites had rested. Mount Sinai itself he described in detail as follows:

"A great mass of gneiss and granite, two miles long, nearly a mile and a half wide, and rising abruptly from the desert 3,000 feet, traversed by ravines, scarred deep by gullies, and turretted and battlemented with escarpments of solid granite. And the command not to touch the base of the mountain, even while standing on the desert, could be literally interpreted, it rose so sheer from the sandy arid plain."

Dr. Fosdick's conclusion was abrupt. He abandoned his narrative with a mention of the miraculous accomplishment of Moses in coming down from the mountain and giving to a slave people, lost in the desert, the germ of a religion which grew to be a paramount force in the world.

DEPLORES SHIFTING CUSTOMS.

Dr. Fosdick Says Modern Change Causes Spiritual Vertigo.

The Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick in the Park Avenue Baptist Church at Sixty-fourth Street discussed yesterday morning the apparent lack of permanence of things spiritual and physical in the world today. Not only, he said, are we constantly confronted with new inventions and new buildings, but with new customs and codes of morality. Particularly is this true in New York, where our vacillating opinions "go under the pleasant term 'open-mindedness.'"

"This swift change begets in people everywhere a spiritual dizziness—a vertigo," Dr. Fosdick said. "It has presented a very real problem to those people who are struggling to fasten their eyes on something permanent.

"But this is not a new problem. The writers in the Old Testament were constantly trying to find something permanent, and in some ways their struggles were more difficult than ours. Think of the advent of Christianity itself—think how many ideals Christianity shattered! All the traditions of the ages. The people of that day must have felt it bitterly."

Woman Preacher Bids Church Crusade More Aggressively

"Jesus is a historical fact. No one can get away from that," declared Miss Adelaide Landon yesterday morning, speaking from the pulpit of St. George's Episcopal Church, East Sixteenth Street and Stuyvesant Square.

Miss Landon said that in her opinion there was a lack of aggressiveness in the Christian Church "which was not only incomprehensible but extremely reprehensible." She urged a crusade of social service workers which would "cleanse and startle this world as it has never been touched before."

Miss Landon is in her third year at Union Theological Seminary and has been active in social service work for the last six or seven years.

DR. HOLMES CALLS WELLS BOOK A BIBLE

"William Clissold" a Master Work, He Says, but Thinks Author Is Exhausted.

VOLUME HIS LAST WILL

Preacher Asserts Writer Violens World of Creative Revolution and Speaks as Its Prophet.

The Rev. John Haynes Holmes preached on "The World of H. G. Wells" at the Community Church, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, yesterday morning.

Illustrating his theme from the British novelist's "The World of William Clissold," Mr. Holmes said the book was "a very curious work and difficult to understand." While he never read "a more troublesome, confusing and embarrassing book," he felt it to be a master work beyond all question.

"The importance of this book lies in the relation of Clissold to Wells," he said. "It is a recapitulation of all that Wells has written in twenty or thirty years. When I finished reading 'William Clissold' I had the feeling that Wells is through, that he has exhausted himself. This book is in a sense his last will and testament, a kind of Wellsian bible; that is its real significance. Considered as a bible it becomes dignified, beautiful and good. It is a compilation of the speculations, the dreams and visions of Wells himself.

"One picture he draws upon the pages of every one of his books, the picture of confusion. Wells breaks completely with the idea that we are an orderly race; our systems of government, conduct and the like are perfect jokes to him. He sees us simply 'muddling through.'

"Wells hates this world of confusion; he pours out his wrath and contempt upon men and women as he finds them. But he visions a new world, a world of creative revolution, a world of a new order. Wells is the prophet of this divine revolution."

NATIONAL CATHEDRAL TOPIC OF PRELATES

Freeman and Rhinelander, With Canon Stokes, Describe Its Aims Here.

Three sermons were preached here yesterday morning on the inspiration, purpose and plan of the Episcopal National Cathedral. The sermons were delivered by Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington at the Church of the Incarnation, Madison Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street; Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander, Canon of Washington, at the Church of the Resurrection, 115 East Seventy-fourth Street, and the Rev. Aneon Phelps Stokes, Canon of Washington, at the Church of the Epiphany, Lexington Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street.

The building of monumental cathedrals in New York and in Washington are "brave adventures in faith, daring to emphasize the priority of God in two great cities," said Bishop Freeman.

"Shall we let this age sweep on its way, throwing up monuments only to its industrial, commercial and educational progress?" he asked. "Any reader of history knows that civilizations have never been saved by spending millions of dollars in art galleries and schools alone, excellent as these institutions may be."

In introducing Bishop Freeman, the rector, the Rev. Dr. H. Percy Silver, recalled that it was the late Rev. Dr. Arthur Brooke of the Church of the Incarnation who gave the head of Washington Cathedral his canonical examinations when he was a divinity student following his resignation from the accounting department of the New York Central Railroad.

"The capital city of Washington belongs to the whole country," Dr. Silver said, "and I want to see our Church seize its opportunity to erect there an inspiring symbol of religion. Many members of this parish have helped forward the National Cathedral by their prayers and their offerings. I pledge anew to Bishop Freeman today our interest and our confidence in the great work he has been called upon to lead."

CITES GOMPERS IN SERMON.

Dr. Poling Gives Examples of Poor Boys Who Rose to Success.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, associate pastor of the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church, 1 West Twenty-ninth Street, spoke before the Young People's Conference yesterday.

In the speech, broadcast by WEAF, Dr. Poling discussed many questions which had been sent to him. Asked what chance a man had who worked with his hands, he said: "Why, every chance. The chance that Sam Gompers had, who went from the workbench to the Peace Conference at Versailles. The chance that Henry Ford had, who went from a machine shop to the largest income in the world. What chance? The chance that Calvin Coolidge had, who went from a stony Vermont farm to the White House. The chance that Warren Harding had, who was once a printer's devil and later President of the United States."

"Are young people today inconsiderate to their elders?" was another question. Dr. Poling voiced an emphatic "No."

Dr. Poling spoke last night at the eleventh annual sailors' day service, conducted by the Joint Conference of Allied Societies for Seamen in the Port of New York.

SAYS WE NEGLECT HISTORIC PLACES

Rev. Mr. Russell Sees Need for Stimulating Interest in Relics of Early America.

PRAISES OUR AID ABROAD

But Pastor Wants Same Desire That Preserves Landmarks in Europe Manifested Here.

The Rev. Edward Charles Russell, rector of St. Ann's Episcopal Church, 140th Street and St. Ann's Avenue, preaching on "Patriotism" yesterday, said:

"Many American people do not seem to appreciate historical values in their homeland. A casual passing interest is aroused in some few by the historic spots made sacred by the association of historic events or historic personages who in life played a leading rôle in the creation of America.

"Americans go abroad with a tremendous enthusiasm, seek out historic spots in Europe, and almost amaze the natives of the places they visit by their extraordinary manifestations of enthusiasm and interest.

"Americans are ready to give most generously to the restoration of European cathedrals and to the restoration and preservation of historic spots in foreign countries. This is most truly laudable, and we would be most provincial in our outlook if we did not manifest respect and interest for sacred spots beyond the borders of our native land.

"At the same time it is not to our credit when we find that historic spots that ought to be dear to Americans are in some instances being more or less neglected. There is an old saying, 'Charity starts at home,' and it would appear to a most casual observer that one of the needs of the present hour is to foster interest in historic places connected with the formation and development of America.

"It would be good if a program of education could be promoted along these lines, and that those who are interested in the preservation of venerable landmarks should devote some of their munificence to the preservation of historic places which will stand as a reminder in the coming days of the purpose and spirit of America."

PASTOR PRAISES BUCHMAN.

Dr. Carter Calls Teachings That Stirred Princeton Evangelism.

The Rev. Dr. William Carter, at the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, Macon Street, Brooklyn, yesterday discussed "Buchmanism" from his own knowledge of Frank Buchman and the book on him written by Herold Begbie.

"Buchmanism is an evangelical form of religious teaching among college graduates," he said. "It obtained considerable publicity recently through the efforts of Princeton students to exclude it from the campus on the ground that it appeals to the religious nature through an exaggerated emotional excitement, particularly undesirable because of its public confession of sins.

"Frank Buchman follows the method of his Master. He does not seek the crowds. What, then, is the objection to his method? Any objection that can be brought against him can be brought against the method of Christ."

BIBLE MEN HEAR CADMAN.

State Convention Ends at Bedford Branch Y. M. C. A.

The State convention of the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes held its closing session yesterday afternoon at the Bedford Branch Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn. About 700 delegates were present. The Rev. Dr. J. Parkee Cadman, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, spoke.

Morning services were held at the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church, Tompkins Avenue and McDonough Street, Brooklyn. Prior to the religious services, a "power house" meeting was led by Joseph J. Derse, Kings County organizer of men's Bible classes. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. Percival Huget, the pastor, and Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston of Milwaukee spoke on "Love's Challenge."

MORAL IN PRINCETON BREAK

Dr. Young Sees Tendency to Magnify Our Little Enterprises.

The way to treat the Harvard-Princeton football break is to laugh at it "and make the application to our individual lives," said Dr. S. Edward Young in his sermon last night at the Bedford Presbyterian Church, Noetrand Avenue and Dean Street, Brooklyn.

Nearly everybody is prone to exaggerate the importance of his little sphere or enterprise or group, said Dr. Young. It is not fair, however, from one single instance to conclude that college men everywhere were barbarous and that football was the ruination of gentlemanliness and that the policy of self-government is the student body, even to the editorial policies of college papers, carried too high explosives, he said.

Aid for McAuley Mission Asked.

Church leaders urged their congregations yesterday to support the old Jerry McAuley Mission which is conducting a campaign for a $100,000 building fund. Among them were the Rev. Bradley J. Folensbee, pastor of the Twelfth Street Reformed Church, Brooklyn; the Rev. Joseph P. McComas of St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel, Broadway and Vesey Street; the Rev. Sydney V. Ussher, chaplain of the City Home on Welfare Island; the Rev. John M. Kent of St. Ann's Church for the Deaf, 511 West 148th Street; the Rev. J. A. Maynard of the French Episcopal Church, 45 East Twenty-seventh Street; the Rev. J. T. Stocking of Upper Montclair, N. J., and from Brooklyn, the Rev. N. E. Honnold, 453 Seventh Street; the Rev. C. Philipbar, 195 Nicholas Avenue, and the Rev. B. K. Apelian, 1,753 West Eleventh Street.

Mount Kisco Church 100 Years Old.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Special night church services will be the principal feature of the 100th anniversary observance of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Mount Kisco, which will begin on Monday and continue throughout the week, with pastors and choirs of neighboring churches participating. The sermons will be preached by the district superintendents of the New York Conference.

Favors Preparedness as He Does Police Force; Rev. R. H. Brooks Wants Boys Physically Fit

A nation-wide program of preparedness "in no way jeopardizes the teaching of the Gospel to which I have wholeheartedly given my life," the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks said in his sermon yesterday morning in St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, Fifty-third Street and Fifth Avenue.

Declaring he hated war and that it was the most useless way to settle disputes, Mr. Brooks continued:

"I'm just as much a lover of peace as any one, but I am not willing to leave the door of my house unlocked at night or to advise the Mayor of this great city we have no need of a police force. I believe it is a duty laid upon us by God to protect that which has been given us and to protect the weak of the world. If this is our duty, we have got to be prepared to uphold it.

"What do I mean by preparedness? I don't think we need a larger army or navy, but, on the contrary, favor ridding every nation of its armed forces. What I do mean is this—give our boys in schools and everywhere such training during the year as will make them physically fit and prepared above all else for the great battle of life. With such training, if war ever comes—and God forbid it ever should—the man power of this nation would be prepared, instead of our beholding the sorry spectacle we did in 1917, when it was found a large proportion of the nation's youth was the victim of disabilities which could have been prevented."

This program will not make us a nation of warriors, according to Mr. Brooks, who added: "It will tend to make us a nation of able-bodied men, taught a love of country, a wholesome respect for the flag and a foundation for life based on decency."

CATHOLICS ASKED TO AID ST. PATRICK'S

Father Hammer Urges Them to Join 'Dollar-a-Sunday Club' to Finish Cathedral by 1929.

REQUIRED SUM IS $625,000

Membership in Organization of 3,000 Sought—Football Team of Notre Dame at Communion.

The Rev. Henry F. Hammer, who delivered the sermon at the 11 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday, urged Catholics to join the "Dollar-a-Sunday Club," the proceeds of which are to go toward the renovation and completion of the edifice by 1929, its silver jubilee year.

The sum necessary to add the finishing touches to the cathedral is $625,000. In a letter addressed by Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, to the worshippers, the needs of the Cathedral are enumerated as: A marble floor costing $150,000, bronze doors at $150,000, a first-class organ at $125,000, a completed Lady Chapel at $100,000, new pews at $50,000 and a perfect sanctuary at $50,000.

To complete this work by 1929 the officials have asked that 3,000 persons join the club. The membership was 800 on Saturday.

The inclusiveness of the Roman Catholic Church was the subject of the sermon yesterday. "The Church welcomes rich and poor, high and low, saint and sinner," Father Hammer said. "It is not in any sense exclusive. How illogical it is of some bigots to slander the Church when it shows patience with people, when it permits men and women who live in daily sin, even publicly, within her fold. The Church tends toward, works after, the salvation, the regeneration, the bringing back of the worst of the sinners. Many times the Church succeeds nobly. Sometimes the Church does not succeed so well. Then the failure is man's. Blame it on him, not on the Church."

The Notre Dame football team received communion at the cathedral at the 8 o'clock mass. Throughout the day, the ushers remarked, the attendance at the masses was unusually large due to the influx into the city of the football visitors.

MAKES PLEA FOR WORKERS.

Dr. Ryan Would Give Them a Voice in Management of Industries.

Cooperation between labor and capital never will exist until workmen have a voice in the management of their companies, according to the Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, Professor of Moral Theology and Industrial Ethics at the Catholic University in Washington, D. C., who addressed 500 members of the Central Branch, Y. M. C. A., at 55 Hanson Place, Brooklyn, yesterday.

Dr. Ryan said that industrial specialization had made the majority of employes merely wage-earners who worked without interest or enthusiasm, and suggested that the worker's interest be stimulated by giving him a voice in the management.

"Try to tell a workman in the United States Steel Corporation that he will occupy Charles Schwab's position some day, and see whether he believes you," he said. "If our industrial system is to be founded on truth, let these edifying but false notions be dismissed. Interest the worker by giving him some of the functions of an owner, in proportion to his ability, particularly on those sides of industry where labor is best qualified to speak."

ASKS MORE AID FOR JEWS.

Dr. C. E. Jefferson Pleads for Bigger Fund for European Relief.

An appeal for several million destitute Jews in Eastern Europe was made by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Congregational Tabernacle, Broadway and Fifty-fifth Street, yesterday in response to a movement for relief funds inaugurated by the American Christian Fund for Jewish Relief. The Executive Committee of the fund consists of Rev. Dr. S. Parkee Cadman, Justice Victor J. Dowling and Owen D. Young.

"If some ons aske why should not our American Jews help them, the answer is that the American Jews have been helping them for several years," Dr. Jefferson said. "They have contributed scores of millions of dollars, and at the present time are raising another relief fund. But the need is so great that even the resources and generosity of the American Jews are not sufficient to cope with the situation. We Christians must come to their assistance."

TO PREACH DAILY AT A PLAY

Rev. R. J. Harrison to Speak at 'The Pearl of Great Price.'

The Rev. Robert J. Harrison, pastor of the Union Methodist Church, 233 West Fifty-sighth Street, who for years has preached in vindication of the theatre as an agency for good, will deliver a short sermon today during the intermission of "The Pearl of Great Price," now playing at the Casino Theatre, according to an agreement made with J. J. and Lee Shubert yesterday. He will do the same daily while the play continues.

Mr. Harrison said that he welcomed the opportunity of talking to a theatre audience. He believed the theatre could do good by the production of a moral play. He praised the Shubert production as such.

BISHOP DEDICATES TOWER OF CHURCH

Dr. Manning Officiates at Brief Ceremony Outside St. James's in Madison Avenue.

REMODELING IS COMPLETED

Service Marks End of Project Costing $700,000 and Started About Two Years Ago.

Bishop William T. Manning, standing on a small temporary platform in the street at noon yesterday, dedicated the tower of the remodeled St. James's Episcopal Church, at Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street. The ceremony followed the regular morning service, at which he delivered the sermon.

The tower is ninety-three feet in height. Part of it was built forty-two years ago when the church was erected on this site, and the structure was completed recently at a cost of $40,000, the gift of all the parishioners. The service marked the completion of the reconstruction program started nearly two years ago by the Rev. Dr. Frank Warfield Crowder, the rector. The total cost was $700,000.

Street traffic was held up during the brief ceremony. With the clergy, choir and parishioners grouped around the tower, Bishop Manning said: "In the faith of Jesus Christ, Our Lord, we dedicate this tower, erected to the glory of God by the people of this parish, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Assisting in the service were Dr. Crowder and the Rev. Sidney T. Cook, curate.

The Rev. Dudley S. Spark, new vicar of the Church of the Holy Trinity, 332 East Eighty-eighth Street, which is a part of the Parish of St. James, was present for the first time as a member of the staff of the mother parish.

CONTRASTS EAST AND WEST

Bishop Remington Says Pioneers Here Sought God; in Oregon Gold.

The State of Oregon is building libraries, roads, schools and other material things, but there is an "awful poverty in the building of worthy churches in that State," Bishop William P. Remington of the Eastern Oregon Mission said yesterday morning at Trinity Church, Broadway and Wall Street.

Pointing to the graveyard at the rear of the historic little church, Bishop Remington said he could see that our ancestors had come to the Atlantic seaboard in search of God. After doing missionary work in Oregon, he continued, "I can see that when the pioneers of Oregon went to the West Coast they went in search of gold.

"Oregon has wealth," he said, "but unconsecrated wealth isn't any wealth. Missions are the life blood, the pulse beat. In terms of life, missions are the lengthening of arms, the extending of feet; in fact, they are life itself."

WOULD FIND LIFE'S MEANING

Dr. Felix Adler Discusses the Ideals of Education.

Dr Felix Adler, in his last address this year at the Meeting House of the Ethical Culture Society, Central Park West and Sixty-fourth Street, yesterday morning, spoke on "The Ethical Ideals of Education." Dr. Adler will devote himself exclusively from now on to the promotion of the new pre-professional school which is to be established by the society and for which a $1,000,000 fund is being raised.

"In order to find a meaning to one's life," he said, "one must find a meaning in the life of the race. And this meaning we find in the high-light points of history, in the significant turns, when mankind, in the person of some of its most excellent representatives, pressed forward toward self-knowledge. For that is progress—increasing self-revelation, the discovery of the powers inherent in human nature through the exercise of the powers, the knowledge of them."

MAN'S "HERITAGE TO RULE."

Dr. Durkee Says Conquering of Nature Makes Us Sublime.

The Rev. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, the new pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church, Orange Street, Brooklyn, preached yesterday on "Man's Birthright and Heritage."

"It is man's heritage to rule," he said. "Very slowly man has conquered the forces of nature. The fact that man can do that thing which is wrong or that thing which is right makes him sublime beyond human words to express.

"It is man's heritage to be God-like. When man has approached nearest to God's likeness he has been most in control of the world. When he has forgotten God most the world has controlled him most and he has sunk down to the beast level."

Asks Aid for Church as a "Mother."

The Rev. Dr. Henry Hugh Proctor, in opening the drive for $1,500,000 for a building fund at the Nezerene Congregational Church, Herkimer Street and Troy Avenue, Brooklyn, spoke yesterday morning of the Church as the mother element in divinity. "This hour is come when our mother is in need of a better home," he said. "Let us take her unto our own home by giving her what she needs to secure the home she seeks."

FINDS HOPEFUL SIGN IN CHINESE TURMOIL

Dr. Henry of Canton School Lays Unrest to Spirit of New Nationalism.

SEES UNITY BEING ACHIEVED

He Deplores Foreigners' Blindness to Chinese Aims—Praises the Southern Government.

The Rev. Dr. James McClure Henry, President of Lingnan University, Canton, China, until recently known as Canton Christian College, who has just arrived from China by way of Siberia, said yesterday at the local offices, 150 Fifth Avenue, that the situation in China was more hopeful than at any time since the revolution.

"An increasingly powerful spirit of nationalism is actively functioning in China," he said. "The Russians have had sense enough to recognize it and to take advantage of it. But British and American diplomacy have contented themselves with blaming Russia for present-day conditions in China without making any intelligent effort to ascertain the causes or to relieve the irritating conditions.

"It is simply stupid to deny that the present treaties are unequal. The West has been crowded largely through its own fault into the most awkward situation in this respect.

"When we realize that the gold franc settlement of the French Boxer indemnity, delays following upon the Washington Conference, customs autonomy and the sovereign rights of China are all questions upon which even the coolies are beginning to have definite ideas, it is time we arouse ourselves to some serious and sensible effort to meet what is an increasingly concrete and practical situation. To say that everything awaits a settled China and then consistently to abuse and criticize the one Government, the Southern, which has shown a definite program which has already done much constructive work, which is grappling under the greatest conceivable difficulty with social and industrial unrest, and which, in spite of it all, seems more likely than any other to unify China, does not induce confidence on the part of Chinese in the sincerity of our protestations of goodwill."

FINDS 'KEY TO ISLAM' READY FOR CONVERSION

Dr. Zwemer Says Persians Talk of Progress and Demand Christian Literature.

Persia, "keystone in the arch of the great Mohammedan world," was described as a land "ripe for the benefits of Christian civilization," by the Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, who preached yesterday morning at the West End Collegiate Reformed Church, West End Avenue at Seventy-seventh Street. Dr. Zwemer, a leading worker in the missions of the Near East, was for many years a missionary of Cairo Reformed Church in Arabia. He is now president of a Christian university in Cairo.

"Persia is the centre of the anti-Christian stronghold," he said, "and yet, last Summer, I traveled 4,184 miles in Persia. I attended ten conferences and made sixty-seven public addresses, and my conclusion was that here is a Mohammedan field ripe for the harvest of God.

"At Begdad, which still lacks a Christian church, I gave an address in the largest movie palace. Then, crossing the border line into Persia, I witnessed the moral and spiritual bankruptcy of Islam at first hand. In some quarters the opium habit has 60 per cent. of the population in its grip; and the dreadful custom of temporary marriage keeps sections of the country on a plane of evil. Yet the land is eager for a new day. The people are beginning to talk of progress; they are founding libraries where there is a demand for Christian literature.

"Seeing the making of a Persian rug should be enough to make any Christian contribute to the cause. Little children, slaving ten and twelve hours a day, knot their very lives into these beautiful things. While I was in one of the Persian cities they brought a little boy to the hospital who had just made his second attempt at suicide to escape the terrible task."

CRITICIZES CHARITY DRIVES.

Dr. Reisner Sees Danger of Substituting Money for Religion.

The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of the Chelsea Methodist Church, 178th Street, west of Broadway, spoke on "Giving Money" in his sermon last night. He said there was a danger of substituting money, giving for vital religion and charity for the awakening, warming, feeding love of God.

"We are almost institutionalized to death," he said. "We are requested to raise $4,000,000 to house only the offices and employes of 1,500 charity and welfare organizations in this city. This is 200 more organizations than there are Protestant and Catholic churches in the city. This is nearly as many separate organizations as there are churches. If we could have an old-fashioned revival of heart-gripping religion which would drive individuals to live and do right, many of these organizations would go out of business. There is a danger of hiring folk to do our work while we shrivel in heart amid luxury or selfish pleasure. Many of the charitable drives are very laudable. The causes are worthy and honest. Giving saves souls from the hardening shell of greed and sometimes mellows the heart with gratitude. But even this will not save one from grasping avarice which strives to get the glory for large public gifts."

Likens Bible to Compass.

Special to The New York Times.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Nov. 14.—"The Bible is to humanity what the magnetic compass is to the traveler," said the Rev. Dr. Frederick D. Niedermeyer, the pastor, preaching here this morning in the First Presbyterian Church. "Today too many people are calmly and boldly asserting that the Bible is wrong," he said. "Happy are they if they soon find out that they are lost, being out of the good and right way of life, and take the Bible as a lamp unto their feet and a light unto their pathways. For spiritual direction the scriptures are as dependable as the mariner's compass geographically."

Gov. Smith and Friends Give $3,708 to New Jersey Church

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., Nov. 14.—A sum of $3,708 was presented to the Rev. Father Francis J. McCallion, pastor of the St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church in Pleasantville, today by Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York and his party following the 10 o'clock mass, which they attended.

The gift was made after an announcement by Father McCallion that it was his intention to build a new church at a cost of $100,000 to care properly for the needs of the parish.

The Governor's party included Dr. Arthur J. Leonard of Saratoga Springs, William A. Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. Ridder and Tammany Leader George W. Olvany. They have been at the Seaview Golf Club since Wednesday, resting from the recent campaign.

ALOOFNESS OF NATION LEADS TO WAR, HE SAYS

The Rev. C. E. Wagner Declares America Has Had Change of Heart Since the Armistice.

President Coolidge's views on the World Court, expressed in his Armistice Day speech in Kansas City, are in marked contrast to the spirit of cooperation manifested in the armistice sight years ago, according to the Rev. C. Everett Wagner, pastor of the West Side Methodist Episcopal Church, 461 West Forty-fourth Street. In his sermon yesterday he said:

"Since Nov. 11, 1918, the United States has had a complete change of heart. Perhaps Woodrow Wilson was a prophet ahead of his day. The termination of the World War was achieved through the united front of the allied nations. In the beginnings of peace in the new era America, under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, worked as a member of the family of nations. If the cooperation of countries is absolutely necessary to promote a war it is just as necessary to promote peace.

"The continuation of the policy of aloofness is a road to war instead of one to peace. It creates general fear and hatred among the nations, even though meaningless pious affirmations of friendships are spoken. It also is an attitude of the public mind which will permit additional militarizing of this country.

"As steps toward the uniting of mankind in a community of nations, let us spend a few millions in attracting the best out of human nature instead of using it for the suppressing of the worst. The search for scientific facts and the attitude of goodwill are the two pillars upon which the living monument of peace must be erected."

ONE GOAL IN ALL FAITHS.

Dr. Annie Besant Says Differences Should Not Be Antagonistic.

"All religious roads lead to a single goal," said Dr. Annie Besant, President of the Theosophical Society, in a sermon yesterday morning at Hampden's Theatre, Broadway and Sixty-second Street, to a congregation of the Liberal Catholic Church, worshiping under the leadership of Bishop Irving S. Cooper of Los Angeles.

"All religious people," Dr. Besant said, "recognize a universal spiritual government of the world, and many who acknowledge this highest government, vested in God, as it were, Himself, feel that the many differences in religion should not be antagonistic.

"In the Gita, the Hindu Bible, it is recorded that Krishna, the Hindu world teacher, spoke almost the same words in regard to varying religions that Christ spoke when in Palestine: 'Mankind comes to me along many roads. On whatever road a man approaches me I welcome him, for every road is mine.'"

EXTOLS CHRISTIAN EXAMPLE

Dr. Traxler Finds Members' Lives Best Arguments for Church.

"The life of the Christian is still the greatest argument for Christianity," said the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, President of the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, in a sermon yesterday morning at the Church of the Ascension, Thirteenth Avenue and Fifty-first Street, Brooklyn, of which the Rev. Luther E. Woodward is pastor.

"The Church of today is renewing her strength," he continued. "She is under inward compulsion to extend her influence. It is well that the machinery of the Church should be more effective. Twentieth century methods should take the place of machinery centuries old; but with all her modernity and efficiency, that which will most attract men and women is her message and the lives of her members."

CATHOLIC ALUMNI AT MASS.

Attend Philadelphia Cathedral in Closing Second Annual Meeting.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14 (AP).—A solemn high mass celebrated by Cardinal Dougherty in the Cathedral today, brought to a close the second annual meeting of the National Catholic Alumni Association. More than 1,000 delegates, including graduates from nearly every college and university in the country, attended the mass.

Assisting the Cardinal were the Rev. John J. Hickey as deacon, and the Rev. Edward F. Cunnie as subdeacon. Bishop Francis W. Howard of Lexington, Ky., preached the sermon. He said that upon the shoulders of the alumni rested the responsibilities of molding the public opinion in their community.

Bishop Thomas F. Shahan, head of the Catholic University at Washington, also attended the ceremony.

Dr. Slaten on Life's Detours.

Continuing his series of sermons on "The Familiar Signs of the Times," yesterday morning, the Rev. Dr. A. Wakefield Slaten, pastor of the West Side Unitarian Church, 110th Street, east of Broadway, took as his text the motoring sign, "Detour." "When an autoist has to detour," he said, "he tries to keep the right general direction. In life we try to do that, but it is not so easy, for we do not know for certain what our destination is, or at what point we shall have to stop. Doubtless we all have some goal in mind, but whether that is the goal that life intends for us, we do not know."

WARNS THE CHURCH TO SHUN POLITICS

The Rev. F. R. Kent Sees Danger of Encroachment on Free Government.

CITES ACTIVITIES OF "DRYS"

Reforms Not Worth Obtaining at Price of Ecclesiastical Domination, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 14.—Separation of Church and State is essential to combined political freedom, the Rev. Frederic R. Kent asserted today in a sermon at the First Unitarian Church here.

Taking for his text "Are We Headed for Theocracy?" Mr. Kent pointed out that "priestly government" usually resulted in tyranny, with revolution following as a corrective. Then he indicated various activities of some churches and church organizations as foreshadowing political control by the Church if unchecked.

"Even complete freedom from the evils of alcohol would be bought at too high a price if it left us saddled with an ecclesiastico-political machine strong enough to compel legislation in any field in which it chose to exert its power," Mr. Kent said.

Cites Present-Day Trend.

He mentioned anti-evolution legislation and the influence over Congress sought by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, the Anti-Saloon League and others as typical of a general tendency to revert to the ancient theory of government "as the enforcement of the will of God by priests or other self-appointed interpreters and agents."

"The avowed purpose of the Anti-Saloon League is good," he went on. "The avowed purpose of the anti-evolutionists to legislate the Bible into a State authority on science is bad. But, whether good or bad, none of these objectives is worth securing at the price of domination of the Government by a church or group of churches.

"These organized movements of our time are not so important as the state of mind that lies behind them. They could not exist without the support of great numbers of people so ignorant as not to know the dangers of ecclesiastical power in Government, so desperate in the face of such evils as crime, bootlegging, war, profiteering, defiance of conventional morality, and the like, as to surrender their liberties for the sake of temporary relief. When conditions get on their nerves men revert to old habits of the race. The habit of priestly government is one of the oldest in the world and deeply rooted in human nature.

Urges Public Vigilance.

"This country can be free only if the people remember that government in the name of God, even though by men who sincerely believe themselves his chosen representatives, has usually resulted in tyranny with persecution to follow, and if they keep constantly on guard against the avowed advocates of this exploded theory and against those who by indirection are moving toward the same goal."

LAYS HIS RECOVERY TO PRAYERS OF FLOCK

Dr. Haldeman, in First Sermon Since Illness, Thanks His Congregation.

The Rev. Dr. I. M. Haldeman, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Broadway and Seventy-ninth Street, preached his first sermon yesterday morning since his recovery from a critical illness which had kept him away from his church duties for more than six months. In his talk he thanked the congregation for its prayers and attributed his recovery entirely to its fervent wishes and to his own faith in the saving power of Christ.

"Ever since last May," he continued, "I have felt the strength and force of my congregation's devout prayers and I know that through them I have been brought back from the valley of the shadow of death. On the morning of the 14th of June when it was almost certain that I was about to be called to the arms of Jesus, it was faith and prayer alone that preserved me and enabled me once again to come before my people and tell them of the glory and majesty of the Lord.

"The most humble of men, even the one who is faltering and stumbling and confused in his idea of God, is cherished and loved by Jesus. God has not forgotten and will never forget this earth where He came down and walked with man, and no matter how insignificant we may sometimes feel and how futile may appear the doings of this world, we should know that we are forever in the thoughts of God. Our divine souls are his greatest care and He will never abandon us."

HITS SENSATIONAL SERMONS

Dr. O. H. Trinklein Preaches at 14th Anniversary of St. Mark's.

The St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Martha Avenue and 242d Street, celebrated its fifteenth anniversary yesterday. The Rev. Dr. O. H. Trinklein of Detroit, who delivered the sermon, denounced preachers of sensational sermons as "false prophets" who "pervert the work of God."

"Not by sensational sermons, not by pastors who are good mixers is the spirit and work of the Christian Church advanced and spread," he said. "Preachers of sensationalism only say what is pleasant. They do not speak the whole truth, for what is unpleasant they omit. Nor do the so-called social services and humanitarian movements help the growth of Christianity. For although they acknowledge the prevalence of evils and sins in our midst, yet they do nothing to remove them."

Dr. Trinklein traced the history and organization of St. Mark's Church.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH CRITICIZED BY BABSON

Statistician Condemns 'Materialistic Methods' of Both as All Wrong.

ARLINGTON, Mass., Nov. 14 (AP).—The educational institutions of the country "havs gone materialistically mad and our churches are equally guilty," Roger W. Babson, statistical expert, declared from ths pulpit of the Park Avenue Congregational Church hers today.

"The principal products of our high schools are typists and stenographers," Mr. Babson said, "when about the worst thing a woman can do is to sit down and bang a typewriter all day hetween ths ages of 18 and 28. Our colleges ars diploma factories for department stores, giving anything wanted irrespective of whether it makes for happiness or discontent."

In speaking of the churches, Mr. Babson said:

"Preachers talk for an hour on Sunday mornings on the vital need which the community has for the church, and then lock the doors, not to he opened for an entirs week."

The speaker stated that the basic appeal of the Church was honesty, hut asked, "Is not the whols church service honeycomhed with hypocrisy?"

Mr. Babson charged that happiness was made difficult by the "intolerahle condition of our marriage and divorce laws."

"The preachers," he said, "join together two young people who, if they have lived conventional lives, know comparatively little of each other. But they are bound together by the solemn vow 'until death us do part' and are put under laws which are contradictory, inconsistent, archaic and insufferable."

The speaker predicted better conditions under ths religious system of the future which will bring a "rewritten, condensed, workahle and readable Bible."

Under such a system, Mr. Babson said, "Church leaders will cease being dogmatic and will become scientific; Sunday schools will be a thing of the past, for religious education will be reduced to ths Ten Commandments and a few fundamentals, which will bs taught in ths public schools, and our divinity schools will discard most of their present courss and devote themselves to training men to bs personal workers with ths purpose of making peopls happy."

Yale's Failure to Capitalize Opportunities Let Princeton Win, Says Crowley

CROWLEY SAYS YALE FAILED ON CHANCES

Its Inability to Capitalize on Scoring Opportunities Explains Princeton's Victory.

NOTRE DAME RESERVES WON

Rockne's Attack Also a Little Too Deceptive for the Army to Master.

COLUMBIA DEFENSE STRONG

By CHARLES F. CROWLEY,
Head Columbia Football Coach.

The climax of the football season in the East was reached on Saturday with Princeton again winning the Big Three championship, Notre Dame establishing its supremacy over the hitherto unbeaten Army eleven, a worthy representative of the best in Eastern football; Amherst retaining its Little Three title and Navy and New York University sorely pressed to maintain their winning streaks.

While Army was undergoing its first setback and Navy was beating Georgetown in a hard battle, Brown and Lafayette were further bolstering their claims to the Eastern title. McLaughry's eleven, in administering so decisive a defeat to Harvard, following upon its victories over Yale and Dartmouth, must be rated on a par with any in this section. Susquehanna was no test for Lafayette, but in running up 68 points the Easton team gave further evidence of the power it had shown in defeating Pittsburgh and W. and J.

Boston College and Holy Cross, the other unbeaten Eastern teams, failed to come up to expectations. Boston College was tied by the Haskell Indians, and Holy Cross, which had been tied by Fordham, had a difficult time in downing Catholic University. N. Y. U. was held to 10 points by Davis and Elkins, but the latter team was so set-up and much stronger than when it met Army early in the season, so that the Violet victory is not to be disparaged, small as was the margin.

Jones Deserves Credit.

Princeton's victory over Yale was in accordance with general expectations, but so splendid a fight did Tad Jones's team make that not all of the spoils belong to the victor. Moral victories are unsatisfactory, but remembering the disheartening obstacles that have beset Jones all season, he and his team are deserving of a world of praise for Yale's great stand.

Had Yale been able to make the most of its opportunities, there would have been more than a moral victory for the Bulldog, for twice Yale had the ball under the shadow of Princeton's goal posts and failed to carry it across. There is yet the game with Harvard for Yale to look forward to, and if the Elis play as they did Saturday, Harvard will have to be on its mettle.

Other notable performances of the day's play were Cornell's remarkable comeback in the last quarter to defeat a Dartmouth team which was leading at 23—7; Columbia's feat in holding Pennsylvania to 3 points, which pleased me very much, and C. C. N. Y.'s surprisingly fine showing against Fordham, which was outplayed in the first half and managed to win only in the final quarter at 7—3. Coach Parker has done splendidly at City College. This is the first time that the Lavender has ever scored on the Maroon.

The defeat of Maine, its first of the season, by New Hampshire; Syracuse's tie battle with Colgate, the scoreless draw between Pittsburgh and W. and J., Lehigh's first victory of the season, gained at the expense of Rutgers, and the defeat of Geneva by Grove City were the other most interesting features of the day in the East.

In the Middle West the powerful Michigan team, which has lost only to Navy, managed to win from Ohio State only by the margin of a goal kicked after touchdown. This was the first setback for the Buckeyes of the season, and in spite of it, considering the margin of Michigan's victory, Wilce's team must be rated as practically on a par with Yost's.

Northwestern Showed Power.

Northwestern, which held Notre Dame to a single touchdown, gave further evidence that . is one of the most formidable contenders for Conference honors in overwhelming Chicago, which always is to be feared when it plays Glenn Thistlethwaite's team.

Oklahoma, which conquered Missouri, maintained its clean slate as the only unbeaten team in the Missouri Valley Conference by defeating Grinnell, while the strong Kansas Aggies held Missouri to three points. On the Pacific Coast Glenn Warner's unbeaten Stanford eleven, scored an impressive victory over Washington, which many expected to give the Cardinals great difficulty, while California broke its losing streak and Washington State downed Coach McEwan's Oregon team.

In the South Alabama, the only unbeaten team, overwhelmed Florida, while Vanderbilt surprised by the decisiveness of its victory over Tennessee. Georgia won from Georgia Tech by a point and Tulane staged a comeback at the expense of Sewanee, which had held Alabama to two points.

Elis Have Stout Line.

PRINCETON-YALE (Princeton, 10; Yale, 7)—Playing with its full strength in the line for the first time and with Kline and Noble for a part of the game in the backfield, Yale was in the condition for the first time since the Dartmouth game to do justice to itself. The Eli line put up a valiant defense, fighting so courageously that, had it not been for the success of Princeton's passing game, the Tigers would have been unable to cross the Blue's goal line.

The Yale attack also showed greater strength and deceptiveness and only its failure to capitalize its two big scoring chances, one of which was ruined on a missed signal on the Tiger's 4-yard line, prevented the Elis probably from winning the game.

Jake Slagle was not in the Princeton backfield, which was probably as much of an unexpected boon to Yale as his presence in the Harvard game was a surprise threat to the Crimson. But, in spite of Slagle's absence, enforced by injury, Princeton's attack did not suffer much. Earl Baruch, who took his place, was not as brilliant a ground gainer as Slagle was against Harvard, but as a forward passer and drop kicker he did all that Slagle could have done.

It was Baruch's remarkably accurate passes that put the Elis on the defensive, and after a Yale kick had been blocked, Baruch tossed a pass to Caulkins that enabled the Tigers to go over for a touchdown. Baruch also kicked the field goal that provided the margin of Princeton's victory, much of the credit of the triumph also goes to the Princeton line, which fought with its customary courage in Big Three games, and its stonewall stands near its goal line saved the day for the Tiger.

Another Fine Rockne Team.

NOTRE DAME-ARMY (Notre Dame 7, Army 0)—Notre Dame gave conclusive evidence in conquering a powerful Army team that Rockne has turned out another great team worthy of being compared with the championship combination of 1924. And Army, by the same token, in holding this eleven to seven points, showed that it had not been overrated when it was called the best team West Point has had in years, even in spite of the fact that the 1925 eleven defeated Notre Dame 27-0.

Here was as gruelling a struggle as the season has furnished, between two stalwart lines and backfields that carried a murderous punch. To stand up under the terrific pounding and strain was more than any mere eleven men could stand, and so both coaches sent in wholesale substitutions. The Notre Dame reserves were a little stronger than Army's and that was one of the factors in the victory.

But the big factor of course, was Flanagan, whose reputation as a fast end dangerous football carrier already was established before he made his winning run of 63 yards on Saturday.

The splendid character of the Notre Dame interference made this run possible for the latter part of its length, and Voedisch was the man who threw himself in front of the nearest pursuer who was about to hurl himself upon Flanagan.

Neither team showed much in the way of forward passing and neither was able to gain consistently by rushing the ball, so fierce was the line play, particularly after the first quarter. Notre Dame's running attack was more effective than Army's, for the reason that Notre Dame backs got started faster and had more drive than any of the Army carriers except Murrell, who performed brilliantly in every department of play, and Dahl, who was put in in the closing stages.

Also, there was more deception to Rockne's attack, on which the hidden ball was used along with its shift. The line play on both sides, as has been said, was of a high order and particularly the work of the ends, notably Wallace and Harbold.

Brown Won on Passes.

BROWN-HARVARD (Brown 21, Harvard 0)—The stoutness of the Brown line and the effectiveness of its forward passing attack were the determining factors in this game. Harvard was unable to make any continuous march, and its efforts to gain through the air were frustrated by Broda, who rushed in to smother the passer before he could get the ball away.

Brown's passing combination of Mishel to Randall completely stumped the Harvard secondary, and it was through the air that McLaughry's team put across two of its touchdowns. The Bruins did not make very much ground by rushing the ball, for the Harvard line put up a stubborn defense, but as long as it could gain overhead it did not need to worry about making its points.

NAVY-GEORGETOWN (Navy 10, Georgetown 7)—Outplayed clearly for the first half, Navy came back in the third and fourth periods to score through the air and on a field goal and keep its record clean. The heavy, aggressive Georgetown line came up to expectations and had a little the better of the Navy forwards, both on the attack and the defense, for the first half of the game, while the Georgetown running attack was also stronger.

In the second half the line failed to open up holes as well as it had, and the attack faltered, while Navy, with Shapley in the back field, opened up and scored on a pass and run of 40 yards. Hamilton, who kicked a field goal against Michigan, came through with the winning points from the field.

Columbia Solved Attack.

PENN-COLUMBIA (Penn 3, Columbia 0)—Penn's attack was hard to stop, but after our line had worked out the hidden ball plays it put up a fine defense that checked the Quakers on four occasions when they threatened. Rogers's punting and running were big assets to Penn and the Penn line was one of the best we have come up against. That is why our attack did not go as well as I had expected. But, while I had hoped for victory, I was not disappointed.

Lou Young has a team that will make any eleven hustle, and the fact that we were able to hold them to three points was a source of satisfaction to all the Columbia coaches.

CORNELL-DARTMOUTH (Cornell 24, Dartmouth 23)—The season does not record many such sensational victories as was gained by Cornell over the team that had beaten it for the last two years. Apparently hopelessly beaten in the final quarter, Dobie's men launched an attack that the tiring Dartmouth forwards were unable to withstand and rolled up seventeen points to win the game. No wonder the Cornell supporters tore down their own goal posts.

To Emerson Carey goes much of the credit for this victory. It was Captain Carey who kicked the winning field goal and who kicked the goal after each of Cornell's three touchdowns. Dooley, who was responsible for the defeat of Cornell two years ago, again was a big thorn in the Ithacans' side, and his passes to Cole and Pickens accounted for the big lead that Dartmouth piled up. Cornell was unable to stop Dartmouth's passes until it intercepted one in the last quarter, but so great was the power of its own rushing attack that it was able to turn the tide and pull out victory in the last minute. The Cornell line did a fine job, as usual.

N. Y. U. Taken Off Guard.

N. Y. U.-DAVIS AND ELKINS (N. Y. U. 10, Davis and Elkins 0)—The Violet probably was caught off its guard by the fierceness of the opposition furnished by Davis and Elkins and was hard pressed every minute of the game. Both teams showed power in the back field and strength in the line, and the game was marked by spectacular runs, forward passes and interceptions.

N. Y. U. might have added to its score had it been able to sustain its driving attack near the enemy's goal line, while Davis and Elkins had the ball on the Violet's 5-yard line as the game ended. The visitors were a much stronger team than had been appreciated.

FORDHAM-C. C. N. Y. (Fordham 7, C. C. N. Y. 3)—Fordham also was taken by surprise by a team that had not been expected to offer serious opposition. The Lavender showed a surprisingly strong attack and for the first half the play was almost entirely in Fordham's territory. The City College line put up so vigorous a defense that Graham was completely checked, and it was not until the Maroon opened up with passes that it was able to make any appreciable gains. Once Fordham took to the air, C. C. N. Y. was on the defensive, and it was De Lany's passes that brought the winning touchdown in the closing minutes of play. It was a splendid achievement for Coach Parker's team.

COLGATE-SYRACUSE (Colgate 10, Syracuse 10)—As usual, the game between these two long-standing rivals was a bitter struggle from beginning to end. Colgate appeared to be the stronger, with Syracuse handicapped by the loss of Carr, but the Orange line came through in fine fashion, and the end play of Captain Hanson and Archoska did much to stop the Colgate attack, while Bayley's kicking was an asset.

The Maroon had the better forward passing game, and Shaughnessy's line plunging and Captain Mehler's passing and defensive work were always conspicuous. Fumbles, interceptions and blocked punts were largely responsible for the scoring.

Amherst the Stronger.

AMHERST-WILLIAMS (Amherst 20, Williams 6)—The game was harder fought than the score shows, but there was no question as to which team was the stronger. Amherst had the better running game and was far more successful in using the pass, completing four and intercepting three of Williams's.

PITTSBURGH-W. AND J. (Pittsburgh 0, W. and J. 0)—Pitt had two opportunities to score when it stood on W. and J.'s 9 and 15 yard lines, but failed each time. The Presidents were handicapped by the injury to Ames early in game, but put up a strong fight, nevertheless, and the game ended just about as had been expected.

LEHIGH-RUTGERS (Lehigh 14, Rutgers 0)—Lehigh showed a stronger and more diversified attack than it has possessed all season and ended its losing streak.

Manhattan gained a decisive victory over Upsala, Holy Cross had to fight from behind to overcome Catholic University's early lead, gained on passes, and Boston College, after outplaying Haskell in the first half and running up a 21-to-0 lead, slumped in the second half as the Indians launched a strong running attack and yielded 21 points. Union was much too strong for Hamilton, while Maine's defeat was brought about through the weakness of its defense against passes.

Though Notre Dame Won, East Increases Its Lead in Intersectional Victories

Although Notre Dame triumphed over the Army on Saturday, the East won its two other intersectional games and went further into the lead over the other sections of the country in the race for honors. The East now has won twenty-five games and lost only nine. There is one tie on its record, scored last Saturday when the Haskell Indians came from behind and tied Boston College.

New York University added a game to the won column for the East when it defeated Davis and Elkins, and Villanova added another when it triumphed over John Carroll.

The West scored two victories over the South through the triumphs of Marquette over Alabama Poly and Indiana over Mississippi A. and M. The West now has a total of twelve games won and fourteen lost, while the South has won six and lost nineteen. Ties have been scored as follows: Between South and Midwest, South and East, Southwest and Midwest and East and Midwest, one each.

	East.	Midwest.	South.	S.W.	Total. Won.
East	..	12	13	0	25
Midwest	6	..	6	0	12
South	3	2	..	1	6

Ties—South and Midwest, South and East, Southwest and Midwest and East and Midwest, one each.

NORTHWESTERN NOW NEAR BIG TEN TITLE

Is Tied With Michigan and Has Only to Play Iowa Next Saturday.

WOLVERINES FACE GOPHERS

Defeat Will Cost Them Crown if Evanston Eleven Triumphs—Joesting Heads Scorers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (AP).—As the Western Conference football season rumbles into its final week, Northwestern, undefeated in the Big Ten and losing only to Notre Dame, has excellent prospects of at least sharing championship honors with Michigan, and perhaps winning the title without dispute. Northwestern and Michigan are undefeated and each has won four games.

It all depends upon what happens in the last games of the season next Saturday, when the Wolverines meet the very dangerous Minnesota eleven at Minneapolis, while Northwestern has a comparatively weak Iowa team to dispose of at Iowa City.

Minnesota ran up 81 points against Butler yesterday, an achievement that indicates Michigan will be in for a warm afternoon when it faces the Gophers for the second time this season. The Gophers show no sign of slackening and critics believe that if they only refuse to be outsmarted by Michigan, Yost will have his hands full.

Michigan wrecked Ohio State's hopes of sharing Big Ten honors yesterday by beating the Buckeyes 17 to 16 before a crowd of 90,400, beyond question the greatest throng that ever jammed within the enclosures of a stadium for a football game in America.

Buckeyes Came Close.

Ohio State did not do a complete job of stopping Benny Friedman's passes as sideline experts expected the Buckeyes to do, but they did well enough to have won with just a little more luck.

Northwestern unquestionably is a team of great power, judging from its performance of licking all of its Big Ten opponents and in walloping Chicago, 38 to 7, yesterday. As a back field, there is probably none better in the Big Ten than Baker, Lewis, Gustafson, Levison and Griffith. Baker gave a superb exhibition of forward passing yesterday, once hurling a perfect shot for 50 yards into the hands of a receiver.

Chicago, although beaten by the worst score run up against it this year, nevertheless showed flashes of the best football it had displayed this season. Gustafson's sensational 85-yard run from the kick-off all but demoralized the Chicago team and the Maroons did not recover until it was too late.

Wisconsin's victory over Iowa is a result that can be accepted without undue excitement. It was a case of two average teams playing a football game. Cowboy Kutsch alone was not equal to the task of beating the Wisconsin team.

Easy Day for Illinois.

Illinois had just a scrimmage for its second-string team against Wabash, and Purdue almost had Franklin beaten before the game started. A real achievement was a victory by Indiana over Mississippi A. and M.

The conference standing, with scores of all games:

Herb Joesting, Minnesota's thunderbolt fullback, by virtue of a dozen touchdowns scored in all games this season heads the Big Ten individual scoring column. He supplants Marty Karow, Ohio State's captain and fullback, who has topped the list most of the season.

WILSON, LAFAYETTE, TOPS SCORING LIST

LANE NOW SECOND WITH 75

Cadet Is Third With 72—Strong and Madden Rank Next, Though Scoreless.

While Notre Dame kept the Army in check, and did not allow Harry Wilson an opportunity to score, Susquehanna offered little resistance to Lafayette and the Wilson of that college crossed the goal line five times. This broke the tie that had existed between the two Wilsons for first place in the race for Eastern individual scoring honors. Wilson of Lafayette now has 102 points and is the first man to pass the century mark this season.

Lane of Dartmouth profited to some extent against Cornell, although the Green lost the game, and he now stands second with a total of 75 tallies. Army's Wilson, still with 72, is third. Since neither Strong of New York University nor Captain Madden of Columbia was able to add to his totals, they come next in the same relative positions, Strong with 65 to his credit and Madden with 64.

Two other metropolitan players are among the first ten scorers. Zev Graham, Fordham's quarterback, is ninth with 56 points and Connor, who is the field general for N. Y. U., has 52. The latter has scored eight touchdowns to six by Graham, but the Fordham player has booted three field goals and eleven points after touchdowns, while Connor has only one of each.

Wilson of Lafayette is the touchdown king, having crossed the enemy line seventeen times. In fact, all his points have been scored on touchdowns alone. Lane of Dartmouth is runner-up, with twelve to his credit, while Weston of Boston College is third with ten. Wilson of the Army has carried the ball over ten times, and five others, Carr of Syracuse, Shaughnesey of Colgate, Connor of N. Y. U., Cronin of Boston College and Williams of the Connecticut Aggies have gone over eight times each.

O'Hare of Clarkson continues to set the pace for field goal kickers with his six successful efforts, but Hamilton of the Navy added another to his string and now is just one behind. There are several with four, among them Dooley of Dartmouth, who has not crossed the enemy line but has booted the ball over for points after touchdowns on nine occasions.

Wilson of the Army is a versatile back, having scored through almost every method. He has carried the ball over the line for touchdowns nine times and has kicked the extra point on eighteen occasions. Captain Madden of Columbia has kicked two field goals, sixteen points after, and has scored seven touchdowns, but Strong of N. Y. U. has booted four field goals, seventeen points after, and has crossed for touchdowns on six occasions.

The race for the leadership in kicking points after touchdowns is very close. Captain Carey of Cornell and Cothran of Lafayette are first with twenty each, but Army's Wilson is next with eighteen. Strong of N. Y. U. is behind with seventeen and Madden has just one less. Walker of Amherst has fifteen and Fleniken of Geneva and Mishel of Brown have fourteen.

Tackle and Guard in the East Have Scored 26 Points Each

Not the least interesting feature of the race for Eastern football scoring honors is the battle being waged among those men who are ineligible to receive forward passes. Thus far this season neither Right Tackle Cothran of Lafayette nor Left Guard Carey of Cornell has crossed the enemy line yet each has a total of 26 points. Captain Carey won the Dartmouth game with his field goal, and that brought his total up to two, the same number Cothran has kicked. Each has booted the ball over twenty times after touchdowns.

NAVY NOT TO MEET GEORGETOWN AGAIN

DECIDED BEFORE THE GAME

Ingram, However, Withheld the Announcement Until Battle on Saturday Was Over.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 14.—Owing to the fact that Georgetown is considered too strong a team for the Navy to meet next year in addition to the other capable opponents on the midshipmen's schedule, and because there are no proper accommodations at the academy for a crowd as large as that drawn by the game, Navy and Georgetown will not meet next year.

This statement was made prior to the game by Commander Jonas H. Ingram, athletic director of the Naval Academy, though he did not wish the announcement released until after the game.

Meeting Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Michigan and the Army next year, there would be no place for Georgetown except between two of these teams. To meet such a team as Georgetown under these conditions is regarded as inadvisable.

Navy followers are gratified over the fact that all of its players finished the game without injury and that it is likely to have its full strength for the Army game.

Beginning tomorrow practice will be aimed solely to preparedness for the Army game, as Loyola, which plays here next Saturday, is not regarded as requiring the opposition of the first string.

ALABAMA AGAIN TOPS SOUTHERN ELEVENS

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14 (AP).—By swamping Florida, 49 to 0, Alabama clinched its third consecutive Southern Conference football championship. Only Georgia, which won a 14-13 comeback victory over Georgia Tech, stands in the way of a season of all victories for Alabama.

Vanderbilt by routing Tennessee, 20-3, marred the perfect record of the Knoxville players and forced them into a tie for second place with Georgia.

Should Alabama meet defeat Thanksgiving Day at Birmingham when Georgia will attempt to stop it, Alabama still will have the Conference championship.

Carried off the field injured at the end of the first half and with his team trailing 12 to 0, Captain George Morton of Georgia came back into the game in the last half to lead his Bulldogs to the one-point victory over Tech, the first in thirteen years. Attendance at the Tech-Georgia game was the largest of the season in the South, 33,000 gathering at Grant Field.

The standing of the Southern Conference leaders, including games of Saturday, follows:

Alabama	7	0	0	Vanderbilt	3	1	0
Tennessee	4	1	0	Georgia Tech	3	3	0
Georgia	4	1	0

LAFAYETTE LOSES COTHRAN

Star Dismissed From Squad for Training Rule Infraction.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 14 (AP).—Chances of the Lafayette College football eleven completing an undefeated season received a severe jolt tonight when Head Coach G. Herbert McCracken announced that Harold ("Bill") Cothran, star tackle and one of the leading goal kickers of the East, had been dismissed from the squad. Infraction of training rules was given by Coach McCracken as the reason.

Santa Clara Eleven Wins, 41-0.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 14.—The Santa Clara University eleven defeated the local Marines by a score of 41 to 0 here today.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

The Red Rover roamed again yesterday at the Yankee Stadium and the New York eleven trounced the Boston Bulldogs, 24 to 0, for their fourth successive home victory in the American Professional Football League.

The Grangers as a result of their victory, while tha Chicago Bulls under the direction of Joe Sternaman, were defeating the Philadelphia Quakers, went into first place.

While 20,000 looked on, admired and finally cheered, Red Grange did his stuff once more. Up and down the field he ran, over and through the line he plunged, and in the first half he scored all three of the Yankees' touchdowns in as fine a performance as an individual on a football field as has been seen here this season.

The Phantom of the Prairies swept off tackle and then plunged through the line for 3 yards to tally the first touchdown. He leaped high in the air to catch a pass from Pease and then twisted his way 35 yards overland to score the second. But his third was tha ona that caused the thousands to rise with a spontaneous shout of admiration.

Grange intercepted an enemy pass in his own territory, twice crossed the field as he moved forward, and while his interference helped with four or five of the Bulldogs who snapped at his ankles he eluded the other half dozen by his own private devices. Some he dodged, some he hurled aside with swinging hips and some he just plain outran. It was the sort of dash that has mada a score of college players go down in football history as heroes. But it was all in the day's work for Grange.

Cogliser Kicks Field Goal.

Art Cogliser, the Yankee end, was responsible for the five points not credited directly to Grange. He kicked the points after touchdowns twice, and he also scored a field goal with a perfect placement kick from the 38-yard line in the second quarter.

The Bulldogs were no match for the Yankees at any time, though they played a hard, fast game that made an interesting spectacle of it. The crowd, in a baseball mood, tried to keep a football kicked into the atand, which caused a flurry of excitement, and the energetic feminine cheer leaders of the New York pros produced what noise they could, hut the game was the thing and Grange was the game.

The Yankees alowly forced the Bulldogs backward after the first kick-off, gaining a few precious yards with each exchange of punts, nntil finally Gherke, who was booting for Boston, was forced to kick from his own goal line. He sent the ball soaring 44 yards away, hut from there the Yankees started their march that ended in Grange's first touchdown.

A pass covered 20 yards of the distance and the Red Rover plunged to another first down on Boston's 15-yard line. Grange shot off tackla for 12 more and then plowed over on the next play. Cogiizer kicked tha extra point.

Through the rest of the quarter the Yankees were knocking at the Bulldogs' kennel door, hnt they didn't score again until the second period, when the Phantom of the Prairies reached his climax and the Yankees rolled up seventeen points.

A pass from Pease to Coglizer put the bail on Boston's 27-yard line and after the Bulldogs had held off three charges, Coglizer place-kicked a field goal from the 38-yard mark. But that was only the beginning.

Shortly after Cronin, the Boston halfback, fumhled and Fry recovered for the New Yorkers near mid-field. Pease flipped a pass to Grange and the Red Rover leaped high in the air, clutched it, awept past two tacklers and ran 35 yards to another touchdown. Again Coglizer added the extra point.

Grange Makes Great Dash.

Grange'a greatest dash came shortly after the following kick-off. After completing one long pass, the Bulldogs threw another hut this time the Galloping Ghost of the gridiron intercepted it and zigzagged hia way fifty-fivs yards in as sensational a run as he ever made.

Starting from the ieft alde of the field, he swerved far over to the right, shaking off the grasning grip of one Bulidog and eluding another. His interference smashed a third. Reaching the right side he seemed cornered by a trio of Boston players but he sidestepped, stopped, reversed and then put on full speed to race away and on until he had crossed the goal line for his third touchdown. This time he kicked the goal himself.

Grange thought he had done enough for a while and when the second half started he was missing from the Yankee line-up. Perhaps encouraged hy his absence, the Bulidoga atarted an attack that carried them down to the New Yorkers' 15-yard line, but there they were stopped when a pass over the goal line was battered down.

Ths Red Rover came back again toward the end of the game, but he didn't have time enough to add any mors points to the Yankea totai.

Bagby then carried the ball through the line for 8 yards, aod on the next play Matt Brennan crashed over for the touchdown. Brennan missed the kick after touchdown.

The second touchdown came late in the same period. Catching a punt in mid-field, Rex Thomas ran back to the Bulldogs' 20-yard line. Bagby crashed through for 12 yards. Thomas then went around end for the touchdown. Thomas also scored tha point after touchdown on a forward pass from Brennan, who threw when his line hroke before he could kick.

The Lions made their last score in the third quarter, after stopping Canton's best scoring chance. Calac, tha Bulldogs' Indian fullback, went 20 yards on a forward pass from Vic. Marker made 12 more on a pass. The ball was well into Brooklyn's territory. Vic threw a pass to Robh, hut it was grounded. Vic tried tha same play again, but again it failed. These two incompleted forward passes resulted in a 5-yard penalty for Canton.

Robb kicked to Thomas, who ran the ball back to his own 35-yard line. At this point Jim Thorpe went in for the Bulidogs and broke up the next play, a forward pass from Brennan to Thomas. Then Bagby snared a pasa from Brennan and carried the bali to the Bulldoga' 20-yard line. Thomas skirted right end for 8 yards, and Bagby then scored on a pass from Thomas. Brennan missed tha kick.

FORT TOTTEN BEATEN BY FORT HAMILTON

Drops Second Game in Corps Area Series, 6-0—Score Comes on Line Plunge.

Fort Hamilton eliminated Fort Totten from the corps area foothall championship in the second game of the series yesterday at Fort Hamilton, 6 to 0, before a crowd of 3,000. The hard line plunging style of play was resorted to almost wholly hy both teams.

In this plunging the heavier Fort Hamilton team had a decided advantage over Fort Totten and their one touchdown was a direct result of it. The few forward passes which were employed by both teama were usually ineffectual.

Fort Hamilton's tally came in the second period after a series of plunges had brought the ball from midfield to the Fort Totten 5-yard line. From there Johnston, who had played a major part in gaining ground and carrying the ball, bucked through the Fort Totten line and scored ths winning touchdown. Taylor's try for the extra point was biocked.

Brick Muller brought his Los Angeles stars to the Polo Grounds yssterday and led his eleven to a 6-to-0 victory over the New York Giants befors a crowd of 20,000. Although the one touchdown margin indicates that the teams were well matched, Muller's eleven threatened repeatedly, being halted hy ths sterling defense of the New York line.

The scoring play cams liks a flash of lightning. Just a few minutes before the end of the first half Hinky Haines attempted to toss a forward pass, but the California lineamen surged through and rushed at Haines, who was waiting for a receiver to get clear. Just as he drew back his arm to throw the ball, Thompson, left guard, hurtied himself through the air. Haines mada his throw, but Thompson ciutched tha hali in mid-sir and darted past ths surprised Haines for 22 yards and the one touchdown of the afternoon. Tilly Voss biocked the try for the extra point.

The Los Angeles eleven completed two out of six attempted forwards, while the Giants also completed two, hut two more were grounded and five intercepted. Haines did well when he had an opportunity to perform, hut he was closeiy watched. In the opening half the New Yorkers failed to make a first down, while the Orange and Black Coast stars rolled up six.

Giants' Attack Improved.

Wi.h Jack McBrids inserted in the line-up late in the final quarter, the Giants' attack improved, McBride's hullet-like rushes gaining five first downs. He personaiiy brought the bali ali thc way down the gridiron in this last frantic spurt of ths Giants to tally, but the Californians stiffened on their 12-yard line and hurled back both Haines and McBride. Unable to gain through the line the Maramen resorted to the air with fatal results. Finch intercepted the toss and the Giants' threat was over.

With only a minute to play and with their backs to their goal line, New York used a spread formation and called Farneil behind ths line. He threw a 50-yard pass to Haines, but another long heave was grounded and the game was over.

The Orange and Black had a fast and sturdy set of line smashers in Imlay and Maul, who ripped through the Giant line repeatedly for gains. Joe Alexander and Nesser, the noncollegian, did fine defensive work for the Red and Biue.

Immediately after the opening kickoff, Los Angeles started a march in the direction of the New York goal line. Maul and Imlay alternated in smashing past the Red and Blue forwards and then Muller would take the bali on a deceptive reverse play from end, which generaily was good for a gain.

Maul Forced to Kick.

After three first downs had beeri rceied off, the Giants hucked up and forced Maul to kick. Muller was down under the punt like a flash and he made the first of a aeries of tackles which featured his play. Muller made every tackle but one in covering the kicks. Unable to penetrate the Orange and Blue line, Hogan punted in return and again tha Californiana started down field.

The Coast eleven carried the ball to the two-yard line in its march, hut was halted hy the Giants' forwards. The visitors soon returned to the attack, hut were aiwaya stopped hy tha New York forwards, and, with about a minute to play in the half, Haines unloosed what proved to be the touchdown pass.

In the final half the Giants' line strengthened, and assaults of Maul and Imlay were somewhat curbed. New York's attack was feeble, however, until McBride entered the fray. He immediately passed to Grigg for twenty-two yards. Then he slipped off tackle for eight yards, and shot through centrs for three yarda and a first down. One line buck gained eleven yards and then he alid off-tackle for seven more. On two plunges ha had another first down. Then Haines was unable to gain, and when McBride failed he tried a pass which was intercepted and the Giants' chance to tally was shattered.

AMHERST TO LOSE 8 OF 12 REGULARS

But Little Three Champions Have Promising Material on Year's Freshman Squad.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 14.—Amherst, winner of tha 1926 Little Three title by yesterday's 20 to 6 triumph over Williams, will sustain its heaviest blow in years this June when eight of the twelvs regulars are lost by graduation.

Once again the backfield gives indication of being the major problem to confront the staff, with three veterans missing in Creden, quarterback; Priddy, halfback, and Captain Cadigan, fullback. On the lina Amherst loses Whitney and Richardson, centres; Morse, end; Smith, guard, and Higgins, tackle.

The 1926 yearling eleven contains promising line material to fill the gaps and has two backfield possibilities in Neale and Ripka, while Captain Rab Wilson, centre, may be drafted for duty behind the line. Last year he filled in at quarterback for Deerfield Academy.

This Fall Amherst achieved a record slightly less impressive than that of the 1925 championship team coached by Tuss McLaughry, now of Brown, which brought the Little Three crown to Amherst for the first time in a decade.

Ths record includes six victories, a tis and a 14 to 7 defeat by Princeton, with a total of 147 points against 34 made by its opponents.

Germany's middlaweight champion, Julius Weiss, and Abd-el Kedir, a Moroccan, are paired in another ten-round match, and a third ten-rounder will see Yale Okun, east side lightheavyweight, and Georga Smith of Brooklyn in action. Mickey Durano vs. Paul Amarosa, six rounds, and Joe Adams vs. Matty di Santis, four rounds, complete the card.

A six-round bout between Nat Kawler of the east side, and Johnny Pilkington, Harlem lightweight, tops the card at Star Sporting Club tonight. They have met three times and Pilkington promises to force plenty of action in his determination to win. Eddie Elkins, Harlem featherweight, and Peta Nebo, Spanish champion in the division, will meet in a semi-final six. Nebo knocked out Johnny Buckley at ths club's show last week.

Manny Rosen, Bronx lightweight, meets Eddia Guida of Harlem and Al del Gado, Harlem welter, faces Frankie Santa, east side, in two other sixes. The first six rounder will be between Al Matera, Bronx, and Tom Di Gand, Harlem junior lightweights, and the four-round opener will be between Jack McFarland, Yorkville, and Eddie Ross, east alde, middleweights.

12 VETERANS LOST TO PRINCETON TEAM

Seven Started in Either Yale or Harvard Game, but Six Sophomores Win Letters.

SLAGLE AND CAULKINS GO

Davis and Ewing, Also Three-Time Regulars, to Graduate—New Material Promising.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14.—With the Big Three championship safely resting among the spires of old Nassau, Princeton turned to take stock of ths material remaining from the only two successivs title victories in Tiger history. Twelve Princeton varsity players have donned their football togs for the last tims under the Orange and Black.

Seven Tigers who startsd either the Yale or Harvard games have played their last game of collegiate football, and Coach Roper will have difficulty in replacing these men. The list of ths letter men who graduate in June includes Captain John Davis of Brooklyn; Jake Slagle, Baltimore; Dan Caulkins, Detroit; Jeff Rosengarten, Philadelphia; Dick Baldwin, St. Louis; Ernie Bartell, Tarentum, Pa.; Boh Darby, Westfield, N. J.; Ted Williams, Stamford, Conn.; Charlie Weekes, Philadelphia; Joe Prendergast, Evanston, Ill.; Harry Meislahn, Brooklyn; Sam Ewing, Philadelphia. Weekes has not won his letter for the past two years because of untimely injuries just befors the Big Three games, hut he won his letter as a hack in his sophomore year.

This makes the third year of football letter-winning for Jake Slagle, Caulkins, Davis and Ewing. Harry Meislahn won his insignia for ths first time yesterday.

Princeton's lins will be shattered, as ths entire forward wall, except the ends, comprises seniors Barteil, centre; Davis and Baldwin, guards, and Darby and Rosengarten, tackles, the lins which faced Yale, goes.

When Slagle leaves Princeton practically an entire backfield goes with him, as he passes, kicks and carries the hall with equal ability. Earl Baruch and Jack Requardt, both sophomores, are the only triple threats left, unless Eddie Wittmer is in shape for next Fall.

Dan Caulkins, field general, will be a hard man to replace. Caulkins played every minute of the Yale and Harvard encounters this year, although he leaves a capable substitute in the person of Phil Struhing, sophomore.

Six sophomores won their letters this year. Only four juniors played in the Yale and Harvard games, Jim Bridges, Jack French, Charlis Moeser and Whitey Willauer.

Excellent material from this year's freshman team will he availabis next Fall, according to the coaches. The freshmen ended a successful season yesterday hy swamping the Dartmouth cubs, 29 to 0.

YALE FEELS KEYED TO BEAT HARVARD

Holding Princeton to 10-7 Victory Inspires Confidence—Rated 5 to 4 to Win.

NO SCRIMMAGE PLANNED

Preparations for Crimson to Consist of Signals and Dummy Drill —News Praises Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14.—Yale is pleased with the showing its eleven made yesterday in holding Princeton to a 10 to 7 score. The Yale Daily News will compliment the players and Head Cosch Tad Jones tomorrow and express confidence in the team's ability to end the season Saturday with even better results against Harvard. Tonight Yale reigned favorite, 5 to 4, in predictions of a victory over the Crimson.

The players spent the night at the Vanderbilt Hotel in New York City and returned hers today as they chose. They were ordered to report for dinner at the Y Club training table this evening and there were no absentees.

The coaches outlined plans for the coming week, which includs signal and dummy drill daily. This program will complete a full fortnight without practice scrimmaging, because Jones omitted actual football all last week. No previous Yals eleven has passed the two weeks of the Princeton and Harvard games without scrimmaging.

Fivs Played Through Game.

The coaches commented upon the fact that five Yals playars remained in the line-up throughout tha game at Princeton, including Captain Bunnell, Scott, Fishwick, Richards and Sturhahn. A sixth, Webster, was replaced by Hickok only two minutes before the game closed.

The line-up decided upon tentatively for the Harvard game calls for practically the same players who were campaigned yesterday. It is probahle that Bill Holahird, the haseball pitcher, who never started a football game for Yale hefore, will begin the play at left halfback, and that Larry Noble will be again reserved for an emergency call.

Noble suffered no ill effects from his fifteen minutes of scrimmaging against the Tigers, and the coaches believe that he will be in better physical condition and able to play most of next Saturday's game if necessary. Look, the scrub centre who started yesterday's game, was deciared to be a fixture at snaphack. Look is a varsity crew member who has played scrub football for two seasons.

Benton To Keep Post.

Bert Benton, ths 175-pound right tackle, who won the position after four regular tackies had been crippled, played satisfactory football and his rivals, Berry Ryan and Jack Flaherty, must be content with a reserve rôle. There is little chance of Bill Vandergrift, who played right tackle the first half of this seasson, and Bruce Caldweil, Yale's most effective plunging back, being used against Harvard. Both were in citizens' clothes yesterday.

Especial attention will be paid this week to developing the second string players who will be used against Harvard. They will scrimmage daily against the scrubs and several members of the freshman eleven, whose season closed yesterday. Yale has a dozen specialty substitutes in reserve upon whom the coaches will work all the week.

A new Yale record which was made by yesterday's game is that of four straight defeats by Princeton, Maryland, Brown and West Point.

HARVARD HOPEFUL DESPITE SETBACK

Coaches Cheered Chiefly by Work of Line in Losing Game Against Brown.

PLAYERS IN GOOD SHAPE

Guarnaccia Expected Back for Yale Game—Coady and Kilgour to Be Ready.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 14.—Notwithstanding Brown's three touchdowns in the Stadium Saturday and the loss of the four of the last five games with the Providence Beara, the Harvard coaches found much that was encouraging in the work of the Crimson varsity Saturday.

The game was one in which the rush-line fought all the way, playing hy all means its best game of the year from tackle to tackle, the weakness again being the uncertainty of the end play, the ragged defense against forward passes and the failure of the attack to show any special improvement.

The eleven came out of tha game in good shape and after tomorrow's rest will he in trim for all the necessary work preceding the Yale game Saturday.

Dave Guarnaccia, it is hoped, will be hack at halfback this week and this will mean more hackfield power and considerahly more for Harvard to offer in the way of overhead attack.

Captain Coady played only a few minutes against Brown and Kilgour not at all. Both these players will be at the top of their season's physical condition Saturday. Pratt, the right tackle, played a whirlwind of a rush-line game, doing the best tackling behind the rushline the Bear has encountered this season, according to ths Providence coach.

Stafford's work at quarter was so good against Brown that he may replace Putnam in the berth. Putnam was good in the early season, hnt did not measure up against Princeton or Brown.

There will be hard drills Tuesday and Wednesday. Dummy and signal work is set for Thursday and the start for New Haven will be made Friday morning.

Loses One of 17 Chess Matches.

Playing against seventeen opponents in an exhihition of simultaneous chess at the rooms of the Empire City Chess Club, 3,785 Broadway, Hermann Helma, former New York State champion, made a score of 14 wins, 2 drawa and 1 lost. Norman Lessing was the successful player who won his game. Louis Mills and Paul Lazarus were the opponents who drew.

Committee to Oppose Non-Citizen Ban Amendment Before A.A.U. Convention Today

REJECTION LIKELY OF NON-CITIZEN BAN

Legislative Committee Votes to Recommend the Defeat of Amendment to A. A. U.

DELEGATES ALSO OPPOSED

Standardizing Jumping Rules Is Favored as National Convention Opens in Baltimore Today.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 14.—The plan to close American amateur athletic competition to non-citizen residents of this country will be defeated tomorrow at the convention of the Amateur Athletic Union if the recommendation of the Legislation Committee is carried. Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, Chairman of the committee, announced after its meeting tonight that it had gone on record as opposed to the measure submitted by Dr. J. J. Walsh of the St. Anselm's A. C., New York.

Dr. Walsh's proposal would debar such foreign athletes as adopt America as their permanent home out fall to become naturalized citizens. The outstanding competitor in the public eye to whom this would apply is Willie Ritola, Finnish distance running star.

Sentiment among the delegates of the A. A. U. from all parts of the country indicates the rejection of this proposed amendment. Justice Mahoney reflected the sentiment against the legislation when he said:

"The fundamental principle of amateur athletics is the feeling of sportsmanship participation instills and encourages. Amateur athletic competitions have their message for international good-will as well. All this should not be ignored in such a matter as this, particularly when such legislation obviously is aimed at only isolated cases.

Ritola Sought Papers.

"In the case of Ritola, I understand that every possible effort to make him a naturalized citizen was made prior to the last Olympic games in order that he might be eligible to compete on the American team. That these efforts failed was not the fault of Ritola. He had made his application for first papers, and the difficulty, I understand, was that his application could not be traced. It had been lost or mislaid.

"Ritola wanted to compete in the Olympic games. That is the goal of all athletes. He could not compete for his adopted land, so he went abroad and competed for his native Finland. I don't believe he deserves competitive isolation for this and that is what would be his lot if this amendment is adopted.

"Our athletes have invaded foreign countries and carried off their championships without protest or criticism. I don't see why we should take the initiative in legislation of this sort. The idea strikes at the very foundation of international competition and amateur athletics generally, and for this reason I believe it best that the convention reject this measure."

Dr. Walsh Not Present.

Dr. Walsh was invited to attend the A. A. U. Convention as the guest of the Metropolitan A. A. U., in whose district his club holds membership, but he did not take advantage of the invitation. The proposed amendment will have a strong advocate in Bill Kennedy, veteran marathon runner, who is President of the Connecticut A. A. U. and the American Marathon Runners' Association. Kennedy declared tonight that he intended to argue for the adoption of Dr. Walsh's proposed amendment on the same principal which obtains in relation to some of the skilled labor unions in this country. A bricklayer by trade, Kennedy said his own union organization compels foreigners to come naturalized citizens of this country if they expect to enjoy union labor privileges.

The Legislation Committee voted for the adoption of a standard of high jumping paraphernalia, which would eliminate cause for criticism with some of the jumping styles now employed, and voted the rejection of a proposed amendment for the adoption of the Olympic system of starting in track races.

The change in the rules governing high jumping has been advocated for a number of years and is expected to be adopted, since it will eliminate the "California Roll" and "Chicago Dive," methods of jumping which have been criticized since the days of Horine.

Adhere to Our Start.

The committee voted the rejection of the Olympic starting system, preferring to adhere to the American custom as more practicable. Under the Olympic start an athlete would not be penalized for one false start, but would be disqualified for a second false start. The present rules here provide that an athlete be penalized for his first and second false starts ano disqualified for his third.

The distance of the marathon race of the future will be decreased to 22¾ miles if the convention acts favorably on a recommendation submitted by the Distance Running Committee, of which Herman Obertubbesing of the Metropolitan A. A. U., is Chairman. This distance for the classic race is expected to be standardized internationally if the American authorities show the way. The distance from Marathon to Athens, on which the race is based, was 22¾ miles, and this is the reason for advocating the revision.

According to one of the oldest delegates to the convention, the distance of 26 miles 385 yards, which now obtains, originated with the Olympic Games of 1908 in London and was adopted solely to permit of a start for the race at Windsor Castle.

Chairman Obertubbesing announced that his committee had recommended that the national ten-mile run and junior cross-country championships be awarded to the Metropolitan A. A. U. and the junior cross-country championship to the South Atlantic A. A. U., with headquarters in this city. The national fifteen-mile run championship award was left open.

The Swimming Committee, of which John Taylor of Pittsburgh is Chairman, recommended the elimination of the fifty-yard swim from the men's and women's indoor championship programs, as well as the plunge for distance, 200-yard relay and the pentathlon, and recommended the addition of a 300-yard individual medley swim and a 300-yard team medley for teams of three each.

These were the leading developments of a day given over to committee meetings preparatory to the convention tomorrow.

Tomorrow the convention will elect a President and other officers. Murray Hulbert of New York, who has been President for the last two years, is favored by many to succeed himself.

Paddock and Locke Marks Upheld by A. A. U. Committee

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 14.—Two new world's track records will go on the books of the Amateur Athletic Union after tomorrow's convention if the delegates act favorably on the recommendation of the Records Committee, that Charley Paddock's mark of 9 5-10 seconds for the 100-yard dash and Roland Locke's mark of 20 5-10 seconds for 220 yards around a slight curve, oe accepted.

In addition, the Committee recommended to the convention that after Jan. 1 the use of the tenth-second watches be abandoned because investigation by the International Amateur Athletic Federation has resulted in a decision that such watches are unreliable and inaccurate, and they have been prohibited at the 1928 Olympic games.

NEW BEDFORD WINS FROM INDIANA, 4-0

WANDERERS BEATEN AGAIN

Lose Second Game in Two Days, Bowing to Fall River, 2-0—Newark Beats Springfield.

Much to the surprise of the crowd of 3,500 soccer fans at New York Oval yesterday the New Bedford eleven blanked the Indiana Flooring eleven, 4 to 0, and kept its opponents out of fifth place in the American League standing. At half time the visitors led by 2 goals to 0.

Indiana won the toss and Stevens kicked off, but Indiana worked the ball right down to Steele in the first minute of play. Gallagher dropped over a beauty, but Cowan got his foot to the ball before Schylander could connect with it. New Bedford attacked strongly, Chezgzoy just missing. Maxwell stood out conspicuously with some clever play. Blair finally broke through and, after avoiding the backs, had only Steele to beat. The latter, however, brought off a wonderful save at short range.

New Bedford came back strongly, and Stevens, from a fine centre by Chezgzoy, put through the first goal after twenty-three minutes. Five minutes later New Bedford forced a corner, from which Chezgzoy tallied. Best scored for the visitors. Indiana attacked desperately, but Steele made two splendid saves of drives by Schylander. Indiana could not get into the swing, the New Bedford halfbacks breaking up their attack. Donald and Best came to blows and were cautioned by Referee Connachin. In the second half Indiana shifted its line-up, Donald replacing Millar at centre and Cameron going on at left halfback. After fifteen minutes Maxwell sent in a fine forward pass to Stevens, who beat Brown with a terrific shot for the third goal. The fourth was not long in coming, as McLeavy converted a perfect cross from Chezgzoy.

HORSES GO TO POST AT BOWIE TODAY

Last Fall Meeting in East to Open With Stables Crowded and Entries Heavy.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 14.—Autumn thoroughbred racing in the East will enter upon its final stage here tomorrow afternoon with the opening of the twelve-day meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association at the Prince George Park course.

Everything is in readiness for the beginning of the final session of the major circuit. The plant is at its best and the racing strip has been resoiled and placed in the finest possible condition.

The meetings at Prince George Park have grown in popularity each season, both with the horsemen and the followers of thoroughbred sport. Of the former many will race here for the first time and others have not been seen in a number of years. Heavy nominations have been made by Harry Payne Whitney in the various stakes and the best of the Rancocas Stable in training will carry silks here.

There are more horses available than will be able to find employment, since every stall is filled and large numbers are quartered at the old Benning course, eleven miles distant. So great was the demand for stabling that it was necessary to deny quarters for all yearlings.

The opening day's card is top-heavy with entries. Its feature is the seventh running of the Prince George Handicap for three-year-olds at seven furlongs out of the chute, with $7,500 in added money. It has attracted an overnight entry of eighteen, with H. P. Whitney's Macaw assigned top weight of 130 pounds. The same stable's Croyden is asked to shoulder 129 pounds.

E. B. McLean's Prince of Wales will carry 124 pounds, and among the other sprinting stars named are the Rancocas Stable's Celidon and Nida, the Seagram Stable's Gaffsman and Lee Rosenberg's filly Ingrid.

The Century Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth for all ages will be contested on Wednesday, while the first half holiday of the meeting will be marked by the fifth running of the Gadsden D. Bryan Memorial Handicap for all ages at a mile, which carries $20,000 in added money. Mrs. Vanderbilt's popular little gelding Serazen was the winner of this event last Autumn.

The leading fixtures for the second week will be the Thanksgiving Handicap for three-year-olds and upward at a mile and three-sixteenths, with $10,000 added, to be run on the holiday, and the Endurance Handicap for the two-year-olds, a mile, $10,000 added, which will mark the closing day of the meeting.

COLLEGE CHESS DATES SET.

Five Teams to Play Tourney Here During Christmas Holidays.

With five colleges entered, the committee of the Intercollegiate Chess League, at a meeting at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday, made up a schedule for the annual tournament in this city during the Christmas holidays.

Dates were set for five teams, including City College, Columbia, N. Y. University, Pennsylvania and Rutgers. A bye was left for Cornell in case the Ithacans decide to enter.

The schedule:

Dec. 18, N. Y. University vs. Rutgers, 7 P. M.; 19, Rutgers vs. City College, 8 P. M.; 20, Rutgers vs. Columbia, 7 P. M.; 27, N. Y. University vs. Pennsylvania, 7 P. M.; Columbia vs. City College, 7 P. M.; 28, N. Y. University vs. City College, 7 P. M.; Pennsylvania vs. Columbia, 7 P. M.; 29, City College vs. Pennsylvania, 7 P. M.; N. Y. University vs. Columbia, 7 P. M.; 31, Rutgers vs. Pennsylvania, 7 P. M.

When Your Wife Says:

"Do hurry, Henry, or we'll miss the second act, too"—then's the time a Manhattan open-back dress shirt would have saved the evening.

With the new Manhattans, it takes only a minute to slip in from the back, fasten a button in the rear—and you're dressed.

The studs, once put in, are never touched again until laundry-time. The shirt stays clean and immaculate. You get dressed in half the time. Without struggles. How much better than the old way!

Manhattan open-back dress shirts—stiff or pleated bosoms, many of imported pique—$3.50 to $5.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Erwin Rudolph, Chicago cueist, again gave indications that he will be the ultimate contender with Ralph Greenleaf for the 1926 world's pocket billiard championship by conquering Harry Oswald, the young Pittsburgher and former Southern champion, tonight, 125 to 43 in 22 innings.

By reason of the victory, Rudolph again ties Greenleaf for the top of the standing, each having recorded his sixth victory in a row.

Rudolph outclassed his opponent at all stages and led throughout. Rudolph's high run of the match was 32, registered in the twenty-first inning. Oswald's best mark was 14, run off in the nineteenth inning.

Arthur Woods of Pawtucket, R. I., staging a remarkable uphill fight during which he overcame a handicap of fifty-eight points in the final six innings, defeated Charles Harmon of New York, 125 to 122, in the feature match of the tournament this afternoon. Harmon had a lead of 118 to 80 at the opening of the twenty-ninth frame, and Woods forfeited sixteen balls on three successive scratches reducing his score to 64. However, the Rhode Island billiardist, with some spectacular shots and good runs, passed his opponent and went out in the thirty-fifth inning. The high runs were Harmon 43, Woods 27, while the averages were Harmon, 3 18-34; Wood, 3-20-35.

Pasquale Natalie of Baltimore took the measure of Harold Pindle of Appleton, Wis., 125 to 115, in fifty-eight innings. The lead changed frequently in this match. The high runs were Natalie 23, Pindle 3, and the averages were Natalie, 2-9-58; Pindle, 1-57-55.

Tom Hueston, former champion, was the victor in the first night match, defeating Arthur Ponzi of Philadelphia, 125 to 57, in twenty-five innings.

PRO. GOLFERS MEET TODAY.

Selection of Next Tourney Site Principal Business Before Them.

Professional golfers from nearly every section are now in the city for the annual meeting of the Professional Golfers' Association of America which will be held here today and tomorrow.

The chief business is that of settling the question as to where the next P. G. A. championship will be held. When the pros were out at Salisbury in September there were two candidates for the tournament. One was St. Louis and the other Houston, Texas. Since then Dallas, Fresh Meadow Club on Long Island and California have put in bids.

THE WEEK IN SPORTS

Close Scores in Important Football Games—Last Bugle for Crusader—Yachtsmen and the International Rule—Lively Soccer Competition—Distance Running Activity.

FOOTBALL

Close scoring featured many of the important football games waged last Saturday. This was evidence of the class of battle fought and the thoroughness of the preparations. And in most of the games the issue was not settled until the final whistle blew.

It was by field goal margins that Princeton beat Yale, Navy beat Georgetown and Pennsylvania defeated Columbia, and that Colgate earned a tie with Syracuse in the waning minutes of the game. It was a goal after touchdown that gave Michigan a victory over Ohio State and it was a goal from the field that separated Cornell from defeat and a victory over Dartmouth and the goal was kicked. The field goal was the only scoring in the victory for Nebraska over Kansas Aggies.

It was a touchdown after a 63-yard run that gave Notre Dame the winning margin over Army. Here again was the case of two well-matched teams having the issue decided by one play. In this instance the touchdown took the place of the field goal. Fordham found that one lone touchdown would beat a field goal. It was a field goal that enabled Grove City to beat the sensational Geneva team.

The value of a reliable kicker never was better illustrated. Coaches devote more time than ever to the development of high-class kickers. In the past the value of a reliable toe never was overlooked, but in these days of uncertain scoring, due to the threat of the forward pass, the value of the kicker has been emphasized. The call for a kicker is more sudden than in the old days and a missed goal after touchdown may prove fatal. It did to Ohio State and cost that team whatever chance it had for the Western Conference championship.

Glory for Princeton.

Princeton now has closed another brilliant football season. Consecutive triumphs over Harvard and Yale, which brought with them two Big Three football championships in as many years, are glory enough for any Princeton team. The system employed by Coach Roper has been productive of results. His teams have been brought along slowly and pointed directly for the Big Three games.

Princeton went into the Harvard game on the short end of the betting, but came out on the long end of the score. It was pitted against a Crimson team carrying the hope and the confidence of Harvard followers. There was reason for Harvard to be optimistic, but Roper and his feats had been overlooked. Two victories over Harvard and Yale on consecutive Saturdays in a season in which the Tiger did not bear the rating of the Tiger eleven of a year ago need no more in the way of explanation.

The Army's chance for an unbeaten slate was stopped by Notre Dame, but the margin was close. The Army team, a powerful one, fought a hard battle but lacked the scoring drive. The punch that was so effective against Yale failed against the strong, alert Notre Dame team. Army had a fine line and a splendid set of backs. Only a rugged, resourceful team could stop such a combination, and that was the kind of an eleven Coach Rockne brought to the Yankee Stadium.

A team is as strong as its reserve, and Notre Dame had the reserves. With every substitution the team seemed to grow in strength. Every backfield man Rockne sent into the game performed just as effectively and heroically as the man he succeeded. His shift was baffling and his plays well screened, but with all those assets there is little doubt the final score would have been zero-all had not the fleet Flanagan got away for that deciding run, and with that dash went Army's lone hope of at least a draw.

Crowley Has Fighting Team.

Columbia has occasion to feel proud of the exploits of its team. A victory over Cornell and a splendid defensive achievement against Pennsylvania are sufficient to make the season a meritorious one for Columbia. Coach Crowley, with a small squad and no outstanding players, has molded together a fighting team, one which already had proved its value and high courage. Only one game remains, that against Syracuse, and regardless of the outcome, Columbia doubtless will be willing to call the 1926 campaign a satisfactory one.

New York University kept its season's record clean, but found a worthy foe in the fighting Davis and Elkins eleven. Coach Meehan has sent his men through a hard schedule and only Nebraska stands between N. Y. U. and a clean record. But the hardest game of the year awaits the Violet and the game will be fought on foreign soil. It is a hard assignment, but there is reason for confidence in the team which wears the N. Y. U. uniform this year.

The impressive showing of C. C. N. Y. against Fordham was a surprise. City College, never a figure in football until this year, has accomplished some worthy feats. The crowning one, however, was the game against Fordham. City College held a 3 to 0 lead until the final period when the Maroon finally went over for a touchdown.

Boston College, rated one of the outstanding Eastern teams, was forced to accept a draw verdict for its afternoon's work. The Haskell Indians, after trailing by 21 to 0, shocked the Boston eleven by opening a drive in the last half which was productive of 21 points and a tie.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Although the Finns have captured every important cross-country event this Fall and are pretty certain to make a clean sweep of it next Sunday when the senior national title race is held, Olympic officials and others interested in track and field sport need have no cause for alarm on the score that distance running in this country is suffering from a lack of interest. One need only point to the tremendous activity going on in the scholastic and collegiate ranks to prove that distance running, particularly of the hill-and-dale variety, is enjoying as great a wave of popularity in this country as it ever has known.

Twenty colleges have entered full teams in the annual cross-country championship of the I. C. A. A. A. A. to be held at Van Cortlandt Park one week from today, making a field of 254 harriers who will go to the post. In addition there will be fifteen colleges with 188 individual entries competing in the freshman race.

Hard Battle in Sight.

The varsity race, both for individual and team honors, promises to be one of the most stirring in the history of the chase. Syracuse, winner of the event last year, will have a hard battle to retain the laurels, although the up-State collegians already have demonstrated that they will have a formidable array on hand.

Harvard, by its signal victory in the Big Three race last week, is among those certain to wage a stiff fight. The Crimson flashed an exceptionally well-balanced team and that is what counts in team scoring. Yale, finishing close behind Harvard, also may be expected to make a strong bid, although the Blue's best chances are for an individual triumph, with Macauley Smith, winner of the event two years ago, again running in his best form. Briggs, who finished second to Smith in the Big Three race, also looks a likely contender for Yale.

Cornell Shows Promise.

Then there is Cornell, which served notice on all that it once more is to be reckoned with by scoring decisively over Dartmouth in a dual meet last week. Years ago Jack Moakley used to turn out cross-country teams at Cornell that stood in a class by themselves. In those days, the intercollegiate title run used to be a mere procession of Ithacan harriers. Then came a long period of depression, but Moakley seems to have regained the habit. In Horace Benson Moakley has a very promising harrier. He has three other good ones and if he can bolster up a fifth man he is pretty certain to finish well up in the team scores.

YACHTING

A discussion which will come up on Thursday at the annual meeting of the North American Yacht Racing Union will be of much interest to racing yachtsmen. It will involve a possible change of the measurement rule, to affect yachts of Class P and under (about 35 feet waterline), and it is understood that the Measurement Committee of the union will recommend a change from the so-called Universal Rule, which governs American yacht racing, to the International Rule, which prevails in British and European waters.

Many Favor the Change.

There seems to be quite a widespread sentiment in favor of the change among yachtsmen, who believe that the International Rule will produce a more wholesome type of boat and also that it will result in a desired increase in international racing. Some of the finest competition of this kind in recent years has been in the six-meter class, a wholesome type that developed rapidly under the impetus of international sport. The six-meters were built to the International Rule, thirty of this class having been constructed so far in American waters.

Union May Follow Suit.

The Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound has already adopted a recommendation favoring a change in the rule, and it is believed the North American Yacht Racing Union will follow suit at its meeting Thursday. Whether any such action is taken or not, however, there will be some interesting international contests on the American coast during the Summer of 1927.

It is likely that a challenge will be received from British yachtsmen for the Seawanhaka Cup and one from the Norwegians for the Scandinavian Gold Cup, captured last season by Lanai. Rumors are wafting across the Atlantic also to the effect that German yachtsmen will challenge again for races in the old sonder boat class on this side. Many of the old sonders are still racing in good shape at Gloucester and Marblehead.

CHESS

Much as the sponsors of the recent international cable match between London and Chicago are to be commended for their efforts in promoting an event that has aroused so much interest and good feeling in international chess circles, it is nevertheless to be regretted that the competition was not made a two-day instead of a one-day affair. Its good purposes would have been served just as well, and the result would have been far more satisfactory.

Of the six games that were played, only one was actually completed when time was called at the close of the day, leaving five of the contests to be adjudicated. Among chess players, adjudication of games is never considered a satisfactory method of deciding match play. In this instance, of course, there is no fault to be found with the selection of referee. There are few masters in the world as well qualified for the task as Dr. Alexander Alekhine.

The real objection, however, is that the result by adjudication is not what it might have been had there been play to a finish. A master adjudicates the position as it stands at adjournment, compares its relative material and positional merits, and then bases his conclusion on an analysis that takes only moves of sound master play into consideration. But, as every one knows who plays chess, many a game can be lost at the fortieth move that seems perfectly safe at the thirtieth. Adjudication disregards entirely the human element, which is ever present in over-board play, and a result arrived at by analysis therefore never can be regarded in the same light as a game played to a finish.

The one solution to the problem is to arrange cable matches on a two-day basis. The London-Chicago match proved that it is virtually impossible to complete a sufficient number of games in a single day. Too much time is lost in the transmission and decoding of the moves. Given two days of play, however, practically all games would be completed, eliminating adjudication entirely.

BILLIARDS

A pocket billiard champion will be crowned before the end of the week and the player to win the title will be entitled to all honors that accompany such a triumph. The field that is competing in the Philadelphia tournament is representative and one that has the recognized outstanding players. The fact that Frank Taberski and Ralph Greenleaf were brought together was sufficient to accentuate the championship importance of the classic.

Greenleaf has established a wonderful record in championship tournament play. He has taken part in twenty-seven games without suffering a defeat. He has won all six in which he has taken part in the present tournament. But Taberski, despite the fact that he has lost one of his six games, is much in the race. His meeting with Greenleaf, experts believe, will be the turning point of the tournament, although the billiard playing of Erwin Rudolph has changed the title battle into a three-cornered affair.

Edgar T. Appleby, international amateur 18.2 balkline champion, a student of billiards, is a much improved player. His work in recent exhibitions, marked by a run of 175 and an average of 60 in a 300-point game against a player of Albert G. Cutler's class, is enough to justify a high rating for Appleby. On the form he has shown all fall he is certain to enter the next national tournament the favorite.

TURF

It is a matter for regret among lovers of a good horse that Crusader was unable to conclude his notable racing career with a brilliant victory commensurate with his earlier triumphs. The handsome son of Man o' War and Star Fancy made a gallant effort to overcome the tremendous weight handicap against him in the long journey of the Pimlico Cup.

While he failed to win over the lightly weighted Edith Cavell, herself a daughter of the super-horse, he ran one of his greatest races. His magnificent effort in the last half mile, when he caught the filly and seemed to have her beaten, will never be forgotten by those who witnessed the contest. Weight, the great leveler, then exacted its toll. Thirty-three pounds is a tremendous concession over a route of two miles and one-quarter and Crusader was unequal to the task.

While beaten, he gained new honors in defeat and retires from the race course with the admiration of all who have followed his scintillant career under the yellow trimmed black silks of the Glen Riddle Farm. His career in the stud across the water will be followed by horsemen here with scarcely less interest than has been continuously manifested in that of his illustrious sire.

Season on Last Lap.

The highly successful Autumn meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club came to a close with Saturday's racing and today the season in the East enters upon its last lap at Prince George Park, Bowie, where the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association begins a fortnight of sport. Following that will come the move to the Southland. Already many carloads of thoroughbreds have departed from the several racing centres of New York, Maryland and Kentucky, with others to follow in constant procession, their destinations being Cuba, Florida, Louisiana and Mexico. On Thanksgiving Day the bugles will blow at Jefferson Park, Tia Juana and Keeney Park, with Havana swinging into line a fortnight later.

Bowie is always popular with the horsemen and race followers despite its somewhat inaccessible location. It is one of those "tracks for horses" and over its deep cushion many thoroughbreds perform better than on any other racing strip. Joseph McLennan has compiled an attractive book and his programs should draw first class fields.

The Prince George Handicap is the feature of today's opening and among the more notable fixtures are the $20,000 Gadsden D. Bryan Memorial Handicap for the juveniles to be contested on Saturday, the $10,000 Thanksgiving Handicap and the $10,000 Endurance Handicap, also for the two-year-olds, which will mark the closing day. Both of the races for the youngsters are at a mile.

Steeplechasing at an End.

With the close of Pimlico, racing through the field ended for the season and the jumpers will go into Winter quarters either at the Eastern racing centres or at Aiken, where the colony of Steeplechase enthusiasts is constantly being augmented. A number of the important stables will be recruited to strength before next Spring, but there must be material additions all around if the sport is to be maintained on the plane which it deserves.

So depleted had the ranks become toward the end that the Maryland Jockey Club was compelled to reduce its schedule to three events a week for the cross-country performers and even at that was unable to complete its full program.

Fairmount's successive victories in the Gwathmey Memorial at the Terminal and the Manly Memorial at Pimlico, added to earlier triumphs, places Mr. Widener's gelding at the very front of the steeplechasers in this country and stamps him as a jumper capable of traveling in any company.

SOCCER

When just 5 points separate the first six teams in any league it means that the race for the championship is very close, but when this state exists in the American Soccer League, it can be understood that the chase for the pennant is something more than tight—it is very tight. Points are distributed in the following manner, two for a victory and one for a tie, a system that clearly indicates the even balance of the leading eleven.

Right now Boston and Bethlehem Steel are fighting for a clear-cut lead. From the first of the season these elevens showed marked strength, although Boston was quicker in finding its true form. The Steelmen have been developing gradually and their steady climb to the top has been one of the features of the league race. At the opening of the season they dropped two games, but found themselves immediately and have not been beaten since, although there are four ties on their record.

Match Was Significant.

Last week they went to Canada and there defeated the Ulster United eleven with something to spare. The match had more than ordinary significance, inasmuch as Ulster is holding the Dominion title for the second successive year and Bethlehem is the present United States champion. The game was not listed as an international championship, but it did show the power of the Bethlehem men on the attack.

Just what the attitude of Bethlehem toward championships this year will be is hard to say, but from present indications the club is intent on winning both the American League and national crowns. Last season the team concentrated on the national tourney and saved its men for those elimination games by taking some of the stars out of the league encounters, with the result that the club finished well down the list.

This year Bethlehem has an attack that seems sounder than ever, the reserve material is strong and plentiful, so it seems that two titles may be taken to the Pennsylvania town before the soccer season closes.

Headed Toward the Top.

Fall River, holder of the league championships for the last three years, seems to have found its feet after a poor early season showing, and is headed toward the top of the standing once more. Last season this club lost only two games, something of a record in itself, but so far it has dropped five. Recently, however, its defense has tightened, and with the attack functioning well, is mounting the ladder that leads to the league flag.

Of the three Greater New York teams, Indiana has the best record, but injuries have crippled the Wanderers and Giants. Both these elevens are far from out of the race and still have excellent chances of gaining the top. The Wanderers have hurt their league prospects by playing so many extra matches, mostly with visiting teams from other countries. However, what they have lost in league points they have more than made up through the good-will their efforts have brought to the sport as an international game.

He also came through in the Travers Island Cup shoot and captured that trophy. F. A. Siebert was not on the firing line.

Three gunners tied for the High Handicap Cup. They were A. Sielaken, H. E. Dickerman and J. B. Rock. Each had a full score of 100 targets. On the shoot-off, Sielaken was the leader. The shooting conditions were satisfactory and the majority of the scores were high.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Past and Future in the Light of Last Week's October Reports.

The summaries published last week, of October's performance in the various fields of financial and industrial achievement, were of a character to suggest that end-of-the-year prophets may have some trouble in preparing their usual forecasts for 1927. In an offhand way it has been commonly assumed that business activity was decreasing. Usually (as in the steel trade diagnosis) this view of the situation has gone only so far as to say that Autumn activities were "not up to expectation." Disappointment of that nature is always possible; on some past occasions it has merely meant that expectation had been pitched unreasonably high. When, however, actual results in iron and steel production for last month were published they disclosed not only a normal Autumn increase but the largest October output of iron except for two of the war years and the largest October output of steel on record.

Wall Street expressed disappointment that the month's increase in unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel were less than the trade's prediction. But the trade itself, in these days of "buying only for immediate requirements," no longer regards the unfilled tonnage as a measure of periodical trade activities. Insistent testimony of the mercantile agencies to "irregularity of trade" and "cross-currents in the business situation" have also and naturally carried less weight when read in connection with the wholly extraordinary picture of distribution of merchandise over the railways, in which every week of October far overtopped the highest weekly record of any other year.

Even the statements of nation-wide building construction (where substantial shrinkage from last Autumn's tense activity was reasonably expected) show only negligible decrease from 1925; a decrease, moreover, fully accounted for by the change in localities where real-estate speculation was running wild a year ago. Checks drawn on the country's banks decreased 1½ per cent. from 1925 in September and 5 per cent. in October. Thus far even in November they have fallen below both 1925 and 1919, whereas every previous month since 1924 had shown increase over the year before and over all precedent for the month. Bank clearings, however, have to be studied rather carefully before determining exactly how much their changes mean.

Not to mention the fact that average commodity prices, which necessarily affect the dollar amount of a season's check payments, have ranged this Autumn 4 or 5 per cent. below last year, allowance must be made for comparison of this Autumn with a period of abnormal Stock Exchange activity last year. It is quite true that last month's average prices of stocks and bonds were somewhat higher than in 1925. But this should have been offset, in its effect on check payments, by October's decrease of 13 per cent. in bond transactions on the New York Exchange and of nearly 26 per cent. in sales of stocks.

It has been justly enough observed that most of the recent high trade records are reflections of past achievements rather than indications of the future. At times they have given no proper forecast whatever. The moderate trade reaction late in 1923 and early in 1924 was in plain sight before Autumn of the earlier year, yet weekly car loadings did not fall below 1922 until the last week of November. Car loadings in 1920, a period of far more formidable reaction, increased over the year preceding in every week until the middle of December, and even monthly iron production kept ahead of 1919 up to the 1920 year-end. In October, 1907, the very month of the great panic, the country's iron output was greater than the year before, and production for the first six months of the year had broken all records. The same was true of freight tonnage on the railways.

This merely means that continuance of industrial activity at high pressure does not of itself prove a negative on impending trade reaction. The statements for last month do prove, however, that the reaction confidently predicted eight or ten months ago for the present Autumn has not materialized. The October trade returns are absolutely at variance with those prophecies; they warrant at least the assertion that no convincing sign of such reaction is yet in sight. Such inference is the more reasonable in that certain other familiar and tangible indications of industrial unsettlement, which were present in the other years referred to—overproduction and heaping-up of unsold goods in 1923, extreme money stringency in 1920 and 1907—are now conspicuously absent.

To infer from all this, however, that continued industrial expansion on the scale of 1925 and 1926 is on the cards would be wholly unjustifiable assumption. Nothing would be more natural, in the light of all past experience, than the relaxing of the pace both of consumption and production—if not because the community's needs have been anticipated, then because of prudent desire to test the situation, before engaging in larger plans of production and trade for the coming year. It might easily turn out to have anticipated an actual situation. If not; if it should subsequently be found that actual consumptive demand had not relaxed at all—a discovery made in the motor-car industry at the beginning of 1925 and in general trade at the end of 1922—then industrial activity would have to be proportionately speeded up. But that sequence of events would be pref able to overstaying the producer's market and then adopting large-scale curtailment in a hurry.

WAITING TO INVEST

In expectancy of lower prices is a pitfall into which investors frequently fall. Idle money creates an expense which requires a considerable price reaction to justify, while an advance is doubly expensive.

Cady Lumber Corporation

(Delaware Corporation)

First (Closed) Mortgage and Lien 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

To be dated November 1, 1926 To mature November 1, 1939

Interest payable May 1 and November 1. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Principal and interest payable in gold at Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company. Redeemable at the option of the Corporation on any interest date, either through purchase in the open market or by call, upon 30 days' notice at 105 and accrued interest to May 1, 1930, thereafter at ½ of 1% less each year until maturity. The Corporation agrees to pay interest without deduction for any normal Federal Income Tax not exceeding two per cent per annum, which it may lawfully pay at the source, and to refund upon application within 60 days after payment, the Pennsylvania, California and Connecticut Personal Property Taxes, not exceeding 4 mills annually, the District of Columbia personal property tax not exceeding 5 mills annually, the Maryland 4½ mills tax and the Massachusetts income tax not exceeding 6% per annum on income derived from the bonds.

CHATHAM PHENIX NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, Trustee

A Sinking Fund beginning February 15, 1928, is provided to retire the entire issue by maturity.

Each bond of this offering will carry detachable Stock Purchase Warrants entitling the holder thereof to purchase ten shares of Cady Lumber Corporation Common Stock for each $1,000 principal amount of the bonds, at $30 per share, up to the maturity of the bonds; November 1, 1939, regardless of any or all of the bonds being called previously.

We summarize from a letter written us by Mr. W. M. Cady, President of the Corporation, and from other official sources as follows:

Business: The Cady Lumber Corporation conducts the largest lumber manufacturing operation in the Southwest at its modern plants at McNary and Flagstaff, Arizona, which have a combined capacity of more than 130,000,000 feet B.M. per annum. Its product is marketed under the well and favorably known trade name of "Cady Quality" Arizona white pine.

The Corporation has under contracts with the United States Government, the right to cut from the Apache Indian Reservation, Apache, Coconino and Sitgreaves National Forests, all in Arizona merchantable timber, comprising in the aggregate, according to the estimate of James D. Lacey & Co., approximately one billion feet B.M. It has no capital invested in standing timber, its purchase contracts providing for payment for timber only when and as cut, without interest and without taxes. All operations are under United States Government Department of Forestry supervision and are so conducted that reforestation is continuous at a rate equal to or exceeding the rate of cut. The value of the Corporation's equity in the said timber has been appraised by James D. Lacey & Co. at $3,041,785.75, although carried at only $100.00 on its books.

Security: These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by first mortgage on all of the fixed assets of the Corporation and by assignment to the Trustee of its timber contracts, and the deposit of all of the bonds and the total capital stock (except Directors' qualifying shares) of the Apache Railway Company.

The present sound value of the above plants and property, logging railroads, machinery and equipment and timber contracts including the assets of the Apache Railway Company, has been appraised by the Foundation Company of New York and James D. Lacey & Co. at $8,337,836, or more than 4 times the amount of the issue.

Earnings: The net earnings of the Cady Lumber Corporation, its subsidiary and predecessor companies, after depreciation, depletion and taxes, other than Federal Taxes, and after adjustment for certain non-recurring charges, have averaged over $746,300 per annum for the ten years ending January 1, 1926, or over 5.7 times the maximum interest on this bond issue. The above earnings were derived principally from the operations in Louisiana prior to 1924 when its cut in that State was completed.

Operations of the Corporation are now at an annual rate of 130,000,000 feet B.M. per year, from which earnings for the current quarter are at the rate of over $1,000,000 per year. From and after January 1, 1927, annual net earnings of the Corporation, available for interest on these bonds, are estimated at $1,300,000, or ten times these requirements.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of this issue will be used for the retirement of approximately $900,000 of bonds now outstanding, to reimburse the Corporation in part for advances made from its treasury for capital expenditures, and to provide additional working capital.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us, subject to approval of counsel. All legal matters in connection with this issue will be passed upon for the Bankers by White & Case, and for the Corporation by Dawes, Abbott and Littlefield. Engineering reports by Edwin Stansbury and James D. Lacey & Co. Appraisals by The Foundation Co. Audits by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. Interim Certificates of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company will be ready about November 22, 1926.

HOMEWARD FLOW OF CAPITAL TO FRANCE

Not Only Merchants but Individuals Bringing Back Their Money From Abroad.

FRANC'S RISE MAY CONTINUE

Paris Bankers Believe, However, That Only Stabilization Can Prevent Ultimate Reaction.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The sharp fall in the franc and the rise in the foreign exchanges during the first three days of last week caused little surprise on the Paris market. Following the present week's very rapid advance of the franc, the reaction was chiefly caused by profit-taking on the part of speculative buyers. Apparently there were also some bear sales of francs.

On Friday, however, when the market reopened after its one-day holiday, the market's tendency again changed. The fact of greatest importance now visible from the viewpoint of the near future of the franc is the return of French capital from abroad to France, a movement which is now becoming fairly widespread.

Who Are Recalling Capital.

Not only are traders and manufacturers liquidating the foreign exchange bills which they bought earlier in the season without immediate need but also a certain number of private individuals are selling both the foreign exchange bills and the foreign securities which they had bought as a guaranty against an extreme fall in the franc.

It is now considered possible that the return of capital may reach even greater proportions. In such case, the reserve of foreign exchange still held by the French public would unquestionably more than suffice to provide the market with the exchange bills needed to pay for imported goods. If this were to happen, the franc would naturally go still higher.

Financial judgment, in summing up the situation, recognizes that the tendency of the franc is distinctly upward. But it also holds that, if the rise continues very long, it will cause a sharp reaction in the opposite direction.

The Oscillating Franc.

Such oscillations in the exchange rate can be suppressed only by the effective stabilizing of the franc. But so far as Poincaré's intentions are known, he does not intend to put his stabilization plan into practice for several months. This, indeed, could hardly be otherwise, since the question of American debt ratification will not be debated in Parliament before Feb. 1, if even then.

The inference drawn in Paris financial circles is that Poincaré wishes to stabilize the franc at a higher valuation than the present market. He appears to feel that a well filled treasury, increased reserves of exchange in the Government's hands and practical certainty that the full budget will be vote before the end of the year should make stabilization possible under better conditions by waiting. Financial circles are, however, less optimistic on this point.

THINK AUTUMN DECLINE IN STERLING IS ENDED

Last Week's Recovery Ascribed Movement of Foreign Capital Into London Market.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—The past week's recovery in sterling is believed here to indicate that the Autumn pressure will soon be over. In its recent weakness, the London rate was influenced, first, by the heavy British coal imports and, second, by the numerous foreign loan issues taken in London, at a time when sterling is normally lower because of its large Autumn imports of raw materials. The week-end recovery had a partial cause in rather important variation of money market parities between Amsterdam and London, which caused considerable transfer of capital from the Dutch to the British market.

Gold holdings of the Netherlands Bank remain practically unchanged. The bank has in fact converged its recent activities on foreign exchange bills. These decreased from 194,000,000 guilders on Oct. 25 to 178,000,000 on Nov. 8. The cause was the transfer of capital to London already mentioned.

EUROPEAN RECOVERY SEEN.

Economist Thinks, However, Present Year's Improvement Is Slight.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—The well-known economist, Professor Treub, expresses the opinion that Europe's economic condition has improved this year, although only slightly. He sees danger that Japanese industrial products may be preferred above European wares.

Some stress is laid on the decreasing unemployment in Germany, although the number of idle workmen is still above the average of 1925. Holland is stated to have distinct advantages over surrounding countries by reason of the important economic gains in the Dutch colonies.

GOLD OUTGO FROM LONDON.

Net Excess of Exports in October £892,231, Mostly to Germany.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Gold imports into England during October, as stated by the Board of Trade, were £3,475,671, nearly all from Africa. Exports were £4,368,902, of which France took £202,000. Netherlands £145,000, Switzerland £63,842, Egypt £20,400, Spain £15,000, India £62,309, and the Straits Settlements £70,615.

The balance of £3,784,062 went to other countries not specified in the official monthly return, Germany, however, took most of it.

BRITISH FOREIGN TRADE UPSET BY COAL STRIKE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—That the coal strike continues to have a very bad effect on Britain's foreign trade, a few leading figures will show. October's total imports were £2,178,000 above 1925, a 2 per cent. increase, while total exports declined £13,905,000, or more than 20 per cent. Higher prices again were paid for coal, which normally does not figure at all in the imports. Coal imported last month cost £7,723,000, against £7,747,000 in September, £7,541,000 in August, and only £2,906 in October of 1925. Coal exports were practically nothing, against £4,015,000 a year ago.

Since the coal stoppage, imports of coal have totaled 14,326,780 tons, valued at £28,139,779. For the same period in 1925, their value was only £9,270. Imports of iron and steel rose £1,091,000 and exports declined £2,193,000. Cotton yarns and manufactured exports declined £4,171,861 while the total manufactured articles exported decreased £8,870,439 as compared with last year.

Total exports since the beginning of the coal strike have been £70,100,000 less than in 1925, with thirty-three trades out of a total of forty-one showing a decline in goods sold abroad. The month's adverse balance was £47,476,000 against £28,376,000 a year ago, making £364,165,000 for the ten months, against £301,680,000 last year, and £256,007,000 in 1924. Ten months' imports show a decline of £57,898,000 and exports a decrease of £120,384,000.

DOUBT SOUNDNESS OF GERMANY'S POSITION

Dutch Bankers Consider It Based on Foreign Loans, Which Must Be Repaid.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—The steady accumulation of gold by the German Reichsbank attracts much attention here. This accumulation is considered in itself a favorable factor, but banking opinion is that it was made possible through somewhat dangerous proceedings, chiefly the great abundance of foreign credits built up for German account.

These credits, based upon loans, have caused for the moment a favorable balance in exchange payments and thereby led directly to the gold influx. But a further cause is the superabundance of the inland money supply, which is leading to an advance in the German level of prices. The increasing amount of foreign bills in the Reichsbank's possession creates a favorable position on reparations account, and therefore artificially reflects a much better economic position under the Dawes scheme than really exists. The danger of the whole position is that Germany is paying too high for the gold acquired and making possible an awkward position when the later interest and principal repayments to foreign markets must be met.

SUDDEN REACTION ON BERLIN STOCK MARKET

Speculators and General Public Turn Sellers—'Bear Market' Not Expected.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The Berlin Stock Exchange had a violent setback in the first half of last week. It showed further slight weakness on Thursday, but ended the week firm. Rhenish speculators, who have recently supported the market enthusiastically, withdrew last week and the general public began selling.

The favorite speculative stocks were the heaviest losers. Shares of the Dyes Trust, which had reached 394 in the preceding week, touched 348 last Thursday. The reaction was considered altogether natural, since the latest upward movement had continued without interruption since early in September. Bankers declared last week that, although quotations are still far above intrinsic dividend value, no general bear movement is likely so long as money remains in its present state of abundance.

RISING FRENCH REVENUE.

October Collections From Indirect Taxes Nearly 38% Above 1925.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The French public revenue continues to make a highly favorable showing. Last week's statement for October showed that receipts from indirect taxes during the month, excluding tobacco, were 3,120 millions, as against 2,262 millions in the corresponding month last year. Receipts from direct taxes during the month reached 2,620 million francs, the highest monthly figure ever reached.

During the ten completed months of the year revenue from direct taxes has footed up 9,130 million francs, which exceeds 1925 by 600 millions.

LONDON TAKES NEW LOANS.

Oversubscription of Home and Foreign Issues Last Week.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—New security offerings are keeping the markets in check. Oversubscription was reported last week of more than £7,000,000 in new securities, including £4,000,000 issue of Central Argentine Railway, £3,000,000 by the Selfridge Stores, and £400,000 by a well-known Derbyshire Colliery.

A good deal of capital continues to be raised by private issues, while new loans expected soon include Siam and Bulgaria.

DOUBT OVER FRANC'S STABILIZATION RATE

Other Markets Predict Alternately 150 Francs to the Pound and 125.

HIGHER FIGURE FAVORED

No Definite Action Expected Until Treasury's Floating Debt Has Been Put in Order.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—The stabilization of the franc is not expected on this market at an early date. It will hardly be undertaken so long as the present amount of something like 50,000,000,000 francs in Treasury obligations are outstanding with an average maturity of six months.

Moreover, it is felt here that stabilization would hardly be facilitated by the recent rapid fluctuations of the franc. Its fall in the early part of last week is principally ascribed here to heavy buying of foreign exchange by French importers, followed by speculative selling of the same exchanges. This would seem to mean that the Bank of France is not yet mastering the position of exchange.

There is still a feeling that the political situation in France, which is closely connected with the prospects of stabilization, may become again precarious. On the other hand, the remarkable fact stands out that confidence of the French people themselves in their own currency has very greatly increased. This is reflected by the unquestionably large return of French capital from foreign markets.

The rumored basis of stabilization is 125 francs to the pound sterling, or about 25¾ francs to the dollar; but the actual stabilization point will probably not be below 150 francs per pound, or slightly above 30 francs per dollar.

London Mystified Over Movement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The franc reacted somewhat last week, but only temporarily, and this market is still mystified by its recent big appreciation. It has been said that Poincaré now aims at 125 francs to the pound for stabilization purposes; but for all that is known, 150 francs to the pound may be just as correct a guess.

Meanwhile it is significant that, in spite of doubts and suspicions as to the genuineness of the recovery, the franc holds its rise remarkably well. It must not be forgotten that French budget estimates were based on the franc at 150 to the pound and to that level the rate has steadily gravitated.

HALF YEAR'S BUDGET OF GERMANY SHOWS LOSS

Shortage in 'Ordinary Budget' Only Slight—Net Surplus Since Financial Reconstruction.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The Finance Ministry's return for the first half of the German budget year shows an ordinary budget deficit of only 15,700,000 marks. For the period the revenue was 3,544,100,000 marks and expenditures 3,559,800,000.

After adding to the six months' share the budget surpluses from the preceding two years, the result is a net surplus, since the reorganization of the public finances, amounting to 168,200,000 marks. Extraordinary budget expenditure for the half-year was 329,000,000 against which only 1,100,000 revenue is available. The Federal debt is stated at 2,141,800,000 marks, of which 909,700,000 represented the Dawes loan and 911,800,000 the Government's debt to the Rentenbank.

STRONG POSITION SHOWN BY PARIS BANK RETURN

Last Week's Large Reduction in Paper Currency—Treasury in Excellent Shape.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The bank return of last Friday showed that the situation had completely recovered from the effects of the month-end settlement. This was shown by the unusually large decrease of 1,796,000,000 francs in bills discounted, against only 118,000,000 increase in loans against securities. The bank's private loans were therefore reduced 1,678,000,000, against a reduction of 1,147,000,000 in the same week of 1925.

The still more decidedly favorable indication of the statement was the repayment of 500,000,000 francs by the Treasury to the bank and the decline of 724,000,000 in note circulation. Taken as a whole, the return showed very easy money market conditions.

These have not been interfered with by the payments to the Government. The Treasury has been receiving exceptionally large amounts from taxpayers and active subscriptions to the defense bonds, but it has not tied up the money thus received, placing it instead at the disposal of the market, through purchases of foreign exchange bills.

MILLIONAIRE FAILURE HURT AUSTRIAN MARKET

State Has Taken Over Securities of Insolvent Capitalist—To Be Sold Abroad.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 14.—The Stock Exchange still fails to recover. Prices have in fact declined somewhat further during the last few days, chiefly because of the liquidation of the property of the latest Austrian war-time millionaire Bosel, until lately President of the Union Bank. This liquidation, it is true, had been expected for a long time past; but the Boerse was badly impressed by the recent discovery that Bosel had speculated chiefly with money of the National Postal Savings Bank, which sustained a loss of more than 70,000,000 schillings.

The State, as a result, becomes owner of the shares which Bosel had pledged with the Postal Savings Bank. These include a majority of the stock in the Union Bank and in the Veitsch Magnesite Works, also a portion of the stock of the Laura Smelting Works in Silesia. These shares the State will probably sell abroad. Tenders have already been made by several firms, including Speyer-Elissen and a leading German bank.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The Bank of France last week bought gold and silver coin to the extent of 125,000,000 paper francs paid out in the purchase. The preceding week it had paid out 137,000,000 for similar purchases.

This indicates that deposits of gold by the public are continuing to diminish. The return shows that the total amount of gold bought up to date has cost 1,328,000,000 paper francs, which would indicate purchases of about 231,000,000 francs gold.

In the Yugoslavian market, however, there has been an increased demand for industrial shares.

EARNINGS: The average earnings of the Moto Meter Company, Inc., after all charges, including depreciation but before Federal taxes for the four years ending December 31, 1925 were over 30 times the interest charges on these Notes and for the nine months ended September 30, 1926 amounted to over 38 times the said charges. They average for the four years ending December 31, 1925 over 5.8 times the combined interest and maturity requirements and for the nine months of 1926 amount to an annual rate of over 7 times said requirements, without giving effect to any earnings of the National Gauge and Equipment Company recently acquired.

The Balance Sheet of The Moto Meter Company, Inc., as of September 30, 1926, shows net tangible assets applicable to these notes ($1,000,000) of over $4,000,000. Net current assets amount to over $2,000 per $1,000 note of which cash alone equals over $1,500 per note.

Professor Ripley's Criticism of various 'public utility hierarchies," which appeared recently in the Atlantic Monthly, holds much of importance for every investor who owns Bonds or Stocks of the following Companies or their Subsidiaries:

American Water Works & Elec. Co., Inc.
Associated Gas & Electric Co.
Cities Service Company
General Gas & Electric Corp.
North American Light & Power Co.
Standard Gas & Electric Co.
United Light & Power Co.

Using Prof. Ripley's article as a basis, we have analyzed the Securities of these Companies both from the viewpoint of values as they exist today and the effect upon these values arising from future simplifications in capital structure.

It is plainly apparent that such simplifications will materially alter the position of countless Securities in these Groups.

Our letter B-10 briefly reviews the above situation and places at your disposal analyses of the Bonds or Stocks which you yourself own.

LONDON RELIEVED AT STERLING RECOVERY

MONEY DRAWN TO LONDON

Belief That Other Banking Centres Are Helping to Protect the Situation.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—After falling to a rate previously near the gold point, sterling has again relieved immediate anxiety by recovering to a safe distance above that level. The market attributes the rally partly to prospects of peace in the coal trade and partly to American purchases of sterling bills.

It describes this demand as of "special character," and is inclined to read into it a significance which may or may not exist. There is little doubt that sterling bills coming forward from America this year are considerably less than last year, and it is believed here that instead of coming to London many of these bills have been sold to the Continent, which for a long time past has been a steady buyer of sterling in the London market.

How Sterling Is Protected.

It is stated that the proceeds received for these bills by American holders have been deposited with British banks, which, it is asserted, are offering better terms to Americans for such deposits than could be retained by using them in buying bills. The retention of American money in this market is thus assisted by what appears to be considerable competition among English banks for deposits. It is still a matter for wonder, however, that with the coal situation throwing an increased strain upon foreign exchanges sterling has held its own so well.

To some extent it is believed that coal imports from America have been offset by the smaller sum England is having to pay the United States for cotton. It is understood, too, that America is financing more of London's cotton bills than usual.

International Cooperation.

There are, in fact, a number of indications pointing to closer international banking cooperation, which undoubtedly relieves the pressure on sterling exchange at a moment when it needs support the most. If we add to this cooperation the marked confidence in sterling, which has steadily grown since Great Britain's return to the gold standard, we have a combination sufficiently strong to furnish an explanation for sterling's resistance to extremely adverse economic circumstances.

Currency notes outstanding at the end of the week aggregated £289,192,093, compared with £289,437,193 one week ago and £287,615,444 two weeks ago. The highest of the year to date was £303,466,376 in the week ended May 31; the lowest, £284,178,770, in the week ended Feb. 19.

PROTECTIVE STEPS ON LONDON MONEY MARKET

Credit Practically 'Rationed' So as to Sustain the Rate for Sterling.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—It has now become too plain for doubt that, so far as London's internal policy is concerned, the London money market is being strictly managed on fine calculated to give the greatest support to sterling. The supply of credit has been so arranged—it might almost be said rationed—that the market's activities have been greatly reduced in the past few months.

Evidence of this is supplied by the fact that the money market's deposits at the Bank of England are only about £103,000,000. Yet no pronounced stringency has prevailed and the market has borrowed very little this Autumn from the Bank of England. On the appearance of any sign of undue pressure in Lombard Street, steps are immediately taken to relieve the situation by means of purchase of bills from the market by banks acting indirectly on behalf of the Bank of England, which successfully worked up discount rates when it was seen that Autumn must bring an undue strain upon the exchanges, owing to the coal strike, and has maintained them just under the bank rate ever since.

GERMANY'S HOME LOANS, FOREIGN BORROWING

Takes $283,000,000 New Domestic Issues Year to Date, Places $324,000,000 Abroad.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—A summary of transactions in the German market for new securities up to date show that, in the ten months of 1926, issue of home loans aggregated 1,189 million marks, of which 319 millions were industrial bonds. In addition, about 1,000 millions were raised by new mortgage bond issues.

Foreign loans amounted to 1,364 million marks, compared with 1,450 millions in the same period of 1925. Borrowings in America during the ten months footed up 967 millions, comparing with 1,074 millions in the same period last year. Borrowing by the States has been smaller than in 1925, but municipal borrowing has been greater.

RISE IN FRANC HAMPERS FRENCH EXPORT TRADE

Textile Industry Especially Affected—May Influence Course of Public Revenue.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—It is recognized by Paris bankers that the franc has already reached a level which hinders export trade in certain industries, notably textiles. If, under the influence of psychological factors, the rise should be carried further a rather general slump in French trade would be expected. The trade balance would probably be thrown out of equilibrium and fiscal receipts might simultaneously drop. These two phenomena would then, as the bankers see it, affect French exchange unfavorably.

The effect of the rise in the franc is shown in the current index numbers of wholesale prices. While the index number for October worked out at 767, compared with 804 in September, with 785 in August and with 572 in October, 1925, the heavy decline from the September average was occasioned solely by imported products, whose price is immediately affected by exchange rates. The average of national products advanced. It was 744 in October, compared with 743 in September and 722 in August, whereas the index number of imported goods was 808, compared with 912 in September and 902 in August.

RECOVERY CONTINUES IN TRADE OF GERMANY

Improvement Mostly Based, However, on High-Record Coal Production Due British Strike.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The principal feature of the German trade position is the continuing improvement in the coal industry, a result of the British strike. Each successive week has of late shown a new high record in output.

Coal exports during the first nine months of the year, excluding the deliveries on account of reparations, amounted to 204,126,000 tons, which compares with only 10,438,000 tons in the same period of 1925. Imports during the period this year were 4,084,800 tons; they were 7,803,600 in 1925.

In other directions, the machine manufacturers association reports considerable improvement in both home and foreign business. Potash sales in October were, however, 63,090 tons of pure potash, against 73,537 in October, 1925. One important development is the decision of the railroads corporation to place with home manufacturers orders for 800,000 tons of steel rails. The demand for rolling mills products has declined slightly since the beginning of November, with prices a trifle lower. But the active demand for half-finished material continues.

RISE IN LONDON BANK RATE NOT NOW FEARED

Market Encouraged at Expected Collapse of Strike—Doubts Great Trade Revival.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Market observers are now firmly of the opinion that the only danger now existing of a higher London bank rate arises from the possible advance of the open market discount rate over the bank rate. Judging, however, from the skilful way in which the situation has been handled during the past few months, this danger is not great. A few more weeks should see the pressure on sterling naturally diminish, after which the money market will need less control and rates will be allowed to relax.

The stock markets, although still keeping an anxious eye on the money market, are cheering up under the influence of hope for an early settlement of the coal strike. There is believed, however, to be little chance of a pronounced trade revival when the dispute is needed. If the strike had collapsed three months ago, the markets would certainly have gone rapidly ahead; but the strike has lasted so long and inflicted such damage on industry that the forward movement in trade is expected as a certainty to be sluggish and not of a character to justify enthusiastic recovery in stocks.

AUSTRIA'S ORDINARY BUDGET SHOWS SURPLUS

Increase in Both Revenue and Expenditure Is, However, Called Alarming.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 14.—The Austrian budget for 1927 estimates receipts of 1,567,000,000 schillings, against expenditures of 1,702,000,000. The expenditure includes 180,000,000 for public works, covered by what remains of the League of Nations credit.

Allowing for this, the estimates show a surplus of 45,000,000 schillings, or 9,000,000 more than in 1926. This does not, however, include possible losses to the State from relief which had to be extended to the Central Bank or from the unlucky transactions with the Postal Savings Bank; neither does it include the deficit of the Federal Railway systems, which has been covered through bank credits for the time being.

The Neue Freie Presse describes the fresh increase of both expenditure and receipts by 170,000,000 each, or 20 per cent. altogether, as an alarming fact. It thinks such straining of resources may be bearable today, but perhaps no longer bearable tomorrow, in view of the continuing economic crisis.

POLITICAL DISPUTES HALT BERLIN MARKET

MONEY STAYS ABUNDANT

Reichsbank President Attacks Use of Public Deposit Funds by Other Banking Institutions.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The troubles of the German Ministry caused by the opposition of the German National parties occasioned last week considerable hesitation in business circles. This was emphasized by renewed weakness in the steel industry and by the sudden and violent reaction on the Bourse.

Industrial circles generally take the view that the Marx Cabinet cannot survive the Winter and carry out its economic legislation unless it takes the Socialists into partnership. As to this recourse, business circles fear that the Socialists may demand large concessions in regard to labor hours, taxation and other questions as the condition for their support.

Easy Money Continues.

The money situation, however, continues satisfactory. Day-to-day money is offered far in excess of demand, with the rate 3½ to 5½ per cent. Still further increase of ease in the money market is expected later in the present month.

Notwithstanding the Autumn revival of industry, the total volume of credits outstanding at the Reichsbank, the private note banks and the Rentenbank increased only from 1,969,000,000 marks to 2,215,000,000 between the end of July and the end of September. In October, the Reichsbank credits were not increased at all.

Dispute Over Public Deposits.

The question of "organization credit" has become acute in connection with the money market's position. It has been brought into public attention by the renewed attack of Dr. Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, on the independent credit policy pursued by institutions holding accumulated public funds. Government officials controlling the free cash of the national and Prussian Treasuries and of the railroads corporation lend these out through their own banks to business borrowers, without consulting the Reichsbank, whose general credit policy is thereby often defeated.

Schacht complains that 2,500,000,000 marks have been accumulated from the above sources, of which only 420,000,000 have been deposited in the Reichsbank. He expressed the view very positively that the Reichsbank ought to handle all such funds. Other suggestions have been made, but business circles strongly oppose the suggestion of the Prussian State banks that the funds be entrusted to a new central credit institution.

LONDON GOLD EXPORT TO BERLIN NEAR END

Much Criticism of German Bank's Policy—Belgium Not Taking Gold.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Indications are that exports of gold to Germany from London are diminishing and may soon cease altogether. Having returned to the gold standard, London does not complain of the increasing of Europe's gold reserves at the Bank of England's expense, but Germany's policy of hoarding gold is criticized. Bankers are reluctant to say anything, but the press is inclined to charge Germany with "overbuying" gold. The Statist is particularly outspoken, pointing out that the Reichsbank's gold policy strikes a jarring note when judged by recent unanimous pronouncements by eminent economists and financiers on a probable shortage of gold.

Germany is believed to be accumulating gold in anticipation of an expansion in industrial activity and there is thought to be little likelihood that it will relinquish the gold it has acquired. Belgium bought gold in London last week, but no important withdrawals are expected, because the gold reserve required by Belgium as cover for notes has been raised well over the 30 per cent. minimum needed.

German Business Protests Against Government Intrusion in Industry.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Central associations representing industrialists, traders and the banking and insurance industries, have held a meeting to protest against the increasing activities of the German Government in business. In particular, the meeting complained of the republic's innumerable manufacturing activities and its monopoly of aluminum production.

It also condemned the retail selling operations conducted by the German municipalities and their conversion of savings banks into institutions performing general banking functions.

AUSTRIAN UNEMPLOYMENT.

Reduction of 91,000 Since February Considered Good Sign for Trade.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 14.—The number of unemployed workmen in Austria, which reached 236,000 last February, had fallen to 145,000 last month. This number is about the same as in October, 1925.

At that time, however, the figure had been reached by a continuing rapid increase, whereas now it marks a gradual and continuous reduction. The financial press emphasizes the importance of this distinction, and infers trade improvement is reflected by it.

The Cotton Situation and the South

Starting Wednesday, November 17, The Wall Street Journal will publish the first of a series of constructive studies dealing with:

(a) the factors which are causing cotton to sell at present prices,

(b) and the obvious steps which can be taken for the future.

In the preparation of these studies, The Wall Street Journal's cotton expert has travelled, observed and talked to growers, bankers and business men in all sections of the cotton states. These articles will discuss:

The comparative cost of production with the spot and future market.

1925 and 1926 farmers' incomes from cotton.

* * * * *

The difference between world consumption and production rates.

Where remedies are now being applied.

* * * * *

Where remedies are most needed.

* * * * *

The discrepancy between the South's production of cotton and food-stuffs and live stock.

Cotton leads our export trade. The condition of the industry effects every interest. Every investor should read these articles.

$4,706,000 IN BONDS ON MARKET TODAY

Industries and Municipalities Borrowing—Items Ranging Up to $2,000,000.

HEAVY FINANCING TO COME

Public Utility Issues Amounting to $66,000,000 to Be Offered for Investment.

While the new bond offerings announced for today amount only to $4,706,000, preparations are being made for a total of $66,000,000 public utility financing. Under the present conditions in the bond market, the large utility companies are able in many cases to effect important savings in interest charges through refunding bond issues, in addition to which funds are being raised for important construction work in various parts of the country.

The largest offering today consists of $2,000,000 Cady Lumber Corporation first mortgage and lien 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, which will be marketed by a banking group consisting of G. E. Barrett & Co., Edmund Seymour & Co., J. A. Ritchie & Co., Frederick Peirce & Co. and Faxon, Gade & Co. The bonds are priced at 96½ and interest, to yield more than 6.65 per cent. Each $1,000 bond will carry a warrant entitling the holder to purchase ten shares of the corporation's common stock at $30 a share up to the maturity of the bonds in 1939.

George B. Gibbons & Co., Remick, Hodges & Co., Redmond & Co., and Eastman, Dillon & Co. are offering $1,000,000 City of Asbury Park, N. J., 4½ and 4¾ per cent. bonds. The 4½s will mature serially from 1936 to 1960, and the 4¾s, from 1927 to 1936. The bonds are priced to yield from 4.15 to 4.40 per cent.

Lage & Co., E. F. Hutton & Co. and Merrill, Lynch & Co. announced the sale of $901,000 Moto Meter Company, Inc., 6 per cent. gold notes, due from 1927 to 1930, inclusive. The notes were priced to yield from 5.25 to 6 per cent. They are part of an authorized issue of $1,000,000 in connection with the purchase of the common stock of the National Gauge and Equipment Company.

E. H. Rollins & Sons and Pulleyn & Co. are distributing $700,000 City of Schenectady, N. Y., 4.10 per cent. gold bonds, due from 1927 to 1946 and priced to yield from 3.75 to 4 per cent.

A new issue of $105,000 Borough of New Milford, N. J., 5 per cent. improvement bonds is being placed by R. M. Grant & Co. The bonds are due from 1928 to 1943 and are priced to yield 4.50 per cent.

Application has been filed with the California Railroad Commission by the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation and the Great Western Power Company of California for permission to sell $35,000,000 additional securities, it was announced by Peirce, Fair & Co., Blyth, Witter & Co. and E. H. Rollins & Sons, who are directing the financing. With $10,000,000 of Western Power Corporation bonds soon to be issued, this makes a total of $45,000,000 of public utility financing to be offered by this banking group. Refunding will be part of these operations.

The Potomac Edison Company is about to refund more than $11,000,000 of its bonds through the issuance of a like amount of first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds. Public offering of the new bonds will be made soon by a syndicate headed by W. C. Langley & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co.

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois has sold an issue of $10,000,000 5 per cent. debentures, maturing in 1931, to Halsey, Stuart & Co. The issue will be offered publicly in a few days.

ODD RESULT OF THE STRIKE

Austrian Works to Use Own Coal, Shutting Out Neighbor Producers.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 14.—One result of the British coal strike has been a long-term agreement between Austrian industrialists and Austrian coal mines. It was reached after the industrialists had concluded to carry out certain technical alterations in their factories necessary for using the inferior Austrian coal.

The consequence of this arrangement will be that the Czechoslovakian and Polish coal mines, which, during the English strike, reduced or even suspended provision of supplies for Austria, their chief customer, will now permanently lose a considerable portion of the Austrian market. For the present, export of coal in Austrian railway wagons is forbidden.

GERMAN RAILWAYS PROSPER

Large Increase in Revenue—Autumn Loadings Increase.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Receipts of the railroads corporation as now reported for August were 413,170,000 marks. This compares with 410,590,000 marks in July and 372,660,000 in June. August and July show small surpluses, after providing payment on reparations bonds and the preferred stock advanced.

The financial return for September has not yet been issued, but the car-loading returns show continuous increase over preceding months. For the full month of September loadings were 12 per cent. above those of September 1925, and 37 per cent. above last January, which was the low mark of the year.

BANK OF ENGLAND'S GOLD.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Receipts of gold by the Bank of England in the last calendar week were £522,000. This was chiefly made up, however, of £500,000 in sovereigns released from the earmarked reserve of the South African Reserve Bank. The balance was bars bought in the open market.

Withdrawals were £324,000 of which £250,000 were sovereigns taken for Canada. The remainder were bars sold for unstated destinations.

Arrival of £900,000 in bars from South Africa is immediately impending.

TRADE BUYING HELPS TO SUPPORT COTTON

The Government Crop Forecast Brings Only a Temporary Drop in Values.

LARGE YIELD DISCOUNTED

South Believes High Point of Crop's Movement to Market Has Been Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 14.—While the cotton market has continued to be a waiting affair, with traders indisposed to enter upon any broad commitments except on the scale-down, with cotton still coming to market in volume, and with the coal strike in Great Britain still hampering exports and slowing down trade in Lancashire, prices have, nevertheless, held up well in the face of a Government forecast of the crop totaling 17,918,000 bales and record ginnings for the last period, which brought the total to Nov. 1 up to 11,299,038 bales, or slightly above the total of last year.

Even the big crop forecast of Monday failed to cause more than a temporary dip in values, as prices for the day closed higher than they did on the Saturday preceding. It promptly developed that there were numerous scale-down buying orders under the market, the execution of which was responsible for the prompt rally which followed the trifling drop that was precipitated by the report.

While evening up for over the armistice holiday here checked any tendency to advance for a time, that interruption out of the way, the market again resumed an upward course, with the renewal of buying on every slight dip. This frightened shorts into covering. This tendency was added to on the closing day of the week by the report that the British coal strike was on the eve of settlement, by rather large mill takings of 528,000 bales reported by Secretary Hester and by an appreciable falling off of the movement of the crop into sight, indicating that the peak of the crop's movement to market had been passed.

Stocks have been piling up at the ports and now total 2,656,908 bales, as compared with 2,017,342 bales last year. Some of this cotton has, no doubt, sought the ports for better storage against a later improvement in prices, but the great bulk of it is undoubtedly earmarked for export, and will be shipped out rapidly when adequate tonnage is available.

MIDWEST CORN CROP DROPS.

Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Nebraska Yields Below 1925's.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—A feature of the corn crop is the decrease in the yield in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania from an abnormal one in 1925 to about a normal average this year, while Iowa, the largest corn producing section of the country, has 410,000,000 bushels, a loss of 73,000,000 bushels from last year and of 14,000,000 bushels from the five-year average.

As Eastern Middle West States have no more than the usual surplus those in the West may have a better opportunity to dispose of their surplus in the East.

Western Nebraska has a short crop, the State, in all, raising 135,000,000 bushels, or 101,000,000 less than last year. It, with Kansas short in crop, will have no corn to sell. Consumers in Nebraska are drawing on Western Iowa for supplies, and the Pacific Coast is also buying corn in Iowa.

It is expected that 50,000,000 bushels will be shipped west from Iowa this year. This means a market for the Iowa surplus, and a good haul for the railroads.

Dry, windy weather was favorable for curing the corn crop the past week, and husking progressed, but considerable of the crop is too wet to crib.

SLIGHT DECLINE IN THE COMMODITY AVERAGE

Index Number for Week Below Week Preceding, but Above Fortnight Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of American commodity prices for the past week, based on 100 as the average of 1913, is 152.9, comparing with 153.5 the week before, 150 two weeks before, 148.4 three weeks before and 148.1 four weeks before. The highest average for the year to date was 159.7, on Jan. 30; the lowest, 147.2, on Aug. 21, which was also lower than any reached in 1925.

The highest weekly average reached in 1925 was 164.4, on Jan. 31, which was also higher than any reached in 1924; the lowest was 154.1, on May 2. The highest percentage since the war was 247, in May, 1920; the lowest, 130, in January, 1922.

Crump's British index number as cabled for the past week is 143, which compares with 145.9 a week ago, 146.1 two weeks ago, 145.7 three weeks ago and 145.6 four weeks ago. The average of two weeks ago was the highest since Jan. 9, when it stood at 146.7, which was the high point for the year to date; the lowest average thus far in 1926 was 138.1, on June 19.

The index number of average Italian prices, compiled and cabled by the Chamber of Commerce at Milan, was 638.1 for the past week, compared with 640.2 for the preceding week, 648.5 two weeks before, 660.7 three weeks before and 667.3 four weeks before. The average of 692.9 for the week ended Aug. 28 was the highest of the year to date, and was also higher than any reached in 1925; the lowest was 636.2, for the week ended May 1.

MORE GOLD FOR REICHSBANK

Berlin Expects Purchases to Continue—Large Addition Last Week.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Last week's Reichsbank return, as of Nov. 6, shows further increase of 20,921,000 marks in the gold reserves, making total gain of 244,000,000 since August; but the reserve of "legal cover exchange" remains practically unaltered. "Other assets," among which are also included exchange holdings, are largely increased.

This probably means that the bank's entire holding of foreign exchange has grown considerably. If that is so, further substantial purchases of foreign gold are to be expected.

ADVANCE IN STOCK AVERAGE

Preceding Week's Decline Nearly Recovered Last Week.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14.—The weekly index of Stock Exchange prices, compiled by Professor Fisher and based on the week's fifty most active industrial stocks reckoned on their average of 1925 as 100, is 160.6 for the past week. This compares with 156.7 for the week before, 162.1 two weeks before, 159.7 three weeks before and 165.8 four weeks before.

The average of 178.9 on Oct. 2 was the highest of the year to date, and was also higher than any reached in 1925; the lowest thus far in 1926 was 121.1, on April 17.

Outlook for Winter Wheat Fair.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Seeding of Winter wheat in the Middle West has been checked and acreage estimated at under last year, while in Kansas it is about the same as a year ago, with an increase of 20 per cent. in Oklahoma, as estimated by the Oklahoma weather crop bulletin. In the Texas Panhandle acreage is also larger.

ORDERS FOR STEEL ARE TAPERING DOWN

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—References to steel demand being lighter because the automobile industry is running at a low rate are merely reiterations. The steel market felt the full effect of this weeks ago and the new thing will be seasonal recovery just as the recent decrease in activity was very largely seasonal. Of more permanence is the agricultural implement situation, there being less activity than was expected, but still a very fair turnover. The wire mills find demand for barb wire and fence decidedly lighter than usual at this time of year, the showing being exactly in line with that of agricultural implements.

Activity in dwelling house and other small construction jobs to a later time in the year than used to be the case is seen in prolonged movement of nails, merchant pipe and sheets for building materials, corrugated, eaves and conductor pipe, lath, ceiling, &c.

In large construction work, involving fabricated steel, the movement continues light. In the last thirty days lettings of fabricated structural steel jobs have run only a trifle over half the former average, and there is decidedly less activity than a year ago. At that time, however, less activity throughout this year was being predicted and the year is running ahead of the predictions, at any rate.

This year's steel production will probably be about 9 per cent. above that of 1925, while a year ago there was little inclination to predict any increase. October production of steel ingots represented about 2 per cent. increase over August and September production, where there were numerous estimates of a decrease of several per cent. and no predictions of a measurable increase. Now the estimates are that November will run lighter than October, but the record of the past two years is chiefly of steel doing better than was promised.

A 9 per cent. increase this year over last is predicated upon the 10 per cent. increase shown for the ten months reported on, with allowance for the fact that November and December of last year were months of such heavy production that a 10 per cent. increase over them cannot be expected.

COTTON IS HELD BACK.

Stabilization of Market Is Expected in the South.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14.—While the cotton holding movement has not yet had a full opportunity to assert itself, there is no doubt that the better fixed producers have been holding back their cotton and there has been a marked falling off in hedge sales, indicating a relief of the pressure which prevailed until recently.

The plan to withdraw 4,000,000 bales from the market by extending loans to holders of cotton to the extent of 9 cents a pound, will undoubtedly have a stabilizing effect as soon as the movement is well under way and it is the announced intention of the cooperative associations which have been formed and financed in every cotton State, to get fully to work.

MORE COTTON EXPORTS WITH END OF STRIKE

Lancashire's Orders Reduced by Coal Embargo—The Movement Should Have Been Larger.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 14.—The long drawn out coal strike has slowed down Lancashire trade and correspondingly reduced the demand for American cotton from British mills, compared with what it should have been at present low prices and considering the abundant supply. With the coal strike settled and the output of the British mines speeded up, it is therefore expected that general trade in England will revive and a large amount of tonnage, engaged for months in carrying coal to British, Continental and other ports usually served by the British mines, will be released for transportation of cotton and grain at lower rates of freight than have prevailed this season so far.

The early effect of a settlement of the coal strike will undoubtedly be increase in exports. It is true that exports so far this season have exceeded the large movement of last season by something over 66,000 bales, nevertheless the outward shipments would have been larger had more tonnage been available for moving the cotton.

Lard Loses 60 to 70 Cents on Week.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Provisions are down to the lowest of the season, with holders liquidating, and closing prices show losses on lard at 60 to 70 cents for the week. There has been a decline of around 4 cents a pound or more in lard prices of late, with heavy losses by speculators, and the market has also baffled the efforts of packers to put lard futures in line with live hogs. Hogs are down to the lowest of the season and the cash trade is slightly improved, with prospects for heavy receipts for the next few weeks. November lard closed at $11.85 and January at $11.72½, with May $11.85.

SPECULATION LAGS, GRAIN PRICES DROP

Short Interest Too Narrow to Rally Markets and Hold Them at Higher Levels.

WHEAT WEAKEST IN WEEKS

Traders' Eyes Set on Crop Prospects in Canadian Provinces and in Australia.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The effect of the absence of large general speculative buying is strikingly apparent in the grain trade and is mainly responsible for sagging of values, with wheat down to the lowest prices in several weeks, and corn the lowest of the season. There is not a large enough short interest to rally prices and maintain the higher level for any length of time.

While stocks of corn are excessive and supplies are nearly as large as last year, the wheat market is not carrying the usual line of hedges put out against holdings of cash grain in various positions. It is believed, however, that should values decline five or ten cents more, it would result in hedging of considerable cash wheat held by millers, which is not all covered by sales of flour. What such a movement would mean is a problem that confronts the grain trade, and the disposition is to look for lower prices.

There is so much wheat at Canadian ports and at Georgian Bay and Buffalo that elevator storage capacity is congested and Montreal is regarded as having more grain that it can export before the close of navigation. It is only a month to the close of lake navigation and cold weather might cut it down to two weeks, bringing the end around Dec. 1.

The Weak Grain Market.

Prices have declined to nearly the lowest level of the season and are down where export business has developed heretofore, which creates the impression in some quarters that foreigners may take hold of American wheat, but as Canadian wheat is pressing on the market at lower prices, indications are that it will be taken in preference. The close was at the lowest for the week, with December $1.35⅝@1.35¾, May $1.40⅝ and July $1.33¼, showing net losses of 4¼@4⅝ cents.

In corn, December liquidation has carried prices down from 74¼ to 67⅞ cents within a week, with Saturday's close, 68¼ to 68⅞ cents for December; 77½ to 77¼ for May, and 80⅝ cents for July. Liquidation in December has been the main factor, with too much corn in Chicago and in the visible supply, the latter being around 30,000,000 bushels.

Good Prices at Missouri River Marts.

A peculiar feature of the corn situation is that prices at Missouri River markets are higher than in Chicago and have been all season. They are having a good cash trade there and are handling a great deal of corn.

Chicago, however, is the big corn market, having better distributing sources and the entire corn belt is dependent upon this market for its leadership. Prices are down to nearly an export level.

Grain Receipts at Primary Points.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Primary receipts of wheat for the week this year, 7,214,000 bushels; previous week, 8,273,000; last year, 7,170,000. Corn receipts this year were 6,293,000 bushels; previous week, 10,104,000; last year, 2,826,000.

Wheat shipments this week were 4,239,000 bushels; previous week, 5,467,000; last year, 4,708,000; and corn shipments this week, 2,781,000 bushels; previous week, 3,690,000; last year, 1,685,000.

STEEL PRICES SHOWING UNEXPECTED FIRMNESS

Upward Tendency Last Week, Despite Fall in the Coal Market.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—Steel prices continue to hold very well indeed. That is true even in sheets, although advances of $2 a ton went into effect about Oct. 1. There had been anticipatory buying whereby sheet mills ran at over 90 per cent. in October, while in the past week they have averaged 80 per cent. or less. That was really a very good rate, considering the lightness of requirements from the automobile trade, said to take normally 30 to 35 per cent. of the entire sheet production.

In merchant bars the 2-cent minimum still holds, with 2.10 cents on small lots. The advent of a new producer in Cleveland, with an f. o. b. mill, Cleveland, price of 2 cents, said to be occasionally 1.90 cents, has not disturbed the market particularly. The new mill does not make all sizes, and it seems better to allow Cleveland to become a basing point in this limited way than to alter Pittsburgh basing prices.

Shapes are claimed to be firm at 2 cents in large lots, with plates at 1.90 cents on any sized order. These prices on the three lines represent an advance over prices ruling five or six months ago.

Meanwhile coal prices in Western Pennsylvania have been tumbling. Thus far the Connellsville coke market has not been much affected as to prices of spot coke, partly because coke has not gone up in full reflection of higher prices obtainable on coal, buying demand being so light, and partly because the lower prices and greater difficulty in selling coal have not thus far increased coke production. Spot furnace coke is $4.75 to $5, with spot foundry at $6 to $6.50, both being a shade easier than a week ago.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE RATES

With the possible exception of a soft tone in one or two currencies, business in last week's foreign exchange market developed into one of marked strength in sterling, francs, kroner and the silver currencies. The improved status of various political and economic factors, which had been hitherto a check in the rise in these documents, was the reason generally assigned for the higher levels posted.

Bankers and dealers here were inclined to share the popular opinion held abroad that the long-drawn-out British coal strike was nearing its end, and this, with the prevalence of cheap money here, did much in the way of enlarging balances in London.

Buoyancy in the franc followed an improved technical position as a result of the sizable contraction in the short account built up during the Summer crisis; fresh impetus to the long side being found in the dissipation of the uncertainty held prior to the opening of Parliament, which brought in its wake a confidence vote for the Administration. Announcement by the Danish Government of its decision to go on a gold basis after the New Year, and a vigorous upturn in the price of silver, also contributed.

Sterling reached its best price of $4.84 11-16 on Saturday, a gross gain of ⅝ cent from the low. French francs at 3.33¼ cents revealed a recovery of 3/16 cent. Danish kroner touched a new high at 26.64 cents, with the improvement in the Chinese running up to 1⅝ cents. Lack of support for the Italian lire brought it down sharply to 4.07 cents. Swiss, Spanish, Holland and the German were uniformly steady. Japanese yen also held firm. Rumors of internal dissension in Brazil accounted for a new low in the milreis at 13 cents, but this development was without effect on its sister currencies.

TO DISCUSS CURBING MORTGAGE HOUSES

National Parley to Be Held Here Nov. 30 Is Called by Construction Council.

FOLLOWS STRAUS PROPOSAL

Uniformity in Appraisal Methods for Building Projects to Be Taken Up at Meetings.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the American Construction Council, announce last night that invitations were being issued by the Council to all who are interested for a national conference to discuss State supervision of real estate mortgage houses and the development of uniformity in appraisal procedure for construction projects. This action follows the suggestion of S. W. Straus made before the Council's fifth annual convention in Cleveland last Tuesday, after which the general convention voted that the officers of the Council consider calling such a conference.

The conference will be held Tuesday, Nov. 30, at Mr. Roosevelt's offices, 120 Broadway.

The invitations, which are being extended by telegraph to enable the Council to obtain as early an expression of opinion as possible from the interested groups, are being sent to leading real estate mortgage bond houses, realty people, investment bankers, surety companies, insurance companies, building owners and managers and others closely allied with this general problem. Invitations are also being issued to representatives of the State Governments throughout the country to facilitate the cooperation of the industry with State authorities.

SOUTHERN HEMISPHERE KEY TO WHEAT POSITION

Argentine and Australian Yield May Determine the Future Course of Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—For the wheat market's present and immediate future, weather conditions in Argentina and Australia are considered as the leading price-making factors. Harvesting is on in the north of Argentina and private reports claim that there has been damage of 35 per cent. to the crop in some sections from frost.

The estimated crop is 215,000,000 bushels, against 191,000,000 bushels last year, and the exportable surplus is estimated at 136,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels. Shipments so far this season have been 77,163,000 bushels, against 107,285,000 bushels last year.

Australia's harvest is to be earlier than usual and its estimated crop is 154,000,000 bushels, against 115,000,000 bushels last year. Its record is 163,000,000 bushels. It is to have 104,000,000 bushels of exportable surplus and it has shipped nearly 67,000,000 bushels so far this year. Reserves of both Argentina and Australia are small. Europe expects to buy its wheat at moderate prices from the Southern Hemisphere and Canada and a decline in prices of Canadian and United States wheat to a competitive basis.

BUSINESS IN STEEL RAILS.

New Orders Served to Offset October Decrease in Other Lines.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—Pittsburgh estimates are that about 1,400,000 tons of rail business have been distributed since Sept. 1. A small part of this was definitely for this year's delivery. A larger part can be arranged for rolling from now on, as a mill convenience. The Steel Corporation gets in the neighborhood of one-half of the rail business, but how much tonnage was closed in final contract form so as to be entered specifically in October is quite unknown. Whatever this tonnage was, in excess of October rail shipments, it balanced losses in other lines with an excess to make the 90,152 tons increase in unfilled obligations the Steel Corporation reported for October. Total bookings outside of rails were apparently lighter than in September, when unfilled obligations increased 51,171 tons, or in August, when there was a decrease of 60,137 tons.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN WEST SATISFACTORY

27,000 More Illinoisans at Work in October Than in 1925 and 46,000 More Than in 1924.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—A survey of business conditions indicates a satisfactory situation, with Western steel mills operating at 80 to 85 per cent. capacity. About 600,000 tons of steel rails are booked by Western mills for delivery the latter part of this year and throughout 1927. There is a large tonnage in railway track supplies and a fairly good placement of tonnage in structural material, steel bars, sheets and plates. There is a slight reduction in the buying of steel, yet the volume of business is heavy.

Expectations of unfilled tonnage of the Steel Corporation were entirely too high, the actual showing of 90,000 tons on the books, which is considered good, following a season of heavy production and large shipments. Consumption continues at a good rate and a little tonnage in finished steel and pig iron has been placed for the first quarter in 1927.

The advance in coal and coke has had a strengthening influence on pig iron and steel values and has stimulated production of coal from Mid-West mines, so that a shortage of coal cars is reported. Cold weather has quickened buying of coal by domestic consumers; manufacturers are taking good supplies and the coal trade is in its best shape in more than a year.

Buyers of dry goods placed more orders with wholesalers and sales were in excess of last year. Retail business in men's and women's clothing, as well as shoes, was stimulated by cold weather and ran ahead of last year. Mail order business remains good, but comparisons for the balance of the year are to be made. With a large trade in all lines it will take an increase in buying to keep the aggregate tonnage at a high level.

More factory workers in Illinois are receiving a higher average wage than in any Fall month in five years, as shown by the monthly report of the State Department of Labor. There were 27,000 more people at work in October than at the same time last year and 46,000 more than in 1924. The average weekly pay of men workers was $31.88 and for women $17.55. Losses in employment in October as compared with October last year were one-half or 1 per cent. Reopening of many coal mines was a factor.

LIVE STOCK ALL LOWER.

Hogs Leaner, Abundant and Cheaper—Lambs and Steers Down Also.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Hogs are off $1 to $1.25 in a week and $1.50 in two weeks, with prices the lowest of the season for the year and receipts the largest since last December. The average for the week was $12, or 50 cents lower than the previous week, compared with $11.35 last year.

The week's receipts of 165,900 compare with 154,000 last year. There are 170,000 expected the coming week, against 163,000 received last year.

The average weight of 233 pounds was the lowest of the year and eight pounds less than last year. Indications are for a continued large run for the next few weeks.

Beef steers are 25 to 50 cents lower for the week, with the average of $9.90, or the same as the previous week, and $1.30 under last year, while the five-year average was $9.35. The week's receipts were 79,000, or 10,000 less than last year.

Fat lambs are $1 lower, with an average of $13, against $13.50 last week and $13.30 last year. The week's top was $14.25 and receipts were 86,700, or 22,000 over last year.

BUSINESS FUTURE GOOD, BOARD FINDS

Industrial Conference Body Reports Sound Conditions and Foresees Activity.

TRADE STABILITY GAINING

Analysis Says Past Depressions Came From Ignorance and Sees That Factor Overcome.

Present business conditions are sound and indications are that industrial and commercial activity will continue at a satisfactory pace in the immediate future, according to a report on the consensus of leading industrial and financial executives, issued yesterday by the National Industrial Conference Board.

The outstanding characteristic of business development during the last five years has been increasing stability, according to the board's analysis, and the achievement of this condition is ascribed in large measure to the improved technique of distribution, the better organization of our credit and transportation systems, the steadying influence of the Federal Reserve System and to better informed and hence more alert industrial and business management.

Cites Causes of Stability.

"Ignorance of general business trends, misinformation and decisions based on unsubstantiated opinions and lack of a proper national banking system, such as we now have in the Federal Reserve System, have been mostly responsible for the severity of the depressions of the past," said Magnus W. Alexander, President of the board. "The widely diffused, better and more prompt factual information regarding industrial and commercial conditions at the present and improved credit facilities are proving a powerful factor in leveling peaks and depressions and in forestalling panics. Present-day knowledge is such that there should be no further business panics; and if we have any more such they will be man-made, rather than unavoidable events."

That, however, Mr. Alexander continued, does not mean that American business has discovered a fool-proof formula for permanent prosperity, but only that by rationalizing production and trade, the disturbing phenomena of over-expansion and resulting depressions may be minimized so as to remain reasonably within control.

Among the industries analyzed by the board are the coal industry, iron and steel, metal trades, automobiles, electrical manufacturing, railway supply industry, textile industries, chemical industry, boots and shoes, paper and pulp industry, building industry.

Outlook in Coal Industry.

Of the coal industry it is said that the bituminous trade benefits from an unusually large volume of export and bunker trade occasioned by the prolonged miners' strike in Great Britain. "No serious hardship to this country is anticipated in case of a possible suspension of operations next Spring when the present contract of the industry with the union miners expires, because of the small proportion of union operated mines," the report says.

"The instability of fashion is held accountable in large measure for the relatively lower activity in the cotton industry, which showed nearly 450,000 less spindles in operation in 1925 than in 1920, and a shifting of about 2,000,000 active spindles from the Northern to the Southern contingent of the industry.

"The total number of spindles active in 1925 was 35,032,000, as against 35,480,000 in 1920. Similar conditions prevail in the woolen industry, where operations during the middle of the current year had dropped to about 50 per cent. of loom capacity. At present the industry is operating at about 70 per cent. of total loom capacity," the Board said.

"The silk industry, although it has profited to some extent from the same vagaries of fashion which have meant loss to the cotton industry, has had its own troubles because of the impossibility of predicting just what women will wear in the coming season, a difficulty accentuated during the current year by unseasonable weather. While the output of silk in 1925 has been the greatest in history, its losses during the past year have been equaled but few times in recent years.

"With the exception of seasonal let-up and a moderate slowing up of sales ascribed to unseasonable weather during a large portion of the year, the automobile industry has recorded no unfavorable factor. While the credit situation was declared to have been over-expanded somewhat in 1925, this condition has been corrected by the general adoption of requirements for larger first payments and for a limit of twelve months in which to pay the entire amount."

Foreign competition is making great inroads into the American shoe industry, the Board finds, European makers now being able successfully to compete with American makers in quality and price because of their lower wage scale and because of longer working hours.

PREDICTS STEADY MARKET.

Colonel Ayres Discusses Financial Outlook for 1927.

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President of the Cleveland Trust Company, predicts in the current business bulletin of the bank that 1927 will see "neither a real bull market nor a true bear market."

"If the fundamental factors hold relatively steady in 1927, as now seems probable," he says, "the fluctuations of stock prices are likely to be relatively restricted movements largely depending on the variations in stock market sentiment and on those selective changes due to the varying prosperity of individual companies.

"Such a condition would not be new in stock market history. From the middle of 1910 to the Summer of 1914 there were few changes in the dividend payments of industrial stocks, and only slight variations in bond prices. During all that period there was neither a real bull market nor a true bear market. There were frequent important minor developments in which prices went a little above or a little below the theoretical normal level indicated by the fundamental factors, but none of these movements developed into a sustained market in either direction.

"It now seems not unlikely that the stock market history of 1927 may be of that general sort."

The following reference is made to rising bond prices:

"Bond prices have been advancing vigorously during recent weeks, and there does not seem to be in prospect any probable combination of circumstances likely to cause them to decline far during the months immediately ahead. On the other hand, there do seem to be good reasons why bond prices might have a generally rising trend during most of 1927."

Reaction in Last Week's Cash Grains the Feature — Lard Lower—Dairy Products Up.

The sharp reaction which hit last week's cash grains, and in particular corn, to approximately the year's low point, featured the wholesale markets. The weakness was attributed to improved Canadian and Australian crops, while the visible supply revealed a marked increase over a year ago. In its wake this reaction carried lard to a new low for the year.

Aside from the losses in the grains and lard, contraction was also reported in lead, copper, zinc and silk. Dairy products were a bright spot, the seasonal demand for butter and eggs lifting each to new highs for the year. Gains were also scored in coffee, tin, sugar and cotton. Firmness prevailed in pork, beef, iron, steel billets, hides, gasoline and crude oil.

Saturday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

STOPS MINING STOCK SALES

Court Permanently Enjoins Great Del Norte Corporation.

Supreme Court Justice Burt Jay Humphrey of Brooklyn granted on Tuesday an application of Attorney General Ottinger making permanent the injunction restraining the Great Del Norte Mining Corporation from the sale of the corporation's securities in New York State and for the appointment of a receiver, Mr. Ottinger announced last night. Included in the injunction are Niel H. Strome, President, and Harry B. Bintliff and Louis R. Jordan, salesmen, of the company.

A temporary injunction was granted last July 14 on motion of the Attorney General by Justice Mitchell May, after a hearing by Deputy Attorney General Keys Winter, head of the Bureau for the Prevention of Fraud. Mr. Winter said in his affidavit that flagrant misrepresentations had been made by Strome and his associates in the sale of stocks and bonds of the company.

RYE AND OATS DELCINE.

Turning Over Hedges Feature in Oats—Rye 41 Cents Under Wheat.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Cash interests are turning over their hedges in oats from December to May at 4⅜ to 4½ cents. Outside of this business and trading by the pit element, there is little in the market. No. 2 white oats are scarce at 2 to 3 cents over December, while the No. 3 white are 1½ cents under to 1¼ cents over December. Closing trades were at net losses of 1⅛ cents, with December at 41¼ to 41⅜ cents and May 45⅜ to 45½ cents, and July at 45.

Spreading operations in wheat and rye, with little export buying, is the main feature in the rye trade. Rye is around 41 cents under December wheat, and there is said to be 2,000,000 bushels of American rye at Montreal that has been there for a year.

The close Saturday was at 94⅛ cents for December and the May at $1.01¼ to $1.06¾, a loss of 2⅜ to 2¾ cents for the week.

Waste Fields in Selling

Your market as a whole is a patchwork of numerous little fields. Some of these are more fertile than others. The most fertile often go uncultivated; while the least fertile, cultivated at comparatively too high a cost, become waste fields in selling.

The MARKET ANALYSIS Service of Ernst & Ernst ascertains, by scientific method, the populations, characteristics, consumption requirements, abilities to buy, competitive strength, etc., in each of the fields making up your market.

The proper use of the information, developed by this Analysis, reduces selling costs, increasing net profits as well as volume.

EFFECTIVE HANDLING OF IMPORTED GOODS

Why More Attention Now Has to Be Given to This Matter by the Big Stores.

With a strong retail demand for imported merchandise of many varieties, the stores are now giving much more attention to the buying and merchandising of such goods. Leading retailers, in fact, have just organized an Import Managers' Group affiliated with the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Speaking before that group during the week, H. F. Ewald of Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, made several suggestions as to how imported merchandise may be most effectively purchased and handled.

One of the things he stressed was the creation of a foreign merchandise manager, who will serve as a link between the store's offices abroad and the divisional merchandise managers and buyers. "This executive," Mr. Ewald points out, "must be some one who has a knowledge of merchandise, its values, sources of supply and all the factors necessary to carry on a successful importing campaign. He should know his store and its clientele and have an intimate understanding of the detail end of the business so that he may talk intelligently on landing costs, &c., something about which the average buyer knows very little.

"Having made the necessary contacts, the store should lay its buying plans, which is the first important step. It is so important that many a successful buyer has been ruined right after his first European trip. If a store intends to send a buyer over, the first consideration must be—does he know the store and its following. He must not be sent until he does, for foreign buying is entirely different from buying in the domestic markets.

"I would recommend, first of all, an investigation of the department's former experience with imports, how much was bought, what were the turnovers, the mark-ups and, last but not least, the mark-downs. These are figures which will enable a judgment as to whether direct importing in certain lines is profitable.

"The buyer should then enumerate what he proposes to buy by classification, value, &c. He should be budgeted for the amount, get the approval of merchandise managers and the executives and sail at the proper time so as not to be delayed, in waiting for openings, to arrive too late for deliveries. The buyer should thoroughly understand what the limit of his buying is. If he exceeds his limit and wants more money to spend, let him cable for approval of the increase desired. It should, by all means, be demonstrated to him how landed costs are figured.

"When the merchandise arrives the store is entitled to a reasonable mark-up and should get it. Sale of the merchandise should not be jeopardized by too high a mark-up. This means slow turnovers, lost sales and eventually mark-downs, the net result being unprofitable imports. The store should get behind the buyer and help the sales in every way. It would pay to see that the sales people know something about the merchandise the store has imported.

"The season rolls by and it is now time for the store to figure the results. Were the past performances beneficial? This should be determined by the distinct records of imports, costs, retail mark-ups and mark-downs. Separate inventory of imports is wise, with all such marked with special tags.

"The fact should not be lost sight of that manufacturers abroad are just as keen for reorder business as manufacturers over here. If this is left in the hands of the buyer, it will, as a general rule, result in neglect. We follow this up carefully, keep track of sales and turnovers and, if successful, encourage reorders. Between buying trips is a good time for sampling of novelties, as well as many staple articles. Much business can be done if properly handled at this end. We maintain a special sample office for this purpose and place considerable business. This also acts in such a way as to keep buyers in constant touch with their markets abroad."

WOMEN IN NEW POSITIONS.

In Stores They Have Already Invaded the Credit Offices.

Not the least interesting thing about the invasion by women of commercial fields that in former years were largely pre-empted by men is the growing employment of them by department stores in executive and semi-executive positions. For many years women have been employed as buyers, assistant buyers, and, in rare instances, as merchandise managers, as well as in other positions requiring particular training or skill, but these jobs, in a very large measure, have to do with the merchandising end of the business.

Within recent years, however, and it is steadily growing, there has been an invasion by women in the executive end of the service field of the stores as well. The employment of women, both on full and part time, as floorwalkers or whatever other name a particular store may give them has become fairly common, and more and more emphasis is being placed on their services by some stores.

For a long time women have also held positions of importance in the credit office, but in only a few instances have they actually been made credit managers. Even here, however, possibilities for women seem to be broadening, and an increase in their employment as heads of credit departments is not too much to expect during the next few years.

There are numerous arguments for and against women in these positions. In some stores one of the most powerful arguments in their favor is that they will do the work more cheaply than men and, generally speaking, just as efficiently. The argument is also raised that prospective women charge customers are more willing to discuss intimate financial matters with one of their own sex than with a man, and that the element of presumption on sex, which is present sometimes when women customers attempt to open charge accounts to which they are not really entitled, is lacking when the person having the final say is also a woman. Further, it is argued that a woman credit manager, because she is a woman, is better able to get from the applicant, without giving offense, derogatory information which the latter is endeavoring to conceal in the hope of obtaining an unwarranted account.

The charges that women instinctively are cautious in their dealings with other women whom they do not know, and that the element of "cattishness" sometimes creeps into transactions between women credit grantors and applicants for accounts, are not taken seriously by their defenders in this position. Neither is the charge that women being naturally bad losers for the most part and too cautious as a result, are inclined as credit grantors to refuse an account when conditions really warrant a chance being taken on the applicant, thus holding down sales.

NEED GOOD SALES FORCE.

This Is True Even With Goods That Are Specially Priced.

The announcement by one of the leading department stores of this city, in a recent advertisement, that it manned its street floor aisle tables, probably the busiest spots in the whole establishment, with especially trained sales people gives an affirmative answer to a question that has been attracting attention in retail dry goods circles for a long time.

"In many stores," the announcement says, "it is a common practice to place inexperienced sales people in charge of such tables on the theory that specially priced merchandise 'sells itself'—departs from traditional store-keeping by manning its aisle tables with picked salespeople. It believes that specially priced merchandise 'sells itself'—deintelligently, as courteously and as quickly as its regular merchandise."

As told, the placing of inexperienced sales people at aisle tables is the custom in many stores, but it is one at which well-posted authorities on merchandising have been at odds for years. The theory of those favoring it, apparently, not only is that the goods on aisle tables sell themselves because of the attractive prices put on them, but that it is bad business to waste the time and energy of well-trained sales people in disposing of them. The fallacy of this is only too visible to careful observers of store methods, who have time and again seen near riots centering around aisle tables in charge of girls too "green" to keep their wits about them under the rapid-fire demands of customers for their services.

Such scenes not only tend to slow up buying and reduce sales, but they can hardly fail to give the store a "black eye" with shoppers from the service point of view. It is not reasonable to believe that customers, especially women, will think well of any store that is responsible, through poor sales service, for their being pushed and mauled by other shoppers in their efforts to get waited on. On the contrary, it is logical to believe that, because specially priced merchandise sells quickly, its sale should be in charge of clerks so capable, experienced and well-trained as to expedite its movement to the fullest extent possible.

Notes on Trade and Industry Abroad.

Automobile Roads for Saxony.

An extensive program for the construction of a regular automobile-road system in Saxony has been proposed to be carried out within the next six years by the building of special roads and the improvement of the present State and principal municipal roads.

Egypt Grows No Tobacco.

Although the cigarette industry is one of the most important in the country, no tobacco is raised in Egypt. There are no statistics available on cigarette production, but $7,000,000 worth of tobacco is imported annually.

Americans Get Road Contract.

A contract has been signed by the Department of Antioquia, Colombia, with an American company for the construction of a highway between Boqueron de San Cristobal, which is in the municipal district of Medellin, and Dabeiba. This section, which is to be macadamized, is to be completed in 33 months from date of contract (understood to be Sept. 9, 1926.)

Finland's Lumber Sales.

Finland's lumber sales up to the middle of October were 1,851,000 M feet, with lively demand prevailing. Thirty-six million feet already have been sold for 1927 shipment. Plywood exports for September were 5,000 tons, and lumber exports were 297,000 M feet.

Japanese Shell Button Industry.

The Japanese shell button industry is depressed, according to the Kobe Shell Button Guild, and production is said to have been materially reduced on account of poor export business and unpromising export prospects. August shipments amounted to about 465,000 yen, or a decrease of 183,000 yen, as compared with August of last year.

Aiding German Shipbuilding.

A construction loan fund of 50,000,000 marks has been established by the German Government to further the construction of shipping, of which the provinces along the German coast contributed about 25 per cent. A total of 35,000,000 marks has been distributed in long-term loans to the various shipyards, in addition to 2,800,000 marks, representing short-term loans which have in part been repaid or fall due this year. With the assistance of Government credits, German shipbuilders have placed contracts for the construction of 200,000 tons of shipping in addition to 40,000 tons now under construction.

Norwegian Exports Drop.

Exports from Norway to the United States during September, as declared through American consulates, totaled in value $1,930,000—a considerable decrease from the August total of $2,341,000. The principal items were (August figures in parentheses): Fish, $710,000 (716,000); whale oil, 456,000; aluminum $251,000; wood pulp, $123,000 ($400,000); and cod liver oil, $99,000.

South Africa's Mineral Output.

The total South African mineral production during September constitutes a record, due mainly to increased alluvial diamond production and newly discovered diggings. The mineral output during the first nine months of this year was valued at £43,000,000, which was £2,000,000 in excess of the output for the same period of last year. Gold production from January through September aggregated 7,483,000 fine ounces, valued at £31,000,000, thus showing an increase of 226,000 fine ounces in volume and £909,000 in value over the output during the like period of 1925.

Working Overtime on Rayon.

Recently published reports, to the effect that the largest Italian producer of rayon, Snia Viscosa, had discharged a large number of its operatives, are emphatically denied by the Associazione Nazionale Seta Artificiale of Turin. The Italian rayon association states that the plants of Snia Viscosa are working overtime and that additions are being made to the company's staff.

Apartments for Dantzic.

In order to reduce the need for dwellings in the Free City of Dantzic the Government has sanctioned a comprehensive plan which calls for the immediate building of over 500 apartments, according to David H. Buffum, at the American Consulate, Dantzic. The buildings shall be largely confined to two-room and kitchen apartments, and for reasons of economy it has been decided that the building shall be of tenement type, which will be located in Langfuhr, a near suburb of the municipality of Dantzic. The buildings are to be three stories high.

WRONG RETURNS OF GOODS.

Some of the Consequences Which Are Caused by the Abuse.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The excellent article in yesterday's TIMES (Wholesale Market Section) on the "Returns of Merchandise" probably has some bearing on the record showing of the railroads and transportation companies on the movement of cars.

There are yet many responsible firms who decline to be "abused" and consequently reship perfect articles that have been returned after a bona-fide order has been placed, so it would seem that, in some instances, a shipment covers a triple journey to still further enhance the transportation showing.

It is a wonder that some merchants will "fall" for the flimsy excuses outlined in the article. For, by doing so, it not only creates a bad precedent, but it is unprofitable and encourages further abuses, to the end that the whole retail business structure suffers to an irreparable extent, with an indirect adverse effect on the wholesale and manufacturing branches of industry.

Rejection of merchandise is properly allowable, but only to the extent of a claim for defective or erroneous goods. And, if the merchants were to follow the lead of the automobile manufacturers who honor claims only for obvious "defects," it would result in a decided improvement in the situation complained of, to the benefit of the stores and public alike.

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT AT HIGHEST LEVEL

Federal Reserve Board Reports Greater Activity Every Month Than in 1925 or 1924.

AND DEMAND IS KEPT UP

Decline in Security Loans Is Accompanied by a Rise in Calls for Farm Credit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A new high level of industrial production in the United States was reached in September, it is stated in the monthly review issued by the Federal Reserve Board today. At the same time the purchasing power of workers and farmers has exceeded that of last year, and thus the consumers' demand has kept pace with the record production.

Increased activities in the textile industry, coupled with unusual prosperity in the bituminous coal industry for this season of the year, are cited as principally responsible for this happy situation.

The Board also calls attention to the rapid decline in security loans, with the subsequent lowering of bank credit, and to the agricultural situation in the Southern States due to the low price of cotton which followed publication of the extent of the record-breaking crop of 1926, estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 17,500,000 bales. There is an optimistic note as to the cotton situation, however, the board citing the cooperation which has been established between financial institutions and growers in the effort to bring about an orderly marketing of the crop.

"The higher level of commercial loans during the current year and the increase in these loans during recent months," says the board, "have reflected in part a generally higher level of industrial production. The board's new index of the physical volume of industrial production, which is more comprehensive than its old index for so-called basic industries, has been higher every month this year than in either 1925 or 1924, and for the past two months has been a record level.

Aided by Coal and Cotton.

"The rise to a new high level in September, which is the latest month for which comprehensive statistics are available, was largely due to exceptional activity for this season of the year in the mining of bituminous coal and to a recent marked increase in the manufacture of cotton and woolen textiles.

"The large production of bituminous coal has been in part in response to foreign demand, which has been stimulated by the marked reduction of supplies from Great Britain, owing to the coal strike. This has also been a factor in the recent advance for prices of bituminous coal and in the large volume of freight car loadings during recent months.

"The increase in the activity of cotton mills and woolen mills, on the other hand, has reflected in part the fact that prices for cotton and wool have recently been considerably lower than at any time in more than a year.

"The volume of building has continued to be large, and the automobile industry has continued to be active, though in recent weeks there has been some decrease in the volume of employment in this industry and some increase in stocks of cars on hand.

"The distribution of merchandise through the channels of wholesale and retail trade has been maintained in larger volume than a year ago, and stocks on hand at the end of September were generally below the level of a year ago, reflecting in part a lower level of commodity prices.

Consumers' Demands Sustained.

"The high level of industrial production and merchandise distribution during the current year has been sustained by the continued demand for commodities by consumers. The purchasing power of industrial workers, as indicated by the volume of factory employment and the size of factory payrolls, has been throughout the year continuously larger than in 1925. The buying power of farmers, as indicated by purchases at mail-order houses and by sales of agricultural machinery, has also been as large as in any other recent year."

In the matter of the movement of security loans the board announces that the decline in such loans in October this year is more than $200,000,000 from the level of October, 1925.

Growth in the demand for bank credit for agricultural and commercial purposes continued in September and October, and was accompanied in October by a rapid decline in security loans, with the consequence that the total volume of bank credit outstanding at the end of October was considerably lower than the record amount outstanding a month earlier. Taking the first ten months of 1926 as a whole, the volume of bank credit in use continued to increase in other recent years but at a much less rapid rate.

"In comparison with 1925, which was a year of rapid growth in bank credit, this year has been characterized chiefly by the maintenance of a general level of bank loans close to that reached toward the end of last year," says the report. "In 1925 the growth of credit was largely in the form of security loans, while during the current year these loans have been at a higher average level than last year, but have declined during the year. Other loans, however, largely commercial, have increased by about $350,000,000 since a year ago, and throughout the year have been continuously above last year's level."

Effect of Big Cotton Crop.

"The most important development in the agricultural situation in recent weeks," the report continues, "has been the prospect of a record cotton crop of 17,500,000 bales, according to the estimate of the Department of Agriculture. The expectation of a crop of this magnitude, following upon a large crop in 1925 and a considerable carry-over, has had a disturbing effect on the cotton market. Ways and means of overcoming this effect have been the subject of numerous meetings and conferences.

"On Oct. 9 the President of the United States appointed a committee to cooperate with those engaged in the production, marketing and use of cotton, to investigate the present market condition of cotton and render such desirable assistance as can be given by the Government to the efforts already being made in the South through the financial institutions, cooperative organizations and Federal intermediate credit banks, and otherwise."

The cooperative cotton marketing organizations of the different Southern States have indicated their readiness to place at the disposal of the cotton financing organizations their facilities for storing, grading and marketing cotton, and have expressed their willingness to cooperate with all other interests in carrying out the proposed plan.

At the same time committees of local business men, State bankers' associations, various agricultural organizations and extension services have begun vigorous campaigns for the diversion of at least 25 per cent. of acreage planted in cotton this year to the production of other crops next year.

Banks Cooperating.

The commercial banks in the cotton States are cooperating with the growers of cotton by extending to them the credit necessary for harvesting and marketing the cotton crop in an orderly manner, and the local Federal Reserve Banks have informed their member banks that they are alive to the difficulties of the present situation and are prepared to cooperate in the orderly marketing of the cotton crop by making advances in the usual manner.

The Federal Reserve Board also refers to the re-establishment of a stable basis for the currencies of many of the important trading countries of Europe, which has had the effect of restoring a closer relationship between the principal money markets and a better adjustment among interest rates prevailing in the leading financial centres.

CANADA'S WOOD EXPORTS UP

These, Including Newsprint, Form More Than Half of Sales to Us.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Nov. 14 (AP).—Canada's exports of wood and paper to the United States are increasing. They now form more than one-half of the total domestic exports to the United States. In September alone, out of Canadian exports to the United States valued at $39,645,269, wood and paper accounted for $20,619,066.

The September figures are not exceptional. More and more Canada's forests are being used to supply the needs of newspaper and periodical readers and others in the United States.

Government statistics show that the wood and paper exports from Canada to the United States during the twelve-month period ended Sept. 30, last, reached a total valuation of $241,713,337. This represented more than one-half of the total Dominion exports to the United States during the twelve months, which amounted to $463,393,685. The increase in wood and paper exports to the United States over the previous twelve months was more than $11,000,000.

In the twelve months ended September, last, the Dominion imported iron and its products (the largest single article of importation from the United States) to the value of $190,069,829. Imports of wood and paper by the Dominion from the United States during the twelve months were valued at $33,296,906.

The export of Canadian agricultural and vegetable products to the United States, next on the list to wood and paper, was valued at $64,794,323 for the year.

Some of the items among the wood and paper exports during the twelve months follow: Wood, unmanufactured, $92,943,986; newsprint, $102,716,780, and pulpwood, $13,457,628.

FACE BRICK TRADE IN 'DEAD BEAT' HUNT

First of Nation-Wide Chain of Dealer Associations Is Organized Here.

W. C. BLACK HEADS IT

Reckless Building Speculation Stirs Fourth Trade in This City to Combat Evils.

New York City face brick dealers have started on what they say is going to be a nation-wide hunt for 'dead beats' in the building business, says Allen E. Beals in the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

William C. Black, of the Hay-Walker Brick Company, is at the head of the movement as President of the Face Brick Dealers' Association of New York City, Inc., which, upon completion of organization, established its offices with those of its counsel, Charles Howard Levitt, at 1,440 Broadway, who says that from this city there will be organized similar associations among face brick dealers in various parts of the United States.

The other officers of the association are: Vice President, Frank C. Manson of Pfotenhauer & Nesbit Company; Secretary, Raymond J. Kennard, of the American Enameled Brick & Tile Company; Treasurer, Warren R. Willard of the Willard Brick Company.

All but two of the domestic face brick dealers of New York City have become members of this association and in these two instances the same curb on loose credits that the association intends to apply to speculative builders without standing, have long since been enforced.

Ever since the World War, according to the statement of reasons why the association has been formed and which constitutes a preamble to its application for incorporation, there has existed "unprecedented activity in the construction of buildings, particularly of the type known as apartment and tenement houses" and, since "the principal exterior material used in these operations has been brick and clay products" a large part of the building business has fallen into the hands of "unprincipled, unscrupulous and irresponsible speculators and building operators, who, by means of devious schemes have influenced, and continue to inflict upon face brick dealers enormous losses of time and money, which have resulted in a gradual increase in price of face brick, to the detriment of the public in general" * * * "The profits reaped by dishonest operators and builders have added and will continue to add to the burden now carried by the honest builder" and will be more and more distributed and passed on to the public to carry.

It seems that conditions became so bad from the credit and cost-carrying point of view incidental to the abuse of credit in the first half of this year that it became utterly impossible not only to carry on safely with this class of business, but it was evident to every one concerned that the conditions that had become dominant by that time could not continue with safety to the trade regardless of what happened to the volume of building.

"Frauds and abuses," in other words, "were so brazenly practiced by many building speculators and operators," that it was the consensus of opinion that the elimination of the conditions that made it possible for these practices to exist, would "reduce the cost of production and distribution of face brick to the mutual benefit of the dealer, the honest builder and the public"; so the machinery was set into motion for the organization of the Face Brick Dealers' Association of New York City, Inc., with the following objects:

"To preserve, stabilise, strengthen, enlarge, unify and coordinate the face brick dealers in the United States of America, particularly in New York State, to foster trade and commerce and the interests of those engaged therein, to procure and effect uniformity and certainty in the customs and usages of said industry and those having interests therein, to settle differences among its members and to promote a more enlarged and friendly intercourse among its members, merchants generally and with other organizations, associations and trade bodies.

"To effect economy in the conduct of the business of its members, to advance and promote the use of products dealt in by the members by means of research, publicity, advertisement and similar activities, to bring about the establishment of just and equitable principles of business among members, and in their dealings with each other; to effect the adoption of trade regulations thus far established in the industry and such other regulations as will tend to better and improve the industry in all of its branches in all of the States and Territories of the United States of America.

"To reform abuses and secure freedom from unjust and unlawful exactions, to effect a reduction of credit risks and the elimination of unfair and improper practice, to diffuse accurate and reliable information regarding the standing of merchants and other matters, to exchange credit information, and in this connection to establish and maintain bureaus and committees for the adjustment of accounts of organizations, persons, firms and corporations and other matters, but not organized for profit.

"To provide expeditious methods for settling and arbitrating disputes and to protect members of this association from misrepresentations, fraud and deceit, to maintain a traffic bureau in all and every one of its branches for the benefit of the members of this association, but not organized for profit, and to exact rules and regulations designed to carry into effect the foregoing purposes."

This is the fourth great building material trade to organise against the corruption, credit abuse and unbusinesslike trade practices that were exposed by The Dow Service as dirks in the side of the building construction industry, menacing its economic welfare, at its mass meeting last December, out of which developed the Committee of Twenty-seven, with its powers to bring about a correction of trade abuses and business practices in the New York building business, which, while still undergoing a major operation, shows, from time to time, like this, increasing evidences of a desire to get well and to present a healthy and more respectable appearance before the building investing public.

WATER POWER RIGHTS AT AUCTION
Auction Sale of the Estate of Madame Joseph Masson
(comprising real estate, water power rights, buildings, etc., situated in Terrebonne and surrounding territory, near the city of Montreal, Province of Quebec, Canada).

The Madame-Masson Estate will sell at auction its Terrebonne property, comprising land, buildings, water power rights, dams, etc., situated at or near the town of Terrebonne, P. Q. The auction shall take place, by order of the Court, on November 29th between 10:30 and 11 A. M., in the Court House at St. Jerome, Province of Quebec.

Great value of the Water Power Rights
The settling of the Masson Estate has delayed the exploitation of the Terrebonne water power rights, which have not been available so far for industrial purposes, despite the growth of the surrounding territory. The water power rights, dams, barrages, owned by the Madame Masson Estate are most desirable and promising for industrial purposes because of the ideal location and the proximity to Montreal. The possibilities of development are tremendous.

Enumeration of the properties
The properties of the Madame Masson Estate, which shall be sold at auction on November 29th, comprise the following:
2 parcels of land, with buildings, and bridge, near l'Ile-aux-Moulins;
5 parcels of land situated in adjoining territory;
The islands known as Ile St. Jean, with buildings; Ile-du-Moulin, with buildings, mill and machinery; Ile aux Moutons; Iles aux Pins, also known as Iles Masson, and fifteen small islands in the Jesus River;
All the water power rights, barrages, dams, etc., situated on or near the above-mentioned islands.
All the above-mentioned properties; parcels of land, buildings, islands, water power rights, etc., will be sold en bloc at the auction sale, and shall be deeded to the highest bidder.
While the valuation placed on these properties has been estimated in their undeveloped state, the possibilities of increasing their value through development are practically inestimable.
For futher particulars regarding this auction you may communicate with Messrs. Lanctot & Hamelin, advocates, 120 St. James St., Montreal.

SUCCESS WITH THE MAGAZINE SECTION
The New York Times:
Since we inserted our first advertisement of O. K. Vacuum Brushes in the Magazine Section of the Sunday edition of The New York Times, in June, 1925, we have never had a single insertion the returns of which did not more than cover the cost thereof. This despite the fact that many advertising people thought the article at $18.50 too high priced to be sold by direct mail advertising.
Every successive advertisement has in a way been more successful than the preceding one in the amount of returns.
We regard it as a very fortunate occurrence for us to have discovered the value of The Times Magazine Section as an advertising medium.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—The tropical disturbance is still of slight to moderate intensity, and is apparently central about latitude 19 degrees 30 minutes north and longitude 85 degrees 30 minutes west and moving northwestward toward the Yucatan Channel.

The disturbance that was central over Kansas Saturday night has moved northeastward to the Upper Mississippi Valley with slightly increased intensity. Des Moines, Iowa, 29.40 inches, and a trough of low pressure extends southward to the Western Gulf of Mexico.

Pressure is high and rising from the Pacific Coast eastward over the plateau and the Rocky Mountain region, and it remains high over Eastern Canada and the Atlantic States (Sydney, Nova Scotia, 30.64 inches).

The western disturbance will move northeastward over the upper lake region and Ontario, and it will be attended by rains over all sections east of the Mississippi River within the next thirty-six hours. The weather will clear during Tuesday in Kentucky, Tennessee and the East Gulf States. The weather will continue unseasonably warm Monday in eastern and southeastern States, but colder weather will overspread the Lower Ohio and Lower Mississippi Valleys and the East Gulf States Monday and Monday night, the Upper Ohio Valley and the lower lake region Monday night or Tuesday, and in the Atlantic States Tuesday or Tuesday night.

No unusually low temperature is probable, however, within the next two days.

The following storm warning was posted tonight at the Weather Bureau:

"10:00 P. M.—Tropical disturbance still of slight moderate intensity, central about 19 degrees 30 minutes north, 85 degrees 30 minutes west, moving northwestward. It will likely pass through Yucatan Channel Monday and then return toward north and northeast."

BISHOP TELLS WHY EX-DUCHESS SUED; TO MARRY CATHOLIC

Prelate Says Marlborough Marriage Was Not Voluntary and Therefore Never Valid.

SHE WAS UNDER GRAVE FEAR

Told Court She Wanted to Marry a Catholic, Supposedly Man She Wed After Divorce.

TO RESTORE HIM TO CHURCH

Comments on Marlborough Wedding Recalled—Duke Has Not Embraced Catholic Faith.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Confirming THE NEW YORK TIMES special dispatches from Rome in the past few days Bishop Amigo of the Catholic Diocese of Southwark, in southeast London, stated today that the marriage in New York thirty-one years ago of the Duke of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt was annulled by the Diocesan Court of Southwark because "through fear she didn't give her willing but only her unwilling, consent to the contract. Therefore there never was a marriage contract, and though they may have lived together for over twenty years they were never married."

A high official at the Bishop's palace, in elaborating the Bishop's statement, also confirmed THE NEW YORK TIMES dispatches in contradicting the story that it was the Duke of Marlborough who had petitioned for annulment of his first marriage because he wished to enter the Catholic Church.

It was Consuelo Vanderbilt, he explained, who had asked the diocesan court of Southwark for a decree of nullity, because that is the diocese in which the Duke lives. She gave as her reason that she entered into the marriage "through a motive of grave fear, unjustly brought to bear on her by others with the idea of driving her into the marriage."

In order, said one official, to free herself from the consequences of her refusal to obey the commands of those who desired the marriage she gave her unwilling consent.

She Wants to Marry a Catholic.

The diocesan official's next statement was highly interesting in view of the fact that Consuelo Duchess of Marlborough was married a year after her divorce to Lieut. Col. Jacques Balsan, a retired French officer, the ceremony being performed according to the Church of England rites.

"The Duchess," this official said, sought to prove her marriage was invalid according to the Catholic Church because she wanted to marry a Roman Catholic. A Catholic, you see, cannot marry a divorced person, for in the eyes of the Church that person is still married, although the civil courts may have declared him or her divorced. Then, however, as in the case of Consuelo Vanderbilt, it is proved, either in a diocesan court or a civil court, that there was no marriage—since marriage is a contract willingly contracted, and it was proved she was unwilling to enter the marriage—then, of course, that person can marry.

"Marriages contracted by non-Catholics are held by the Catholic Church to be valid contracts unless there is evident at the time of the marriage either a natural or an ecclesiastical impediment which renders the parties incapable of contracting validly. Civil divorce is not recognized by the Roman Catholic Church. A decree of annulment granted by the Church is a declaration that the bond of matrimony never existed. That is what happened in the present case.

Both Principals in Court.

"The diocesan court of Southwark examined exhaustively all the circumstances of the marriage. Petitioner and respondent both appeared, supported by witnesses, and diocesan courts of Paris and Nice assisted.

"The Defensor Vinculi [defender of the marriage bond, an ecclesiastical official] upheld the validity of the marriage, and on the declaration of nullity by the Southwark court he appealed to the Roman Rota, which has now confirmed this finding.

"Neither a diocesan court nor the Rota can declare people divorced; they can only declare that no marriage took place in cases like the present one, where there was a natural or an ecclesiastical impediment at the time of the marriage. If there is no such impediment a marriage remains valid, no matter what the social position of the parties may be. King Henry VIII could not get his marriage annulled, because it was properly contracted, although he was a King."

Holds Children Legitimate.

In an interview with The Westminster Gazette Bishop Amigo's secretary was reminded that there were two children of the marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and Miss Vanderbilt, and was asked would not the annulment make them illegitimate.

"Theoretically, yes," was the reply. "An annulment would make them illegitimate spiritually; but, by a special act of the Roman Catholic Church, for practical purposes, and so far as the civil law is concerned, they are legitimate."

Mme. Balsan's plea that the marriage took place against her will, says the Evening Standard, recalls one of the most daring of all the monologues of "Mister Dooley." The philosopher described the Duke of Marlborough as coming to America, willing to do "light fighting," and first meeting the 17-year-

New York Boy Asks Wilbur For a Better Air Defense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Eleven-year-old Warren R. Horn of 635 West 170th Street, New York, does not think the United States air force is strong enough and has told Secretary Wilbur so. Mr. Wilbur received a letter from him today saying:

"I think we need a bigger and better force. All other countries are getting ahead of us. Hoping that something will be done to remedy the situation. Yours respectfully, WARREN HORN."

The boy enclosed an artist's conception of enemy dirigibles bombarding New York City.

COOLIDGE RECEIVES AUSTRALIAN GIFT

Accepts for the Nation a Painting of Our Fleet Entering Sydney in 1925.

THANKS NEW SOUTH WALES

Presentation of Charles Bryant's Work Is Made by Denison, New Australian Commissioner.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—At the White House today a delegation from Australia presented to President Coolidge on behalf of New South Wales an oil painting of the American fleet entering Sydney Harbor a year ago.

It is the work of Charles Bryant, the Australian marine painter, as an expression of the growing friendship between the United States and Australia.

Preceding the ceremony Sir Hugh Denison, K. B. E., new Australian Commissioner to the United States, was introduced to the President by Henry Getty Chilton, the Chargé d'Affaires. Lady Denison, David M. Dow, official secretary to the Australian Commissioner; Commander Knothe, Assistant British Naval Attaché; J. Balfour of the embassy, J. J. Rouse of Sydney, Secretaries Kellogg and Wilbur and Assistant Secretary of State J. Butler Wright were present.

Sir Hugh Denison reiterated the recent utterances of Premier Bruce of Australia in London, stressing the importance of cooperation among the nations bordering the Pacific and the necessity for closer ties between Australia and the United States.

Mr. Rouse said the gift was inspired by a message to the people of Sydney from Admiral S. S. Robinson in which he declared "the hospitality shown to myself and to the officers and men of the battle fleet by the people of Sydney has never been surpassed in the history of the American Navy."

The painting will be hung in the National Art Gallery here.

Mr. Bryant is a native of Sydney and studied under W. Lister Lister. He was official artist of the Australian Army in France. His work is on exhibition in the London War Museum, the Australian War Museum and the National Art Galleries of Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide.

President Coolidge has cabled this message to the Governor General of Australia:

"I have had the privilege to receive today at the hands of Sir Hugh Denison, and in the presence of Mr. Rouse, the remarkable painting by Charles Bryant of the arrival of the battle fleet of the United States in the harbor of Sydney, which has been presented by the citizens of New South Wales to the United States of America as an historical expression of the ever-ripening friendship between our two peoples.

"My appreciation of this token, which so graphically depicts and so happily commemorates an epoch in the history of the two countries, is enhanced by my recollection of the telegram sent me by your distinguished predecessor in which he expressed the conviction that the visit of the fleet would strengthen and deepen our mutual understanding.

"To the reiteration, therefore, of my confidence that the maintenance of the peace of the world and the furtherance of sympathetic understanding between nations is our common purpose, permit me to express, on behalf of the Government and people of the United States, appreciative gratitude for this great gift of the Australian Commonwealth which is of such deep significance to both nations."

STANDARD OIL CALLS ALL ITS PREFERRED IN $230,000,000 DEAL

New Jersey Company to Issue Debentures for $120,000,000 and Sell Common Stock.

$25,000,000 OF OWN FUNDS

Present Shareholders to Have Preference in Allotment of New Securities.

CHANGE FIXED FOR MARCH 15

Morgan & Co. Handling Financing —Extra Dividend of 12½ Cents on Common Stock.

A financial operation of such magnitude and far-reaching effect that Wall Street, long accustomed to transactions of impressive size, has awaited it with intense interest for several months got under way yesterday when the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the world's largest oil corporation, perfected its plans for the retirement of its $200,000,000 of 7 per cent. preferred stock on March 15 next at a market value of $230,000,000.

To accomplish this retirement the company's directors authorized the sale to J. P. Morgan & Co. of $120,000,000 of twenty-year 5 per cent. debentures, which are not callable, and decided to offer to present common stockholders 3,449,317 shares of additional common stock at the par value, $25, in the ratio of one share of additional stock for each six now owned. Through these two operations the corporation will raise approximately $206,000,000 net.

While the directors took no action toward increasing the dividend rate on the common stock, they declared an extra of 12½ cents a share and gave what Wall Street construed as a plain intimation that the company would vote additional extras in the future. The regular annual dividend rate on the common is $1 a share, and quarterly disbursements of 12½ cents extra would make the annual yield $1.50.

Rights Valued at $8.50.

Subscription rights offered to common stockholders under the present operation are calculated to be worth about $2.50 a share on the outstanding stock, or an aggregate of more than $50,000,000 for the 20,000,000 and odd shares now outstanding. The total number of common shares authorized is 25,000,000, so that no additional authority will be required to carry out the transaction.

It was understood yesterday that the directors, who have been pondering the problem of retiring the preferred stock several months, had arrived at a final decision with respect to the details just a short time before the formal announcement was made at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They met at 11 o'clock in the morning after having adjourned from last Friday. Meantime, it is understood, the bankers were discussing details with the directors and representatives of prominent stockholding interests, including the Rockefellers.

The decision to make the announcement after the close of the stock market was in accordance with Wall Street's custom. The financial district had been fairly well assured, however, by recent developments that the financing was about to be announced, and part of the strength in yesterday's market was attributed to the better feeling which the removal of this transaction from the realm of uncertainty was expected to cause. The common shares of the Standard of New Jersey fluctuated between a low of 41¼ and a high of 42⅝. The net gain for the day was ⅝ of a point. The preferred stock which was called yesterday ranged between a low of 116⅝ and a high of 116½.

It was estimated, that the offering of additional common stock to present shareholders and the flotation of the $120,000,000 of 5 per cent. debentures would net the company approximately $205,000,000. Since the financial operation will require $230,000,000 to retire the preferred stock at the callable figure of $115 a share, it is estimated that the company will have to take around $25,000,000 from its treasury to complete the change. The price paid

'U-Boat 14: We Are Sinking,' Message Cast Up in Bottle

HAMBURG, Nov. 15 (AP).—An echo of one of the many submarine tragedies of the great war has come to the hamlet of Apenrads, where a bottle containing an evidently genuine message of despair, pencilled fully ten years ago, has been cast up on the beach of the North Sea coast.

"Aboard U-Boat 14: We are sinking!" read the message, written on a bit of paper turned yellow with time. There followed the name and address of the sender, one of the submarine's crew.

The German submarine U-14 was lost on the North Sea in the latter part of 1916.

MELLON NOW FAVORS RETURN OF 15% TAX

Treasury Raises Its Estimate of This Year's Surplus to $300,000,000.

CAN CUT DEBT $500,000,000

Secretary Is Still Opposed to Any Revision of Rates by Present Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Estimate of the total of surplus revenues which will be available as refunds or credits to the taxpayers, if Congress gives its approval to such a proposal, was raised at the Treasury Department today from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000, and Secretary Mellon, while disclaiming authorship of any formal plan to designate how the return should be effected, was represented as believing that it safely could be made 15 per cent., instead of 12½ per cent., the figure he had proposed earlier.

The suggestion by the Secretary that the refunds or credits be worked out at the time of the first quarterly payments next March was spoken of as a proposal subject to revision if any one had a more fair and practical plan to offer, and Mr. Mellon, if called upon, will explain his views at length to the Senate and House committees handling tax matters.

While these new developments in the controversy over tax reduction in the December session of Congress were unfolded in the Treasury Department, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States informed President Coolidge that, in its opinion the first tax change should be a reduction by at least 1 per cent. in the corporation income tax, which was raised from 12½ to 13½ per cent. in the last revenue bill, and by eliminating the estate taxes.

The chamber held that individual taxpayers had been the chief beneficiaries in the last revision downward, and felt that a more general revision of the law, at least to the extent of making the reforms directly advocated, should be made if there was to be any tax tinkering. An outstanding necessity, the chamber argued, was finally to place the country "upon a permanent peace-time tax program."

Proposals Cause Confusion.

It was obvious today that the confusion resulting from the President's proposal of an immediate return of about 10 per cent. in taxes, the original Mellon suggestion of general credits to all classes of 12½ per cent. of 1926 taxes, now raised to 15 per cent., to be taken out of tax payments to be made on March 15 next, and the suggestions made by some leaders in Congress that a general overhauling of the revenue law be undertaken immediately, was somewhat embarrassing and upsetting.

It is pretty generally conceded that the Treasury would be more pleased by a program which would apply all surplus revenues during the fiscal year ending June 30 next to reduction of the public debt, but Secretary Mellon and other Treasury officials, it was indicated, were now prepared to admit that a debt reduction in excess of $500,000,000 could be accomplished and returns of about $300,000,000 also could be made, and that this would represent an orderly and businesslike handling of the whole problem.

Secretary Mellon had heard so many conflicting opinions expressed as to the wisest way to handle the question of tax refunds, credits or revision that he asked the newspaper correspondents today if they had any suggestions to make. The Treasury is opposed to a general revision at this time, which would create a situation where schedules might have to be raised again if the present exceptional era of business prosperity should falter. No Treasury official took the view that there is a probability of business depression, but the point was made that radical changes in rates at the December session would be a speculative act of a kind which always heretofore had been avoided in making tax changes.

Want No Rate Changes Now.

It was far wiser, the Treasury felt, simply to return to the taxpayers the unexpected surplus known to be safely available for that purpose, and put off rate changes for a few months, at least, until a clearer picture could be obtained of the business future. This, it was felt, was simply a sound business proposal, and the one which the Treasury officials were prepared to explain in detail before Congressional committees.

Treasury officials felt that the complaints by representatives of the smaller taxpayers that they would not receive very much under the credit plan, because their payments already had been so deeply cut by the downward revision in the last two tax bills, were good evidence that the Admin-

He Is Summoned to Appear Before Mayor Walker to Explain Conditions.

Mayor Walker made public yesterday a preliminary report of Commissioner of Accounts Joseph A. Warren on the condition in the Tombs which made possible the attempted jailbreak of Nov. 3 which ended in the murder of Warden Peter Mallon and Keeper Jeremiah Murphy and in the suicide of the three criminals who tried to escape.

The report severely criticizes the management of the Tombs. It holds Commissioner of Correction Frederick A. Wallis responsible for the undermanning of the prison, finding that he established an eight-hour shift in 1923, although the Board of Estimate and Apportionment had failed to provide for the additional keepers who were needed in consequence of that change.

The report listed many other alleged instances of laxity in the control of the prison, particularly criticizing the failure of the authorities to take special precautions to prevent a jailbreak, although they knew of an earlier plot to break jail.

Commissioner of Correction Wallis, whose resignation is expected to result from the report, will be summoned to City Hall at noon today and asked to explain the portions of the report which reflect on the administration of the Department of Correction.

Report Clears Lawyers.

Commissioner Warren found that many employes of Commissioner Wallis's privately run catering system in the Tombs had access to the prisoners and could have furnished them with pistols. He reported that other individuals were admitted to cells without being properly searched, but he denied that there was any possibility that the guns had been smuggled to Amberg, Hess or McKenna—the attempted jailbreakers—by lawyers, as suggested by Commissioner Wallis.

The present report is intended to cover urgent matters. A more detailed report will be made later. Commissioner Warren has been ordered by Mayor Walker to investigate all institutions under the control of the Department of Welfare.

The report begins by recounting the facts of the attempted jailbreak which resulted in the five deaths. The three prisoners who escaped and two other prisoners sought to get downstairs—within striking distance of the main entrance—on the pretext that they were sick and wanted to see the prison doctor. Commissioner Warren said that the search of Amberg, as illustrated by Keeper Reynolds, would not have disclosed whether he was carrying any weapons. Commissioner Warren also commented on the fact that no questions were asked the prisoners to bring out whether they were really sick or not. Following his narrative of the occurrences of Nov. 3, Commissioner Warren sets forth his conclusions and recommendations as follows:

Believes Prisons Undermanned.

1. It is claimed by Commissioner Wallis that the Tombs and the other prisons under his jurisdiction are undermanned. I am inclined to believe that, in the case of the Tombs at least, this is true. Whose fault is this I do not feel called upon to determine. The facts remain, however, that up to and including all of 1923 the Tombs was run on a twelve-hour shift of employes. The Commissioner of Correction in that year determined to put them on an eight-hour shift, and he applied to the Board of Esti-

WITNESS SWEARS A FRIEND TOLD HIM OF SEEING MRS. HALL AT CRIME SCENE, BUT THE MAN HE NAMES DENIES IT

Witness Tells of Slain Couple's Intrigue; Court Won't Let Jury Visit Crime Scene

The tenth day of the Hall-Mills trial brought these developments:

1. A witness says he saw two men and a woman near the scene of the murder, but denies that he recognized them. Another witness contradicts the denial, saying that the first witness said he identified them as Mrs. Hall and her brothers.
2. The intrigue of the slain couple is told twice—by confidences Mrs. Mills gave to her sister and by the love letters found between the bodies.
3. The man who drove the hearse at the funeral of Dr. Hall swears the widow's cheek bore a two-inch scratch. The funeral was held two days after the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found.
4. The Court refuses to permit the jury to view the crime locale, owing to topographical changes and fear of interference.
5. The State promises to put Mrs. Jane Gibson on the stand tomorrow and then to rest its case.

BOTH SURPRISE WITNESSES

One Saw Three in Car but Insists He Did Not Recognize Them.

WOMAN WORE LIGHT COAT

Mrs. Mills's Sister Says Mrs. Clark Was Jealous and Mrs. Hall Unfriendly.

SCRATCH ON WIDOW'S FACE

Hearse Driver Testifies He Saw It—Mrs. Mills's Letters Read —State Closes Tomorrow.

Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson pounded the defense hard yesterday in the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, N. J., and after court adjourned he announced that he would end his case tomorrow with the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, alleged eyewitness of the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

The first surprise the special prosecutor gave to the attorneys for Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Willis Stevens and Henry Stevens, came when he introduced a new witness. He was Elijah K. Soper, a soft-spoken, gray-haired man, who testified that at midnight of Sept. 14, 1922, he was driving home past De Russey's Lane.

He had attended a meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star in Somerville with his wife. Another couple was in the car with him. As the headlights of his machine searched through the darkness opposite the famous lane the light picked out a dark-bodied touring car parked on the roadside. Soper scanned the machine, with its dimmed lights, and saw two men in the front seat and on the rear seat a woman in a light coat.

Denies He Recognized Them.

He denied steadfastly that he had recognized the three persons, but was positive that the coat worn by the woman was light in color. Six witnesses have placed this car and another, a Dodge sedan similar to that owned by the Hall family, at this point. Mrs. Gibson in her story, not yet told on the stand, has sworn that Mrs. Hall was wearing a tan coat when she says she saw her bending over the form of the rector in the darkness. A night watchman opposite the Hall home saw a woman in a light coat enter the Hall grounds at 2:45 A. M., the morning following the events under the crab-apple tree on the Phillips farm.

That link, the link of the coat, appeared forged to the satisfaction of Senator Simpson, for he grinned and looked at the three defendants stolidly listening to Soper's story. But when he pressed the witness on whether he had recognized the three persons in the car, he found himself up against a solid row of negations.

Soper stepped from the stand and Simpson called, "Mr. Nixon." This name was another new one in the roster of the celebrated case and necks craned to catch a glimpse of the gray-suited figure making its way to the witness chair. Ira B. Nixon identified himself as salesman and head of the Nixon Oil Company of 55 Water Street, Manhattan.

He was sworn and looked up at Senator Simpson. The special prosecutor was enjoying the surprise manifested in the ranks of the defense lawyers. Mr. Nixon, a trim man with a square forehead and face, that suggested former Governor Charles S. Whitman, swore that on Sept. 23, 1922, a week after the bodies of the murdered couple had been found, he encountered Soper in a Newark office where both were employed.

Says Soper Identified Them.

They met at the cashier's window, said Nixon, and Soper told him that on the night of the crime he had met an automobile at the lane containing "Mrs. Hall and her two brothers." Nixon, who wore the button of the American Legion in his lapel, was decidedly positive that Soper had named the persons he had seen in the touring car.

State Senator Clarence E. Case took the witness in hand for cross-examination. He hammered at the imperturbable man in gray, but failed to shake his story in any particular. Nixon said that he had not come forward four years ago with his statement because he had not wished to get mixed up in the affair. He professed not to read the newspapers and said that the matter had seemed "no concern" of his.

He added that he had volunteered to come forward last Saturday night after his father and several friends had urged him to do so. He said he had been interviewed in his home in Newark by Inspector John J. Underwood and Captain Harry Walsh and decided that he "owed it to the State" to tell his version of his talk with Soper. Nixon, who was cool for the most part on the stand, flared slightly

DOMINION PREMIERS LIMIT IMMIGRATION

Imperial Conference Adopts American Plan of Selecting Desirable Citizens.

CANADA WANTS FARMERS

Holds Out Against Britain's Wish That She Take Thousands of Industrial Unemployed.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—The American principle of limiting and carefully scrutinizing its immigrants from Europe has been carried out in a comprehensive plan adopted by the Imperial Conference for the distribution of the empire's population, mainly in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

By this plan the dominions won somewhat of a victory over the mother country by maintaining their right to take the immigrants they want instead of those which England would wish to send overseas.

Canada, for instance, is preparing a new contract with the British Government for the transportation of immigrants at a cost of £3 each. They must be agricultural workers or domestic servants. The home Government would prefer that Canada also accept industrial workers, but the Dominion is holding out against this.

The day is past, it is felt, when the only qualification for a British emigrant is that he cannot find work in England. Nowadays he must have a small amount of capital and be capable of doing the work required by the dominion to which he is emigrating. The British Government is hoping that some overseas unit of the Empire will find work for about 100,000 surplus coal miners who are not likely to find jobs even when the strike is settled. This problem is unsolved.

The main work of the conference, it is expected, will be finished on Saturday, although there may be a few plenary meetings next week for the formal adoption of resolutions. Committees are now drafting the resolutions to be presented to the conference.

The Conference Committee of Premiers on Interempire Relations is understood to be working on a draft resolution regarding the treaties of Locarno. This, it is expected, will be principally confined to an appreciation of the value of the treaties in creating a peace atmosphere in Europe.

Economic Report Is Adopted.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Imperial Conference held its twelfth plenary session today, when the discussions on defense, begun on Oct. 26, were concluded, statements being made by the Prime Ministers of Canada, Australia,

VIEWS HERE CLASH ON SKYSCRAPER BAR

Edison's Criticism of Soaring Towers Backed by City Club, Opposed by Miller.

CROSS-LINE TUBES ASKED

Miller Holds Skyscrapers Are Needed—Says Congestion They Cause Can Be Overcome.

Thomas A. Edison's suggestion that the construction of skyscrapers would have to be prohibited in congested areas because they were responsible for traffic strangulation, and that cross-streets should be depressed to facilitate the movement of traffic, occasioned divergent comment yesterday among city officials and individuals interested in city planning.

Skyscrapers were condemned as the cause of traffic congestion by the Trustees of the City Club last night in their annual report, presented to a membership meeting. Henry H. Curran, counsel to the City Club, said Mr. Edison had served the community by calling attention to the skyscraper problem, which the City Club has been trying to combat for a long time.

Borough President Julius Miller of Manhattan took the opposite view that the skyscraper was an economic necessity, due to the concentration of business activity; that it increased property values and tax revenues, which made possible necessary improvements in outlying districts, and that ways easily could be found to solve the resulting traffic problems.

City Club's Suggestion.

The City Club trustees advocated a subway system for New York City "fashioned in the form of a cobweb," rather than "in its present form of a wheel without a rim." That part of the report dealing with transit and skyscrapers follows:

"There is general agreement that the clumping of skyscrapers, so that they form a huge hub of daytime business and manufacturing in the centre of a city as large as New York, provides us with a congestion that is already intolerable from the point of view of comfort and decency. This congestion has already swamped Manhattan's street system. It has already swamped the existing subways that carry all the workers to and fro between their outlying homes and their working places in the hub.

"The subways are like the spokes of a wheel—all of them leading into the hub and back again out of the hub. There is little in the city's rapid transit layout in the way of cross-strands between spokes, by way of either outer or inner circumference. We are still a wheel in design, where we should be a cobweb. The spider is well-known for its silence, efficiency and dispatch. It builds its rapid transit system better than we human beings have done. The spider builds a web with cross-strands as well as spokes, and the spider gets there, comfortably and easily. We build only spokes—thus far—and, sometimes, we get there in the fashion of chimpanzees, as we cling to the flying rings and make our gymnastic way between working hub and outlying home.

"And yet chimpanzees are better off than we are. They have room to spare as they go leaping through the upper leafy reaches of the forests. But there is no room to spare in the subways. The cracking of human wishbones is likely to become at any moment a staccato accompaniment to the roar of subway trains."

Mr. Curran's Views.

"I think Mr. Edison has done us a great service in pointing out the futility of putting up so many skyscrapers in such a small area," said Mr. Curran. "Of course, we cannot practicably stretch streets. Neither have we the money to build subways indefinitely. Unless we do both of those things we cannot possibly take care of the huge work-a-day skyscraper population as it travels to and fro with any comfort or decency. We have reached the point where we have got to stop.

"Mayor Walker's Committee of Five Hundred is taking this matter up very actively. I hope that before many weeks we will have affirmative and

Princeton Accepts Harvard Move for Peace; Ohio State Gets Crimson's Place on Schedule

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Harvard and Princeton have made the first step toward a peace conference.

At a meeting of the Princeton Senior Council tonight the invitation presented by the Harvard Student Council for a joint meeting between a committee from Harvard and one from Princeton was unanimously approved and Joseph Prendergast, Chairman of the Princeton Senior Council, was delegated to send a telegram to that effect.

The Harvard invitation came as a result of a message sent by the Princeton council to the Harvard council in which it was asked that there be a definite understanding as to the fielding of the two universities.

Mr. Prendergast said that no committee had been appointed by the Princeton seniors as yet and that a place for the meeting had not been chosen. He suggested, however, that the meeting be held in New Haven on the occasion of the Yale-Harvard game, since, in all probability, many members of the Harvard committee would be there then and several members of the Princeton Senior Council have been planning to be present. It is known that the Harvard Club of New Haven has offered the use of its building for such a conference.

The telegram which was sent tonight after the meeting of the Senior Council follows:

"Leo Daley, 6 Mower Hall, Camhridge, Mass.

"At a meeting tonight the Princeton Senior Council approved the suggestion of the Harvard Student Council for a meeting between representative committees of the two councils, such a meeting to be held in the near future.

"JOSEPH PRENDERGAST."

Ohio State University will replace Harvard on the Princeton football schedule next year, according to the list made public tonight by Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, Chairman of the Board of Athletic Control of Princeton. The game will be played at Princeton on Nov. 5. The agreement with Ohio State is for a single year only and does not call for a return game.

The complete schedule for 1927 is as follows, all the games save the one with Yale to be played at Princeton: Oct. 1, Amherst; Oct. 8, Lehigh; Oct. 15, Washington and Lee; Oct. 22, Cornell; Oct. 29, William and Mary; Nov. 5, Ohio State, and Nov. 12, Yale.

A three-year agreement has been entered into with Cornell.

Elizabeth Man Lost Trapping in Catskills; Whole Countryside Hunts Mountain Crevices

Special to The New York Times.

WINDHAM, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Rain and a heavy fog at sundown today interrupted a twenty-six hour search for Edwin Probst, 24 years old, of 758 Pennington Street, Elizabeth, N. J., who is believed to be lost somewhere in one of the numerous rock crevices on South Mountain, in the heart of the Catskills, just a few miles from this town.

Early yesterday morning Probst left the boarding house of Fred Makley in Hensenville, where he has been staying, to examine half a dozen raccoon and wildcat traps which he had planted on the mountain side.

He carried a rifle, a lunch pail, a knapsack and a milk bottle which contained fresh bait for the traps, and he announced that he would return not later than noon. When at 4 P. M. he was still absent, the Makleys became alarmed and they began organizing searching parties to look for him.

Word of Probst's disappearance spread rapidly over the countryside and soon church bells and fire alarms were being sounded in all the neighboring hamlets. As the villagers gathered they organized more parties and went over the mountain to join the search.

Hour after hour passed without any trace of Probst. Then near the last of his lins of traps one party found his knapsack and a few minutes later his lunch pail, the contents of which were still untouched.

This gave rise to the belief that Probst had deliberately discarded these articles, probably after sighting a wild animal of some sort. It was thought that he might have encountered wildcats, which are plentiful in that region or possibly even a bear.

In the mountains are numerous caves, few of which have ever been explored, and there are also many rock crevices which frequently attain a depth of twenty feet. When no trace was found elsewhere of Probst, the searchere directed their attention to these caves and crevices.

But morning came and still no trace could be found of the missing man. At 9 o'clock when the schools opened all children over twelve years old were excused from classes to join search-ing parties. State police then were ordered and joined in the search.

ASK RESEARCH FUND FOR STUDY OF COAL

Delegates at World Conference in Pittsburgh Say America Lags In Exploiting Its Wealth.

GERMAN OIL PROCESS TOLD

Bergius Predicts That We Also Shall Need to Convert Coal Before Many Years.

LITTLE IS DONE HERE NOW

Federal Officials Report on Extent of Their Researches—$4,000,000 Wanted for Endowment.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 15.—Pleas for intensive and fundamental research by Americans on the composition and constitution of coal were made today by American scientists, who told the opening session of the international conference on bituminous coal at the Carnegie Institute of Technology here, that if the United States depended on foreign scholars for the development of processes essential to modern industry, this nation would be placed at an incalculable disadvantage and its much-prized economic independence would be threatened.

The serious situation confronting American industry was stressed by President Thomas S. Baker of the institute and A. C. Fieldner, chief chemist of the Federal Bureau of Mines. The latter presented a program for fundamental research on coal, and urged the raising of a $4,000,000 endowment fund, from which the annual income of $200,000 should be spent in research.

Fundamental research in the petroleum industry has been made possible by gifts totaling $500,000 by John D. Rockefeller Sr. and the Universal Oil Products Company to the American Petroleum Institute, said Mr. Fieldner, and he suggested that even larger grants were necessary if many apparently baffling questions concerning coal were to be answered.

Bergius Tells of His Process.

The first of a group of prominent European scientists attending the four-day session read a paper indicating how much greater progress was being made abroad in coal research. He was Dr. Friedrich C. R. Bergius of Heidelber, discoverer of the Bergius process for transforming coal into oil.

Dr. Bergius reported that after the expenditure of millions of dollars and twelve years' research work the process of liquefaction of coal by adding hydrogen under great pressure, had at last proved economical, and large plants are now being erected to carry on the process in Germany.

One ton of bituminous coal, said Dr. Bergius, will yield an average of 140 gallons of oil. Deducting the coal consumed in the process, the net yield is 108 gallons of oil per ton of coal, and of this 45 gallons consist of gasoline; the remainder is gas oil, lubricating oil and fuel oil. Every grade of lignite and coal, with the exception of anthracite, may be liquefied, said Dr. Bergius.

The opening meeting today brought together more than 1,000 delegates from ten countries, twenty-six States and fifty universities and technical institutions. The purpose of the conference is to discuss the more economical utilization of coal, conservation of the fuel supply and methods of extracting oils and gases from soft coal.

His Patents Sought Here.

According to The Manchester Guardian commercial number of Oct. 28, the Royal Dutch Shell group in Great Britain has an option on the use of the Bergius process there. The Standard Oil, according to the same report, has been negotiating for the American rights, and the report further states that "something like an international scramble may develop for the control of the Bergius patents ontside Germany."

Coal is built up into gasoline by his process, the inventer explained today. The coal is not broken down to extract oil, but hydrogen is united with it under great pressure and high temperature. He said that between 40 and 70 per cent. of the coal is converted into liqnid fuel by his process.

Informal discussion following this afternoon's sessions revealed that some of the visiting scientists believed that if the oil supply of the United States should appreciably diminish in some years, the question of the utilization of coal as a source of oil would be a live problem. In that event, it was said, the conversion of oil from coal at or near the mine mouth would probably be the solution of the problem.

Only at Beginning of Coal's Riches.

President Baker of the Carnegie Institute said:

"We are bnt beginning the studies which will unlock the riches which have lain hitherto locked in coal. It will be shown at this meeting that the liquefaction of coal is an accomplished fact. Further tests may be required to secure more economical methods of prodncing synthetic petroleum products, bnt there need be no cause for alarm at the thought of the exhaustion of natural petroleum. The coal chemist is at hand, working with the engineer and ready to meet this emergency whenever it arises.

"In less than a generation the present methods of shipping coal to be burned in its raw state nnder boilers hundreds of miles from the mines will appear to have been primitive and rudely unscientific."

Dr. Baker said the United States, now looked upon as the financial leader of the world, would be able to maintain its supremacy only if it built up its scientific capital and organized and carried through scientific work of a high order.

Mr. Fieldner, who followed, pointed out that Britain, France and Germany had important research programs in coal, and spoke of the coal research being conducted by the Bureau of Mines and several universities here. The expenditure in this country, he added, was small compared with the money lost each year in fuile commercial experimentation that failed for lack of fundamental data.

Delegates at the Conference.

Other speakers were Marius R. Campbell of the Geological Survey and Dr. Cecil H. Lander, Director of Fuel Research of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, London. Samnel Insull of Chicago was Chairman at this afternoon's session.

Dr. Campbell, who spoke on "Our Coal Supply, Its Quantity, Quality and Distribntion," said the United States was fortunate in having 52 per cent. of the coal supply of the world—an estimated unmined tonnage of 3,444,000,000,000 tons. Ha told the audience that the United States was using 600,000,000 tons a year and it had produced 25,000,000,000 tons since mining began.

Among the delegates who will take part in the meetings are John Hays Hammond, President of the Federal Coal Commission in 1923; General Georges Patart of Paris; Paul Dumanois, chief engineer of the French Air Service; Dr. R. Lessing of London; Walter E. Trent, New York; Henry Kreisinger, New York; Jean Bing, Paris; Alfred H. White, University of Michigan; John Morris Weiss, New York; Dr. Yoshikiyo Oshima, Tokio Imperial University; Dr. Charles M. A. Stine, Wilmington, Del.; Walter Barnum, President of the National Coal Association; Dr. Edwin E. Sloson, Science Service, Washington; Professor Franz Fischer, Mulheim-Ruhr, Germany; Geoffrey M. Gill, London; C. J. Ramsburg, the Koppers Company, Pittsburgh; W. H. Fulweiler, the U. G. I. Contracting Company, Philadelphia; Wilbert J. Huff, Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Frederick G. Cottrell, Department of Agriculture, Washington; O. P. Hood, Bureau of Mines, and Professor Robert T. Haslam, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

30 Women, Called for Jury, Vent Wrath at Delay of Trial

IRVINGTON, N. J., Nov. 15 (AP).—Court officials withered today under the collective wrath of thirty women members of a panel from which a jury was to have been chosen to try two motion picture theatre managers charged with exhibiting films on Sunday. The trial was postponed until next Monday, and the women, inceneed becaues they were taken needlessly from their household duties, poured forth a tirade against lawyers, judges and court procedure in general.

Alexander J. Sabo and Louis Golding, the defendants, were arrested for the fifth time yesterday and for the fifth time put up bail of $100. Today also marked the fifth postponement of their trials.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—Telegrams to the Excelsior from the State of Vera Cruz say that early on Saturday morning fifty armed men entered the town of Banderillas, and killed the entire Federal force there. They remained four hours in the town, committing many outrages. The arrival of reinforcements of Federal troops caused the bandits to abandon the town.

Twelve soldiers were killed and a large number seriously wounded in the later fighting.

Telegrams from Sonora say the Yaqui Indians made an attack near Las Campanas on a small group of Federal soldiers, who held their positions until the arrival of reinforcements.

The Excelsior reports that in the election in the City of Guadalajara one man and one child were killed.

Ballot boxes were destroyed and bullets exchanged between the political factions, a stray bullet causing the death of the child, while two bystanders were wounded.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15 (AP).—Gensral Miguel Pina, Under-Secretary for War, declared today that reports of a revolt in Chihuahua were unfounded. He said the War Department had received no reports of clashes between Federal troops and rebels in that territory.

Suggestion Is Made to Take Case to Hague Tribunal—El Universal Scores Interference.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—In political circles it is asserted that Gonzales Roas, one of the signers of the Warren-Payne conventions, has been called in by the Department of Foreign Relations to discuss an anewer to the latest American note, which will be a clear and strong statement that Mexico's laws are her own affairs, and if the United States does not agree to their application then she may have resort to The Hague Tribunal, as Mexico is a sovereign nation and has a right to make laws governing internal questions as she sees fit.

The answer is expected to make the State Department at Washington show its hand in the disputes and settle once for all the question of the sovereignty of Mexico as far as law-making goes. It is expected the answer will draw a definite statement from Washington on the continuance of the provisions of the Warren-Payne conventione and whether the American State Department believes they are binding on this Government or that a re-study and new discussion of the provisions are needed.

El Universal, commenting editorially on ths fact that various rumors from Washington are again circulating about the lateet exchange of notes, says:

"This is usual whenever notes are received. We have expressed our attitnde before on having a united national front. It is known in the United States, and on the entire continent, that in Mexico in international qnestions we have only one viewpoint and one front of resistance, and as regards the integrity and honor of our country thare is no diffsrence of party.

"We have no motive to exaggerate the difficulties of the present situation, nor do we know exactly what diplomatic questions are now under discussion, as diplomatic secrets should not be known. According to reports from the United States, the new note simply treats of the old question of the laws and regulations which, according to the criterion taken, injure or do not injure the rights of American citizens.

"This long discussion has lasted nearly nine years, because it treats of interests many times mixed and contrary. For that reason the controversy has been long and difficult. * * *

"We maintain the criterion that all problems which have ariesn through the regulations and execution of Mexican laws should be studied and solved in the Mexican courts and by the pnblic opinion of the country.

"The qnestions are very delicate, hnt they are our problems, and even though they were much more delicate, a thousand times more serious and a thousand times more difficult, outside influence should never affect the national life of Mexico.

"In spite of our other misfortunes, we always have had the good fortune to realize always as supreme and imperative our national unity, and, thanks to that, we have conserved our character as a free country."

A WHITE ELEPHANT ON OUR HANDS NOW

Pawah, Sacred Pachyderm, Only One of Kind, Here for Circus With Traveling Companion.

Pawah, said to be the first white elephant that ever left Burma or Siam, arrived yesterday from London on ths Atlantic Transport liner Minnetonka and was safely landed at the foot of West Sixteenth Street at 3 o'clock and walked along Eleventh Avenue to West Thirty-second Street, where a box car was waiting to convey the pachyderm to Bridgeport, Conn.

According to S. D. Po Min, Pawah's owner, the elephant is the only one of its kind in the world. He said that Pawah was caught in November 1918 when very young with a herd of one hundred others at Tongu, fifty miles inland from Pegu on the Irawaddy River. All of them were sold except Pawah, which means white in the dialect epoken in that section of lower Burma, and his companion on the Minnetonka, an ordinary female elephant named Minkolee, meaning beautiful. Pawah weighs two and a half tons and his companion is one heavier. They are each nearly 7 feet tall.

The sacred elephant is a greyish white and has white eyes with tiny dark brown pupils, and its ears are white with a tinge of pink inside.

Pawah made trouble for the seven Burmese attendants when they tried to get the big slings under him so that he could be hoisted to the pier. He threw his weight about on the after hatch and caused a great strain on the chains with which his big feet were lashed together.

After a circus engagement ends in November Mr. Po Min, who is a Burman and speaks English, will take Pawah to Calcutta, he said.

"Here end in England the people only pay the price of admission to see him, but in Calcutta the Hindus will worship Pawah, the sacred elephant, and bring quantities of gold, silver and precious stones as offerings," Mr. Po Min said. Mr. Po Min rode on the head of the white elephant from the pier to the railroad siding.

Frank A. Cook, manager for Ringling Bros.—Barnum & Baley, was at the pier and took charge of the two elephants when they left with a police escort.

THAW OFFERS TO HELP GIRL 16, HELD AS SLAYER

The assistance of Harry K. Thaw has been offered to Mrs. Catherine Denino, 16-year-old wife who shot and killed Luigi Fino, 34 years old, of 607 Concord Avenue, the Bronx, according to Samnsi Goldstein, an attorney, of 912 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, who said yesterday that Thaw had telephoned to him and promised to send a check for any amount to defend the young slayer.

Mrs. Denino killed Fino last Saturday night at Bergen Avenue and 149th Street, the Bronx, because, she said, he demanded money from her husband not to tell friends of his alleged attack on her four years ago. Mrs. Denino, who was held without bail on a charge of homicide for arraignment today in Bronx Homicide Court, told the police Fino attacked her in the apartment of her mother, Mrs. Mary Scippa, 231 East 109th Street, when she was only 12 years old.

Mrs. Scippa was questioned by District Attorney John E. McGeehan. Her daughter was married about a year ago and with her husband moved to Evanston, Ill. When Fino's letter threatening exposure of his alleged relations with Mrs. Denino was received, her husband turned her out, she said.

CUBAN URUGUAY NOTE MAY SEVER RELATIONS

Island Government Requests an Explanation of Statement to League.

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 15 (AP).—The possibility of the severance of diplomatic relations between Cuba and Uruguay was voiced today by Assistant Secretary Campa of the State Department. He declared that nnless the Uruguayan Government made answer today to the Cuban Government's note requesting an explanation of the reported statement of Señor Guani, Uruguayan delegate to the League of Nations, the Cuban Minister at Montevideo would be instructed to ask for his passports.

The incident arose out of alleged assertions of Señor Guani, published in South American newspapers, that, under the permanent treaty with the United States generally known as the Platt Amendment, Cuba's sovereignty was restricted.

INDIANA CORRUPTION LAID TO UTILITIES

Suit Charges 1924 Campaign Funds Were Given to Insure Commission Control.

THE INSULLS ARE ACCUSED

Payment of $19,000 to Governor Jackson Alleged in Action to Enjoin Indianapolis Merger.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP).—Campaign contributions were made to Republican candidates in the 1924 election in Indiana by public utility operators of Chicago and Indianapolis for retaining on the Public Service Commission "only individuals who wonld be unduly and illegally favorable to the representatives of the utilities," Alva J. Rucker, corporation counsel, alleged in an injunction suit filed here today.

The suit seeks to prevent a hearing by the Indiana Public Service Commission of the petition for a merger of two local electric power companies.

In addition to charging the utility interests with conspiring against power consumers of Indianapolis, ths complaint alleges that in furtherance of plans to obtain control of utilities in other States, attempts were made to procure the favor of Public Service Commissions and political officers "by liberal donations to campaign funds of Governors who had the appointment of such commissions and by donations to campaign funds of members on such commissions when aspiring to other office, including the office of Senator in the Senate of the United States."

Utility operators named in the complaint were Samuel and Martin Insull and Harley L. Clark, all of Chicago; Harry Reid and Robert I. Todd of Indianapolis. D. C. Stephenson, former Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, also was mentioned. A Grand Jury hare now has under investigation charges that high State officials were corrupt by Stephenson.

The specific sum of $19,000, the complaint alleges, was paid to Governor Ed Jackson and John W. McCardle, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, during the campaign of 1924 to retain McCardle as a member of the commission and to obtain Clyde Jones as another Commissioner. Samnel R. Artman, another Commissioner, entered the conspiracy, the complaint charges, to obtain the support of the utility companies in his campaign for a Judgeship of the State Supreme Court.

The charge is made that Jackson during his candidacy for Governor agreed that if he was elected he would appoint and retain on the commission "only individuals who would be unduly and illegally favorable" to representatives of the utilities. As part of the agreement, it is alleged that McCardle was to be reappointed as a member of the commission.

Commission members named as "a majority faction" favorable to the utility interests are McCardle, Clyde Jones and Samuel R. Artman. McCardle was reappointed by Governor Jackson after his election. Jones also was appointed by Jackson.

The allegations brought deniale from Martin Insull in Chicago and from nearly all the Indianapolis men mentioned.

The merger which the Corporation Counsel seeks to prevent is that of the Merchants' Heat and Light Company and the Indianapolis Light and Heat Company. The former company is owned by the Central Indiana Power Company and the Middle West Utilities Company, both of which are holding companies dominated by the Insull interests. The Indianapolis Power and Light Corporation, organized in Delaware and controlled by Clark, owns 71.43 per cent. of the stock of the Indianapolis Light and Heat Company and the Middle West Utilities Company, incorporated in Illinois, owns 28.5 per cent.

A hearing on ths merger petition has been set for Nov. 18. The proposed combination has been attacked by local civic organizations as likely to bring an increase in light and power rates.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP).—Samnel Insull, Chicago utilities executive, told the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee of contributions of $125,000 to the primary campaign fund of Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, and other contributions to Chicago politicians, but said he made no other political donations. He was out of the city today.

Martin Insull, however, denied knowledge of any such payments as were mentioned in the Indianapolis action. Harley L. Clarke, President of the Utilities Power and Light Corporation, not an Insull associate, was out of the city.

Martin Insull said the Insull associates were pooling their interests with the interests headed by Clarke in the proposed merger.

"I know nothing about the local political situation and have never taken any interest in it and have no knowledge with regard to the $19,000 being paid to any one," he added. "Any statement that money was paid to any one for any illegal purposes is absolutely untrue."

WILL MOVE TO CURB PRESIDENT ON OUSTERS

La Follette Aims at Change in Constitution Making Senate Consent Necessary.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 15.—Senator Robert M. La Follette, who is at the Mayo Hospital at Rochester, Minn., but may rsturn home Saturday, authorised publication here today of an announcement that he would propose a constitutional amendment to correct the situation created by ths recent Supreme Court decision in the Oregon postoffice case, in which the court held that the President had powere of removal over Federal appointees without consent of the Senate. The announcement, in part, follows:

"The specific point settled by the majority opinion written by Chief Juetice Taft is that the law of 1876, by which the unrestricted power of removal of first-class postmasters is denied to the President, is in violation of the Constitution and invalid. The statute of 1876 has been unmodified and in force for half a century. The majority decision makes it unconstitutional, and as every layman can plainly see adds enormously to the President's political power and his already undue and excessive control of patronage.

"Coming at a time in history when confirmation by advice and consent of the Senate has been challenged, as it was by President Coolidge in the case of Warren for the Cabinet, for example, and in his numerous attempts to influence the action of the members of these most important quasi-judicial commissions and boards created for the protection of the public interest, the Supreme Court decision giving the President unrestrained power of dismissal is a big boost to autocracy and a corresponding blow to democracy.

"The amendment to correct the Taft dismissal opinion need provide only that executive officials whose appointment must be confirmed by the Senate shall not be removed by the President except by advice and consent of the Senate. I shall introduce and do all in my power to promote the passage of such an amendment in the coming session of Congress."

MRS. ZOBEL LOSES APPEAL.

Court Refuses Fees Holding She Has Funds to Press a Divorce.

Having already won a separation from her husband, Frederick C. Zobel, by the terms of which he was to pay her $180 a week, Mrs. Marcia Zobel lost her appeal in the Supreme Court yesterday for counsel fees of $2,000 to press an action for absolute divorce. Justice Francis B. Delehanty ruled that she had sufficient means to pay her own attorney.

Mrs. Zobel, now living in a $30,000 house at Woodmere, L. I., given her by her former husband, received a separation decree last June. She also got the house and alimony of $180 a week. Two children, Maria Jeanette, 15 years old, and Frederick C. Zobel Jr., 13, were left in her custody.

The divorce action is brought on the same grounds on which the separation suit was pressed. Mrs. Zobel declares that her husband entered into an illegal marriage with Miss Irene Bluth in San Francisco in 1923. He had previously obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev., but Mrs. Zobel asserted that it was void because she was not personally served and did not appear at the trial.

ASKS PART IN SEWER PLAN.

Mamaroneck Village Seeks to Be Included in Project.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The Westchester County Sanitary Sewer Commission, which has submitted its final report on the $4,350,000 Hutchinson Valley trunk sewer, on which a public hearing is to be held by the Board of Supervisors on Dec. 1, has been asked by officials of Mamaroneck Village to include this municipality in the Mamaroneck River Valley trunk sewer project. Public hearings are to be held by the commission on this project shortly.

At present, all of the Town of Mamaroneck, except the Village of Mamaroneck, is included in the project. It is the belief of the commission that the best interests of the community would be served if it were included. It had not previously been considered because of its present sewer system and disposal plant.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 15.—Mrs. George Beers, wife of a farm hand employed on the George Morgan farm between Annandale and Clinton, about fourteen miles northwest of here, and their fifteen-month-old son were asphyxiated last night by coal gas escaping from a firs in the parlor. Beers, his wife and the child were asleep in a bedroom above the parlor. The fire had been stoked befors they retired and during the night the gas spread. Beers became unconscioue and is in the Somerset Hospital in a serious condition.

WALLIS CENSURED IN TOMBS REPORT

mate and Apportionment for a proportionate increase in his appropriations for this purpose. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment declined to grant him this increase both for the year 1924 and for subseqnent years. Nevertheless, the Commissioner installed the eight-hour shift without sufficient men.

2. I am at a loss to understand why keepers bring prisoners with such great frequency down to the doctor's office. The doctor every day makes two rounds, one at or around 12 o'clock, the othsr at or around 4. On the day in question, he had made the 12 o'clock round and was due again at around 4 P. M. As has been stated, these prisoners were taken out by Shea around 3 o'clock. No reason was given as to why the prisoners could not wait until the doctor would come on his usual round at 4 P. M. nor were any questions of any sort asked. Not only did this happen on this particular occasion, but I am informed that this method of bringing prisoners to the doctor is a common and usual procedure. Dr. Lichtenstein is of the opinion that it is unnecessary; that if there is an exceptional case requiring sudden and immediate treatment between his two visits, the doctor should be called upon before any prisoner is brought down. In this connection, it is interesting to nots that Dr. Lichtenstein says that frequently, when a case requires dressing when he is on his rounds, he thereafter has the case sent down to him, as the facilities for dressing are better in his office than on the tiers. As mentioned above, the prisoner who required a dressing in the five proposed to be sent down with Shea was not taken down.

It is to be remembered that the men brought down to the doctor's office and to see counsel both go through the centre room, the counsel room being on the left and the doctor's office on the right. If the doctor is busy, they have to wait, and the passage of these patients through the same space as the prisoners desiring to see counsel leads to continual confnsion and creates a serious situation, especially when it is remembered that the gate leading from this space to the entrancs of the Tombs is not locked or guarded.

Comments on Lack of Arms.

3. None of the keepers in the tiers carry any arms. I am informed that this is considered good prieon practice, for the reason that with only one or two keepers in a tier, the prisoners might surround them and take their guns away. When we come down to the main floor of the Tombs, it wonld seem that this reason does not apply. On the day in question, Lorsch, the keeper at the front gate was not armed. Shea, of course, was not armed. Joseph Murphy, who guarded the counsel room, was not armed. Not one guard on thie floor was armed at the time of the attempted break. There is, in a cabinet about seven feet from the floor, which is always locked, a few guns, which are taken out and ueed in case of emergency. It is interesting to note that only three guns appeared in the hands of Tombs employes during this whole eession. One appeared in the hands of Joseph Murphy, the keeper of the counsel room, who took it from Lynch, a driver of a van who had just delivered a load of prisoners in the rear yard. The other was in the hands of Lorsch, after the affair was over, and he had to get it from an upper floor; and the third was in the hands of Shea, who also appeared after the affair was over and he, too, had to get it from a higher floor.

4. As we have seen in describing the incidents of Nov. 3, the prisonere brought down by Shea passed through three barred gates, none of which were locked and at none of which was there a guard. If a guard had been etationed at the last gate through which they passed and that gate had been locked, it would have been impossible for them to get through the main Tombe entrance, and it would have been impossible for these prisoners to have killed the warden. It is my opinion that the practice is never to lock any of the three gates mentioned and never to have a guard at any of them.

Barbers Not Searched.

5. It appears that in addition to the keepers there are three classes of people who have access to the cell tiers in the Tombe Prieon, none of whom are city employes or under the direct control of any city official:

(a) Telegraph boy. There is at least one telegraph boy who is allowed to enter the Tombs without being searched, and to deliver messages to the individual prisonars in their cells. Apparently, he is under no supervision whatsoever.

(b) There are about fifteen waiters employed by the commissary and known as runners. These men are employed directly by the Commissary Department, which is a privately run institution with its quarters in the Tombe Prison. It is stated that these men, whenever they come in or out of the Tombs, are searched. I am inclined to believe that thie is not so, and that in many instances they are allowed in and out of the Tombs without being searched.

(c) Ons barber with two assistants is admitted into the Tombs every day. Of course, it is necessary that these barbers carry bags with the utensils of their trade. I talked to the chief barber on Monday, Nov. 8, and he informed me that for the last three or four years he had never been searched upon his entrance to or exit from the Tombs Prison.

There is and has been a decided laxity in the control of ontsiders admitted to the cell tiers of the Tombs Prison.

No Regular Inspection, He Says.

6. It seems to me that the practice of allowing the prisoners to keep their personal money on their person gives an opportunity for bribing keepers, runners, &c., which would not exist if the money was kept for them in the Warden's office. I am informed by Commissioner Wallis that early last Summer he received an opinion from the Corporation Counsel that he could take the monsy from the prisoners and act as custodian of it, but up to the date of his appearing before me, Nov. 5, no steps had been taken to do this.

7. I could find no evidence that there was any regular system of inspection of the work in the Tombs by superior officers. Apparently, the keepers of the tiers were left without any regular inspection, and allowed to use a discretion which should never have been delegated to such minor subordinates.

8. From such observation as I have been able to make, I believe that the whole searching of people entering and visiting the Tombe and of the prisoners leaving the different tiers is perfunctory and frequently is not done at all.

9. It is impossible for me at this time to indicate the exact manner in which guns reached these prisoners. I am certain, however, that they were not given to them directly by a visitor who visited the prisoners in the usual manner. I am also certain that these guns are not the ones which Werner states that he threw over the Tombe wall. It is obvious, however, from what has been said, that there are at least four avenues through which outside articlee might be conveyed to prisoners, to wit: Keepers, telegraph boy, barbers and runners.

10. I desire to draw attention to the facts that have been stated in refsrence to Keeper Shea's very close connection with the whole situation. Nevertheless, when I last visited the Tombs Prison, on Monday, Nov. 8, Keeper Shea was employed receiving visitors and guarding tier 3 in exactly the same manner that he was on Nov. 3.

11. I find abeolutely no evidence to justify the assertion freqnently made that the guns might have been conveyed to the prisoners by a lawyer. The records of the Tombs Prison show that since Oct. 1 but two lawyers visited any of these prisoners. They visited Amberg only. Their standing in the community renders it impossible to suspect them. No statement to this effect should have been made by a responsible official who had thie information at his command until he had looked up the facts.

12. In the course of a conversation which I had with Assistant District Attorney Pecora on Nov. 8 he stated to me that about three or four weeks before some guns had been found which had been thrown over the wall of the Tombs Prison. Theee guns were not the guns which were used by the prisoners on Nov. 3. However, it is elgnificant that thie incident ehould have put the officers on notice and rendered them more careful. It is further submitted that, although Commissioner Wallis appeared before me on Nov. 5 and I visited the Tombs and interviewed everybody available on the 6th, I received abeolutely no information in reference to thie incident, but after being told by Mr. Pecora of it, I aecertained that the Tombs officials knew that it had happened. I have by no means completed the investigation, even of the Tombs Prison, but I believe that it is necessary to give you what I have without any further delay.

$500,000,000 ASKED TO PAY WAR CLAIMS

Treasury Renews Proposal for Congress to Reimburse Americans Damaged by Germany.

IDEAL PLAN, SAYS WINSTON

Contemplates Eventual Return of Seized Alien Property and Would Cut Surplus.

CRITICIZED BY DEMOCRATS

Garner Objects in Committee to Permitting Germany to Escape Responsibility.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Gerard B. Winston, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, submitted to the Ways and Means Committee of the House today a plan for settlement of the German alien property controversy that would involve the appropriation of $100,000,000 by Congress, which, with other funds coming into the Treasury, would be used in the payment of private American claims. His proposal was greeted with criticism by the Democrats. A similar proposal was made last Spring by the Treasury.

The Republicans brought Woodrow Wilson into the discussion today by asking a question as to what that President, prior to the entrance of this country into the war, meant to be the policy of this Government. Representative Chindblom, Republican, of Illinois, read from a statement which, he said, Mr. Wilson made on Feb. 8, 1917, an assurance to German subjects in this country that "the Government of the United States will under no circumstances take advantage of a state of war to take possession of property to which under international understandings and the recognized law of the land it has no just claim or title."

Representative Garner, ranking Democrat on the committee, remarked that what was done later evidently had not come "within the purview" of the statement attributed to the war-time President.

"He did a lot of things he said he wouldn't, and he didn't do a lot of things he said he would," rejoined Representative Crowther, Republican, of New York.

Would Hamper Tax Reduction.

Under-Secretary Winston admitted, in response to questions from the Democratic committee members, that if Congress should appropriate the $100,000,000, it would to that extent reduce the Treasury surplus and interfere with the plan of the President and Secretary Mellon to give a credit in 1927 on 1926 income tax payments.

Under the Winston plan only the private American claims, amounting to about $190,000,000, would be paid at present. The balance, about $80,000,000, Government claims, would have to await payments from Germany. Mr. Winston said the share of the United States on account of the Mixed Claims Commission awards was fixed at 2¾ per cent. of receipts from Germany under the Dawes plan annuities available for reparations, from which this Government is getting approximately $23,000,000 a year.

The Under-Secretary said the money due could be paid in Germany in marks, thus avoiding complications incident to any attempt to have German marks converted into American dollars in repayment of the claims of Americans. This, he said, the simplest method, would be a big thing for the United States to do and would put it on record before the world as standing against confiscation of German private property, as well as establish firmly the policy of not seizing private property in any war in which this country might be engaged. Mr. Winston said it would be in keeping with the Dawes plan, which requires that the money Germany pays as reparations shall be paid in Germany in marks.

An Aid to Germany.

American rights would be safeguarded by the proposal, he said. Germany would be aided in making her future payments and the Government established on a more substantial footing.

Mr. Garner told Mr. Winston he had raised a large question.

"What do you think," he inquired, "of taking the public money to pay claims to private citizens of a foreign country? You open up a very big field there."

Mr. Garner added that there were some $600,000,000 of claims held by American citizens against Mexico that might become involved in a similar proposal if Congress were to set a precedent in the German cases. The American claimants against Germany would be collecting in full under the Winston plan, Mr. Garner said, while those of England, France and Italy, for example, got much less than the entire amount.

The Democratic leader questioned the suggested policy in its relation to what other countries had done, bringing out that seized property was held in some of them to satisfy claims and not returned. Mr. Winston admitted that this was so, but contended that his plan would be "an American ideal" he would like to see embodied in international law.

"If it is the policy of Congress to use this property," said Mr. Winston, "it is unnecessary for me to be here." Mr. Garner contended that it should be possible to devise some method of settlement by which Germany could collect what was due on alien property and American claims be satisfied at the same time. It developed that no one knew the exact value of this property, although it was roughly estimated at $500,000,000. An inventory had recently been taken for President Coolidge, Mr. Winston said, but this was a "book inventory."

An Alternative Plan.

Mr. Garner said he would like to see it. Germany, he concluded, would be glad to make an arrangement to pay off American nationals to the extent of the $240,000,000 due them if at the same time she would recover $260,000,000 from alien property.

"Can't you work out something like that?" he urged. Mr. Winston replied that political conditions in Germany would have to be reckoned with, and suggested that the United States in undertaking any other plan would constitute itself a special case under the Dawes plan. He felt sure the Transfer Committee and allied countries would object.

"I don't see how they could object," said Mr. Garner.

"I sympathize with you," said Mr. Winston. "The trouble is that they play politics in those countries, too."

"If your proposition goes through," said Representative Rainey, Democrat, of Illinois, "America will pay for sinking the Lusitania."

"I didn't say that," retorted Mr. Winston sharply.

42 CHILDREN KILLED, 1,124 HURT BY AUTOS

October Report for City Stirs O'Shea to Start Campaign in Schools for Safety.

During October about three children under 16 years of age were killed every two days in street accidents in this city, and thirty-seven were injured every day, according to a report from the Police Department to Superintendent of Schools Dr. William J. O'Shea, made public yesterday.

Forty-two children were killed and 1,124 injured. As compared with October, 1925, this is a reduction of five deaths, but an increase of thirty-nine injuries. The nature of these accidents as given by the Police Department were:

	Killed.	Injured.
Crossing not at the crossing	19	364
Crossing at the crossing	4	124
Stealing rides	1	60
Coasting on toy vehicles.....	..	8
Careless bicycle riding	..	46
Roller skating in roadway	1	84
Playing games in roadway	2	117
Coming off sidewalk into road..	4	102
View obstructed	3	41
Other causes	8	224
Total	42	1,124

Immediately on receipt of the police report, Dr. O'Shea called a conference of all the associate superintendents and district superintendents. He also called the attention of parents' associations in the city to the situation. District superintendents will hold further conferences with the principals in their districts, to present to them measures for cutting down these accidents.

SMITH PARROTS WILL STAY.

Talkative Pair at Mansion Always Greet Governor With "Hello, Al."

ALBANY, Nov. 15 (AP).—Two occupants of the Executive Mansion, whose names never get into the newspapers but whose presence is readily apparent to visitors, will continue their residence in the big house on Eagle Street as a result of Governor Smith's re-election. They are Peter and Frieda, parrots, the only members of the household staff that feel well enough acquainted with the Governor to call him by his first name, abbreviated.

"Hello, Al!" shouts one of the birds when Governor Smith comes into the breakfast room in which their cages hang.

"What are ya doin' now?" queries the other, and then tha two start a crossfire of chatter that can be heard many rooms away.

When the Governor returned from his recent campaign trip, Peter and Frieda were delighted to see him.

"How's it goin'?" they demanded, adding a series of polite pleasantries as "Atta, boy!" "Good luck, Al!" "Won't ya shake hands?"

Many interesting stories of the birds' loquaciousness are told by members of the Smith family. Not long before the recent election several Democratic leaders were holding an important conference with the Governor in the mansion. The conversation was hardly under way when Peter and Frieda, in an adjoining room, set up a counter-barrage of talk. Louder and louder rose the din from the gilded cages. Broader and broader became the smiles of the Governor's auditors as he strove to make himself heard. Finally, in the middle of a sentence, he stopped and, calling a servant, asked that the birds be escorted to a remote part of the house.

"I can talk against ona of those things," he explained, "but I don't pretend to be able to compete with a chorus."

Peter and Frieda are excellent mimics and have learned to give a faithful reproduction of the voice of Mrs. Smith. At times, it is said, a person in a distant part of the house will insist that a word or two spoken by one or the other of the birds came from her.

Some time ago a little Scotch maid was employed at the mansion and the parrots soon learned to reproduce her dialect almost perfectly.

"Good mor-r-r-r-nin'!" they would shout, rolling their r's with all the vigor of the Highland lassie.

NO CHANGE IN POWER STRIKE

Man Accused of Jostling Westchester Worker Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—No material change in the strike by a number of power house employes of the Westchester Lighting Company, Northern Westchester Lighting Company and the Yonkers Light and Power Company was noted today.

W. A. Noel, employed at the New Street substation here, preferred assault charges today against Samuel Green, also of this city, said to have been in the employ of the Westchester Lighting Company at one time. The arrest is not believed to be directly due to the strike, as it occurred on Saturday night, when Noel, pushing a baby carriage while walking with his wife, ran into Green, who after some words is said to have struck him. Green's case will be heard in City Court tomorrow morning.

The armed members of the Sheriff's emergency force continue to guard power houses in the county while armed guards patrol the roads over which high tension power lines pass to prevent sabotage.

Colonel Thompson Goes to Florida.

Colonel William Boyce Thompson, who has been seriously ill in Arizona, has recovered sufficiently to journey to Palm Beach, where it is expected he will spend the Winter. His recovery has not been complete, according to his business associates, but his condition appears to improve daily.

MILLS REFUSES ALIBI FOR DEFEAT

Says He Made Best Fight He Knew Against the Strongest Democrat of Generation.

FINDS HIS PARTY STRONG

Representative Declares There Is No Need for Reorganization—Opposes Criticism of Morris.

No reorganization of the Republican Party in this State is necessary, according to Ogden L. Mills, late Republican nominee for Governor, who went down to defeat with the rest of his ticket in the Democratic landslide on election day.

In his first interview since the election Mr. Mills said he was taking a philosophic view of his defeat and had no alibi to offer.

"I made the best fight I know how and the voters did the rest. That is about the only thing I can say. I am not a believer in post-mortem statements."

The interview took place in the downtown office of Mr. Mills at 3 South William Street. Mr. Mills said he had had a good rest after his strenuous campaign and felt fine. He will go to Washington next Monday and will remain there until after March 4, the end of his present term in the House of Representatives. Beyond that he has made no plans.

Lost to Strongest Democrat.

"No one could read into the result of the recent election in this State that the Republican Party is demoralized," Mr. Mills said. "The Republican Party is in good shape. We have a good organization throughout the State. After all is said and done, we lost the State by 250,000, in round numbers, against the strongest man the Democratic Party has developed in a generation, and this at a time when we were troubled by an issue on which we knew in advance that our party was divided. We lost the State by 250,000 at a time when the vets carried the State by more than a million and when the Democratic Party was solidly wet and we were hopelessly divided."

Mr. Mills said he had heard of no meeting of Republican leaders to take place soon to discuss tha "rehabilitation" of the party, nor did he see the need for such a conclave.

"A Republican in this State has nothing to be discouraged over in connection with the outcome of tha recent election, unless he should feel that all a party exists for is to win victories at the polls and put people in office," Mr. Mills said. "Any party that can achieve what the Republicans in this State achieved under the circumstances I have outlined, seems to me, must be full of virility and strength."

"Did you see any evidence in the election returns of 'Al' Smith Republicans returning to the party fold?" Mr. Mills was asked.

"They did in some districts, apparently," the late candidate said. "In Sam Koenig's district, for instance, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt lost out two years ago by 7,000. I lost this district by 3,100. The Fifteenth Assembly District in Manhattan was carried by Governor Smith two years ago by 3,700. I lost it by about 1,000. These figures may not be exact but they are approximately correct.

"But no one man," Mr. Mills went on, "can be looked upon as an insurmountable obstacle to Republican victory. It is not that. The big problem with which the Republicans in this State are confronted is the great and apparently unshakable Democratic vote cast in this city. The big thing we have got to face is the fact that ever since 1917, except in Presidential years, the Democrats have demonstrated their ability to carry this city by a plurality of 400,000 or over, no matter whom they nominate."

Finds Organization Good.

Discussing the up-State situation, Mr. Mills said tha condition of tha Republican Party should give the leaders no anxiety.

"Outside of one or two bad spots up-State, the Republican organizations were strong, militant and effective in the recent campaign," Mr. Mills said. "I went to pretty nearly every county, and you can tell whether an organization is functioning or not the moment you strike a place. They did all they could up-State under the circumstances, and the campaign ended with every up-State organization a united and militant force. Any man who says the Republican Party has not got a good organization in this State does not know what he is talking about."

It was at this point the question arose of whether there should be a reorganization of the party and whether George K. Morris should be replaced as Republican State Chairman by some new leader. Mr. Mills shook his head with vigor.

"I am satisfied with the work done by the Republican organization in the recent campaign," he said with great emphasis. "I received the wholehearted and loyal support of all the local organizations and am everlastingly grateful to them all. I have no sympathy with criticism of the organization or of George Morris. It is the usual thing for a defeated candidate to find fault with the organization and say after a losing fight that some one must go. I went through this fight from beginning to end and I have no criticism to make of any one. That goes for Morris and for everybody else."

Mr. Mills expressed the opinion that the State would be found in the Republican column in the 1928 Presidential election regardless of whom the Democrats nominate.

"I am satisfied that the people of this State have unlimited confidence in President Coolidge," he replied. "And I am further satisfied that the people feel convinced that the Republican Party is the party best able to serve the interests of the people, especially the economic interests, and that goes for the little business man as well as the big."

LAGUARDIA LIKELY TO FACE A CONTEST

Counsel for Hubbard Says 222 Questionable Ballots May Change the Result.

Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, who was a candidate for re-election and won on the face of the election night returns by a slender plurality of 65 votes, may be compelled to face a contest to be brought by his Democratic opponent, former Sheriff H. Warren Hubbard.

Mr. Hubbard has retained as his counsel A. Welles Stump of 233 Broadway. Mr. Stump, who has been in attendance at the official canvass of the vote now being conducted by the Board of Elections, said yesterday that he regarded a contest as most probable. Mr. Stump conceded Mr. La Guardia a plurality of 64, but said that there were 222 void and protested ballots which might be questionable and change the result.

"I do not think there is any doubt that we will question the count of the vote," Mr. Stump said, "in view of the void and protested ballots that may throw the majority in our favor."

Mr. Stump said he thought a decision might be reached today. The official canvass by the Election Board is not yet complete. Mr. Stump said that in the event a contest is decided upon, he would file complaint papers not only upon Mr. LaGuardia but also with the House of Representatives.

Mr. LaGuardia was confined to his home by illness yesterday. He said he felt so certain of his re-election that he was preparing to bring suit against one newspaper that on the morning after election had announced that his opponent, ex-Sheriff Hubbard, had won.

SMITH REGAINS 100 VOTES.

Check of Count in Binghamton Also Gives 70 to Murphy.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Morris S. Tremaine, Republican candidate for State Controller, lost 70 votes to his Democratic opponent, Vincent B. Murphy, in the checking up of the Binghamton voting machines made today by a committee headed by Walter T. Couper, Chairman of the Board of Canvassers. A mistake was made in reading the votes cast.

Governor Smith regained the 100 votes he was believed to have lost in the First Ward, when an inspection of the machine showed that a mistake had been made in setting down the total of votes cast.

MRS. G. C. W. LOW DIVORCED

Albany Woman Wins Uncontested Decree—Married in 1911.

ALBANY, Nov. 15.—Mrs. George C. W. Low, a society woman here, has been granted a divorce, it became known today. She had not lived with her husband for three years, she testified before Justice Ellis J. Staley.

Mrs. Low is awarded custody of their three children, George C. W. Low Jr., 13; Nancy S. Low, 11, and Cassandra S. Low, 10.

Mrs. Low has authority to remarry without consent of the court, but Mr. Low cannot do so without permission.

Mr. and Mrs. Low were married in St. Peter's Church, Albany, on Nov. 11, 1911, and the wedding was a notable affair here. Guests came from all sections of the State, Governor John A. Dix and Mrs. Dix being among them. Mrs. Low was Miss Dorothea Douglas, whose sister, the former Mrs. Frederick Peabody, we married last year to P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia.

RUNAWAY TROLLEY HURTS 4

Brakes Fail, Car Goes Downhill on Amsterdam Avenue.

Four persons were injured yesterday afternoon when an Amsterdam Avenue surface car, its brakes failing to function, coasted down hill from 123d Street, struck one automobile a glancing blow and collided with another at La Salle Street.

The operator of the second automobile, Thomas Finen of 505 West Forty-eighth Street, was treated for shock by Drs. Taylor and Graham of Knickerbocker Hospital, who also treated the following passengers in the surface car: Rose Israel, 30 years old, of 520 West 110th Street, shock; Joseph Leonard, 28, of 160 Claremont Street, lacerations of the right hand; Mirmo Vita, 34, of 1,122 Amsterdam Avenue, lacerated hand.

The first automobile struck by the trolley car was only slightly damaged and did not stop. The surface car was operated by Thomas Burke of 8 Manhattan Avenue.

BACKS PROBATION SYSTEM.

President of State Commission Denies Increase in Releases.

BUFFALO, Nov. 15 (AP).—Probation officers in New York State collected $2,777,733 last year, of which $2,534,006 was obtained from non-supporting or deserting husbands, Edmond J. Butler, President of the State Probation Commission, today told the convention of State probation officers.

Mr. Butler said that in spite of the hysteria prevalent throughout the country regarding crime and the treatment of offenders, tha number placed on probation last year was approximately the same as in the preceding year, when the greatest number of offenders was placed on probation.

City Judge Hager of Buffalo declared that the "too much mother-in-law" case is the most frequent visitor to tha Domestic Relations Courts. He deplored the attempts that young people make to find peace and tranquility beneath the paternal roof.

Antwerp Hails Ten-Thousandth Ship.

ANTWERP, Nov. 15 (AP).—When the Canadian Pacific steamer Melita arrived here today she received an official welcome and a great popular demonstration as the ten-thousandth vessel to enter the port of Antwerp this year. An elaborate program has been arranged in her honor for tomorrow. Antwerp now leads the Continental ports in traffic, largely because of the British coal strike.

BUTLER TO REMAIN HEAD OF COMMITTEE

Former Massachusetts Senator Is Expected to Hold His Post in Republican Party.

WANTED THERE BY COOLIDGE

President Confers With Him After Hot Cake and Sausage Breakfast in the White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—That William H. Butler, former Senator from Massachusetts, who was defeated for re-election by David I. Walsh, the Democratic candidate, may retain the Chairmanship of the Republican National Committee for an indefinite period, possibly until the end of the present Coolidge Administration, was indicated today following a conference between Mr. Butler and the President.

Mr. Butler, who is a White House guest, arrived this morning in time for one of the hot cake and sausage breakfasts for which the Coolidges have become famous. Colonel George Harvey, former Ambassador to Great Britain; James R. Sheffield, Ambassador to Mexico, and Frank W. Stearns of Boston were members of the breakfast party.

After breakfast President Coolidge and his political field marshal went to the library, where they had a heart-to-heart talk about the recent Senatorial contest. It is assumed Mr. Butler gave his own views as to the causes of his defeat and of the reaction in Massachusetts to the President's appeal to re-elect Senator Butler and Governor Fuller.

One of Mr. Coolidge's close friends suggested that the President probably wanted to learn at first hand what Mr. Butler planned to do in the future and his attitude toward retaining the chairmanship of the National Committee.

Believe Butler Will Stay.

The belief is strong here, particularly in the Massachusetts colony, that Mr. Butler will not relinquish the post at this time, especially as the President is said to have made plain his wish that Mr. Butler should hold on, at least for the present.

While Mr. Butler has been represented as preferring to quit the party Chairmanship, it is understood that several considerations have prompted him to decide to remain. The primary one is understood to be the President's desire that he should keep his grip on the party organization. Moreover, it is stated, several Republican leaders are opposed to a change at this time because of the danger that it might cause friction.

Under the rules of the committee Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman from New York, would become Chairman on the resignation of Mr. Butler, as he is now Vice Chairman. It would require the assembling of the committee to elect a new Chairman. From a party standpoint it is considered inadvisable to create a situation that might provoke a fight over the Chairmanship.

During today's conference the President is understood to have discussed with Mr. Butler several matters of legislation, notably the proposal for a credit plan on individual income taxes, with a view to absorbing the prospective Treasury surplus of $250,000,000.

Coolidge's Uncle a Guest.

"Uncle John" Wilder, the President's uncle, of Plymouth Notch, who appeared at a local theatre with a company of natives of Plymouth last week, made up the President's company at breakfast yesterday morning.

Mr. Wilder did not have his fiddle with him, but he interested the President and the others around the table with a narration of his experiences since trouping about the country.

Ambassador Sheffield, who had been a White House guest for several days conferring with Mr. Coolidge regarding the relations of this Government with Mexico, left Washington today.

Senator Jones and Representative Johnson of Washington, both of whom were re-elected this month, were among the President's callers today. They said they had no business to take up with the Executive, but called merely to pay respects and tell him about the election results in their section of the country.

BUTLER SPENT $4,600.

BOSTON, Nov. 15 (AP).—United States Senator William M. Butler, who failed of election on Nov. 2 despite the endorsement of President Coolidge, today filed a schedule showing an expenditure of $4,600 in the campaign. Of this $1,000 went to the Republican State Committee and $100 to the Republican Club of Massachusetts, while the remainder was paid to Butler's political committee.

The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League's Campaign Committee reported contributions of $13,533.11 and expenditures of $14,353.62. The contributions ranged from $1 to the $500 that was contributed by the Anti-Saloon League of America. The expenditures were listed as for salaries, printing, literature, stamps and advertising.

Representative William P. Connery of Lynn spent $368 and Representative Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge spent $776.26, their reports showed.

As to the complaint that a considerable part of the money returned would be paid to corporations, the point was made by some that in the last analysis practically all taxation was passed on to the ultimate consumer by the corporations in the process of marketing their wares.

That the general tax return would stimulate business and have a tendency to keep down price levels to the consumer is the opinion of Administration officials, who hold that in this way all classes of taxpayers will be benefited in addition to the repayments actually made.

Chamber of Commerce Views.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States presented its views on the tax problem to the White House in a document reviewing its various legislative proposals. Dealing with tax changes, it said:

"The National Chamber has continued to emphasize the necessity of placing the country upon a permanent peace-time tax program. Such a program has been carefully worked out and supported by the membership of the National Chamber. It has for its purpose reduction in the tax burden, which we sincerely hope will be made so far as the actual needs of the Treasury will permit, and also removal of inequalities and defects in the present Federal tax system.

"On behalf of American business we should like to point out certain inequalities still existing in the tax law, which it is our hope will be eliminated when it is next possible to make a revision of our tax program.

"While the individual taxpayer has received most substantial reductions in his taxes, the corporation has not received any tax reduction, but has, rather, had its tax increased from 12½ per cent. to 13½ per cent. In operation the present corporate income tax is diametrically opposed to the theory upon which our individual income tax is constructed. This results in wholly unmerited prejudice and inequality, not only for small shareholders, but also for the great number of small corporations which characterize American business.

For Repeal of Excise Taxes.

"Great strides were made in the elimination of excise taxes and taxes on particular businesses which were imposed as a means for raising revenue for the great war. We firmly believe that such taxes ought to be repealed as soon as the state of the Treasury allows, for, while they are absolutely justified as war measures, they do not belong in a peace-time tax program.

"When the Federal Government imposed the Federal estate tax it entered into a field which should be left to the States. This again was a wartime measure which we feel should not be a source of revenue to the Federal Government during peace, but should be left entirely as a source of revenue for the States.

"We hope that the estate tax can be completely eliminated in the next tax revision bill."

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, November 16—Runs the olden English proverb—"A slouch hat; a slouchy man." To be sure, this is laying it on a bit thick. However, it is indisputable that the stiff bowler or derby hat is the only authorized shape this season to wear with the figure-flexing, velvet-collar overcoat. No other hat "belongs."

The correct 1926–1927 bowler for the young man or the young oldster carries the brim a bit wider and the crown a trifle squarish. Very new and very spruce. Exclusive, but not expensive.

IMPERIAL CROWN STILL IN RUSSIA

SOVIET HAS BIG STORE

Pieces on Way to This Country May Be Preserved Intact—Former Purchases Broken Up.

MOSCOW, Nov. 15 (AP).—While jewels to the value of millions of dollars have been purchased by foreign dealers from the vast collection of Crown jewels of Russia, and some of the most important of them are on their way to the United States, the choicest of all Russia's regal emblems remains in Moscow. This is the "Imperial Crown of All the Russias," made for the coronation of Catherine the Great in 1762, and valued at $52,000,000.

The "nuptial crown," which is perhaps the finest of all the jewels now being transported to America, though of great value, has not been publicly appraised, nor has the price paid for it been announced. It is a much smaller jewel than the Imperial crown.

While the "nuptial crown" contains 1,520 diamonds and is surmounted by a superb cross, the Imperial crown is set with 4,936 diamonds, 75 huge pearls and many other large stones. This crown also is surmounted by a cross of diamonds, supported by an uncut ruby of 402 carats, one of the world's largest. Resembling the dome formed by the mitre, this diadem typified the association of the Sovereign with the Patriarchate.

Sees No Obstacle to Sale Here.

There is no legal obstacle to prevent the sale of the Russian crown jewels in the United States, Rudolph Oblatt, jeweler, of 527 Fifth Avenue, a partner of Norman C. Weiss, jeweler, of London and Paris, in the recent purchase of a collection of the royal jewels, declared yesterday.

The Russian Lawyers' Association could not interfere with the sale here, he said, as he had ample authority for all the transactions involved.

"Mr. Weiss is still in Moscow, where negotiations for the jewels were completed last Friday," he said, "and we will give the matter careful consideration before bringing the jewels into this country.

"If we did decide to place them on sale in the American market this would be a good chance for any one wishing to buy up the jewels to acquire them in their original settings, to present them to museums or use them for other purposes intact.

"It would be very easy to dismantle the pieces in Europe and sell the individual gems as precious stones. In this case the identity of the pieces would be lost and there would be no further chance to obtain the jewels in their original settings.

"This was done in a recent sale of some of the crown jewels amounting to $3,000,000, to save the 12 per cent. French duty on mounted gems. Expert setters were brought to Moscow from Paris and the pieces were all destroyed. The gold was melted and the unmounted jewels taken to France."

Mr. Oblatt also pointed out that Mr. Weiss was a British subject, intimating that if any litigation should arise it could be shown that he had bought them from a British subject and not from the Soviet Government.

Great Store of Gems in Moscow.

He told of his two visits in Moscow, in November a year ago and last March, when he was permitted by the Soviet officials to work among the jewels, appraising them, for five weeks. After choosing the pieces and gems he thought he could dispose of, he made the Government an offer, which was refused. Later his proposition was accepted, and Mr. Weiss completed the deal.

Hundreds of trunks of royal gems still remained in the vaults of the Soviet Treasury Department, he said. The Government makes up lots of the jewels and they must be bought in their entirety or not at all.

Mr. Oblatt showed photographs of many pieces of the famous collection. One was a Seventeenth Century bouquet comprising different colored diamonds, white, pink, blue and yellow, with stems and leaves of emeralds. He described this as the most marvelous piece of jewelry he had ever seen.

One diamond he showed of 80 carats could be used as a mirror. There was a pearl necklace, consisting of twenty-six pearls, weighing approximately 2,000 grains.

Calls Jewels Stolen Property.

J. J. Lisstsyn, Secretary of the Russian Lawyers' Association in the United States, issued a statement from the cinbrooms at 42 West 120th Street last night, saying the association stands ready to render every support to the legal owners of the crown jewels in the protection of their rights.

The crown jewels he describes as a part of the diamond fund of Russia, assembled by the Bolsheviki, which he calls confiscated property. Should any of this confiscated property be offered for sale here, Mr. Lisstsyn says, every purchaser should be told that he is buying stolen property. He adds:

"We trust that the sense of justice of the American people will not allow the criminals of another country to sell openly and without punishment objects which have been stolen in Russia."

Mr. Lisstsyn said it was too early as yet to say what legal steps the association will take to stop the sale of the crown jewels should they be brought to the United States.

TCHITCHERIN SILENT ON TURKISH PARLEY

Soviet Foreign Minister Departs From Odessa After Talks With Rushdi Bey.

Nothing beyond brief official communiques was allowed to leak out concerning the precise results of the conversations. Rushdi Bey, before leaving for Turkey yesterday, suavely parried the questions of newspaper correspondents and contented himself with a polite expression of his gratitude for the warmth of his reception at Odessa.

The only remark he permitted himself to make was that relations between Russia and Turkey not only were amicable but brotherly, adding, "No change is contemplated in our foreign policy. Turkey does not favor any Western State to the detriment of any Eastern State."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15 (AP).—Authoritative Turkish circles today gave categorical denial to the report that the conference just concluded by the Turkish and Soviet Foreign Ministers at Odessa was concerned with the formation of an Asiatic League of Nations.

The Russian and Afghanistan Ministers to Turkey have arrived here from Angora to await the return of Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—An Asiatic League of Nations to rival the Geneva League is looked upon as an improbability in British official circles.

The conference just concluded at Odessa between Soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherin and Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey of Turkey is viewed in well informed circles in Downing Street as probably a preliminary step to Turkey's application for membership in the League of Nations at Geneva rather than for the purpose of laying the foundation for an Eastern Locarno or Asiatic League of Nations.

POLITICAL FIGHT IS ON IN FRANCE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Louis Marin, the Nationalist leader, has started a fight between the Right and Left Parties in the Chamber which makes his position in the same Cabinet with MM. Herriot, Sarrant and Painlevé somewhat awkward. Last Saturday at a party meeting he delivered a virulent attack on the left Party as impotent when in office and a danger to France. The speech in itself would have been of no importance if it were not for its prologue and its intention. In January an election is to be held for a third part of the Senate, and it is confidently believed that the Radicals will win a considerable number of additional seats. M. Marin some weeks ago tried to reach an agreement with the Left leaders to nullify the political significance of the election by declaring a kind of sacred union. That offer was refused, the Left still harboring a grudge against the Senate because it threw out M. Herriot in 1924. This refusal to collaborate was the cause of M. Marin's outburst.

Now in the press of all parties the bitterest controversy is being conducted, and the curious spectacle is being presented to the country of a political union within the Cabinet, and to a certain extent in the Chamber, and a ding-dong political fight going on outside.

Variations In Ocean Depths Used as Basis for Turning Latent Energies Into Electricity.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Skating on equatorial seas and on the waters of the Gulf of Mexico and Florida is not beyond reasonable dreams of possibility, according to practical demonstrations made today of theories expounded by Professor Georges Claude, one of the most noted of living French scientists.

Georges Claude, known as the "father" of liquid air and synthetic ammonia, is lecturing before the Academy of Science on utilization of the energy of the seas in tropical regions for the production of power electricity. Together with Professor Paul Bancherot, M. Claude discovered and perfected a process to capture the latent powers generated through differences of temperature in sea water and transform them practically into electric current by using them to drive a turbine engine actuating a dynamo.

In tropical regions the ocean waters consist of two layers. To a depth of a thousand meters the temperature remains steadily all the year round between 26 and 30 degrees centigrade. Below that the temperature falls to about 4 degrees above freezing point. Water at a temperature of 28 degrees centigrade boils when brought into contact with a vacuum.

According to M. Claude's theory every cubic meter of surface water in tropical seas gives 5,000 calories, or eight kilos of steam, which, when utilized at between 3.5 atmospheres would give 100,000 kilogrametres (which represents the force of a cubic meter falling from the height of 100 meters). One thousand cubic meters will produce 400,000 kilowatts of electricity. Demonstrating this M. Claude showed two receptacles, one filled with water at 28 degrees, the other with ice. With these he drove a small turbine for eight minutes, actuating three lamps of 2.3 watts. Working along similar lines would prove equally possible the manufacture of ice.

PRISON HEAD ON TRIAL FOR NEWSPAPER STORY

British Warden Published the Statement of Bywaters After His Execution.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Major Frederick Wallace Blake, ex-Governor of Pentonville Prison, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court here today on a charge of contravening the Official Secrets act by disclosing certain information in an article printed in The London Evening News.

The article on which the charge is founded dealt with the confession of Frederick Bywaters, a young ship's steward, who, with Mrs. Edith Thompson, was executed on Jan. 8, 1923, for the murder of Percy Thompson, husband of the woman, after one of the most sensational trials in English criminal history. Bywaters was hanged in Pentonville Prison and the woman at Holloway Jail.

Major Blake's article was headed, "What Bywaters Said to Me." It related that Bywaters an hour before the execution of the couple in different jails had said:

"I can't bear to think of them mauling her about."

"I replied," Major Blake had written, "they will be very gentle. Don't think of it. There is only a minute or two left. I should like to hear you say you are sorry for what you did."

"I am, sir, damned sorry," Bywaters was represented by Major Blake as having replied, and then the door opened and the warders entered to lead him to the gallows.

Sir Travers Humphreys, prosecuting, said the Home Office was not concerned with the question of the bad taste of the article but wished to establish that persons holding confidential Government positions who received information as such and published it were liable to criminal prosecution.

There were the strictest regulations, he declared, providing that nothing said by way of a confession or admission by a person executed could be divulged to any one.

Major Blake's counsel said that he would make at the proper time a submission that there was no evidence. Major Blake was released on bail.

French Statesman Is Nervous About Critics' Attitude at Paris Exhibition.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Senator Etienne Clementel, former French Finance Minister, like Winston Churchill, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, spends much of his free time when resting from political activities covering canvases with a paint brush.

Probably other prominent statesmen with similar habits can be found, but Senator Clementel can, since this morning, make the boast that he is a professional artist, for he opened a complete exposition of his works at the Bernheim Galleries in Paris. Many prominent persons flocked to the "varnishing" day, President Doumergue officially opening the show.

When interviewed M. Clementel said he was somewhat nervous about the attitude of the critics. He also gave many picturesque details concerning his artistic training. He said he was devoted to painting since boyhood, but was dissuaded from art as a career by his mother's advice. He worked with famous artists, including Rodin, Claude Monet and Guillaumin.

VESUVIUS AGAIN ACTIVE.

Smoke by Day, Fiery Glow by Night Visible From Naples.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NAPLES, Nov. 15.—Mount Vesuvius re-entered the phase of activity last night, signs of eruption being distinctly visible from this city. By day a great pillar of smoke is seen rising from the crater and spreading out at the top in the windless sky in the shape of an open umbrella. By night a sinister ruddy glow illuminates the whole sky.

The phenomenon is being watched with the greatest interest by thousands of tourists, among whom are many Americans. Numerous expeditions are being organized to climb to the top of Vesuvius, especially at night, to watch the eruption at close range.

The eruption, experts declare, is quite harmless, being merely one of the periodical reawakenings of Vesuvius, whose activity recurs on an average of once every year or so. Occasional mild eruptions, in fact, are an element of safety, since they act as a kind of safety valve, permitting the pent-up internal pressure to expend itself before accumulating sufficient force to cause a disastrous explosion.

Nicaraguan Rebels Condemn Government's Communiques.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Nov. 15 (AP).—Capture of the City of Matagalpa, Nicaragua, by a force of 1,200 revolutionists, is reported in a bulletin issued here by the Nicaraguan Liberals, who oppose the Conservative régime until recently headed by General Chamorro.

The Liberals at the same time declared many of the official reports given out in Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, were "false and exaggerated."

Managua dispatches on Nov. 8 said American coffee growers in the Matagalpa district, alarmed by the approach of the rebels, had requested the protection of the American Embassy.

General Chamorro, who ousted the Liberals from power last January, stepped from office after the recent unsuccessful peace conference at Corinto. Adolfo Diaz, chosen by Congress to fill the Presidency until the next regular Presidential election, was inaugurated at Managua yesterday.

MUSSOLINI REGRETS ATTACKS ON FRENCH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Whatever his followers in Italy may hope and desire Premier Mussolini is just now seeking no quarrel with France. Last week he gave written excuses to the French Ambassador for the incidents at Ventimiglia and Tripoli and today he made to Jules Sauerwein, special correspondent of the Matin, this statement for publication in France:

"I consider scandalous and intolerable these anti-French manifestations. Nothing like them will ever happen again. That I can guarantee."

Mussolini's explanations of these manifestations of resentment against France were ingenious. He said:

"We know that there are critics all over the world of Italy's Fascist regime. But we do not read the press of the whole world. There are only a few hundred people in Italy who pay attention to what the German, English and American newspapers say, but every one reads the French papers just because we are near neighbors and have some of the same blood in our veins. For that reason too we are all the more sensitive regarding what they say about us."

The Duce at the same time was frank about his anxiety to clear away some of the misunderstanding between the two countries, notably the status of Italians in Tunis. On the Tangier matter, however, he showed an attitude entirely modified from that with which he was credited some months ago. The Tangier question, he admitted, concerned primarily France and Spain and Italy and England only in a secondary degree.

In the whole tone of the interview Mussolini showed himself entirely in disagreement with the anti-French attitude of the Fascisti and paid a warm tribute to Foreign Minister Briand and the French Ambassador for the quiet way in which they had handled the whole Ventimiglia and Garibaldi affairs.

OSTIA, Italy, Nov. 15 (AP).—Mussolini has been designated by Divine Providence to help re-establish the world's social and religious peace, Cardinal Vannutelli, Dean of the College of Cardinals, declared in a speech which he made on his inspection of the work of construction on the basilica of the Church of the Queen of Peace. The Cardinal, who was accompanied by Minister of Justice Rocco, said:

"The worshipers in the temple will not forget to pray for the re-establishment of the social and religious peace of the world and for the success in our own Italy of the assiduous work of that great son of Romagna (the region from which Mussolini comes), who is manifestly designated by Divine Providence to cooperate toward this end in the historic period which we are traversing."

MUSSOLINI GIVES GUNS TO FASCIST MILITIA

Duce Orders Distribution of 6,000 Rifles a Month—Plans Important Changes.

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP).—Every member of the Fascist Militia will be equipped with a rifle, Premier Mussolini today said in directing that the distribution of rifles be continued at the rate of 6,000 a month. The Premier today imparted these instructions to twenty-one Generals of the Fascist Militia, of which he is Commander-in-Chief.

The Premier said he was personally studying important modifications of the regulations governing the militia. He also gave instructions concerning the performance of duty of the newly formed political police, whose importance in defense of the régime he emphasized.

The present militia, comprising about 190,000 men, is a direct outgrowth of the force of 200,000 Fascisti who marched on Rome in 1922. The militia was created by a royal decree of Jan. 14, 1923, and was voluntarily recruited.

Its duties are "to assist, together with the armed forces for the public safety and army, in the maintenance of internal order and to prepare citizens for the defense of Italian interests in the world."

By a royal decree of Aug. 4, 1924, the members were directed to take the oath of allegiance to the King.

MUSSOLINI PRAISES SCHNEIDER CUP WINNER

Major de Bernardi Will Try Now to Gain the World's Record for Speed.

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP).—Premier Mussolini has sent a cordial message of congratulation to Major Mario de Bernardi, Italian army flier, who captured the Schneider Seaplane Trophy race at Norfolk, Va., on Saturday. The message also was addressed to Major de Bernardi's Italian comrades in the races.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 15 (AP).—Major Bernardi, who smashed all seaplane speed records except one in winning the Schneider Trophy race, will try for that record tomorrow. His effort will be to win the world record for speed over a three-kilometer course.

This record was made last year by Lieutenant James H. Doolittle of the American Army, and experts say there is little doubt that it will fall before the powerful little monoplane provided for the Schneider race by Italy's Premier.

Major Bernardi believes he made 264 miles an hour over certain parts of the course in the race, and American airmen concede that he exceeded 260 miles, while some believe he went even faster than his own estimate.

If the separate sprint record is captured for Italy, the next step will be to take the pontoons off the plane, substitute wheels and go ont for new records. Substitution of wheels for pontoons usually increases the speed from 15 to 20 miles an hour. The Italians believe that the racer, thus changed, may be able to beat the speed record of 278.48 miles an hour, held by Adjutant Bonnett of France.

old Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt at the church, which was lavishly decorated for their wedding, and the bride at the sight of him saying:

"Pa, interjooce yer friend."

Mr. Vanderbilt was credited with being very determined on a brilliant marriage for his daughter. When her wedding with the Duke of Marlborough was settled it was announced that he would buy Marlborough House (one of the royal residences) for her. It was gradually made clear to him that this was impossible, so he said she should at least have a house as handsome as any in London, and he built the massive Sunderland House in Curzon Street, which has since proved something of a white elephant.

Mme. Balsan now spends a good deal of her time at a retreat on the Riviera which she planned for herself. She bought an entire green headland just east of the Pinnacle of Eze and has built there a marvelous house. Scarcely another house in the world can have more delectable combinations of luxury and simplicity, seclusion and freedom.

Marlborough Not Yet a Catholic.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Ecclesiastical authorities here declare positively that the Duke of Marlborough has not yet been received into the Church, but that the annulment of his first marriage leaves him free to do so.

The statement by a church official of the Southwark Diocese, in London, that Consuelo Vanderbilt sought the annulment because she desired to marry a Catholic, may be interpreted to mean that she wishes to be remarried according to Catholic laws to her present husband, M. Balsan, and thus permit him to be restored to full membership in the Church, which he had lost by marrying a divorced woman.

The statement which Bishop Manning announced in his sermon on Sunday would be forthcoming on the nullification of the Marlborough marriage was not issued yesterday.

It was said at Bishop Manning's office that he was awaiting further information on the report of the nullification, and the statement would not be made until this report was received. There was no information as to whether this report would be made by cable from Europe.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont continued yesterday to deny herself to reporters, and nothing could be obtained from her concerning the action of her daughter in asking the Catholic Church to annul her marriage to the Duke.

ECONOMIC EXPERTS DIVIDE FOR TASKS

Geneva Preparatory Committee Turns to Examination of Reports on Industries.

TARIFFS ARE BIG PROBLEM

Elimination or Equalization of Imposts Is Not Expected to Be Among Recommendations.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—The Preparatory Committee for the International Economic Conference opened its second session today with M. Theunis of Belgium presiding. Thirty-eight experts, representing the industrial and economic thought of twenty-three nations, were present.

The meeting, which was given over to formalities, none the less exposed the tremendous grip which the proposed conference has taken on the world. Approbation of world-wide industry has become a great force for economic betterment of the world.

A score of the world's greatest industrial organizations have prepared for the committee exhaustive reports on phases of the industries with which they are familiar and the International Chamber of Commerce has presented a important document on tariffs through Sir Arthur Balfour. Organizations which aided in the first step of the work include the German iron and steel industries, the American Iron and Steel Institute, the French Comite des Forges, Italian Metallurgical Institution, the German mining industry, the French National Federation of Industrial Workers, the Comite des Houilleres de France and the Mining Association of Britain.

Houston Contributes Report.

From Secretary Houston of the United States came a document on rationalization and standardization of industry, who at the same time wrote an interesting letter on the effects of the elimination of barriers on the economic development of the United States. Eighty documents, representing perhaps the greatest collection of industrial and economic information ever compiled, has been prepared for the committee by experts, by industries and by Governments.

The same ideas are held by most European Governments. Therefore it seems that what the committee will do is to suggest agreement between the nations to stop irrational and erratic changes in tariff schedules, which are the greatest impediments to continental trade. Probably they will be asked to give a year's notice of changes. At the same time it will suggest the extension of the most favored nation's treaties between European countries.

The second most important question probably is that of private industrial agreements. This forms the basis of a recommendation rather than a convention. The recent agreement in the steel industry is a good example. The form of agreement can be extended to all industries with a big financial basis and standard products.

There also will be an effort to establish an economic council which will meet at regular stated intervals to examine the situation. It is generally considered that the organization could not be established under the League of Nations, but out of respect to Washington's fear of all things of League character, it will probably be wholly independent of Geneva.

Committee Is Divided for Task.

As the committee this afternoon was divided into four groups to study the documents and make recommendations on the necessary work for coordination, it is too early to make any definite predictions regarding the ultimate character of the conference. It appears safe to predict that the committee will be prepared to draft conventions on half a dozen subjects and will prepare recommendations for the conference's approval on a number of other subjects.

It is safe to say that tariffs will comprise the most important subject of discussion. It is equally safe to predict that the committee will not suggest elimination or equalization of tariffs. Mr. Page, the American expert, who is a Democrat and a low tariff advocate, said the establishment of a number of new Governments in Europe has made certain tariffs necessary for some Governments' overhead expenses. Free trade is impossible without the freedom of movement for labor.

The question of freedom of movement for labor undoubtedly will be widely discussed. Labor, represented by M. Jouhaux of France, and M. Dudegeest of Holland, has demanded that the question be put on the agenda of the conference. M. Dudegeest, talking with journalists this afternoon, stated that he wished the problem to be discussed on its international aspects. It would not be good enough to remove the restrictions in Europe because Europe is overpopulated. It is safe to say that the statesmen of the great powers, despite efforts by Italy and Japan, will try to put on the brakes when the question becomes embarrassing to the United States.

Want Stabilization Discussed.

The workers have put on the proposed agenda the stabilization of currency, but this is a problem on the previous solution of which the success of the conference depends. It was mentioned by President Theunis this morning. He said the first session was held at an unfortunate moment, but today the situation is more favorable for successful work. He was referring to the dive of the French franc last Spring and its recent recovery.

It is understood that the committee in making recommendations for the date of the conference will suggest generous limits which will permit the League Council to take into account the condition of France's money. It appears improbable that the conference will be called till the franc actually is stabilized. Mr. Gilbert, the American expert, said today that he would suggest a means for relieving the farmer from the burden of unnecessary middlemen by the formation of selling and purchasing groups.

Portrait of Ancestor Great Reformer Married Sent to Senator From Germany.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—One of Senator Borah's ancestors married the great Protestant reformer Martin Luther, according to a message being published in the French Press from Germany.

The discovery is probably not a new one, but in it some French correspondents seem to find a reason if not an excuse for what they aver is the tendency of the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to favor Protestant Germany over Catholic France.

Recently, it is stated, some persons in the home town of Luther's wife, Catherine Borah, sent the Senator an original portrait of the lady and some account of how his ancestor's relatives came at a later period to emigrate from the district to America.

FRANQUI QUITS IN BELGIUM.

Treasury Committee Head Completes Stabilization of Currency.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15 (AP).—Emil Franqui, who arranged the recent stabilization of the Belgian franc, today resigned as President of the Treasury Committee, his work of placing the nation's currency on a sound basis having been completed.

Premier Jaspar will take over M. Franqui's post. As a reward for his labors, the banker received the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold.

M. Franqui will go to Algeria for a rest. His resignation caused no surprise, since he announced early in October that he would give it up as soon as he had negotiated a loan and had stabilized the Belgian franc.

The Under Secretary for the Colonies, M. Arnold, resigned today for personal reasons.

New Zealand and Newfoundland by Minister Havenga for the Union of South Africa, Mr. O'Higgins for the Irish Free State and the Maharajah of Burdwan for India.

Various reports of the economic subcommittee were brought up and approved and the resolutions contained in these reports thus became the resolutions of the conference. On the recommendation of the General Economic Committee a resolution in the following terms was accepted:

"The Imperial Conference welcomes the efforts that are being made to reach an international agreement upon measures for abolishing evils resulting from the discharge of oil in navigable waters and recommends the principles of the draft convention for this purpose recently prepared at Washington to the consideration of the Governments of the empire."

On the subject of the unification of rules relating to bills of lading, the conference noted with satisfaction that there is a good prospect of general adoption throughout the Empire of the rules embodied in the international convention at Brussels in 1923, and welcomed progress toward the achievement of international uniformity upon the terms of those rules.

It was agreed also that the work of the Imperial Shipping Committee is of importance to the Empire and that the committee should be maintained on the present basis, deriving its authority from and being responsible to the Governments represented in the Imperial Conference.

GARIBALDI CALLED TRAITOR

Colonel Will Pay Dearly for His Acts, Italian Leader of Adventurers Threatens.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Dressed in khaki uniforms with broad-brimmed hats and knapsacks, the "General Staff" of Colonel Macia, the Catalan patriot, in his recent unsuccessful effort to start a Spanish republican revolution, arrived in Paris from the Spanish border today under a heavy escort of secret service men.

Tonight these twenty-six adventurers —twenty-two Spaniards and four Italians—occupy cells in the Santé Prison, where in a near-by tier are lodged Colonel Ricciotti Garibaldi and Colonel Macia.

The arrival of the "General Staff" from Perpignan was like a happy homecoming of a band of Boy Scouts. They were all smiles and good cheer despite the menacing presence of enough Secret Service men and police to put down a large riot. After forming in military line the would-be revolutionaries were taken to the Palace of Justice in auto buses.

There a large crowd gathered to see the strange sight and in a very few minutes the young men were exchanging autographs for cigarettes and chatting agreeably. Rizzoli, Italian leader of the party, his breast lined with foreign decorations for valor in the late war, smiled and said:

"We will begin again as soon as we are freed."

When asked about his compatriot, Garibaldi, he grew angry.

"He is a traitor and one day he will pay dearly for his acts," he replied.

The Italian then went on to explain that he and his comrades joined Macia because they "burned with desire for liberty for every one." He added:

"You cannot charge us with fighting for money, because I, like nearly all the others, joined with but a few pennies in my pocket, and we have even less than that to show for our efforts."

Joseph Borda de la Cuesta, chief aide of Macia, explained the purpose of the Catalan movement.

"We want to establish another Belgium next door to France—a free Catalan State," he said. "We are not anarchists. We love France and did all we could to save her from trouble. But we do protest against being prosecuted with Garibaldi. Our affair had nothing to do with this man and we know nothing of him or his works."

Just before being placed in cells the band, still maintaining remarkable cheerfulness, assembled in a group and shouted "Three cheers for the Catalan Republic and three cheers for France."

Meanwhile, Garibaldi and Macia remain in the political section of the Santé hoping for provisional liberty on bond. Garibaldi's brothers have rallied to the support of the Colonel and continue to protest his innocence. To both Macia and Garibaldi has been granted the special privilege of candles, tobacco and matches, and they pass the greater part of the day and night reading and smoking.

'REDS' THRONG COURT AT KIRKWOOD HEARING

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Unusual scenes were witnessed in the police court at Renishaw in Derbyshire today when David Kirkwood, M. P., a Glasgow Socialist leader, appeared to answer a summons under the Emergency Powers act enforced during the coal strike. Kirkwood is accused of making speeches likely to cause disaffection among the civil population and restrict the supply of fuel.

Scores of police had been brought into Renishaw in tenders protected by wire netting. The presence of "Reds" from the Clyde, including members of Parliament who represent constituencies in that neighborhood, and Mr. Saklatvala, Communist member of Parliament from Battersea, made one of the rows of police court spectators look like the Opposition bench in the House of Commons.

Kirkwood sprang a surprise on the Court by asking for a fortnight's adjournment on the ground of the great constitutional principles involved in the case. This adjournment was granted.

Kirkwood intimated that among the witnesses he would call would be the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson Hicks. He was reminded by the Chairman of the Magistrates that only material evidence counted in a court of law.

"We don't wish any impertinent advice from you," shouted James Maxton, M. P. He was ordered to leave the court.

Kirkwood was loudly cheered on leaving the court room. He took a place at the head of a procession and marched to the railway station, the crowd meanwhile lustily singing "The Red Flag."

Warsaw Student Slays Dean Who Ordered Long Locks Shorn.

WARSAW, Nov. 15.—Because fellow-students and the Dean of a Warsaw high school insisted that he cut his long, shaggy locks of hair and dress in modern fashion, a highly artistic student, Wadislawa Lampias, today invaded the Dean's office, killed him with one shot from a revolver and then attempted suicide.

Lampias, who is 19 and above the age of the ordinary students, had been made the butt of ridicule since the beginning of the term. Refusing to comply with the request of his classmates, who were backed by the Dean, Lampias stormed into the office of the head of the school and opened fire.

In his attempt at suicide he inflicted a slight wound and was placed under arrest.

SOUTH WALES MINERS ACCEPT PEACE PLAN

Their Action, Returning 250,000 Men to Work, May Influence Other Districts.

STRIKE END APPEARS NEAR

British Public Blame Leaders for Fruitless Struggle—A. J. Cook Reported Ill.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Acceptance of the Government's peace proposals by the striking miners is almost certain, although it will probably be Wednesday before the full results of the district voting are known. Already the Executive Council of the South Wales Miners' Federation, controlling one of the biggest coal fields, has agreed to the terms.

The South Wales miners, numbering about 250,000, have been looked upon as the "die hards," and now that they have given in, the likelihood is that other districts will follow suit immediately. These are preparing to take votes on acceptance.

The settlement, although not so good as the miners might have obtained earlier in the stoppage, still holds valuable guarantees for them. It preserves the minimum wage and subsistence allowances, and if faithfully observed by the mine owners will in a larger number of cases make certain the wages paid last April, provided the men work seven and a half or eight hours.

The Government proposals are intended to maintain a sort of general standard of wages where the working hours number more than seven and also to insure that the miners shall benefit by prosperous conditions in the mining industry.

It is reported that in the bill the Government is preparing for the setting up of a national tribunal for six months there will be a clause providing that in the event of any mine owner refusing to accept the ruling of the tribunal on the wages agreement in any district, he will not be permitted to operate eight hours a day.

Although the miners have reason to be disappointed over the outcome of their bitter struggle lasting from May 1, there has been surprisingly little recrimination. Among the general public the tendency is not to blame the miners, but their bad leadership, and the word all around now seems to be "make the best of a bad job."

The illness of A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, who has labored indefatigably in the interests of the miners, is no surprise. It was known that during the later stages of the fight he was struggling valiantly against strain and impaired health.

Herbert Smith and other leaders stood the physical strain of the long fight fairly well, but with more than 330,000 miners in the pits and the recommendation of the miners' delegates that the districts accept the Government's terms, Cook has almost given up in despair and has canceled all public engagements, upon his doctor's orders.

For six months Cook has withstood the onslaughts of nearly all the newspapers in the country, whose editorials and cartoons have painted him a disciple of Lenin and obedient to orders from Moscow. Now the nervous strain is beginning to tell. He has suffered slight heart attacks and has been ordered to take a rest.

Monument to Leopold II Unveiled

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15 (AP).—An equestrian monument to Leopold II, architect of Belgium's colonial empire, was unveiled today by his nephew, King Albert, in the presence of diplomatic, parliamentary, civil and military officials. The statue is the work of the late Baron Thomas Vincotte, who lived barely long enough to complete his labors. It shows Leopold II, bareheaded and with a long beard, sitting erect, with his eyes looking ahead.

PILSUDSKI TO FACE HOSTILE DIET TODAY

Warsaw Sees Possibility of Marshal Assuming Crown to End Bickering.

BUDGET WILL BRING FIGHT

Italian Fascista Confers With Head of Government and Princes on Royalist Plans.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Nov. 15.—Pending the approaching battle with the Diet tomorrow, the Polish Government, represented in all branches by Marshal Pilsudski, is in a state of extreme nervousness, with serious developments forecast on every side.

Especially impressive loomed today the possibility of a monarchist outcome of the fight between the Government members, who are striving to establish a sane régime, and the recalcitrant provincial Parliament, bent on extending socialistic measures to aid workers, landowners and industrialists.

Marshal Pilsudski was reported to be ready to take the floor tomorrow to urge the immediate passage of the budget, which is threatened with four months of discussion, Government officials insisting that the budget has been balanced, and deputies declaring that the recent Presidential decrees, raising the pay of railroad, army and other Government employes, has left a deficit of nearly 100,000,000 zlotys.

Pilsudski Showed His Strength.

There was little doubt, however, that the Government would have its way after the military demonstration on Nov. 11. Added to this display of strength by Marshal Pilsudski, the Italian Fascist, Signor Lanfranconi, arrived yesterday and today had a long conference with the Marshal. The Italian wore a costume with boots, wide-brimmed hat and black shirt. Signor Lanfranconi also conferred with the leading princes of Poland yesterday on the subject of the recent conference in which Marshal Pilsudski was offered the crown by members of the old reigning houses of Poland.

The Socialists, until recently the constant backers of the Marshal, remained in the deepest gloom on the eve of the Diet opening, knowing that they will be coerced into falling in line at the coming session. One newspaper, which was openly spubbed by the Marshal when he drifted toward the monarchist camp, was confiscated under the new press law this morning when it printed a cartoon titled after the old Grimm fairy tale, "The Frog Prince," the import of which was that Pilsudski is looking toward France to endorse his desire to obtain the crown of Poland.

Though the Polish monarchists are silent on the subject, German royalists are outspoken in their approval of the monarchist rumors which are widely discussed in restaurants and cafés, especially among the army officers. The arrival of the numerous German monarchist envoys from Germany is expected this week, while the gathering of former nobiemen of Poland is growing to huge proportions. Several Russian monarchists are at the leading hotels and conferences are constant.

The avowed royalist officials, Meyszkowicz and Jaroczynski, personal friends of Marshal Pilsudski, are residing at a well-known hotel. The latter started a demonstration a few days ago when some students were kicked out of a restaurant for selling chances in a lottery for poor colleagues.

Citizens Turn to Monarchy.

Conversation among citizens also is running toward the monarchistic idea, based on the argument that the provincials do not take the slightest interest in politics and therefore are responsible for the practical deadlock of the Sejm, which may throw the budget and other matters entirely into the hands of Marshal Pilsudski.

The friends of Marshal Pilsudski declare that his patience has been entirely worn out and that only the complete surrender of the Red elements in the Sejm this week will prevent the most drastic action. Meantime, Minister of Finance Czechowicz kicked over more recommendations of Professor Kemmer's commission in a speech before the Budget Committee in which he flatly refused to assess a higher tax on farm owners or levy a ten cent tax per ton on coal production.

The Silesian elections, which resulted in wholesale victories for the German officials, constituted another blow for the struggling Government and are held to be a new example of the inability of Polish voters to conduct their own political affairs effectively. The quarreling Socialists entered twelve tickets in the field against the single all-German slate, and the division was fatal for the natives of the disputed border area. Silesia, where much American capital, especially that of the Harriman Company, is invested, will be administered for the next four years by Germans who are not friendly to that firm.

SHEFFIELD CONCLUDES MEXICAN CONFERENCES

Continues Silence After Talks With Coolidge and Kellogg—Starts Back to Post.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Ambassador Sheffield concluded his conference at the White House today and started for his post in Mexico City without any break in the policy of silence as to Mexico which has been strikingly evident since the first hint came from Nicaragua of possible Mexican activities in connection with Central American revolutionary movements.

Mr. Sheffield will sail from New York on Nov. 18. He has been a White House guest since the return of President oColidge from Kansas City last week. He has conferred also with Secretary Kellogg and other State Department officials. There has been no hint as to the extent the conference may have concerned the charges that the Mexican Government was supplying arms or funds to Nicaraguan political factions.

It is known that considerable information as to Mexican activities has been received through official channels. Coupled with the prolonged and still unsatisfactory diplomatic conversations over Mexican land and oil legislation and other unsettled questions which embarrass relations between the two Governments, this new element undoubtedly is causing concern.

KING ALBERT DENIES FOCH HELD THE YSER

Belgian Monarch Says He Halted Retreat in November, 1914, Before He Saw Foch.

DOUBT STORY WAS FOCH'S

Article in the Matin Quoting Him Was Not an Interview, His Friends Say.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—The King of the Belgians has replied to Marshal Foch's interview of last week, defending himself and the army which he commanded from a suggestion contained in the published version of the Marshal's statement that the Belgians and British were prevented from retreating further back in November of 1914 only by the Marshal's "advice."

In the interview which Marshal Foch gave on the eve of Armistice Day, last week, to Stephane Lauzanne of Le Matin, he recalled how, in November, 1914, he had persuaded the British and Belgian commanders to hold their line, even though at that moment he had neither command nor authority over them. It is to the suggestion contained in that statement that Belgian resistance had weakened to the retreating point that King Albert replies, recalling that on Oct. 30, three days before he received the first visit of Marshal Foch, his proclamation was issued forbidding any talk of retreat, and the day previously an order was given to hold the Yser line at all costs. No order of retreat was given throughout the whole battle, the King writes, and though on the tragic day of Oct. 26 his chief of staff did consider the possibility of further retirement, this proposal never had the King's approval.

During November there never was any question of retreat, the King writes. As to Foch's memorandum recommending that the existing lines be held, King Albert writes that he has no recollection of having ever received it.

To this correction of Marshal Foch's published interview the King adds his most cordial expression of appreciation to the Marshal for the enormous services rendered to the Allies by his energy at all times, and by his insistence to Marshal Joffre at that particular time that he send reinforcements.

"But," adds King Albert, "you, as Marshal of France, are the personification of the chivalrous virtues of a noble nation, and will, I am sure, understand that it is my duty to keep intact the well-deserved reputation of my officers and soldiers, to whose bravery and tenacity was due, in the last analysis, the happy issue of the Battle of the Yser."

Article Was Not an Interview.

PARIS, Nov. 15 (AP).—Marshal Foch's alleged statement was published in Le Matin on the responsibility of the author of the Armistice Day article. Stephane Lauzanne, the editor of that paper, and the Marshal declined today to comment on King Albert's letter.

Intimate friends of the Marshal declare emphatically that he is incapable of the slightest disloyalty to King Albert or the Belgian Army, but say it is impossible for him to make a public declaration concerning an article for which he was not responsible.

The published memoirs of many different Generals commanding on both sides during the war, it is recalled, have amply proved how difficult it is for even the most competent military authorities to agree as to just how things went.

PRINCE AND BRIDE IN FRANCE

Leopold and Astrid Motor Quietly Away for Their Honeymoon.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15 (AP).—Crown Prince Leopold and his bride, the Princess Astrid, today were somewhere in France on their honeymoon trip, which will carry them to the Riviera.

The young couple slipped away quietly yesterday from the royal castle Giergnon, the Prince himself taking the wheel of his motor car for the first few hours.

They are not expected back until Christmas, so Astrid's birthday on Nov. 17, when she will be 21, will be observed quietly away from her new home.

The Swedish Princess already has left her impression on the Belgian imagination, and fully half the Belgian girl babies born since the royal wedding have been christened Astrid, which means beloved.

BUY FRANCIS JOSEPH MASK.

Magyar Noblemen Will Place Sculpture in Hungarian Museum.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 15.—The only death mask of Emperor Francis Joseph was sold today by its maker the Viennese sculptor Marschall, for $2,000 to Count Emil Szechenyi, cousin of the Hungarian Minister to Washington. Count Szechenyi, represented a group of Magyar noblemen who will give the mask to the National Museum.

The mask was first offered to the great noble houses of Austria, who outranked the Magyars in the Emperor's eye, but the purchase interested none.

The anniversary of the death of the Emperor will be solemnly observed here on Nov. 22, when the mask will be exposed in public for the first time.

IRISH REPUBLICANS SEIZED AFTER RAIDS

Gen. Bofin and Count Plunkett's Sons Among Free State Prisoners.

CABINET IS NOT ALARMED

Ascribes Outbreaks to Extremists Under Mary MacSwiney—Sees de Valera Embarrassed.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The outbreak of armed raids on Civic Guard barracks which took place in the Irish Free State over the week-end is regarded in Dublin as an expression of mortification felt in extreme Republican circles at the progress made in the Imperial Conference in establishing close and cordial relations between Britain and Southern Ireland. The success, too, with which the observance of Armistice Day was carried out is thought to be a factor.

No public alarm is felt, since the Free State possesses ample military resources to suppress further disorder after the first surprise.

The first outbreak occurred Saturday night at Tallaght Military Camp. Five armed men suddenly appeared at the main gate, shot the sentry in the stomach, held up the soldiers in the guard room and seized revolvers and ammunition. Eleven raids on Civic Guard barracks were made simultaneously last night in Cork, Waterford, Tipperary, Kerry and Meath, arms being sought and papers removed or destroyed.

A dozen arrests were made in Dublin today and others in Cork.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15 (AP).—After a day of speculation over the reason for the various raids on police barracks that have taken place in the last twenty-four hours in Counties Cork, Kerry, Meath and other sections, the Free State Government professed to consider them merely as a sign of activity of the Extremist section of the Republicans under Mary MacSwiney.

They were thought to be rather embarrassing than otherwise to the de Valera faction, as de Valera has been assuring the electors that the army and police forces ought to be reduced as they are beyond present needs.

General O'Duffy, Chief Commissioner of the Civic Guards, was at Cavan, on the Ulster border, when news of the raids reached him. He immediately set out for Dublin by motor, arriving early this morning. Instructions were sent to the headquarters of the guards in each county to warn the outlying platoons of the situation.

The most spectacular and formidable raid of the series appears to have been carried out at Kilmessan, a small village in the County of Meath, near Dublin, where the raiding party numbered twenty, all armed with revolvers, and some with rifles. The raiders held up the guard and made a search of the barracks lasting an hour, taking away books and documents of all descriptions.

It was disclosed at the inquest today on Sergeant Fitzsimmons, in charge of the Civic Guards barracks at St. Luke's, near Cork, who was killed last night, that he had been shot with a dum-dum bullet. The jury brought in a verdict that he had been murdered in the execution of his duty.

Among those arrested was General Edward Bofin, famous irregular leader, known as the "De Wet of the West," who figured prominently in the fighting which followed the signing of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, and George and Jack Plunkett, sons of Count Plunkett, Republican member of the Dail.

Raids on the civic police barracks are the latest and easiest form of annoyance to the Government, as the Civic Guards are unarmed. Asked if the Civic Guards would be armed now because of the raids, Chief Commissioner O'Duffy said today that it was not likely.

ECKENER SAYS SOCIETY REJECTED HIS ZEPPELIN

Dirigible Builder Explains Why His Company Broke With Exploration Promoters.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—Captain Eckener today explained that his statement, made while the Society for Studying the Arctics by Exploration with an Airship was in session in Berlin last week, that the Zeppelin Works had broken off all relations with the society, was chargeable to the society directly by its rejection of his plans for the Zeppelin now in course of construction as inadequate for polar research.

The erstwhile commander of the Los Angeles says the society deemed that a craft 50 per cent. larger than the one he planned of 105,000 cubic meters was absolutely necessary for exploring the Poles. It also declared "one could not trust the Zeppelin works with the construction of such an airship, since they had made mistakes in construction several times" and that a commission of experts must supervise the building.

Though Captain Eckener does not mention the Schutte-Lanz Zeppelin Works, known as bitter rivals, the inference is evident, since Herr Schutte himself is a member of the society and was active during the recent congress acquainting members with the practicability of his airship theories.

Captain Eckener also accuses the society of shedding crocodile tears when he last week refused to furnish gratis the Zeppelin under course of construction for the two polar trips.

When he began to raise funds by popular subscription for the construction of the airship as a means of saving the Friedrichshafen plant from destruction by the Interallied Control Commission and as a means of keeping the expert construction crew together the society agreed to try to get the permission of the allied Powers, which had been refused. For this service the society should have received the ship for the two polar flights, Eckener agreed.

The Paris air-traffic agreement removed construction restrictions, but meanwhile the society, moved by internal influences, had decided against a Friedrichshafen constructed Zeppelin and therefore Eckener felt justified in severing all relations with the society and so informed it.

MAY ASK THE LEAGUE TO REDIVIDE SILESIA

Germans Would Base Application on Teutonic Landslide in Communal Elections.

POLES VOTED WITH GERMANS

Teutons Flock to Polls Because of Unfriendly School and Church Legislation.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—A German landslide in yesterday's communal elections in Polish Upper Silesia probably will lead the Reich to place the question of revising the plebiscite partition of that territory on the agenda of the League of Nations.

Detailed returns of the voting, which, according to the Berlin papers, gave the German parties 60 per cent. of seats on the town councils, are now being studied by the German Foreign Office. While Wilhelmstrasse states that no decision has yet been taken on the subject, the possibility of Silesian boundary revision being laid before the League Council at Geneva next month by Foreign Minister Stresemann is intimated.

The Liberal as well as the Nationalist press hails the outcome of the elections as a sweeping victory for the Germanic cause and condemnation of the Polish administration in Upper Silesia. Many Poles, it is asserted, voted with the German inhabitants as a protest against corrupt and inefficient government. In Kattowitz, a great industrial centre, more than half the voters, and in Koenigshuette, another important town, fully 70 per cent., backed the German candidates, this despite the expulsion or emigration of about 100,000 Germans from Polish Silesia since the 1920 plebiscite that gave half the Province to Poland. The Poles carried only the rural districts. The Germans went to the polls in full force, repressive measures taken against their schools and churches having spurred them to a resolute political protest.

The Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung says:

"The League of Nations cannot pass the results of these elections by." And Der Tag declares:

"The overwhelming German victory serves as conclusive proof abroad of the absolute injustice of the partitioning of Upper Silesia. The League of Nations cannot avoid reconsidering the whole Silesian question following this new plebiscite."

R. M. HOE LEFT $1,090,292.

Mr. Hoe, who for many years was connected with the Bowery Savings Bank, of which he was a trustee at the time of his death, had a gross estate of $1,175,693. His investments in stocks and bonds amounted to $1,110,956. His stock in the Corn Exchange Bank was valued at $140,420; in the General Electric Company, $9,994, and in the Washington Power Company, $90,024.

The widow, Mrs. Annie L. Hoe of 11 East Seventy-first Street, received $107,581. Charles R. Hoe and Mrs. Blanche B. SOUTH JOINS MOVE FOR FARM RELIEF

PERMANENT POLICY IS GOAL

Indianapolis Gathering Agrees That Agricultural Taxes Cannot Be Further Reduced.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 15 (AP).—The continuing problem of the unexportable crop surplus again was to the fore tonight as farm organization leaders of the North Central States gathered here, confident that the voice of the Southern cotton planter would be added to their repeated demands for Congressional relief.

For the first time the South was ready to join the North in a discussion of common agricultural problems. Indications were that representatives of farmer organizations in Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Texas and North Carolina would enter tomorrow the opening session of a two-day conference with representatives of the eleven North Central States who demanded Government aid at Des Moines two years ago.

Leaders here tonight were unanimous in the belief that the principles of a permanent agricultural policy would grow out of the conference. Although no permanent organization will be formed, the expectation is that Congress will bear next month probably the demands originated here.

Stand by McNary-Haugen Plan.

No one piece of proposed legislation will be stressed at the conference, but there is agreement that the principles of the defeated McNary-Haugen bill are still fundamentally correct from the farmers' viewpoint and that any recommendations probably will follow its general outline.

"The attention of business generally will be called to the enormous importance of a stable domestic purchasing power as contrasted with industrial exports in which agriculture sections have so little interest," said one leader tonight.

"The meeting will be devoid of political significance excepting that we have made it a practice to support those who support us, acting entirely upon a non-partisan basis."

Former Governor Lowden to Speak.

Frank C. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois and a leader in the movement for farm relief, will be the principal speaker tomorrow. Senator Caraway of Arkansas probably will address the gathering Wednesday.

E. E. Eslick, representative in Congress for Tennessee; Dr. B. W. Kilgore, Chairman of the Board of the American Cotton Growers Exchange; Charles G. Henry, President of the Arkansas Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association; A. E. Markham, President of the Tennessee Cotton Growers, Cooperative Association; Homer Hancock, Commissioner of Agriculture of Tennessee, and the Presidents of several North Central and Southern farm bureau federations are also listed as speakers.

Dr. Tait Butler, farm paper publisher and Chairman of the All-Southern Cotton Committee recently appointed at Memphis, Tenn., to work for cotton acreage reduction and the removal of 4,000,000 bales of cotton from the market, was mentioned as the probable permanent Chairman of the conference.

Confer in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 15 (AP).—Three hundred bankers, manufacturers, farmers and others interested in the rehabilitation of the farming industry opened a two-day fact-finding conference here today under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce. The conference devoted itself particularly to farm problems of Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

Chief among the points brought out was that no further credit extension could help the farmers; that taxes could not be further reduced but that the burdens of taxation must be more equitably distributed and that agriculture must be placed on the same earning basis as other industries.

L. K. Wyckoff of the Porter County (Ind.) Farm Bureau, asserted that farmers were more interested in paying off the credit they now had rather than getting more, and C. S. Masterson of the Indiana Farm Bureau said that the average farmer was not increasing his credit because he already had all the credit obligation he could assume.

Mr. Brown recently was elected Police Justice in his village, but will relinquish that position.

STANDARD OIL CALLS ALL ITS PREFERRED

by the bankers was, of course, not announced, so it is not known what the cost to the company will be.

Advance Orders for Debentures.

At the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. it was said last evening that plans had not yet been completed for public offering of the $120,000,000 of debentures. It is expected that in three or four days an announcement will be made giving details of the price of the new issue, together with the make-up of the syndicate that will distribute the debentures under Morgan leadership.

Heavy advance orders have been received for the debentures, and bankers regard an oversubscription of the issue as assured. The first opportunities for subscription will be given to the present holders of the preferred stock. The Standard Oil Company's statement referred to the desire of the company to retain the good-will of these shareholders. The bankers said this would be reflected in the allotments to be made of the debentures. While there will be no difference in the time of the offering, the preferred stockholders will have first call when allotments of the new debentures are made. Standard Oil's executives and the bankers both expressed the desire that the new obligations of the company be held, so far as possible, by the persons who own the preferred stock.

Statement from Corporation.

George H. Jones, Chairman of the Board of the Standard of New Jersey, and Walter C. Teagle, President, gave out the following statement in announcing the financing:

"When the period of rapid commercial expansion following the war made such extraordinary demands upon surplus capital, the petroleum business was in the same position as other American industries in its need of additional funds to provide for the increased consumption of products. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey faced in 1919 and 1920 the need of large sums beyond its working capital, not only to maintain its place in the industry but to replenish its treasury after meeting heavy inroads made by war taxes. To supply this need two issues of 7 per cent. preferred stock aggregating $200,000,000 were sold to investors.

"Conditions at that time justified a higher rate for money than was expected to obtain subsequently when investment funds should become more plentiful. Accordingly, the terms of the two issues were drawn to permit their retirement at $115 a share on any dividend date after three years from the date of issuance.

"Dividends on this preferred stock in the period which has elapsed have been more than covered by earnings on the new capital supplied. However, easier money market conditions having now come into play, the directors deem it in the best interest of the company to take advantage of the call feature and retire the preferred issues.

"The entire benefit of the saving, which will be effected by replacing the 7 per cent. preferred stock with lower interest-bearing debentures, will accrue to the holders of the comomn stock.

"For one reason, the directors regret the necessity of calling this issue. There are 36,000 investors on the company's books as holders of the preferred stock, and their association with and interest in the company's affairs has been the constant source of satisfaction to the management. Premature reports of proposals to retire this issue have brought many letters from holders who have indicated a wish to continue their investment in some form of security of the company. As pointed out in the official statement made after today's statement, the probability is that such of those holders as desire to re-invest in another Standard Oil Company of New Jersey security will be given an opportunity to do so through an offering of debentures of the company by J. P. Morgan & Co."

Declaration of Dividends.

The official statement, which set forth the formal action of the directors, reads in part as follows:

"Regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 upon the preferred and 25 cents upon the common shares were declared. There was also declared an extra dividend of 12½ cents a share upon the common stock. These dividends are all payable on Dec. 15, 1926.

"Declaration of the extra payment upon the common stock was made possible by the fact that earnings for the current fiscal period have exceeded the amounts required for the regular dividends and for the necessary expansion of plant and equipment. The payment of any extra dividends in the future will be the subject of consideration, but will depend entirely upon the continuance of conditions which have made today's declaration possible.

"It was decided to issue a call, in due course, for the redemption on March 15, 1927, of the company's outstanding preferred stock (approximately 2,000,000 shares) at 115 per cent. of its par value.

"To provide in part such funds as may be necessary for the redemption of the preferred stock the directors voted to issue and to offer ratably to the common stockholders at their par value of $25 a share 3,449,317 shares of additional common stock, being in the proportion of one new share to each six shares outstanding, and stockholders will receive rights to subscribe in this proportion. Payments for the new shares are to be made in two equal instalments, one on Jan. 15, 1927, and the other on March 14, 1927.

"Furthermore, the directors authorized the sale to Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co. of an issue of $120,000,000 of twenty-year 5 per cent. debentures. To such of the company's preferred stockholders as may be interested in continuing an investment in Standard Oil Company of New Jersey securities the company calls attention at this time to the prospective offer of these debentures by Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co.

"Any funds required to effect the redemption of the preferred stock over and above those resulting from the sale of such additional shares of common stock and $120,000,000 debentures will be made available from the company's treasury."

Dividends vs. Interest.

The company will save approximately $8,000,000 a year in interest on funded debt as a result of the retirement of the preferred. However, the operation calls for an outlay of about $30,000,000 above the par value of the present 7 per cent. preferred, and the company will, of course, have to increase its dividend disbursements to the extent that its common stock outstanding is increased by the additional issue.

The Standard of New Jersey had 26,829 common stockholders on the last date when figures were made available, in 1925, while the preferred stockholders, as indicated by the statement issued yesterday, number about 36,000. It is generally understood in Wall Street that the Rockefeller interests, including the organizations which have benefited by the philanthropies of that family, hold between 20 and 25 per cent. of the stock of the company. The company at present has no funded debt, and its only securities are the common and preferred stock issues.

While Wall Street was waiting yesterday for the announcement of the Standard of New Jersey's financing, there was much conjecture regarding the possibility of a large bond issue by the Standard Oil Company of New York. Officials of the company have made it clear that some of the reports regarding proposed financing plans, running from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000, were fantastic, but it is believed that financing of considerable size, possibly as large as $50,000,000, is in prospect.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was the principal unit of the great Standard Oil organization which was dissolved under the Sherman Anti-Trust law in 1911. The original Standard Oil Company was organized under the laws of Ohio in 1870, while the Standard of New Jersey was organized on Aug. 5, 1882. Its properties at that time were appraised at slightly more than $2,000,000. The present value, based on the stock market's appraisal, is approximately $1,000,000,000. It is one of the country's three billion-dollar corporations, the other two being the United States Steel Corporation and the General Motors Corporation.

In 1906 a suit was instituted against the Standard Oil Company and others under the Sherman Anti-Trust law. This resulted in a decision against the company, and in December, 1911, and in January, 1912, in order to comply with the decree, the company distributed pro rata among its stockholders its entire holdings in the stock of thirty-three corporations, including the Standard Oil companies of various States.

Corporation's Income.

Earnings of the present company in 1925 were $111,231,355, which was equivalent to $55.62 a share on the outstanding preferred and of $4.72 on the outstanding common stock. This compared with a net income of $81,016,570 in 1924 and was the highest income, with a single exception, in the corporation's history. The record was established in 1920, when the earnings were $164,461,409. Earnings for the year 1926 have thus far been running substantially ahead of 1925.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey controls twenty-nine subsidiaries, foreign and domestic. It is largely engaged in the production of petroleum and its products in the United States and foreign countries. Its principal subsidiaries abroad are in Holland, France, Mexico, Denmark, Germany, Rumania and Italy. It is also largely interested in the petroleum industry in Canada.

The corporation is under the leadership of George H. Jones, Chairman of the Board, and Walter C. Teagle, its President. Its board is composed of its President and Chairman and S. F. Hunt, J. A. Moffett, C. G. Black, E. M. Clark, Walter Jennings, E. J. Sadler, George W. Mayer and D. R. Weller. All the directors reside in this city.

The company held a record until a short time ago for the size of a stock distribution, having paid a 400 per cent. stock dividend in 1922. This was the largest disbursement ever made by an American industrial corporation up to that time. The corporation never has missed a dividend, and its cash rate has ranged from 4 per cent. to 48 per cent. since its organization in 1882. If the company continues to pay extras of 12½ cents a share quarterly, as declared yesterday, the stock will be placed on a 6 per cent. annual basis.

COMES HERE TO PLAN SHAKESPEARE THEATRE

A. D. Flower, Head of Memorial Association, Wants American to Select Design.

Archibald D. Flower, Chairman of the Stratford-on-Avon Memorial Association, which is pledged to erect a Shakespeare theatre in place of the one destroyed last March, arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Franconia at the invitation of the American National Committee for a conference to devise the best means to carry out the project. He was accompanied by Mrs. Flower, who has devoted her time at Shakespeare's birthplace to preserve the buildings connected with the life of the Bard of Avon.

Mr. Flower said that one object in coming to New York was to get the consent of one of the best American architects to act as adjudicator in selecting the design for the new memorial theatre. "We are going to invite architects from all English-speaking countries to [illegible] designs which must be in the Elizabethan style," he said. "The piece of ground [illegible] theatre at a price two-[illegible] value. One feature to be [illegible] is the amount of money available for the new [illegible]. Mr. Flower brought [illegible] from the mulberry tree [illegible] peare's garden. He said [illegible] planted in Central Park.

QUEEN MARIE DAZED BY AMERICAN HURRY

Buys Steel Made in Big Gary Plant—She Denies She Has Negotiated Loan to Rumania.

New York Times Associated Newspapers.

From a Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—In an informal conversation, which really should be called an interview, and the first since the day she arrived on the Leviathan, Queen Marie of Rumania expressed for the first time today something of her impressions of America. It revealed her as a bit dazed at the penchant of Americans for rushing around—a penchant which, although she did not say it, has been amply demonstrated in the way the Queen herself has had to carry from throng to throng during her visit here.

The semi-interview was given on the special train from Chicago to Gary, Ind., where the Queen, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana visited the steel mills this morning. Ira Nelson Morris, former United States Minister to Sweden, who is acting as the royal party's host in Chicago, conducted newspaper men into the Queen's presence with the warning that it wasn't to be really an interview, and that they must ask only harmless questions. The newspaper men obeyed the injunction fairly well, but they could not help listening to remarks she was making to members of the Chicago Reception Committee who were accompanying her.

"You rush around so much," the Queen remarked once. "This disconcerting quickness for efficiency's sake leaves one amazed.

People Come, People Go.

"It has been a most pleasant visit, but the thing that hurts is the way people are dragged through one's brain. We meet people in the morning, and in a few hours we must leave them, and they are replaced by others, but fortunately the others, too, are pleasant.

"Before I came here I was told that women were more pleasant than men, but always I have been in the front seat with the men, and I have found them charming also."

The Queen expressed considerable interest in education and said that from what she had seen of it, the American educational system was wonderful. But she remarked also that we go in for practical things and leave out religion.

"Yes," said Princess Ileana, joining in the conversation. "You leave out the profound. You have not the depth of religion and poetry that we have, and in that respect I think the European educational system excels yours."

"I have been much impressed by your attitude toward religion," the Queen resumed. "You tolerate thirty or forty Churches, but go to none. We have one Church, and we go to it."

"Of course," the Queen added, "I have not had the opportunity to go into the homes of your farmers and your workers, and I may be in error."

Visit to the Steel Mills.

In her trip through the great steel district which lies south of Chicago the Queen and the Prince and Princess saw a new side of American life. They rode on a special train alongside long trains of broken machinery destined to be melted down and used once more. At the entrance to the Illinois Steel Company's plant they transferred to a little train of two glass-enclosed cars pulled by a puffing donkey engine. The train switched in and out past acres of furnaces and came to its first stop alongside a furnace from which tons of flaming slag were being dumped into a waiting gondola car.

The train stopped at the compression plant, a vast building filled with intricate machinery, and the royal party got out to inspect it at close range. A wide puddle of water separated the train from the building. There were a dozen willing Walter Raleighs about, but none was nimble-witted enough to fling a cloak in the Queen's path, and she leaped over the puddle with a laugh.

E. J. Buffington, President of the Illinois Steel Company, and A. M. Banks, President of the Outer Belt Line Railway, conducted the royal family on their tour through the buildings. The Queen and her children spent a long time in the rolling mill, Prince Nicholas, in particular, appeared fascinated as long, red, smoking, hissing rails glided back and forth in the rolls, then paused while great saws dropped and with fountains of sparks cut them into the proper lengths.

Grimy workmen grinned at the party from sooty doorways, but there was little demonstration for the royal visitors until just before they boarded the train for the return. Then the Queen asked of the large crowd gathered around the train if there was a Rumanian among them.

"I am, Madame," said one, pulling off his greasy cap and bowing. The Queen asked him his name and asked about his family and wished to know whether he was happy. He was happy, he said, and she congratulated him. Then, for the first time, there was a burst of enthusiasm among the workers, who perhaps had been too intent working with the molten metal to bother about royalty. They waved their cape and cheered, as the Queen boarded the train.

Lunch and Receptions.

On the return trip the party stopped at the South Shore Country Club and had lunch as guests of Charles J. Vopicka, one time Minister to the Balkans. This was followed by a large reception. Motoring on into the city, the party paused at the Y. M. C. A., where the Queen made a 10-year-old boy happy by talking with him about his stamp collection and confiding that King Ferdinand also had one in his palace at Bucharest.

At the Art Institute there was a crowd, and provision had been made for a reception. The Queen was really interested in the pictures, however, and before she could see them it was necessary to clear the building by announcing that she had departed.

Tonight the visitors were guests of the Chicago Executive Committee at a dinner at the Casino.

The Queen's program will not start until about noon tomorrow, but she arranged tonight to go swimming in the morning at the Illinois Women's Athletic Club. Princess Ileana, who loves the water, and thus far has not had time to swim at any of the pools along the route, took a plunge this morning at the Racquet Club.

Has Not Discussed Loan.

Queen Marie disclaimed tonight any knowledge of the loans reported from Bucharest to have been arranged with American capitalists, and emphatically denied that she had discussed loans with any person in the course of her visit to America.

Queen Marie's statement was issued through Major Stanley Washburn, her aide, and was called forth after newspaper stories had been laid before her implying that she had cut short her visit because the object of the trip—namely, loans for her country—had been attained.

"Her Majesty authorizes me to state," said Major Washburn after a conference with the Queen this evening, "that since the moment she first put foot on American soil until the present she has not discussed loans or the possibility of loans with any persons. The only financial aid she is taking back to Rumania is $5 which an old woman gave her for the poor of Rumania, an old woman who pushed through the crowds in Philadelphia to the Queen's side and asked her to take the money for the destitute of her country."

The Queen also denied through Major Washburn any implication that her sudden decision last evening to curtail her trip and hasten back to Rumania was the result of any summons from her home country. Queen Marie has received no messages calling her home from either King Ferdinand or the Rumanian Government, Major Washburn said, speaking for the Queen, and the only messages she has received have been purely personal letters and cablegrams from the King, from Queen Marie of Serbia, her daughter, and from other members of the family. A recent cablegram from the Queen of Serbia informed Queen Marie that her husband's health was better than it had been recently and that he would open Parliament.

QUEEN TO HAVE ROYAL SUITE.

Representative of Marie Confirms Majestic Booking for Dec. 11.

Queen Marie of Rumania yesterday confirmed her homeward booking on the White Star liner Majestic leaving New York on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 11 A. M. During her Western trip one of the New York representatives of the Queen had reserved tentative accommodations for the royal party on that date and also on the Majestic for the Christmas eve sailing on Dec. 24.

The confirmation was sent to the White Star office by A. Tirman, Chancellor of State of the French Government, who is traveling with the Queen's party. The reservations cover accommodations for twenty-one persons. The Queen will occupy the royal suite on the starboard side, the finest accommodations on the ship. It consists of a large living room, a sun parlor or veranda, with large windows; two bedrooms, a private sitting room that can also be used as a boudoir, or bedroom, three baths and a trunk room. Rooms for maids are near by across a corridor.

HANDBILL PASSERS REBUKED.

Chicago Judge Denounces Protests at Rumanian Church.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP).—Municipal Judge A. M. Eberhardt today delivered a rebuke to three women and five men arrested yesterday outside a Rumanian church for causing disorder by passing handbills bearing a protest to the effect that workers are oppressed in Rumania while Queen Marie was attending religious services. In granting them a jury trial the Judge said:

"No one wants to interfere with the constitutional right of the American people to protest. We must remember that the Queen is a lady. These people arrested, as a minority, have no right to thrust their opinions in a disorderly way upon the majority, who welcomed the Queen as a representative of a friendly European country.

"Newcomers to our shores would do better to apply themselves to their new homee and work."

KING FERDINAND AGAIN ILL.

Doctors Report He Still Suffers From Intestinal Trouble.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 15 (AP).—King Ferdinand, who appeared in good health at the opening of Parliament yesterday and read the speech from the throne, is again indisposed. A bulletin has been issued by the attending physicians, Drs. Baudot, Romulo and Mamulea, reading:

"The King is suffering from sigmoiditis (inflammation of the large intestine), but the affection has had no repercussion on the principal organic functions. The King's general condition continues satisfactory and it is hoped that the treatment given will yield favorable results."

Bucharest despatches of Oct. 30 reported that King Ferdinand was under treatment by physicians for sigmoiditis. Since then, however, the King has been able to carry out his multiple duties of State.

CRIES AS SHE TELLS OF PASTOR'S CHARGE

Girl Suing for $100,000 Alleging Slander, Says the Minister Publicly Accused Her.

SOUGHT HELP AT PULPIT

Bible Worker Declares Plea Was Refused and That She Was "Ushered From Church."

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Miss Thersa Fetzer, 29 years old, took the witness stand in Mercer Supreme Court here today, in her $100,000 damage suit against the Rev. A. James Clark, head of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Trenton, and weepingly told the jury that life had been made unbearable for her as a result of the slanderous remarks she attributes to the clergyman.

"My very best friends have turned away from me on account of it," she said.

Miss Fetzer was a Bible worker in Akron, Ohio, for the Reformed Seventh Day Adventist Church, when the Rev. Mr. Clark is alleged to have gone there and publicly charged her with too great intimacy with Dr. J. H. Miller, a traveling lecturer for the Reformed Church. Now she is a nurse in Washington, D. C., her usefulness as a Bible worker having been destroyed, she testified, by the Rev. Mr. Clark's attack.

Telling how former friends shunned her Miss Fetzer testified that one woman in Chicago remarked: "You stay out; I've got a husband."

Later in New York, when she went to visit a friend, she was threatened with a broom and told "You have gall in speaking against a minister," the witness declared. The woman in question added, "I believe every word said about you," according to Miss Fetzer.

Through Dr. Miller Miss Fetzer became interested in the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, in 1917, she testified. She took Bible courses in a theological seminary and in the Austin School in Illinois, both maintained by the denomination. She said she lived at the mission home in Chicago, which also was occupied by Dr. Miller, his family and other Bible workers. She said it was the general stopping place for ministers and their workers when in the vicinity.

When the split in the church came, Miss Fetzer decided to follow the reformed movement long before she knew what Dr. Miller intended to do, she said. Under the new organization, she first served as a Bible worker at a salary of $80 a month, and also held a secretaryship until 1924.

"Why have you done no Bible work since 1924?" she was asked.

"Because of these slanders and rumors my work is not successful, and I am physically unable," she replied. Her voice shook with emotion and a moment later she broke down. Later she related the details of the service at which the Rev. Mr. Clark spoke. She said he quoted scripture. Immediately thereafter the alleged slanders occurred, according to Miss Fetzer.

"I went up in front of the pulpit and raised my hand and said I had something to say," Miss Fetzer continued. "I said this man has falsified and that I was the person referred to. In fact I said he was lying. I said I wouldn't leave the place until these things were straightened out."

She said she begged those present to assist her in clearing her name, but that she was ushered from the church.

Dr. Miller preceded the plaintiff to the witness stand. He denied that his wife had obtained a divorce on the ground of infidelity. He said cruelty was the reason, and that he did not defend the action.

KEEPS TABS ON RUSSIANS.

But State Department Does Not Bar Quota Immigration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—While making no direct reply to the charge that it has a "blacklist" of so-called bad Russians not permitted to enter the United States, the State Department admits that through American embassies and consulates the United States does keep posted about persons inadmissable under American laws and concerning attempted violations of them.

According to a Department statement 4,475 Russians of all classes entered this country during the fiscal year ended June 30 last. Of this number 2,248 were immigrants who entered under the quota to establish permanent residence in this country, 936 were immigrants admitted for temporary residence and forty had transit visas.

Those admitted but not classed under the quota were 814 wives and children of citizens of the United States, 110 returning from visits abroad, 234 professors and ministers, and 103 students destined to enter approved colleges.

The Department does not object to the entry of Russian citizens under the quota so long as they are not connected with the Soviet or do not come under the category of revolutionists or anarchists banned by the immigration law.

SILAS H. STRAWN IN CITY.

Expects State Department to Publish Report on China About Nov. 22.

Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, Chairman of the International Commission on Extraterritorial Jurisdiction in China, arrived in New York yesterday. He will remain until Thursday, when he expects to return to Chicago.

Mr. Strawn said last night at the Ritz that his visit has nothing to do with affairs in China, where he spent eleven months, returning recently. He said the reports he has received since his return indicate that conditions there are rather worse than better. He expects the State Department will make public the report of the Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Commission about Nov. 22.

His visit here, Mr. Strawn said, including conferences he is to have at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., concerns private affairs exclusively.

SHOOTS AT BANDITS AFTER BEING FELLED

Bond Salesman, Attacked by Three and Blackjacked, Wounds One and They All Flee.

FIGHT ON THE STATE ROAD

Hospitals in Westchester on Watch for Man Hit in Left Shoulder—Two Hold-Ups Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Felled by a blackjack wielded by one of three youthful robbers on the State Road near Bedford Centre, George R. McElroy, a bond salesman, of 803 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers, managed to reach his pistol as he lay in the road, and firing several times at his assailants, hit one in the left shoulder. Another kicked the pistol from McElroy's hand, and all three ran for an automobile in which they disappeared.

Physicians and hospitals within a radius of thirty miles were phoned by the Bedford police in an effort to learn if any one had been treated for a bullet wound, but late today no trace had been discovered of the trio.

McElroy was returning in his car from his hunting and fishing lodge at Cross River when hailed by the three. They were at the side of the road between Bedford Centre and Bedford Hills. They asked for a tire pump. Getting from his car and opening his tool box McElroy was rumaging for the pump when one of the three struck him. As McElroy fell all three attacked.

Six young men, five of them masked, held up a card game in the rear of Tony Rota's barber shop at 2,227 Seventh Avenue, early yesterday morning, lined ten card players up against a wall and departed in an automobile with jewelry, cash and other personal articles estimated as worth between $2,000 and $3,000. The barber shop is in the negro section of Harlem. The hold-up men were white. The police were told that as the automobile drove off those in the place noticed that the rear license plate of the car was covered by a white cloth. The robbery was reported to the police of the West 135th Street Station.

Mrs. Stella Wallace, who lives on the ground floor of an apartment house at 916 East 179th Street, let an "inspector of gas meters" into her apartment yesterday afternoon. He departed five minutes later leaving Mrs. Wallace in a faint on the kitchen floor and carrying away $30 that had been in a closet.

Mrs. Wallace was found unconscious on the floor by friends. The police of the Bathgate Avenue Station were notified. The robber was described as about 25 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall and wearing a light suit and a dark overcoat.

Joseph Liebich, a produce dealer, of 190 Ross Street, Brooklyn, was robbed early yesterday morning while in Hubert Street, on his way to his place of business at 216 Franklin Street. It was still dark and the streets were apparently deserted. As he neared Greenwich Street he heard footsteps close behind him. Then he was grasped by the shoulder and, turning about, two men, both carrying pistols, confronted him. The robbers took a roll of $1,400 which he was carrying and ran east on Hubert Street.

ROOSTER RUNS WATER TAP.

Homer M. Green, Middletown Sage, Reports an Accomplished Bird.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Homer M. Green of the Mount Joy farm near here, who had a snake as a passenger on his plow-beam most of one day last Spring—the reptile getting off during the noon hour and crawling back when work was resumed—now has an unusually intelligent rooster of the Plymouth Rock species.

This bird, much larger than the average, officiates as a general handy specimen of the fowl family in the chicken house, walking leisurely about to observe what he can do for those less fortunate than himself.

One particularly noticeable accomplishment is the rooster's ability to manipulate a little faucet which furnishes water for the fowls, turning it slightly with his bill whenever he thinks it advisable to increase the water supply.

VOTE OF PLAY JURY FREES 'THE CAPTIVE'

Six Ballots Condemn the Play, Five Clear It, One Is Blank—Nine Needed to Convict.

THREE JURORS ARE WOMEN

Further Action Unlikely—Hornblow Sees Test of Whether Stage May Treat "Adult Subjects" Decently.

New York's play jury released "The Captive" yesterday from danger of suspension or expurgation after two hours of discussion. Six of the twelve jurors voted it objectionable from a standpoint of public morals, five voted that it was not and one cast a blank ballot. Two secret ballots were taken, each showing the same result. The jurors refused to say how they had voted individually and who had failed to vote. Nine votes are needed to condemn a play. It was the play jury's first meeting of the season.

The twelve jurors were selected from a panel of 500. Each arrived at the meeting place in Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora's office without knowing who the eleven others would be. After the balloting announcement was made that the play jury consisted of nine men and three women. They were:

Mrs. Henry Snowden Marshall, 128 East Sixtieth Street, wife of the former United States Attorney here; Mrs. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, 132 East Sixty-fifth Street, wife of the former Lieutenant Governor; Mrs. Charles Meyer, 960 Park Avenue; Henry B. Barnes, 31 Nassau Street; Ralph Folks, 1,249 Madison Avenue; James H. Graham, 32 Court Street, Brooklyn; Roy M. Hart, 32 Court Street, Brooklyn; Darwin R. James, 295 Broadway; Porter R. Lee, 105 East Twenty-second Street; Townsend Morgan, 35 Nassau Street; Harry P. Robbins, 110 East Forty-second Street, and William C. Redfield, foreman, formerly a member of President Wilson's Cabinet.

These twelve jurors were drawn from the play jury panel and sent to see the play. Then they were called to meet yesterday and vote for or against it. Mr. Redfield said after the meeting that, so far as he knew, there would be no further action by the jury.

It has been the custom of the play jury to vote, first, whether the play under discussion was objectionable as a whole, and, second, whether parts of it should be expurgated. In the case of "The Captive," however, apparently the only vote taken was on the first question.

It is also provided in the regulations governing play jury procedure that the author, producer and actors may be heard. Yesterday Gilbert Miller, the producer, and Arthur Hornblow Jr., who translated it from the French, were both outside the jury room, but were not called in.

Others there included Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Actors Equity Association; Gerald O. Cutler, of the New York Drama League; Thomas McGrath, former Assistant District Attorney, and William V. Saxe, representatives of the producers, and Miss D. F. Tait, secretary to the Rev. Dr. Charles K. Gilbert of the Social Service Commission of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, which represents all the so-called service and reform organizations behind the play jury movement.

None of those present, either within or without the jury room, would comment on the procedure, except Mr. Hornblow, who said:

"This is a rather critical case for the theatre. It will test whether adult subjects may be treated hereafter in a decent way on the stage. The moving pictures have left the legitimate stage only the adult portion of the public, speaking from an intellectual standpoint.

"The type of persons who still go to the spoken drama are not the type who would be menaced by subjects of rather an advanced nature. They are of a type less apt to be harmfully influenced, whereas the moving picture public covers a much broader mental field and needs to be protected from thoughts it is not qualified to cope with.

"I am not opposed to this sort of censorship, although in England the Lord Chamberlain alone may censor a theatrical production. The method here is all right because it gives the producer a chance to express his views before a decision is arrived at."

BLIND WOMEN WEAVE FABRICS AT SALE

State Commission Sells Articles Made by Sightless—Will Last Two Weeks.

Under the auspices of the New York State Commission for the Blind, a sale of articles made by the blind in New York opened yesterday in the Italian Garden of the Biltmore and will continue for two weeks. A wide variety of articles was displayed at fifty tables in the Italian Garden and the adjoining rooms. All kinds of basket work was shown as well as toys, needlework and unusual articles.

In one corner a loom was set, where each day blind women will weave fabrics that are used by them. At another booth the value of the dictaphone in enabling the blind to become secretaries was shown. New features will be added each day.

Yesterday was Jewish Day. Mrs. Bele Somdheim was the Chairman of the committee, which included Mrs. Jacob Wertheim, Mrs. Solomon Wertheim, Mrs. Richard Katz, Mrs. Max Klein, Mrs. Edward Goldstein, Mrs. Rosalie Meyers, Miss Flora Ahrens, Mrs. Mary Fowler, Mrs. Irving Ginsberg and Mrs. Edward Schilkind.

Today is Episcopal Day and a representative of the Church will attend. Mrs. Francis S. Colt is Chairman. Tomorrow will be Presbyterian Day and Miss Helen Keller will be the principal guest of honor and Mrs. Frank S. Matthews will preside. Mrs. E. H. Harriman heads the committee for Thursday.

Governor Smith has agreed to attend one day during the two weeks. The Governor posed with Miss Mary V. Hun of Albany and a delegation of blind persons at the Capitol several days ago and the picture will be a feature of the sale. The Disabled Ex-Service Men's Shop of the Dug Out and the Old Men's Toy Shop of the N. Y. A. I. C. P. are cooperating.

DISPUTES SOVIET'S CLAIM.

Carl Lomen Says United States Legally Owns Wrangel Island.

Carl Lomen, who owns reindeer herds in Alaska and who financed a former colonization of Wrangel Island in 1921, said yesterday that the reported colonization there by Soviet Russia did not mean he had relinquished his own claim.

Mr. Lomen read of the Russian development yesterday at the City Club, 55 West Forty-fourth Street, where he is staying for the Winter. He said that the Soviet colonization, no matter how ambitious or how permanent it was intended to be, could not establish a legal Russian claim over the Arctic island.

The United States established its claim, according to Mr. Lomen, when the Revenue Cutter Corwin landed in 1881, the first white men to set foot there. He contended that Baron Wrangel, for whom the island was named, did not get within 100 miles of the island, and that subsequent Russian explorers never set foot on it.

SEMINARY BOARD SCORED BY ALUMNI

Princeton Directors Called a "Self-Perpetuating Body" at Philadelphia Meeting.

ACCUSED OF HIDING FACTS

Report of Outlook Committee With Suggestions for Inquiry Are Tabled.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 15.—The Board of Directors of Princeton Theological Seminary, the largest seminary of the Presbyterian Church in this country, was criticized as "a secret self-perpetuating body" at a stormy meeting of the Philadelphia Alumni Society today at the Bellevue-Stratford.

The charge was made by the Rev. Dr. William Beatty Jennings, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Germantown, that the directors have made it impossible for the alumni to obtain accurate information on the conditions at the seminary. He declared that Faculty, directors, students and alumni are divided, and fail to cooperate.

The disturbed condition of the seminary has been noted by church officials for several years. At the recent meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly in Baltimore, a committee, headed by Dr. William O. Thompson, Moderator of the assembly, was appointed to "make a sympathetic study" of the seminary. That committee will hold its final meetings next Monday and Tuesday at Princeton. It has requested that alumni societies throughout the country offer suggestions for its consideration.

Report Laid on Table.

The Outlook Committee of the Philadelphia Society, whose function it is to suggest means of cooperation between alumni and seminary, in its report at today's meeting offered three questions to be submitted to the committee. After a heated discussion, all three questions were laid on the table.

"We note, first of all, the presence of the Evangelical League of Students in the seminary," the report said, "and that its influence upon the students must be reckoned with. We expressly urge that the committee of the General Assembly satisfy itself and the alumni by seeking an answer to this question: are the students entering the seminary confronted by a choice by the league so that they must declare their sympathy with or their lack of sympathy for the league? If so, is a decisive factor thereby introduced into the seminary life?"

The league, it was explained following the meeting, is an association of students in seminaries of various denominations, its members being strong Fundamentalists.

The second point referred to the fact that 56 per cent. of the students at the seminary were not preparing for the Presbyterian ministry. The percentage of Presbyterians attending the seminary, it was said, was steadily decreasing.

In the third question it was suggested that the mailing list of alumni of the seminary, had been used to circulate a pamphlet by the Rev. Joseph A. Schofield of New York, contrary to the rules of the seminary. It was said that the pamphlet was prepared to relieve the Faculty and directors of the burden of an attack upon the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Erdman, who was removed as student advisor in 1925.

ALUMNI GOING TO INQUIRY.

New York Association Names an Uninstructed Committee.

The Princeton Theological Seminary Alumni Association of New York and vicinity held a special meeting yesterday afternoon in the Second Presbyterian Church, Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street. A committee was appointed to appear before the Committee of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church charged with investigating Princeton Seminary.

Those appointed yesterday were the Rev. Dr. Daniel Russell, pastor of Rutgers Church; the Rev. Dr. Harry A. Bowlby, General Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance in the United States; the Rev. Mebane Ramsay, pastor of Calvary Church, West New Brighton, S. I.; the Rev. John Muyskens Jr., pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Red Bank, N. J., and the Rev. Robert Robinson of Asbury Park, N. J.

There was a long debate over whether the committee should go instructed or uninstructed. It was finally voted that the members should go uninstructed. It was pointed out that what the assembly's committee wanted was facts, not opinions.

One of the party had shot a rabbit and the group was gathered in a circle examining the catch when the father's gun was discharged, the charge entering the boy's groin. The lad died after reaching the Newburgh Hospital.

SEES NEW LAWS LIKELY TO CLOG CALENDARS

Banton Declares Defendants Now Stand Trial in Hope of Escaping New Penalties.

The severity of the Baumes laws, District Attorney Banton said yesterday, appeared to have the effect of clogging the Criminal Court calendars, as defendants with previous records were electing to stand trial rather than plead guilty, knowing that guilty pleas got them nothing in the way of leniency, and there always was a possibility of acquittal. This stand of the criminals, the prosecutor said, meant that the cutting down of the court calendars would take more time.

Mr. Banton said that the greatest benefit obtained for speedy justice in the administration of the new laws was the legislative amendment which made it possible for the courts to try all persons named in an indictment instead of each defendant being able to demand a separate trial. Next to this the provision of the new law requiring the fingerprinting of prisoners and the furnishing of the possible previous police records before bail could be accepted, Mr. Banton continued, proved most beneficial.

District Attorney Banton declared, however, that mandatory sentences required under the Baumes law were not in the best interest of law and order. He insisted that not only in life terms, but in sentences less harsh, the Court should have discretionary power to fix penalties, as the Judges were in possession of the facts surrounding the offense and were better able to judge of the punishment fitting the crime. The punishment provided under the Baumes laws, he said, was too rigid in many cases.

WIDE BUS SERVICE IN COUNTY PLANNED

Move to Fix Zones to Cut Fares on Trolley Lines Also Started in Westchester.

TO BENEFIT MANY TOWNS

Project of the Company, Now Controlled by a Receiver, Outlined When Plans Are Filed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Coordination of the New Rochelle-Stamford trolley service with that of buses, is being planned by the County Transportation Company, of which Leverett S. Miller is President. Outlines of this proposal were filed today with the officials of the villages of Larchmont and Mamaroneck, the town of Mamaroneck and the town of Rye. Mr. Miller is receiver for the New York and Stamford Railway Company, which operates the trolley line.

The town and village of Harrison and the village of Port Chester are considering the substitution of buses for trolleys.

In addition to establishing buses on routes now served by "tripper" trolley cervics or short feeder lines, a revision of fares and zones is also requested by the company. By the new echedula the fare between New Rochelle and Stamford would be forty-five cents, with five zones. A through trip now costs approximately fifty-five cents, with seven zones.

Zones would be established from Mechanic Street, New Rochelle, to Dean Place at the New Rochelle-Larchmont boundary line, five cent fare; from Dean Place to Summer Street, Harrison, ten cent fare; from Summer Street, Harrison, to Liberty Square, Port Chester, ten cent fare; from Liberty Square to the New York-Connecticut line at Greenwich, ten cent fare; from the State line to Atlantic Street Square in Stamford, ten cent fare.

Buses would replace trolleys from Larchmont to Port Chester, on all trolley lines branching from the main route in that village, from the main line in Rye village to Rye Beach and from the Larchmont station to Larchmont Manor.

The County Transportation Company endeavored last Spring to introduce a county-wide bus system in Westchester, from Tarrytown to Port Chester, with White Plains as the hub of the system. Although it received consent to operate from White Plains, the town of Greensburg, the town and village of Scarsdale, and the village of Tarrytown, it was forced to abandon its plan when it failed to receive the consent of the village of Elmsford.

Mrs. Hall Was Unfriendly to Mrs. Mills, Sister of Slain Woman Says

The episode, with its two versions, seemed to have settled to a contest of veracity between the two men, once business associates and friends, when Senator Simpson abruptly called for "David T. Libby" to take the stand. A startled look swept over the face of a curly-haired man who has been sitting unobtrusively in a corner back of the defendants since the trial began. He pointed a finger at himself and his lips framed the query—"me?"

"Yes, you," said Senator Simpson, shortly.

Admits Talking to Witness.

Libby took the stand. He proved to be an employe, as he put it, of Timothy N. Pfeiffer of counsel for Mrs. Hall. He denied that he was a detective, admitted that he was not a member of the bar and defined his duties as doing whatever he was called upon to do. Senator Simpson demanded whether Libby had not talked to Soper during the luncheon recess. Soper, still under oath, had left the stand when the recess was taken and was recalled after court reconvened.

The defense employe, whom State investigators called a detective, admitted that he had spoken to Soper on the sidewalk outside of the court house. He sought to explain that he had asked Soper "why he had—" but the special prosecutor choked off the answer. Senator Case objected, and Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker, sitting with Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary, advised the defense attorney that he could elicit the conversation with Soper from Libby under cross-examination. The defense did not take advantage of the opportunity and Libby left the stand with his remarks to Soper still undisclosed.

Two beams of light on the rector's intrigue with his choir leader were turned on by Senator Simpson. The first was through the testimony of Mrs. Elsie Barnhardt, sister of the slain woman, a plump young woman, who seemed to derive enjoyment in the telling of her sister's confidences to her. The second came when Francis L. Bergen, Somerset Prosecutor of the Pleas, was delegated by Simpson to read into the record the dreamy, neurotic letters written by Mrs. Mills to the clergyman, found at the scene of the crime.

Tells of Surprising Couple.

Becomingly garbed in a black dress with an ermine collar and with smiles dimpling her full cheeks, a glint of merriment in her gray eyes, Mrs. Barnhardt told how she had walked unexpectedly into the Sunday school of the rector's parish, the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, some time before the murders. "Eleanor," she called, and Dr. Hall strode out of his study, which opened off the school room.

"She is in the church somewhere, dusting," she said the minister told her, as he opened sliding doors and accompanied her on a vain search.

They returned to the class room in time to see Mrs. Mills come out of the study. Mrs. Barnhardt said that her sister's face was "flushed," but that all had adjourned to the study where they had luncheon. It consisted of soda water and éclairs.

Mrs. Hall listened with her usual calm to the recital of the affair, and failed to register anything more than casual interest when Mrs. Barnhardt quoted her sister as saying that she and Dr. Hall planned to "go away" somewhere, perhaps to Japan, "when Charlotte Mills, the daughter, finished school. It seemed to observers as though amusement was written in the puckered wrinkles at the corners of Mrs. Hall's eyes when the witness recalled a snatch from an outburst by Mrs. Mills in the presence of her meek husband, James Mills.

"She said that she thought more of Dr. Hall's little finger than she did of her husband's whole body," said Mrs. Barnhardt.

Mrs. Hall Alone Not Masked.

The witness testified that her sister had detected a change in the attitude of Mrs. Hall toward her, from very friendly to unfriendly. She related how at a Halloween party the rector had danced twice with her and the rest of the evening with Mrs. Mills. The defense on cross-examination suggested that Mrs. Hall did not dance. It was brought out that Mrs. Hall was the only person at the party who did not mask.

Mrs. Barnhardt brought in the name of Mrs. Minna Clark, a member of the church. Mrs. Clark was arrested in the investigation and is at liberty in $5,000 bail as an accessory after the fact to the murder. The State contends that she and Ralph V. Gorsline, vestryman, who broke four years of denial with the admission that he was in the famous lane on the night of the crime, "spied" on Dr. Hall and Mrs. Hall.

"My sister told me," said the witness, "that Minnie was very jealous of Dr. Hall's attentions to her and that whatever Eleanor would do for Dr. Hall, Minnie would go one better."

Another item contributed by Mrs. Barnhardt from her confidential chats with her sister was the latter's assertion that she used to help Dr. Hall with his sermons while they sat together on a bench in Buccleugh Park, near their trysting place under the crabapple tree. Mrs. Barnhardt denied that her sister had ever told of receiving monetary gifts from the rector, and at this point she identified a pair of cheap cotton stockings—the description was Senator Simpson's—as the property of her sister. They were taken from the body.

Letters Embarrass Prosecutor.

The letters which Prosecutor Bergen, plainly embarrassed by his task and the emotional phraseology of the missives, read into the record were six in number. In one of them Mrs. Mills longed for a "love nest" in which to spin dreams "as big as the earth." In another, after a florid passage, she pulled herself up suddenly with the written explanation that she "must stop, as there are peepers around."

In yet another the choir leader analyzed reactions of characters in "Simon Called Peter," written by Robert Keable, an English clergyman. Her favorite forms of salutation to the rector were "babykins" and "dear, darling boy."

The placid face of Mrs. Hall remained unruffled. Willie Stevens sat with ramrod back, hands on knees, listening intently. Henry Stevens, with folded arms, divided his attention between the reader and the movements in the court room as some one entered or left. One letter had a hint in it that the clandestine correspondence was going astray. The letters, it has been said, were placed between the leaves of a Bible in the church study, the rector and Mrs. Mills, as each wrote, seeking the missives there. James Mills was sexton of the church at this time. The hint was as follows:

"It is 3:30 and he hasn't returned. I may wait until he comes back and then I can be sure you will get this."

Fourteen Witnesses Heard in Day.

Fourteen witnesses, in all, were called to the stand. John Stillwell, driver of the hearse which bore Dr. Hall's body to Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, was one of them. Stillwell retold the story he first told at the preliminary hearings last August. He said he had noticed a scratch about two inches long on Mrs. Hall's face the day of the funeral. The bodies were found on Sept. 16 and the funeral was held on Sept. 18. Stillwell said that another driver had called his attention to the mark as they were on a ferryboat taking the cortège from St. George, Staten Island, to Brooklyn.

Another witness was Miss Helen Perry Griffin, sister-in-law of Henry Stevens. Her testimony, like that of most of the other witnesses, seemed unimportant.

Senator Simpson in announcing his plans with respect to Mrs. Gibson, whose condition last night was reported further improved, said that he would make every effort to transport Mrs. Gibson from Jersey City to Somerville by ambulance and stretcher for to-morrow's appearance on the stand, but that if her condition prohibited this he would ask Justice Parker to grant an adjournment until such time as Mrs. Gibson was able to testify.

"I think, however," he said, "that Mrs. Gibson will be able to give her testimony on Wednesday. It would be extremely unfortunate for every one concerned to have the trial adjourned. I shall know tomorrow at noon as to the probabilities of her being able to make the trip."

Henry Mills to Testify.

The prosecutor, who was in Trenton last night attending an executive session of the New Jersey Senate, said that his witnesses today would include Henry Mills, brother-in-law of the slain woman, and his wife; Major Calvin Goddard, ballistic expert and partner of Charles E. Waite, who died early Sunday morning; several members of the girls' guild in the rector's church and two or three minor witnesses. He said he would ask the Court to permit him to use a projectoscope to show to the jury photographs of the interior of Dr. Hall's church and pictures of the vicinity of the crime.

The Court denied Senator Simpson's request that the jury be taken over the scene of the murder. Senator Case opposed this move on the ground that the scene had been entirely changed in the four years that have elapsed and that nothing would be gained by the expedition.

"Well," observed Justice Parker, "the Court have thought over this question carefully and have conferred on the subject and have reached a conclusion, and our conclusion is twofold:

"First, we are fairly well satisfied that it would be of no substantial advantage to this jury to go and look at the locus in quo as it is now, and, secondly, we are equally well satisfied, if not better satisfied, that if any attempt were made to take this jury down there to give them a chance to look at the locus in quo, it would be next to impossible, if not absolutely impossible, to prevent interference with the jury, and on those two grounds we conclude that it would be highly inadvisable to send them there."

Jury Incident Explained.

An incident in the session yesterday that mystified the spectators was cleared up last night. At one point Justice Parker called Robert H. McCarter, former Attorney General, leader of the defense, to his side at the bench. They whispered for a few minutes and then, both smiling, parted. Mr. Pfeiffer explained:

"On Saturday Juryman No. 2, Edward Tillman approached General McCarter and said, 'My brother is dead.' Mr. McCarter was surprised at having the juryman approach him, and the response was 'I am sorry to hear it,' and then he stepped away. Senator Simpson called Justice Parker's attention to the matter. Justice Parker at the noon recess sent for General McCarter and asked him about it. Mr. McCarter explained just what occurred and Justice Parker seemed satisfied."

Rector's Prayer for Mrs. Mills.

The prayer which the clergyman penned for Mrs. Mills while she was ill in the Middlesex County General Hospital read as follows:

Into Thy Fatherly keeping I commit my life completely with trust and confidence. Thou art my dwelling place and underneath are Thy everlasting arms. To Thee I give my body that Thou may repair it. May I fall asleep peacefully in Thee. Guard me through the hours of unconsciousness, guide the hands of the surgeon, that through the wound he must make there may enter in Thy power to restore me to health and strength. I ask them, O Father, in the name of my Saviour and Redeemer, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Mrs. Mills's Letters.

The text of the letters was:

No. 1.

Dearest, dearest boy:

Wasn't I happy to find a sweet note, for I did not expect you would risk leaving one for me yesterday. Such delicious éclairs! And the book is more interesting than you thought it would be; after I read it we will talk about it.

My darling, how well you seem today. I must have caught cold, but when I don't know, and I am tired today and want to be with you and rest for hours, and, honey, you put the dear pictures in my hymnal. Oh, you sweet, adorable babykins of mine! Minnie used my hymnal for the organ and I wonder if she saw them, although I don't care one bit. She provokes me so at times, and tonight if her flowers are still there I'll put them in the kitchen. Not that I am jealous of Minnie. Why, darling, there isn't anything to be jealous of, but I hate her to do for you what I thought of first. She couldn't swear I put flowers on your desk. She surmises it was I. Oh, well, poor Minnie, she is easily contented with crumbs, isn't she, dear?

How are you today, darling? You seemed rested and happy. We didn't have a minute alone, but it will be happier so at times.

Dearest, I am not dreaming today. As I look out of the window I form no thought in my mind, just a drifting on, staring at nothing in particular, and I always do that when I am tired. The note I left yesterday was crumpled, but I had to hide it in my small change purse as I met him. And please excuse hastiness in writing sometimes, as I cannot be alone always. How glad I am school resumes tomorrow, and I can be alone to write. I could never belong to a club or go where there is incessant laughter and conversation. I need my dream times, my hours alone, and other people irritate and disturb me.

There isn't much of interest in the paper today. One line in an article says, "All life is a hunger," and how true that is. A hunger for what will satisfy, but what a variety of tastes in people. And because you and I hunger for the same things is the reason for our longing to be together as much as possible. My love is deep, calm, quiet today. I am in a mood to listen to music.

Yesterday I was talking to Mrs. Burns, could not pass and not listen, as she was ready for conversation. She was saying some one next to Hopkins was married yesterday and they were queer people. Told Mrs. Hopkins they lived in a different world than some people. Mrs. Burns is too ignorant to understand that, of course, and my, I wish you had heard what disrespectful language Mrs. B. used. But I let her rave. I hate to talk to the Burnses and never do if I can avoid it, but at times I must be polite even if it is to listen to her ignorance. And honey mine, isn't it true? I live in a different world. Today I am not wide awake. I am not sad, but quiet. Yesterday I was rollicking. Oh, I love those moods. They mean intense life, fire.

Of course, dear, the people who lived next to the Hopkins really meant that they have different aims, conversation, education, than some people—the Burnses can't understand that. What are the Burnses? Ignorance that preaches, the very air is tainted with their warped minds.

No Desire to Meet People.

Oh, darling, if I had an income of my own, I would be very selfish, I guess. I'd build a waiting love nest where I could dream unmolested and not care if I ever saw people to talk to. Books and music, pictures, oh, what pleasures I would have. The birds, butterflies, wild squirrels and all, I would see in the woods, and fields, and sigh in my dream. People would mean nothing. I'd rather watch the bugs and ants as they crawl along. Don't you love to watch an ant as it creeps along? Honey, there isn't a house large enough for me. My dreams are as big as the earth. I need the great outdoors to breathe in. Nature, as God created it, is what I feel a part of, and I am a part of it. It calls to me just as I dream for the truest thing. And darling sweetheart, that is why I long for our love to be the truest, ideal, as we can make it, for then it is truest to nature and things of God's creating.

But this love nest, you know, dearie, is dreadfully lonesome with just me there. Did He say we needed jewels, did He say we needed anything, except a mate? After that He knew we would find other things that He created for our comfort and pleasure. What a joy to read the Bible. How it tells of God creating all these wonders for us. Darling, I could rave (?) for hours, but I must stop as there are peepers around. I only know this, that as God the Creator is real, true, Nature is real, true, so our love is the most vital power, the truest joy that can be known in this life and hereafter.

Please don't laugh at this. I know I'm a crazy cat, but I can't be different.

Charlotte talks, then Dan asks questions, then he annoys, so how can I write?

No. 2.

In the following letter Mrs. Mills embarked as an amateur critic of "Simon Called Peter," the love story by Robert Keable, Episcopal clergyman, which was creating a furore four years ago:

Dearest, how fast I can read. And remember, too, honey-mine, what a lot there is to talk about after reading the book.

Pamela is clever, the kind of a woman that keeps a man guessing. She knew she loved Chris from the beginning—she saw in Cecil what Chris loved—would she really have let him touch her body or would she recoil at the last moment and be disgusted or disappointed in him. She meant to have him fair or foul—and she was too clever to let Cecil have him—for didn't she read he was a man worth having? But not until Cecil made him so. He is the winner, for Cecil's great pure love made him perfect, but not for Cecil—for Pamela.

And Cecil's great all-knowing love told her he was unworthy of her loving. Perhaps if she had never known of his trek with Pam—(although she would have found out the real Chris some time)—she would cast everything aside and take what she thought she was getting. A true, noble Chris? But he wasn't then. Love made him what he was in the end—a true lover—but in finding himself he lost what he prized most—Cecil's wonder-love. Oh, of course he was true to Cecil, physically—but he was tempted; and a real man never can be. How I hated him! Surely across the darkness of the night Cecil's God was guarding her—her love made her realize why she told Chris to wait. He was unworthy of such a complete love. He was more to her than God—the child.

God Always Watching.

Humans forget sometimes God is watching and guiding. How completely she loved, but the true voice of that great love showed her the truth—that Chris wasn't worthy. Her ideals she would always cherish and love the Chris she thought he was, but he dragged himself through the mud, tempted by physical passion, and so deserved to lose Cecil, although she would love him forever. And Cecil was clever. She knew by having another child she would see her duty to Hugh and not for a weak moment be blinded into going away with Chris, and so she used that way to prevent herself. Pamela got him, but with his ideal love burned into his heart and soul forever.

Pam is a snake. Why, dearie, you know in life if a girl wanted a man as she wanted Chris she wouldn't save herself for him. They all smoke and drink tea incessantly. If I should read the pages of a book without seeing the author's name I'd know it was Keable.

Pam thought she was clever. But was she? If Chris had taken her offer, he would hate Pam in the morning. I can easily see that a man would be weak, but in life, dear, you know there are many things to reckon with. How would her father take to her living with Chris? Wouldn't she have children?

Dearie, it is late—there is so much to talk about in the book. We must take it with us when we ride and talk about it, especially the marked places. This man Keable certainly knows people's hearts. I love Chris and Cecil's few hours together, how he vows he will kiss her before leaving Mallory's. Oh, it is sweet, darling—but nothing compared to our love. How they linger behind the others—their love-vows—and how they rush into each other's arms.

Dear, darling boy, I love you most when you love me as you do today—not so much physically—but prayerfully, exalted, and you see, darling, the physical fits in and doesn't dominate—it was there just the same—not to be denied never. Dearest, believe me, won't you? Never will I say you want my body rather than me—what I really am. I know that if you love me you will long and ache for my body. Have I ever tempted you, dear? Have I ever made you want me? I never want to.

Dearest, there isn't a man who can make me even smile. As you said today, our hearts are as true as steel. I'm not pretty. I know there are girls with shapely bodies, but I'm not caring what they have. I have the greatest of all blessings—a noble man's deep, true, eternal love—and my heart is his—my life is his—all I have is his. I am his forever.

Honey, I'm awfully lonesome for you tonight. I want to talk to you. I feel so full of thoughts. Why do I cry so?—oh, it pains me to cry. I will hate the Winter nights. Then I dream of curling up in a chair with you—oh, what dreams I have. Will it ever be? God knows best, dear, it is eleven and I must get some rest, as I expect to be up early—about six—to pack lunch.

No. 3.

Six o'clock.

Oh, darling, darling mine, what painful hours today! When I got back from church, in addition to my pain, I was so troubled about you. As I told you, I didn't speak a word to any one, got undressed and sat in a rocker; no peace anywhere. I guess I was weak from the pain and no sleep last night. Soon I became drowsy and lay down and slept for an hour. When I awoke it was torturous, dear. I cannot tell you how it has pained. I was alone then and had no one to phone to you. Oh, dear, I knew you would be anxious and disappointed, but, darling, I walked the floor until 4:30. Haven't read the paper, haven't eaten anything. I said, Oh, he will know I am suffering and cannot come up. When I came back from Miss Opie's I was sicker than before, as you were disappointed. I can hardly cry. Although now the pain isn't as continuous as it was; it ceases for about ten minutes.

I wish some one would be merciful to me and give me something to put me to sleep—to forget. Forget you were disappointed and how you felt this morning and get some relief from this constant pain. I never felt so miserable as I do now. You asked did I want you to come. Honey-mine, I was needing you as only you know—but he was here and so I said not to come. Tomorrow I believe I'll walk miles and be alone. Darling, can I bear it? My ear aches, too; the pain goes to the top of my head. Worse than before, for I am sick over the disappointment of not seeing you. It pains so at times I stumble in walking around here and almost fall. Why it doesn't turn your mind I don't know. Although, truly, dear, it isn't as painful as it was.

I want you—your arms to hold and fold me close, if only to forget the pain for a moment.

Nothing will cure me now but that. I was tempted to drink enough to put me to sleep, but I am strong enough to realize it would do uncurable harm to the kidney.

Dearest, give me some word of comfort. Tell me you know I was wild to come to you this afternoon, but I couldn't. It will take hours for the pain of disappointment to leave me. My darling, who cares every moment and suffers with me. Just to look at you tonight will be a relief and joy.

I don't care how it pains; I will bear it and come to meet you.

No. 4.

Darling mine, didn't you feel me purring—blissfully contented? And close to you, too! Was my goodbye to the others too hasty and should I have said more? What a truly unexpected pleasure it was, dearest, sweetest boy. Oh, how good you are! As I rode along I thought, this is where I find my greatest joy, to be near my man; what care I for what other people call pleasure? To be with you, although I didn't dare look at my noble boy's face, this is all I ask. How friendly our Easton Avenue road seems to us, and dear, dearest boy, every time you take your hat off I never fail to notice and can read your face. Monday, too. And it is a new message of love every time you do and my heart sings for joy. Yes, and I could fling my arms about you and pour kisses on my babykin's head and face.

Grandma is here and I must stop. Sweetheart, my true heart, I could crush you. Oh, I am wild tonight—so happy I could dance wildly.

No. 5.

My dear, dear boy—When I said I would leave a note, I forgot that it may not be wise, but I may take a chance, for I cannot have you disappointed even though it isn't much.

Dearie, what a gay happy girl I am today—and yesterday too. I love your dear note of last night and went to sleep happy after reading it. Of all people that I know, no one understands me but you. But of course I have never shown my real self to others. One never can except to the person they truly love.

How impatient I am and will be! I want to look up into your dear face for hours as you touch my body close. Honey, do you suppose we could start early in the morning and not return until the following night late—say ten or eleven. Darling, do you yearn for it as I do. When will it come, dear, the last of this month? I guess I'd better not read this but give it to you tomorrow.

I am looking over toward the trees by the elms and dreaming. Darling, my life is nothing except I have all your love. Dear, that is why I never get discouraged or discontented if I am not blest with material things. I have the greatest gift and blessing and I don't need anything else. I am holding my sweet babykin's face in my hands and looking deep into his heart and read there the message that makes me live, gives me strength and life. * * *

It is three-thirty and he hasn't returned. I may wait until he comes back and then I can be sure you will get this.

Goodnight my true heart. I never buy such goodies as you do for me—but if we go on a picnic I will make whatever you like to eat, so tell me what to make.

No. 6.

Take the book with you or else I will leave it in your room. I don't want to read such books again—ever. Why? You know. You make me dream—yearn—for what perhaps I miss in this life. And to think now and hereafter I will never escape this longing until our souls are at last one. I hate to come back to realities—I always have to. Reading books (oh I love them) makes me yearn, and as much as I love it—why does it pain to have to come back to even taking food for nourishment. So I long for the time when I will have you forever—dreams, dreams—no yearnings.

All earth's longings now fulfilled! Yesterday I was happy in a way. On the boat and in the water. But on the way home I was thinking hard. Darling, it is as if we have had a glimpse of what our souls cry out for—and then be denied again. And I feel as tho I never want to hear you say again "I love you" or caress or kiss me so hard it hurts. You haven't any right to and then wake me up. Or is it myself.

When anyone else calls you endearing names and you say "dear" it is far more merciful of you to stab me. How can I even call you darling as I have this morning.

Oh, I ought not make it harder for you—but that is what you do to me and I am not repaying, just stating what is the truest pass. You say we are favored by having such a great love. But always—it is so and will ever be—we must always take the bitter with the sweet. And I hope I don't see you today. What is the use when you always leave me! Oh, my darling babykins—what a muddle we are in. But I will be content, I will.

I don't know why I feel this way today; it will pass as you know. God, I know, oh I know that as much as I know you are my true heart He is watching and caring and we are never alone. He is always near—in whatever we do, even in physical closeness. He is near, for we know He meant His children to taste deeply of all things.

Was Pam religious. Did she feel God? Yes, I think so, but she hadn't found her soul, nor did Chris. Chris wasn't Cecil's mate, no more than Hugh. The Chris she thought he was, he was her true mate. Did Chris, who could feel that "I am the resurrection of the life", and if he knew that, then there would be no Pamelas for him, but a prayerful life—a desire to be like his always, forever-beloved Cecile.

Ask me any part of the book and I will remember it. Pam's mother was English. (Page 49.)

I have much work I ought to do, but I can't today. I must wait until this mood passes and I come down to earth today.

Do I love you too much? I know that now I could leave, yes, even your physical presence and go into a convent. You are always in my mind and heart, but there I wouldn't see any one else touch you, call you "dear," rub your tired body, sew torn trousers! Oh, darling, I don't ever want to call you "dear" or "honey" again if any one else can. Aren't you glad no one but you can call me dear names.

One time I told you I hated to work. I hated your parish. I guess it is because I am jealous of it, because it must always come just in your life. Not because of conventions—no—but because you love it so. When the man at the gate at Manhattan Beach called you "Doctor" and I, without looking at you (I'm a witch), knew it through you, the kind of a thrill that brings tears of joy to your eyes.

Oh, I know it is because you are a true priest—born for it. And because that is your supreme joy and satisfaction. I am merely your physical inspiration and you see in me what you teach, you, the priest.

McKEEVER ON STAND.

James A. McKeever, a court stenographer and Supreme Court examiner, was put on the stand by Senator Simpson as the first witness. He was asked to certify as to the correctness of a transcript of a statement which he, as an examiner, took from former Sheriff Bogert T. Conkling on Aug. 7 last. Mr. McKeever declared that his transcript had been correct. Mr. Conkling, when he was on the stand on Saturday, complained that his statement had not been transcribed as he had given it and for that reason he had refused to sign it.

Senator Case tried to show that Mr. McKeever, in taking the statement as a Supreme Court examiner, had done so without authority, but Mr. McKeever said he had construed the wording of his general certificate as examiner as granting him authority.

Mr. McKeever said, in response to a question, that Captain Harry Walsh, one of the Jersey City detectives, was present at the examination of Mr. Conkling. Senator Case brought this out as part of his campaign to stress that the trial was produced by efforts of Hudson County detectives rather than by "local" efforts. The redirect examination of the witness by Senator Simpson was:

Q.—You identified Captain Walsh as of the Jersey City police. Do you know whether he is the same Captain Walsh who came to Somerset County at the request of Somerset County, and aided the Somerset County officials in investigating the murder of a State trooper, and that the man was subsequently convicted through the efforts of Captain Walsh aiding the Somerset County authorities at their request, and that Senator Case went before the authorities and got them to give him $2,500 to be split with another policeman who helped him, and that Senator Case wrote the very complimentary letter to Commissioner Beggans of Jersey City thanking him for Somerset County for its efforts in running down the murderer of the State trooper? Do you know whether he is the same Captain Walsh? A.—He is.

Not Sure Walsh Got $2,500.

Recross-examination by Senator Case:

Q.—You answered that question very readily, didn't you? A.—I had heard that.

Q.—Did Captain Walsh get $2,500? A.—That I don't know.

Q.—Didn't you say he did? A.—I heard he did.

Q.—Do you know that he got $2,500? A.—No.

Q.—Why did you testify to it. A.—I heard it.

Q.—Did I write a letter to Commissioner Beggans testifying to these things about which the questioner asked you? A.—I heard you did.

Q.—Do you know it? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Very well, then, why did you testify to it? A.—To my knowledge.

Q.—That holds good of everything in that question? A.—Yes, merely hearsay.

Q.—Nothing you know about it? A.—Nothing I knew about it.

Senator Case—Then I ask that it be stricken out.

Senator Simpson—Just a moment. I will ask him.

By Mr. Simpson:

Q.—If Senator Case would let you look at the copies of letters he wrote, you could satisfy yourself definitely, couldn't you?

Senator Case—Of course counsel knows this is entirely irrelevant.

Senator Simpson—I don't object if you want it stricken out. I just want to identify the Captain Walsh.

By Senator Case:

Q.—Do you know whether he is the same one also that Justice Sutphen testified on the stand had given a man an awful beating up in that case, one of the witnesses? A.—I did not hear the testimony.

Court Halts the Questioning.

The Court interrupted to say: "We are not trying the case of the murderer of the State trooper," and "the whole thing is immaterial." but the questions and answers were allowed to stand. Senator Case then resumed:

Q.—You had not heard anything about that? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know whether he is the same man who tied Willard Stach, one of the proposed witnesses in this case, to a bedpost at Police Headquarters all night? A.—I do not.

Senator Simpson—We object to that. Stach was a State police prisoner and had nothing to do with the Jersey City police.

Senator Case—He was not a prisoner at all.

BUTTLER NEXT WITNESS.

The next witness was Alfred J. Buttler, a taxicab chauffeur in New Brunswick. He testified that he had taken a woman in his taxicab to the Hall house on Sept. 16, 1922, the Saturday following the murder. He had arrived at the house about 10:45 A. M. that day, he said. His examination continued:

Q.—And did you get in the driveway? A.—Part of the way.

Q.—What did you see that stopped you from going the whole way? A.—There was a car parked at the porch.

Q.—What kind of car was it? A.—I don't know what the make of it was; it was a green one.

Q.—Was it a touring car? A.—Open car, yes, sir.

Q.—Do you know Henry Carpender? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you see him in the car? A.—I saw him coming off the porch.

Q.—What was he doing? A.—He had a bundle under one arm and three or four boxes under the other arm.

Q.—Could you see what was in the boxes? A.—The top box was business papers.

Q.—Were they boxes or drawers? A.—Boxes.

Q.—What kind—paper or wood? A.—pasteboard.

Q.—How many of them was he carrying out of the Hall home? A.—Oh, I think about three or four.

Q.—And the papers, you say, looked like business papers: is that right? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And what did he do with them? A.—Put them in the car.

Q.—Was anybody in the Hall home when Mr. Carpender was putting the boxes in the car? A.—I did not see anybody else there.

Q.—And was the car still there parked when you drove away? A.—No, he went while I was getting paid by the passengers.

Q.—Who drove it away? A.—Mr. Carpender.

Cross-examination by Senator Case:

Q.—Who was your passenger? A.—I don't know.

Q.—A reporter, wasn't it? A.—No, sir.

Buttler's testimony ended when he said that he had never heard Mr. Carpender called anything but "Henry." The family contends that he was never called anything but "Harry." This point has a bearing on Mrs. Gibson's story that a woman at the murder scene exclaimed "Oh, Henry."

STILLWELL ON STAND.

John Stillwell of New Brunswick who drove the hearse at the funeral of Dr. Hall was called to the stand. Stillwell spoke clearly and seemed to have a vivid recollection of the funeral. His testimony:

Q.—On Sunday, Sept. 17, 1922, did you do anything for Mr. Hubbard, the undertaker in New Brunswick? A.—Yes.

Q.—What were you doing for him? A.—Well, I helped him a little bit in his morgue.

Q.—Did you drive in the Hall funeral? A.—I drove the hearse.

Q.—From where did you drive it, to where? A.—I drove from the garage over to the church and from the church down to the boat.

Q.—Then you went to Brooklyn? A.—Yes.

Q.—At any time going or coming did you get off the hearse and walk around the boat? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was Mrs. Hall in one of the carriages? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you observe, if anything, about Mrs. Hall while you were on the boat? A.—There were two or three of us drivers around there and we were there speaking, and she raised her veil up and we could see a little scratch on her face.

Q.—Where was the scratch? A.—On the left side of her face.

Q.—Did you call anybody's attention to it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Whose attention did you call to it? A.—I called a couple of the other drivers' attention to that.

Q.—How were you able to see the scratch if she was veiled? A.—She raised the veil up and pulled out her handkerchief to wipe her nose.

Q.—It was then that you saw the scratch? A.—Yes.

Cross-examination by Senator Case:

Q.—You now are how occupied, Mr. Stillwell? A.—I am working in a national bank in New Jersey.

Q.—What do you do? A.—I don't want to tell you that. I don't want to get that in the papers.

Q.—You won't tell us that? A.—No.

Q.—Are you ashamed of it? A.—No.

Q.—Then tell us. A.—I don't want it put in the paper. There is enough in now.

The Court—You may answer that.

The witness—I run the elevator.

Q.—You think that the bank might not relish having it known that you ran the elevator, is that the idea? A.—They already know.

Q.—How long were you working for Mr. Hubbard? A.—I worked for Mr. Hubbard pretty near seven years.

Q.—Just what was your job? A.—I worker for R. C. Rice at the time. I drove for Mr. Hubbard; and I had a day off every week and he hired me whenever he wanted me.

Q.—So that you were not regularly employed by Mr. Hubbard? A.—Not at that time.

Q.—Whom did you work for? A.—R. C. Rice.

Q.—In what capacity? A.—He is a broker in New York, J. K. Rice's brother.

Q.—What were you doing? A.—I was driving, I was chauffeur for Dick Rice.

Not Watching Mrs. Hall.

Senator Case questioned the witness closely on the position of the hearse and other cars on the ferryboat. Asked whether there had been any official or honorary pallbearers the witness said there had not been and that the drivers acted as pallbearers. The drivers had "stood around" on the boat, he said, close to Mrs. Hall's car. The cross-examination went on:

Q.—You do not mean to say that you chauffeurs got together there and stood right at the door of Mrs. Hall's car? A.—We didn't stand right at the door.

Q.—You were standing there watching Mrs. Hall? A.—No. There was a fellow there playing the accordion and we were watching him and I happened to spy her.

Q.—And where was Mrs. Hall? A.—Sitting in the car.

Q.—With whom was she? A.—I think Willie was alongside the driver; I didn't notice who the rest was.

Q.—Mrs. Hall was heavily veiled, wasn't she? A.—I would not call it so heavy.

Q.—Now, these scratches that you saw, how long were these scratches? A.—Oh, about an inch and a half or two inches.

Q.—How many were there? A.—I seen one.

Q.—You were listening to the accordion player? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you saw Mrs. Hall raise her veil? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—To wipe her nose? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—That took but a very short time, didn't it? A.—Oh, she took her time at it.

Q.—You were watching her closely enough to notice that? A.—Oh, no, not so much attention.

Q.—But you were listening to the accordion player? A.—Yes, sir.

Says Another Driver Saw It.

Q.—You were there staring at the widow of the man who was murdered? A.—What?

Q.—Well, weren't you standing there staring at her? A.—No.

Q.—Why did you call the attention of the fellows to that? A.—You will have to ask them, not me. I didn't call their attention first off. One of them spoke to me about it first.

Q.—It was a matter of comment there among you four or five chauffeurs that Mrs. Hall had a scratch from an inch and a half to two inches long on her face? A.—Yes, sir.

On redirect examination by Senator Simpson the witness could not remember who had called his attention to the scratch except that the man had been a driver of one of the other cars, not a coach or the hearse. The prosecutor asked what that driver had said in calling attention to the scratch, but the Court barred the question.

Saw Mrs. Mills on Trolley.

John J. Meaney, a conductor, and Francis Coyne, a motorman, were called by Senator Simpson. Meaney testified that he had been in charge of the Easton Avenue trolley car which Mrs. Mills used to reach a point near the crabapple tree where she and Mr. Hall later met death. The trolley reached the end of the line, near the Parker home, at 8:20 P. M., and Meaney saw her start toward De Russey's Lane.

Coyne, who was off duty that night, but who was a passenger on his way home, duplicated Meaney's testimony to a great extent. They were not cross-examined.

MRS. BARNHARDT TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Elsie P. Barnhardt of Paterson, N. J., a sister of the murdered woman, was the next witness. She is a pleasant-faced woman in her early thirties. She smiled often as she gave her testimony, and at one point Justice Parker, with his long black robe gathered about him in a manner that suggested something monkish, left his chair and went to one side of the witness, seeming to study her. Mrs. Barnhardt wore a long black coat with an ermine collar. Her small black hat was of velvet. An artificial flower, green in color, was fastened to the lapel of her coat.

Her examination proceeded:

Q.—In the year before her murder did you ever see Mrs. Mills in company with Dr. Hall? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where? A.—I have seen her at the church and——

Q.—Yes——. Well, what about her home? A.—In her home, I have seen him there.

Q.—How often? A.—Four or five times.

Q.—Covering what period of time? A.—Shortly before her death.

Q.—What do you mean—shortly? A.—About two or three months; three or four.

Q.—Over what period of time did those five times cover; did they cover three months? A.—I have seen them together a year before that, too.

Q.—When you saw them at her home together, was he there when you called, or would he come in after you got there? A.—No; he was there when I called.

Q.—And would you leave him there or did he go before you went away? A.—Well, I stayed there and then he would leave.

Q.—Did you observe anything about his conduct toward your sister and your sister's conduct toward him? A.—Yes, I knew they liked each other very much.

Had Planned to Go Away.

Q.—How did you glean that knowledge? A.—Well, she told me.

Q.—What did she say about Dr. Hall and herself? A.—They had planned to go away. They were planning to go away with each other when Charlotte finished high school.

Q.—What did Mrs. Mills say about Dr. Hall? A.—She told me she thought more of Mr. Hall's little finger than she did of her husband's whole body.

Q.—Did she say where she was going—Japan, Australia? A.—He liked Japan. He wanted her to see it and go there with him.

Saw the Couple Together.

The witness told of an incident in the Sunday school room one afternoon when she had called to see her sister and Dr. Hall, coming out of his study, told her Mrs. Mills was "around dusting somewhere." They looked for her, she said, and when they came back they encountered Mrs. Mills coming out of the room the rector had just come from. Mrs. Mills was "all flushed," she said, and was putting on her hat, greeting her sister with only a "hello."

Mrs. Barnhardt said that immediately after this the three of them went into the study and had some soda water and éclairs. The witness was unable to fix the time of the visit to the church, but thought it was about eighteen months before her sister's death. It was after her surprise trip to the Sunday school and "the luncheon" of éclairs and soda pop that Mrs. Mills began to take her into her confidence on the intrigue with Mr. Hall, according to the witness. The examination continued:

Q.—What did she tell you? A.—Why, she told me different things, little things. She told me she loved him, and she baked little things for him and she wrote him notes.

Q.—She could bake a cake for him without being in love with him. What makes you say that this meeting put you in confidence? What did she say that convinced you you were in her confidence? A.—She told me she loved him and she used to write him letters and received letters from him.

Q.—Did she say anything about her meetings, where, if anywhere, she met with him? A.—Yes.

Q.—Won't you tell us that? A.—She told me she used to meet him at Buccleuch Park, a bench on the end.

Q.—Did she say often or seldom? A.—Seldom—once in a while.

Helped Him Write Sermons.

Q.—What did she say they would do when they were on the bench in Buccleugh Park? A.—I know she used to help him write his sermons.

Q.—They would compose the sermons on the bench in Buccleugh Park in broad daylight, is that what she told you? A.—She told me they used to talk about different things, about the service and so on.

Q.—Have you any reason you don't want to testify? A.—No.

Q.—Why don't you tell me what she told you about the meetings in Buccleugh Park? You did not think she was in love with him because she helped him compose sermons in Buccleugh Park? A.—I knew she was in love with him.

Q.—Did she show you any letters which she said were from him? A.—I knew about the prayer that he wrote for her. In the hospital I know—and then she told me "Mr. Hall thinks so much of me that when I was in the hospital he got up out of his sick-bed"—he had influenza or something—he got up out of his sick-bed to visit her in the hospital when she had her operation.

Q.—Did you talk with her, have any conversation with her about the wisdom or unwisdom about being so bold about this? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long before she was murdered? A.—I think it must have been about a year.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I told her she was a little unwise——

Q.—Well, what did she say to you? A.—She said she did not care who knew it; she was not going to hide it from any one. I told her I thought she was unwise——

Q.—What you said is not, perhaps, important, but when was it she told you she did not care who knew about the affair between her and Dr. Hall—when? A.—About seven or eight months before.

Q.—Before she was murdered? A.—Yes, or about a year.

Q.—And was she alone or was anybody with her? A.—She came to my house and she asked me to stay there all night, and said she was going to meet Dr. Hall in New York the next day; he was going to take her to a show.

Q.—Did she stay at your house all night? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And what time did she leave next morning? A.—About 9 o'clock.

Q.—You do not know what show it was? A.—I thought she said "Shuffling Along," or something like that.

Q.—"Shufflin' Along," a colored show? A.—Yes, sir.

Mrs. Hall "Not Friendly."

Senator Simpson asked the witness whether Mrs. Mills had ever said anything about Mrs. Hall. Mrs. Barnhardt said that her sister had once remarked that she did not think "Mrs. Hall was very friendly with her." The witness said that her sister and Mrs. Hall had "been very friendly at one time." She said that one of the occasions on which she remembered having seen Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Mills together was as follows:

A.—We started out, the guild was going to a home for the aged in Bound Brook and Eleanor invited me to go with them and when we arrived at the church, there were several people standing around; various members of the church had offered their automobiles to take them back and forth to the home and Mr. Hall placed me in his car and Eleanor in his car and Mrs. Hall objected to it, she acted as though she objected because she finally did not come in our car; she went with Mrs. Anna Bearman.

Q.—Was there any attempt to put her in the car? A.—She did not want to go in, she looked around and she acted as though she didn't want to go in.

Q.—What did she say? A.—She walked back and forth as though she did not know where she wanted to go until finally she decided to go with Mrs. Bearman.

Q.—When she was there on the sidewalk how did she act toward Eleanor, did she come up and kiss her in the car? A.—No, sir.

Q.—What did she do? A.—That is what I say, she did not want to go in the car with her.

Q.—Did she come up and speak to Eleanor or turn her back on her car and go to another car? A.—She did not say anything to her.

Q.—Who drove the car you were in on that trip? A.—Mr. Hall.

Q.—And Mrs. Hall went in another car? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You say she would not go in your car, what do you mean by that? A.—She acted very angry at the way Mr. Hall arranged the persons in his car.

Q.—After you saw her acting angry at this guild meeting, did you see her again that night? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where? A.—Over there.

Q.—What did she do over at the place did; she come and make remarks to you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—What did she do? A.—She stayed by herself then.

Q.—Where were the doctor and Mrs. Mills? A.—They were sitting by each other, Eleanor sang and I played the piano for them that night.

Q.—Mrs. Hall stayed by herself? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you see Mrs. Hall on any other occasion after that meeting—before the murder—with Eleanor? A.—No, sir.

Asked About Jealousy.

Mrs. Barnhardt said it was about five and a half years ago that this incident of Mrs. Hall keeping away from the rest occurred. She was then asked about a meeting of the guild in an Episcopal Home for the Aged in Bound Brook. The examination proceeded thus:

Q.—Was it in the afternoon or the night you went? A.—In the evening.

Q.—Will you state whether or not you ever saw Mrs. Hall in company with Mrs. Mills when Dr. Hall was there, manifesting any jealousy at all to Mrs. Mills when she was in the society of Dr. Hall? A.—That night at Bound Brook.

Q.—What you have already referred to? A.—Yes.

Q.—Any other time? A.—Halloween party before that one time. I thing it was a Halloween party.

Q.—Where was the Halloween party? A.—At the church.

Q.—Was it before the Bound Brook incident, or after? A.—Before.

Q.—Will you state whether this Halloween party was, in the study or—— A.—Up in the church, in the Sunday school room.

Q.—How many people were there? A.—Oh, a good number of people.

Q.—Maybe a hundred? A.—Sixty or seventy, about.

Q.—What did you see Mrs. Hall do there toward Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills which makes you say she was jealous? A.—She did not mix in with any of them. She would not get in the festivities at all—stayed by herself.

Q.—Did she stay away from everybody or just from Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills? A.—Yes.

Q.—What do you mean, you mean she stayed away from every one or just away from Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills? A.—No, she stayed away from them.

Q.—From Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills? A.—Yes, he was dancing with Eleanor and having a lot of fun.

Q.—Enjoying himself, or seeming to? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were these the only actions? A.—Yes, that is all I can remember.

Rector's Prayer for Mrs. Mills.

Q.—You spoke of a prayer that he wrote for her, is that a photographic copy of the prayer?

Mr. McCarter—We object.

A.—That is it.

Q.—General McCarter says he objects; how do you know, referring to State 13 for identification? A.—I had the original of that.

Q.—Was that after Mrs. Mills's death? A.—Yes. But I knew that prayer was in existence at the time I went up to Eleanor. She showed it to me that day I went up to the hospital.

The photostatic reproduction of the prayer was admitted in evidence over defense objections after the witness said that the original had been turned over to a newspaper by her husband. Senator Simpson said that his investigators had been informed that the original had been destroyed or lost after it had appeared in the newspaper. The examination continued:

Q.—Now, some of the letters offered in evidence, which it has been testified were written by Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, bear a D. D. and D. T. L. signed with their initials; do you know what they stand for? A.—They are three German words, "deine treue liebe."

Q.—Which in English, mean what? A.—"Thy true love."

Q.—Now, in this conversation that you had about this affair, will you state whether or not your sister mentioned, in describing her affection for Mr. Hall, a woman named Minna Clark? A.—Yes.

De Martini's Activities.

An effort by Senator Simpson to develop from this witness some of the activities in the case by Felix De Martini, a private detective employed by Mrs. Hall four years ago, was blocked by the Court, for the time being, on the ground that it had not yet been shown definitely that De Martini was an agent of Mrs. Hall. The special prosecutor said that he would offer evidence on this matter later and the Court said that upon submission of the evidence he might allow the inquiry to turn on De Martini's work. The examination went on:

Q.—What do you know about your sister Mrs. Mills's activities in the church? How long was she connected with the church? A.—She sang in the choir and helped in various socials. She was there every Sunday, Sunday morning and most of the day.

Q.—Did you know when she first became connected with the church? A.—Yes, it was shortly before she was married.

Q.—How long had she been connected with the church and a member of the choir at the time of her murder? A.—Nine or ten years.

Q.—Do you know who was the rector at the time she became connected with the church? A.—I think it was Rev. W. Dale, or something like that.

Q.—Did she do all her own housework and take care of her children? A.—Yes.

Q.—Never had any servants? A.—No.

Q.—And what did her dwelling consist of, how many rooms? A.—Three rooms and then an attic room.

Q.—Before her murder did you notice whether she dressed expensively or not or whether she dressed cheaply, how she dressed? A.—She made most of her own clothes, she was very economical.

Q.—These seem to be the stockings taken off her body at her murder [showing witness stockings.] That is a very cheap pair of stockings, is it not? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you see any evidence that she was getting any great sums of money from Dr. Hall, in her attire? A.—No, sir.

Q.—What did her family consist of at the time she was murdered? A.—Her husband, Danny and Charlotte.

Q.—How old was Daniel at that time? A.—Daniel was about eleven or twelve years old.

Q.—How old was Charlotte at that time? A.—About sixteen or seventeen.

Mrs. Barnhardt Cross-examined.

Mr. McCarter then took the witness for cross-examination. He brought out that Mrs. Barnhardt lived in Paterson, that Mrs. Mills had been in her home only one night that she could recall, but that the witness frequently visited Mrs. Mills at New Brunswick, often staying all night. Mrs. Mills would sleep on a couch in the front room, she testified. The cross-examination went on:

Q.—You remember, of course, the time that Mrs. Mills had the operation at the hospital? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was a package of letters and photographs given to you by your sister, Mrs. Mills, before that operation? A.—A package of letters?

Q.—Yes, some package of papers or letters, or photographs, or both, given to you before that operation? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You are quite sure about that? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you learn that they had been given to Charlotte by Mrs. Mills before the operation to be given to you in the event of anything happening to her?

Senator Simpson objected and Mr. McCarter withdrew the question.

Q.—You have no recollection of ever being told anything of that kind by Mrs. Mills at any time? A.—Not that I can remember about.

Q.—Won't you search your memory now? A.—I am trying to think. I can't remember, no.

Q.—You spoke of some prayer being handed by your husband to The New York World—you said The World, didn't you? A.—I think it was The World; I am not sure about it; it was some newspaper.

Q.—That was not the only thing that was handed, was it? A.—I think there were some photographs of Mr. Hall.

Q.—And were there not some letters? A.—No; I had no letters.

Q.—And a diary? A.—No.

Q.—That was another—? A.—I didn't see those until I saw them in the paper.

Q.—You never had the letters or the diary? A.—No, sir.

Q.—But you did have the photographs? A.—Yes, and the prayer.

Got No Pay for Them.

Q.—How did you happen to hand them over to the paper, whichever it was, The Journal or The World—was there any consideration paid for it? A.—No, sir—I didn't receive any.

Q.—Did anybody receive any consideration? A.—I don't know anything about that. I did not receive it.

Q.—Well now, was Mr. Mills home during the daytime when you would be there? A.—Some time.

Q.—And you spoke of a conversation which you overheard, in which Mrs. Mills said that she cared more for Mr. Hall's little finger than she did for her husband's body? A.—She made that remark.

Q.—She made that remark to her husband, didn't she? A.—She made it to several people.

Q.—Mr. Mills was present when the remark was made? A.—Yes, and Charlotte and Daniel were there?

Q.—When was that? A.—When she said it numerous times; I don't remember just what time it was.

Q.—Did they have a little quarrel? A.—I don't think so; I don't remember.

Q.—Well, Jimmy—I will call him Jimmy for short—Mr. Mills was criticising her activities in the church, wasn't he? A.—That is right, yes.

Q.—He said he thought she devoted too much time to the church? A.—Yes.

Q.—That her business was home attending to the domestic duties, is that right? A.—Yes.

Quarrel Year Before Murder.

It was at that time, the witness said, that Mrs. Mills told her husband that she "cared more for the little finger of Mr. Hall than for your entire body." That incident was in her presence, the witness said and in the presence of Charlotte and Danny Mills. The examination went on:

Q.—When was the last time you heard that kind of conversation, about how long before the murder? A.—A year or so or a couple of years.

Q.—Wasn't it after the operation? A.—No.

Q.—Not after the operation? A.—No, I don't think so.

Q.—Were you at the hospital at all while she was there? A.—I think twice.

Q.—Were you there at the hospital any time when Mrs. Hall called? A.—No.

Q.—Now, you spoke also of Mrs. Mills and Mr. Hall occupying a seat or bench at Buccleugh Park? A.—Yes.

Q.—And she told you that while they were there she used to endeavor to aid him in the sermons or in the church work? A.—Sometimes, yes.

Q.—This was in daylight, afternoons, in the daytime they sat there? A.—In the evenings, sometimes; she used to go up there in the evening.

Q.—She told you that? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Now, you spoke of a Halloween party? A.—Yes.

Q.—You did not see Mrs. Hall dance at all, did you? A.—No.

Q.—She does not dance, in fact, does she? A.—I don't know.

Q.—You danced? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you dance with Mr. Hall? A.—Yes.

Q.—And Mrs. Mills danced, did she dance with Mr. Hall? A.—Yes.

Q.—You two were not the only favored ones, were you? A.—That is all I saw whom he danced with, just us two.

Q.—You said she was very active in the church; you did not go to the church. You don't know the extent of her activities except what you had been told? A.—From what I observed when I went up there with her and what she told me.

Q.—In your talks with your sister Eleanor, she told you, did she on at least one occasion, that she was very unhappy with her husband, James Mills? A.—I don't remember her saying those exact words.

Q.—Well, I mean substantially. A.—

The witness said he passed the car without paying much attention to it. The lights were dimmed, he replied, in answer to a question by the Court.

Cross-Examination of Soper.

Q.—You think that you made De Russey's Lane in ten minutes from the Masonic Club that night? A.—No, sir, from there to my home—from De Russey's Lane—not from here to De Russey's Lane. That was going home. I should say, from De Russey's Lane to Highland Park, ten minutes.

Q.—The road on the other side of the river where the trolley was was not all concreted at that time? A.—No.

Q.—So you went home on the Easton Avenue side? A.—Yes, direct.

Q.—And what time do you think you got in the vicinity of De Russey's Lane? A.—I should say around 2 o'clock.

Q.—Even that is going some. However—A.—You know that is four years ago; we might have left at half past eleven, I would not be exact on that, leaving Somerville.

Q.—Now, you were going along at a fairly good rate, I guess you must have been to have done it in that time—and you had a pretty good car? A.—Yes.

Q.—And rather hit it up? A.—Well, I were traveling—I don't know that from here to De Russey's Lane is such a long drive.

Q.—Well, how long would you say, Mr. Soper? A.—Well, what is it, about nine miles?

Q.—Well, that is a little kind to the distance, isn't it? It is rather more than that. However, that is your best estimate. It is nearer twelve miles? A.—I think New Brunswick is only about twelve miles from Somerville.

Q.—The New Brunswick line is just about 200 feet beyond that point, isn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—The only car you saw there was this car you have described and that is the only car that was there? A.—The only car I saw.

Q.—Your best recollection is that there was no other car? A.—Yes.

Q.—And all you got was just a flash as you went by? A.—Yes.

Q.—You did not notice the number of the car or any details about the car? A.—No.

Q.—You did not recognize anybody in it? A.—No.

Q.—Where is Mr. Langbein now? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Do you know how he got home that night? A.—No, he left me at my home. I don't know how he got home after that.

Q.—And a Ford car, as I understood you to say, was it open or closed? A.—If my recollection serves me right, I think it was a Ford sedan.

Q.—Which side of the road was the car that was standing there? A.—On the left hand side as we were coming in.

Q.—In other words, this car which you have described was on the lawful side of the road for the direction in which it was facing? A.—Yes.

Q.—It was on the right hand side of the road coming toward Bound Brook, in which direction it was faced? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, am I correct in understanding that you have said you understood that the car belonged to some one living in Bound Brook?

The Court—You mean on his present examination?

Simpson Takes the Witness.

Senator Simpson objected to that question. Court then recessed for luncheon. Mr. Soper was recalled to the stand to resume the session after the recess. Senator Case again cross-examined briefly and then Senator Simpson re-questioned:

Q.—Do you know Mr. Ira Nixon? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you see him in court here? A.—Yes.

Q.—And Saturday, Sept. 23, that is the Saturday the bodies were found, were you in the place of business where both he and you were employed? A.—Sept. 23?

Q.—Yes, a week after the bodies were found. A.—I think so, as far as I can recollect.

Q.—Now, Senator Case asked you—I didn't—the question, you did not recognize anybody in it, referring to the cap—and you answered no. Do you remember that? A.—Right.

Q.—Didn't you tell Mr. Nixon on the day that I called your attention to that you had identified the people in the car, and it was Mrs. Hall and her two brothers, and that the two brothers were sitting on the front seat and Mrs. Hall was sitting on the back seat? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with him at all about your being to De Russey Lane that night, or near De Russey Lane? A.—I don't know whether I was talking to him in the office.

Q.—Was not there a Mr. Kingsley there? A.—There might have been a half a dozen.

Q.—Do you know a Mr. Kingsley? A.—Yes, there is a Mr. Kingsley employed there.

Q.—And on this day weren't you in some way working in the same place that Nixon was? A.—No.

Q.—How did you get in this place where you had the talk? A.—We have a salesmen's meeting every Saturday morning.

Q.—You were pretty good friends, weren't you? A.—As far as I know.

Q.—I mean there is no reason he should say anything about you that was not true? A.—No.

NIXON CALLED AS WITNESS.

Ira B. Nixon, head of Nixon's Motor Oil Company, 55 Water Street, New York City, was called. His examination by Senator Simpson:

Q.—Where do you live, Mr. Nixon? A.—I live in Newark, N. J.

Q.—What is your business? A.—A salesman.

Q.—And were you and he employed by the same concern on the Saturday following the finding of the bodies, which would be Saturday, the 23d of September, 1922? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And did you see him on that day? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Where? A.—I saw him directly in front of the pigeonhole of the office in the building of the National Oil and Supply Company in Newark.

Q.—What were you doing there, both of you, A.—My object, and I presume his was the same, was to get my money.

Q.—Your salary? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you have a conversation—don't tell me what it was—did he have a conversation with you about the Hall-Mills case? A.—Yes.

Cross-Examination of Nixon.

On cross-examination, by Senator Case, Mr. Nixon said he was a salesman for his own motor oil and that he also was the owner and operator of the business. He was questioned as follows:

Q.—Now, why are you here today? A.—For the simple reason that for the last four years I have had the information that I am giving to the State of New Jersey. I said I thought that I owed it to the State of New Jersey to come back and tell it.

Q.—You came here expecting that Mr. Soper would not testify that way? A.—I had no knowledge as to how Mr. Soper would testify, but I really anticipated that he would corroborate what he told me.

Q.—What brought you here today? A.—I have just answered that question.

Q.—Are you under subpoena? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You volunteered this information? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Why was it today that you came? A.—Because on Saturday evening first when I communicated with the authorities in Jersey City, asked that they come over to my house, and I made a statement.

Q.—You sent for them? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And they requested you to be here today. A.—They asked me if I would come here.

Q.—Whom did you give the statement to? A.—To Inspector Underwood and Captain Walsh.

Q.—You never have given this statement to anybody before, have you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Not even Mr. Stricker? A.—I never heard tell of him.

Q.—Never to Mr. Beekman? A.—Well, I have heard that name. No, sir.

Q.—Never to Mr. Mott? A.—I have said I have never given this statement to anyone.

Q.—You never talked with any one about it? A.—No, sir.

Q.—For the first time on Saturday night you have unfolded this thought from your inner consciousness? A.—Absolutely.

Father Advised Him to Talk.

Mr. Nixon raised a laugh when, in replying to Senator Case's question as to whether he had not known of the 1923 investigation, he said he "knew there was a sort of investigation." He told the defense Senator that he had decided to tell his version of Soper's conversation after his father advised him to do so. He said that he had not wished "to be harrassed" and forced to remain "around this court house for two or three weeks."

Mr. Soper was recalled and denied the statement attributed to him by Mr. Nixon. Soper, however, disclosed that he had told the incident of the car and its occupants to Middlesex County Detective Fred A. David, but that he had told the incident of the ness before the Grand Jury in November, 1922.

D. T. LIBBY TESTIFIES.

The advent of David T. Libby, employe of Mr. Pfeiffer, on the stand developed this:

Direct examination by Senator Simpson:

Q.—What is your business? A.—I am employed by Timothy Newell Pfeiffer.

Q.—As what? Detective? A.—No, sir. Working for him on any work he asks me to do.

Q.—Are you a member of the bar? A.—No, sir, I am not.

Q.—After Mr. Soper was sworn and before his examination was finished while he was out at lunch you were with him, weren't you? A.—I spoke to him on the sidewalk in front of the court house.

Q.—It was just your own idea? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You discussed what he was going to testify, didn't you? A.—No, sir, I didn't.

Q.—You discussed what he had testified to? A.—Not as to what he had testified to, no sir.

Q.—You discussed the case with him? A.—I only discussed one question and that is what he had—

Q.—I didn't ask what. I asked you if you did not discuss the case with him: at the time you had the discussion you know he was under oath, didn't you, you knew he had been sworn? A.—I knew he had been sworn.

Q.—You knew his examination was not finished? A.—I did not know whether it was finished or not.

Q.—You were in court when the adjournment was taken, sitting right over there, weren't you, do you say you did not know the examination was finished? A.—I say right now I did not know the examination was finished.

Senator Simpson—That is all.

Senator Case—Is there any suggestion that there was anything wrong or harmful in this witness having spoken to Mr. Soper on the street? Is there any suggestion of that kind?

Senator Simpson—Are you querying me?

Senator Case—I am.

Senator Simpson—You are entirely out of order. You ought to address the Court.

The Court—If you are asking the Court the Court does not know. Do you want to cross-examine the witness?

Senator Case—No, I do not; but I do not think the jury should be left under the impression that there is no right to speak to a man who is a witness when he is out on the street.

MISS STOKES ON STAND.

Miss Marion Stokes, a New Brunswick girl, swathed in nutria fur, with a smart little hat with petunia toned ribbon, went to the stand. She was examined thus:

Q.—On Thursday, the 14th of September, the day of the murder, did you see Minna Clark? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Where did you first see her? A.—At her own home.

Q.—How long were you in Mrs. Hall's house? A.—Probably until 4:30, quarter to 5.

Q.—Where was Mrs. Hall when you got there? A.—In the kitchen.

Q.—Where did you spend all the time that you were in the house? A.—In the kitchen.

Q.—Did you leave the kitchen? A.—Well, if I did, it was just to step in the other room and go right out in the kitchen again.

Q.—Was Mrs. Clark in the kitchen, too? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you see her have any letters in her hand that she gave to Mrs. Hall? A.—Absolutely not.

Q.—When she left her house, did she have anything with her that she was carrying? A.—Not that I saw.

Q.—You were carrying a camera? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you take any pictures at Mrs. Hall's? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Was Louise Geist there? A.—I did not see Louise Geist.

During the cross-examination by Senator Case the girl said that the reason she had gone into the garden to be photographed was that she was just then graduating from school and desired to have pictures in connection with that event in her life. The defense attorney brought out the reason for Mrs. Hall remaining in the kitchen; she was canning pears and trying out a new recipe for either chili sauce or tomato ketchup.

MRS. KELLY'S TESTIMONY.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly, a woman past middle life, dressed all in black, and noticably dazzled by her sudden thrust into the centre of the picture, was the next witness. She occupies the lower half of the Mills home and did so four years ago. She answered nine questions, her replies developing these facts and left the stand without cross-examination. The purpose of putting this witness on the stand was not made clear and it aroused some speculation.

DR. LOBLEIN A WITNESS.

Dr. E. Leon Loblein, a veterinarian, was the next one summoned. He told how he had been driving along Easton Avenue on the day the bodies were discovered, being bound from his home in Bound Brook to New Brunswick, when a policeman stopped him, and, upon learning that the veterinarian knew Dr. Hall, requested him to make an identification. He did so. He described the position and condition of the bodies and the various cards found there, but contributed nothing new to the general picture of the scene already in the record of the trial.

Senator Case, however, in cross-examination, put these questions:

Q.—You saw, I understand you to say, a number of cards, some of them visiting cards, spread between the bodies and over the bodies, or over one of them? A.—There were cards spread between the bodies, yes.

Q.—Did you see any card propped at the feet of Dr. Hall? A.—No.

Redirect examination by Senator Simpson:

Q.—What do you say about the card at the feet, that you did not see it or that you made no special observation, or you have no memory? What is your best memory of it? A.—I do not recall seeing any card there.

Q.—But you did not look for one, did you? A.—No.

Re-cross examination by Senator Case:

Q.—But what you remember is your mental picture of what you saw there, isn't it, doctor, while you did not look for any particular thing, you do have a mental picture of what you saw? A.—Yes.

Q.—And no card was at the foot or the heel, according to your recollection? A.—No, I do not recall it.

The special prosecutor then announced that Prosecutor Bergen would read into the record the letters from Mrs. Mills to the rector, which were found at the scene. Nathaniel J. Palzer, of defense counsel, checked the reading of the letters from photostatic copies furnished to the defense.

MISS GRIFFIN'S STORY.

The next witness was Miss Helen Perry Griffin, sister-in-law of Henry Stevens. Miss Griffin, who is tall and thin, wore a black satin dress, elaborately embroidered in red, green, yellow and blue silk. She wore a beige hat and there was a slight flush on her sharp features as her black eyes settled on Senator Simpson. Miss Griffin's contralto tones were a treat after the mumbling indistinctnesses of some of the other witnesses. She was not cross-examined and her direct examination was as follows:

Q.—In the week of Sept. 18, 1922, did you live at Lavalette? A.—I did.

Q.—Were you living in the home of Mr. Henry Stevens? A.—I was.

Q.—Was he there on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Friday of that week? A.—Parts of the days.

Q.—On the 16th was he there? A.—He returned from New York on Thursday.

Q.—I am talking now of the week of the murder. A.—So am I.

Q.—What time did he return on Thursday? A.—About noon time.

Q.—Do you mean it was noon time or was it before or after? A.—He was in time for lunch, I think, about 1 o'clock.

Q.—Who constituted the household at that time? A.—My sister, Mrs. Henry Stevens; my brother-in-law, my mother and myself.

Q.—Were there any servants employed there? A.—There were.

Q.—Who were they? A.—Annie Evanson, the cook, that was all.

Q.—How long had she been employed up to the week of Sept. 18, 1922? A.—I could not tell you.

Q.—Had she been there for some time? A.—She had been there three or four years, I imagine.

Q.—Did Mr. Stevens leave on the Saturday previous? A.—He did.

Q.—At what time? A.—I was not there.

Subsequently, Miss Griffin was recalled by the prosecution and asked to give the address of the cook. She was unable to remember the street and finally provided Senator Simpson with a description of the house. Senator Case said that the defense had subpoenaed the cook and expected her in court today, but the prosecutor said that he wanted his own investigators to interview her.

SUTPHEN THE NEXT WITNESS.

Samuel T. Sutphen, Somerville undertaker, who brought the bodies from the murder scene to his morgue, was next called. Answering the prosecutor's questions in a subdued voice but distinctly, he told of going to De Russey's Lane in a hearse early in the afternoon of Sept. 16, 1922, the day the bodies were discovered. Senator Simpson questioned him on his disposal of the bodies thus:

Q.—And where did you place them when you brought them to Somerville? A.—In my morgue.

Q.—And what time did you get there with them? A.—About 2:45.

Q.—How long did you have custody of the bodies? A.—I had Dr. Hall's body until about quarter to six that night.

Q.—And then what happened to it? A.—It was removed to New Brunswick by Mr. Hubbard.

Q.—How long did you have Mrs. Mills's body? A.—From the Sunday morning.

Q.—What time? A.—About 10:45.

Q.—Whom did you deliver the body of Mrs. Mills to Sunday morning? A.—Mr. Hubbard's man.

Q.—Was the time you took Mrs. Mills's body until you delivered it to Mr. Hubbard's man had the body been mutilated while it was in your possession; had the tongue been cut out in your undertaking establishment? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Or the larynx removed? A.—No, sir.

Q.—What do you say as to having delivered the body to Mr. Hubbard's man in the same condition that you received it? A.—It was.

Sutphen went on to say that he had encountered Detective Totten, Dr. Long, Sheriff Conkling and Police Chief Novatto in the lane. Mrs. Mills's body lay to the right of the rector, with his right hand extended under her left shoulder, he continued. He confirmed earlier testimony that the clothing on both bodies was neatly arranged, and, over the objection of Senator Case, said that the clothing did not appear to him to have been arranged "by a third party."

Can't Identify Handkerchiefs.

Senator Simpson then led the witness into a detailed description of the bodies as they were found by the undertaker. The questioning brought out that Dr. Hall's coat was buttoned, and that all that was found in the clothes of the rector was a folded unsoiled handkerchief in the coat, and in the trousers a soiled handkerchief and 61 cents in change. The questioning continued:

Q.—Can you say whether either of these handkerchiefs were the ones you found on the person of Dr. Hall, S-50 and S-5t (indicating handkerchiefs)? A.—No, I could not identify them.

Q.—What else did you find in Dr. Hall's clothes? A.—That is all I found there at the spot.

Q.—What about a watch chain, did you see a watch chain? A.—No.

Q.—What did you do with the money? A.—Turned it over to Mr. Conkling.

Q.—As I understand you, the money is the only thing you took, is that right? A.—The money and the two handkerchiefs.

Q.—Did you make any note at the time of what you found? A.—After I got home we made notes: yes.

Q.—And what did you find—what do your notes indicate that you found?

Senator Case—I object to the question.

Senator Simpson—I won't press it.

Q.—How about the condition of Mrs. Mills's body? A.—Mrs. Mills's body—there was a scarf around her neck that had been wrapped around two or three times and partially concealed the wound in her neck.

Q.—Yes? A.—She had been shot. You could see the holler wounds.

Q.—Where were the bullet wounds? A.—Right between the eyes, right here. (Indicating.)

Q.—Did she have any hat on? A.—She did not, not at that time.

Q.—And who unwrapped the scarf? A.—I did, after I got in Somerville.

Q.—And was the scarf still over the wound when you got to Somerville? A.—It was partially concealed.

Hasty Burial Alleged.

Senator Simpson then launched a series of questions to show that the bodies had been buried hastily and without the usual form of burial permits. First he got the witness to admit that he had had no permit to turn the bodies over to Hubbard, the New Brunswick undertaker who did the embalming. He had given no permit to Hubbard when the body of Dr. Hall was removed from Somerville the same afternoon, but had given to Hubbard a permit, made out by Dr. W. H. Long, the County Physician, the following morning when the body of Mrs. Mills was removed.

Shifting back to the murder scene Senator Simpson brought out that there had been blood on the grass where the heads rested, that Sutphen had failed to notice letters and cards described by other witnesses strewn about the scene and that he had not seen these articles in the possession of the Sheriff.

Sutphen said he had found one bullet, but could not identify bullets and cartridges shown to him by Senator Simpson as having been found in the bodies or about the scene. The one bullet he himself had found, he said, had tumbled from Dr. Hall's clothing while he was being disrobed in the Somerville Morgue. "I turned it over to County Physician Long on Monday," he added. He had had to rip the shirt of Dr. Hall in removing it, he declared, and had delivered it along with other clothing to Totten on the following Wednesday.

He was cross-examined briefly and was then turned back to the prosecutor for examination as follows:

Q.—Did you open the mouth of Mrs. Mills's body to see whether her tongue was in it? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—What did you mean when you said nothing about her face? What would be the indication on the outside of the face if somebody had cut her tongue out? What would be the indication? A.—It would not show.

Senator Simpson—Of course it would not.

Senator Case—I object to that remark.

Senator Simpson—All right, let us put the "of course not" out.

Q.—Did Dr. Long, when he told you to hand the body over without a written permit, tell you the necessity for the haste? Did he tell you why it was necessary to hand over Dr. Hall's body without a written permit? A.—No, he did not necessarily tell me.

Q.—It is not customary, is it, for you to hand over bodies for removal out of your county without a written permit, is it? A.—No.

Q.—You do not know why this body was taken out without a written permit, of your own knowledge, do you? A.—I don't.

Court then adjourned until 10 A. M. today, but the taking of testimony may be delayed. Just before Justice Parker announced adjournment Senator Simpson called his attention to the fact that he and Senator Case had to attend last night's executive session of the New Jersey Senate at Trenton, and he said they might be delayed in reaching court this morning.

CLEARY CHILDREN SEE WIRES.

Judge Takes Them to Inspect Press Equipment in Court House.

County Judge Cleary, who as a member of the Court of Oyer and Terminer is presiding with Supreme Court Justice Parker at the Hall-Mills trial, took his two children, Nan, 8 years old and Frank, 5 years old, to the Court House at Somerville, N. J., last night on a tour of inspection of the newspaper and telegraph equipment.

The children were first taken to the basement and shown the largest portable loop board used in telegraphy and then to the various operators' tables. The Judge took them to the third floor of the building, where the automatic typewriters used by news agencies are run direct from the court house to the various offices in the metropolitan district. The children were impressed and interested and asked questions which only the mechanicians could answer satisfactorily.

"They will probably never again see such a sight," said Judge Cleary. "I wanted them to look it it."

WAIT COSTLY TO DEFENSE.

Simpson's Tactics Compel It to Keep Scores of Witnesses Ready.

The expense of the Hall-Mills trial for the defense has been greatly increased by the method employed by Senator Simpson in putting in the State's case, it was learned last night. Confused by the apparently unconnected succession of witnesses put on the stand by the prosecutor, but helpless under Justice Parker's ruling that the State could dictate its own course, the defense has been compelled to keep in touch with scores of witnesses they may never use at the trial. Many of the witnesses are being compensated for the time they take from their occupations.

Subpoenas for the defense will be served beginning tomorrow, it was explained, and while it has been reported that anywhere from eighty to 140 witnesses will be called, the actual number will not be determined until the State's case is all in.

Among the witnesses who may be called by the defense is Dr. John F. Anderson, director of the Squibb Laboratories, Inc., of New Brunswick. He may be used to controvert an identification of Henry Stevens as having been in New Brunswick on Sept. 17, the day after the crime. The defense contends that Henry Stevens was fifty miles away, in Lavalette, N. J., his home. Dr. Anderson bears a striking resemblance to Henry Stevens.

The defense is also seeking a man who, according to information it has, contradicts the alleged eyewitness story of Mrs. Jane Gibson.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Senator Simpson said here tonight that the State House Commission had given $2,000 from the emergency fund operated by it to pay expenses of the prosecution. The balance, he said, is to be paid by Somerset County after the trials are over and he has approved the bills. The commission is made up of Governor Moore, State Treasurer Read and State Controller Bugbee.

COUNSEL GO TO LEGISLATURE.

Simpson and Case at Senate Session —Charlotte Mills There, Too.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Charlotte Mills was an interested spectator at tonight's session of the Legislature. In the company of three men, she sat in the gallery while the Senate was in session.

Senator Alexander Simpson of Hudson County, special prosecutor for the State in the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, and Senator Clarence E. Case of counsel for the defense, were in their seats. Charlotte Mills seemed deeply interested every time Mr. Simpson took the floor. Mr. Case sat most of the time with his hand shielding his face, as though in deep thought.

SAYS INDISCRETIONS BARRED LEFKOWITZ

O'Shea Thinks His Taunts About Political Parties and Country Prevented Promotion.

DISCOUNTS HIS RADICALISM

He Himself Voted for Teacher, Adds Superintendent—Gives His Views on Free Speech.

In reply to an attack by the Teachers' Union on the Board of Superintendents, and especially Associate Superintendent Edward Mandel for his report to the Board of Education on the reasons of the Superintendents for refusing to promote Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz, alleged radical high school teacher, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William J. O'Shea said yesterday:

"I don't think it was so much the radicalism of Dr. Lefkowitz as his indiscretion in the use of language which led the Board of Superintendents to deny him appointment as a first assistant. I refer particularly to his representation of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively, as 'Gyp the Blood' and 'Tony, the Brass-knuckled Philosopher,' and to his speaking of the United States as the 'so-called greatest republic in the world.'

"While I voted in favor of appointing Dr. Lefkowitz a first assistant, I did not attempt to deprive the other members of the Board of Superintendents of their statutory right to vote as their consciences dictated. I believe that each member of the Board of Superintendents ought to be free to vote without any coercion from me. The law gives every member the right to a vote, which carries equal weight with mine. The law also gives the Board of Superintendents the prerogative of selecting one out of three names for every position.

"I have never attempted to deprive any teacher of freedom of thought or expression and never will unless that expression is disloyal—and I use disloyal with the meaning which the courts have attached to it.

"I voted for Lefkowitz, as did Superintendents Campbell and Lyon. None of us approved his indiscretion of language six years ago. My reason for voting in his favor was that there had been no repetition of his indiscretion for some years. I did not think that what a man had done five years before should be held against him forever."

Dr. O'Shea said he had been in Albany on the date when the Board of Superintendents had approved the report of Superintendent Mandel on Dr. Lefkowitz.

In regard to the case of Miss Jessie Hughan, another teacher to whom a promotion was denied by the Superintendents, Dr. O'Shea said he had had practically nothing to do with that. The case came up first in 1924, he said, before he became Superintendent of Schools and when only two of the present members were on the board. The case came up again in 1917 and 1920, he said, and on both occasions unfavorable reports were brought in by Superintendent Edson, in charge of nominations, and Superintendent Tildsley, in charge of high schools. After 1923, said Dr. O'Shea, the license granted to Miss Hughan by the Board of Examiners lapsed.

FOR AN IDEAL DINING HALL.

Dr. Worcester Tells What It Should Be for Harvard Students.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 15.—Dr. Alfred Worcester, Oliver Professor of Hygiene, one of the judges in the Crimson eating essay contest today, wrote an article on "Ideal Dining Halls," in which he pointed out the conditions necessary to the operation of a successful dining hall at Harvard.

"That all the appointments of the dining halls should be kept immaculate goes without saying," Dr. Worcester says. "For breakfast and luncheon bare tables are all well enough, but for dinner a spotless table cloth is a necessary luxury. As for glass and china, the knives and forks and spoons, it is not enough that they should have been sterilized; their cleanliness may be attested by their polish."

That the food provided shall be nutritious and wholesome is not enough, according to Dr. Worcester, but it must also be appetizing.

"Each man should have the privilege of taking for his own plate what he wants," says the professor. "One's appetite is endangered by having it handed him heaped with twice what he would take for a first helping. Side dishes are even more encouraging.

"Ideal dining halls, then, depend upon the eating habits of their patrons and the kind of service and food provided far more than upon their architecture."

SIX MERRYMAKERS DROWN.

Boat Sinks Under Party Fleeing From Police, 3 Being Rescued.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 15 (AP).—A party aboard a houseboat on the Mississippi River here ended in tragedy last night when six of the merrymakers, attempting to escape from policemen, were drowned as their small duck boat sank. Three other persons were rescued from the water and were recovering today at the City Hospital. Two bodies have been found—those of Michael Hogan, 25, and an unidentified woman. The others drowned were Charles Randall, owner of the houseboat; Nick Becker, an unidentified man and an unidentified woman.

The tragedy occurred when those on the houseboat fled as two policemen appeared in response to a report from a neighboring boat that a drunken fight was in progress on the Randall craft.

NEW ASKS MAIL BIDS ON TWO AIR ROUTES

Postmaster General Begins to Carry Into Effect the Plan for Private Operation.

NEW YORK-CHICAGO IS FIRST

Transcontinental Planes Also to Be Relinquished as an Aid to Other Air Traffic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Postmaster General New today invited proposals for transportation of air mail over the transcontinental and overnight New York-Chicago routes, returnable Jan. 15. This action is intended to carry into effect the department's policy of relinquishing control of its air mail lines as soon as assurance became definite that private contractors were strong enough to resume their operation. Postal officials today reiterated that the Government is not "an operating agency," and even from the inception of the idea of transportation of mail by air there had been no intention of "remaining in the transportation field."

Announcement was also made today that the proposed new uniform rate of 10 cents a half ounce for air mail to all points in the United States soon will be put into effect.

The contracts for the air mail lines will be let in two sections. The first will include the New York to Chicago leg of the transcontinental route and the overnight route between New York and Chicago, both of which run via Bellefonte, Pa., and Cleveland and Bryan, Ohio.

The second section will be the Chicago to San Francisco leg, via Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha, North Platte, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Reno and Sacramento.

The schedule will require an average flying speed of at least ninety miles an hour, with allowance for slower time for weather conditions. The attention of bidders is called to the fact that the Western section is in excess of 1,000 miles, the distance from Chicago to San Francisco by air line being 1,886 miles, and that contractors will be entitled to a maximum revenue of $3 a pound for the first 1,000 miles and not exceeding 30 cents a pound for each additional 100 miles.

Fifteen contractors are now transporting mail by air between various points in the United States, and the Postoffice Department is well pleased with their performance.

With the recent signing of a contract for transportation of express by air, postal officials feels that commercial aviation is rapidly reaching a stable basis and that continued operation of competing lines by the Government would act as a deterrent to the progress of private initiative in the air.

"For the Government to remain in the field," said Assistant Secretary Glover today, "would mean duplication of service, since it cannot carry express packages nor passengers and would only operate to deprive commercial companies of needed revenue."

An appeal to increase the membership to 1,000,000 has been made by the Catholic Near East Welfare Association, of which Cardinal Hayes is Cardinal Protector. The association has unified all Catholic welfare work in Europe and has become, by the direction of Pope Pius XI, the only body authorized by the American hierarchy to appeal to the people of this country on behalf of Europe's destitute.

The active President is Professor Edmund A. Walsh, former director-general of the Papal Mission to Russia. The main objective of the association is the maintenance of institutions already established in Europe under its auspices. In Beirut, Syria, Catholic authorities have opened schools, workshops and clinics. In Russia, where the Catholic mission fed 160,000 a day during the famine, the association aims at assisting students.

A minimum fee of $1 has been fixed for membership. The Secretary of Joseph F. Moore of Philadelphia, and the headquarters are at 480 Lexington Avenue, New York.

WARNS HARVARD SHIRKERS.

Law School Dean Threatens Expulsion of Yale Game Absentees.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 15.—Harvard Law School was aroused today by a letter written by Dean Roscoe Pound to more than 100 firts-year men who were reported absent from their last class before the Yale football game, in which Dean Pound warned the men that they would be expelled at the first failure to meet their scholastic obligations.

"This year I do not intend to wait until June to weed out those who have no place in a serious professional school," Dean Pound's letter said.

"You are now listed as prima facie an undesirable student, and from now on your work will be observed. If you are not in a law club, or if you are reported to me as defaulting in or neglecting your law club work, or as not in your seat at lectures, or as being unprepared when called on, I shall bring your name before the Faculty with a recommendation that you be required to withdraw."

An editorial in today's Crimson regrets Dean Pound's action as a part of the paternalism which the undergraduates have been combating.

CITY AIRPORT URGED ON JERSEY MEADOWS

R. F. Hoyt Submits Plan to Mayor Walker Suggesting Site at Secaucus.

SEES AID TO MAIL TRAFFIC

Merchants' Association Report Says Service Would Speed Delivery to the Postoffice.

A recommendation for the city to buy or lease a tract of ground on the New Jersey meadows near Secaucus, was submitted to Mayor Walker yesterday by Richard F. Hoyt, Chairman of the Committee on Aeronautics of the Merchants' Association, which for some months has been surveying possible sites for such a field near the city.

Mr. Hoyt reported that the committee did not hold that Secaucus was the only location but that it was the best. He also said he believed there was no legal obstacle to the city owning property outside the State and declared that there was no necessity of the city owning land which could be leased.

Mr. Hoyt reported for the committee, in part, as follows:

"I am forced to the conclusion that no site in this territory, which meets the requirements of size, can compare, from the standpoint of accessibility, to that property in New Jersey located due west from Thirty-third Street, Manhattan, in the neighborhood of Secaucus. Here are several hundred acres of undeveloped land bounded on one side by the Pennsylvania Railroad at the point where it enters the Thirty-third Street tubes, less than ten minutes' run from the Pennsylvania Station, the present distributing centre in New York City for mail and express matter.

"At the present time the most important item in air traffic is mail matter. Pneumatic tubes from this site through the Pennsylvania Tunnel to the General Post Office would permit the delivery of mail at this office within five minutes after the landing of a plane. Although no station now exists at Secaucus, I have reason to believe, if an airport were established there, that shuttle service might be established from this point to the Pennsylvania Station to accommodate express and passenger traffic, which would make this site as accessible to Thirty-third Street as Central Park.

"One extremely important factor in favor of the Secaucus location is that in all probability the great bulk of air traffic to New York will come from the West and South. It is obvious that the Secaucus location avoids flying over the congested area of New York and thereby eliminates the hazard of air traffic flying at low altitudes over the city."

COOLIDGE IS TOLD VIEWS OF BUSINESS

The United States Chamber of Commerce Submits Program for Legislation.

WANTS FRENCH DEBT CLOSED

Early Enactment of McFadden-Pepper Banking Bill and Postal Service Improvement Urged.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A legislative program pertaining to general business activities was submitted to President Coolidge at the White House today by President John W. O'Leary of the United States Chamber of Commerce. It urged ratification of the pending French debt agreement and that in the next revision of the income tax laws the interests of corporations should not be overlooked.

"The final removal of the debt problem from the field of debate and of the uncertainty of ratification of the French agreement will do much to restore that confidence on which international credit and world commerce are based," he Chamber advised the President. "We believe the continuance of the present era of prosperity will be better assured by the final settlement of this debt.

"If such an able non-partisan body as the Debt Commission, duly appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, with all of the facts before it, cannot arrive at settlements which amply protect the interests of the United States, there does not seem to be any way by which just settlements can be secured."

Urges Farm Legislation.

Early enactment of the McFadden-Pepper banking bill, which contemplates the rechartering of the Federal Reserve banks, was advocated as vital to the commercial and industrial life of the country. The Chamber recommended immediate passage of the bill to increase the salaries of Federal Judges, and recognized farming as a basic American industry.

"To an extent far greater than is commonly recognized," it added, "the Chamber's policies are determined by organizations representing communities to which agriculture in one or another of its important American forms is vital. The Chamber advocates the application to our agricultural problems of the principles which have distinguished successful American enterprise in other directions, and earnestly opposes an experiment with projects which would entail repetition of mistakes which we have seen made elsewhere."

Contending that the postal service has not kept abreast of improvements made by private industry, the Chamber recommended that Postmasters be removed from politics, the separate handling of parcel post matter, the working of first-class mail in transit whenever this would expedite delivery, a sound building program to allow efficient handling of the mails, a permanent planning organization in the Post-office Department for the development of improved equipment methods, plans for future expansion, and an adjustment of postage rates on a scientific basis.

The Chamber asserted that a "critical situation has arisen, vital to American trade with Cuba, which calls for early action by Congress," and further said:

"Because of American legislative restrictions on importation of certain items of merchandise it appears likely that the Cuban Government will discontinue relations established with this country under the temporary parcel post convention through which the trade of our country is receiving substantial benefits.

"In order that there may be a continuation and a development of those benefits, the National Chamber urges removal of the legislative restrictions as to the quantity of Cuban cigars and cigarettes which may be imported into the United States. These restrictions, enacted in 1886 to deal with conditions which have now substantially changed, prevent that mutual advantage in the use of the parcel post which is essential if a successful convention with Cuba is to be maintained.

"A bill has been introduced in the House to remedy this situation and the National Chamber hopes that it may be enacted."

Federal control of radio, ratification of the Turkish-American Lausanne treaty and a plan for railroad consolidation are also recommended. As to the last the Chamber declared:

"It is generally accepted that some degree of railroad consolidation is desired. Under the present laws there are serious obstacles to such consolidation, such as are found in connection with valuations, minority stockholders, short or weak lines. Congress might well modify the laws so that the Interstate Commerce Commission can approve proper consolidations and thus assure to the public effective and reasonable railroad transportation.

"The National Chamber is convinced that it is practicable to remove these obstacles by legislation and that such action will constitute one of the most important activities which the coming Congress can take."

Favoring the development of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Department of Commerce, the Chamber recommended legislation pending to constitute a "foreign commerce service of commercial attachés and trade commissioners of the Department of Commerce" be enacted. This was described as giving representatives of the bureau in foreign countries a definite and permanent status on lines generally corresponding to the service basis of the consular and diplomatic branches of the Foreign Service of the State Department.

FORD BUYS OLD CARRIAGES.

Acquires Vehicles That Knoxville Youths Fought Over in the '90s.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Two once fashionable carriages which love-struck Knoxville young men used to fight for the privilege of hiring, have been purchased from Charles Brown, of the Yellow Cab Company, for Henry Ford.

One of the carriages, drawn by a pair of blue ribbon bays, was owned by Fryor Brown's stable until the advent of the auto here. The local Beau Brummels would speak weeks ahead for this equipage when some outstanding social event was scheduled in the '90s.

The old vehicles were built in New York about 1890. They will be shipped to Detroit, where Mr. Ford will place them in the section of his museum which shows the different means of transportation back through American history.

STRIKERS RETURN TO MILL.

100 Union Textile Workers Cheered as They Enter Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Nov. 15.—One hundred former strikers of the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company went back to work this morning, on instructions of the Passaic Local Union 1,603, while fully 600 others, all former strikers in that plant, celebrated in the street before the opening of the mill.

There were no differences between the persons re-employed and those who did not go on strike, Norman H. Midgeley, general manager, said. Another group of workers will be taken in tomorrow. Skilled workers are given the preference, it was said.

VIEWS HERE CLASH ON SKYSCRAPER BAR

vigorous action by the Board of Estimate toward putting a height limit on new buildings.

"Of course, the towers that are beautiful ought to be encouraged, provided they leave space about their bases so that the human occupation of them does not collect more people in one place than the streets below can take care of. The most beautiful architectural creation today is the American tower, if we can only keep it free and clear of the ugly types of packing-box office building which are trying to surround it."

"I think Mr. Edison is right," said Thomas Adams, Director of the Regional Plan of New York City and Its Environs. "Traffic is becoming more difficult as a result of the skyscrapers, but, in my opinion, what counts is not the restriction of skyscrapers, but their reduction in height. Furthermore, there must be more street space around high buildings.

Problem of Street Width.

"I believe that the height of buildings should correspond with the width of streets on which they front. That ratio is desirable because it will insure a 4 to 5 degree angle of light. Limiting height of buildings to street widths would not do away with skyscrapers. Many of our avenues and streets are so wide that very tall buildings could be constructed on the basis of street widths. Still higher buildings might be built on plots facing public parks and squares.

"After all, the average height of buildings in Manhattan is only 4.8 stories, which is no greater than the average height of buildings in the central part of London. In most of the large cities of the world the average height of buildings is about the same, so that the problem seems to take care of itself to a certain degree."

Mr. Adams said he did not share wholly Mr. Edison's view of the practicability of different street levels, but he believed it all right to depress one street at a grade crossing if the crossing happened to be at a point of heavy traffic congestion. He pointed out that a solution of that kind had been worked out admirably at Fordham Road and the Grand Concourse in the Bronx.

Julius Miller Dissents.

Mr. Miller said he was sure the day would not come when a prohibition would be put on skyscrapers, even in the congested areas. He held that it would be more than economical to build underground channels of accessibility to skyscrapers than to prohibit the building of them.

"Tunnels would make the skyscrapers more accessible," said Borough President Miller. "The skyscraper of Manhattan today is the means of financing the improvements that are necessary in the outlying boroughs. It would be most difficult, practically impossible, to finance those improvements without the taxable value represented by skyscrapers.

"New building construction in Manhattan last year was close to $600,000,000, and I should say that at least 75 per cent. of that construction was of the skyscraper type.

"We can greatly relieve the situation by building tunnels between boroughs so that they will take from the streets the traffic that is strictly interurban. We can make individual skyscrapers accessible by building tunnels under the crosstown streets like the tunnel between Twelfth Avenue and Avenue A on Thirty-eighth Street which I have recommended to the Board of Estimate as a means of relieving traffic congestion."

Borough President Miller said that he believed in two remedies for traffic congestion, and one was the use of lower levels or tunnels for crosstown streets, and the other was the diversion of traffic to the river fronts. He explained that express motor highways along the river fronts would invite through traffic, which would represent no loss to the mercantile and other trades in the central region, from which that traffic would be diverted.

"The skyscraper is built only in localities where there is a demand for it," said Mr. Miller. "It is built in Manhattan because there is enormous business concentration in Manhattan. If you dispersed business you might destroy the economic fabric of New York City. Workers in New Jersey might be required to travel more than a hundred miles to get to their offices. Business concentration in certain localities is prompted by economical reasons. One business finds it advantageous to be close to another business, and that is why we have skyscrapers."

Mr. Miller said that in so far as vehicular traffic was concerned he believed that great relief would be afforded by general adoption of a plan which has already been put into effect in some of the congested downtown wholesale district areas, in which business houses are permitted to convert ground floors and basements into loading stations, so that loading and unloading from trucks may be done entirely within their buildings.

Mr. Miller said he was not disturbed by the possibility of a great catastrophe and its effect upon a skyscraper district. Statisticians have calculated that if a catastrophe should suddenly empty the populations of skyscrapers in lower Broadway, there would not be room for them in the streets unless they could be packed more than seven deep and standing on each other's heads.

Borough President Miller took the view that a steel skyscraper was the safest building in case of earthquake or storm, and he pointed out that the fire risk in such buildings had been reduced to a minimum.

FORBIDS COURT AIDES' FUND

McAdoo Disapproves Collection of Sick and Death Benefit.

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo expressed disapproval yesterday in an order to the employes of the Magistrates' Courts, of a sick and death benefit fund collection scheme which had been brought to his attention.

In his order the Chief Magistrate said: "To my great surprise and astonishment I was this day shown a form of receipt, given in the name of what is called the Court Officers' Mutual Benefit Association of Magistrates' Courts of the Greater City, organized in 1910, soliciting advertisements for what is called the official Blue Book for 1926 for death benefit funds, and asking that checks be made payable to the association at 300 Mulberry Street (the Chief Magistrate's office). This office will not permit the continuance of this practice or the use of the names of these courts in the way of collecting funds in this manner, and will be quick to punish any one who continues this practice."

ARNSTEIN LOSES MOVE TO FREE HIM

Rosalsky Rules State Can Try Him Without Putting Him in Double Jeopardy.

SAYS THE LAW IS CLEAR

New Appeal to Avoid Jury In $5,000,000 Bond Plot Will Be Made Today by Defense.

A decision denying a motion to dismiss three indictments charging Nicky Arnstein with receiving some of the loot in the $5,000,000 bond theft conspiracy in 1920 was handed down yesterday by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. Arnstein contended through counsel that the indictments placed him in double jeopardy because of his previous conviction in the same conspiracy case in the Washington Federal court, on which he served a term in a Federal prison. In dealing with this contention Judge Rosalsky said:

"It has long been established that where an act constitutes a violation of the law and offends both the Federal and State Governments in the absence of a statute to the contrary, both the Federal and State Governments may prosecute and punish the offender. That is so because in this country we have two sovereignties, each deriving its power from different sources, and each has the undoubted right to determine under what circumstances a person shall be guilty of offending its dignity without regard to the other. To vest jurisdiction in both the Federal and State Governments it must appear that the act constituting a crime is one over which both the Federal and State Governments have jurisdiction."

Judge Rosalsky held further that the fact that the charges on which Arnstein was indicted in Washington were based on acts set forth in the local indictments would not bar "Nicky" from being tried here and would be insufficient as a defense against conviction on the local indictments. He declared that Arnstein's act in taking the stolen bonds into Washington from this city constituted a separate offense and added that at no time was Arnstein amenable to Federal law for receiving the stolen bonds, which comprised solely a violation of the State law.

Arnstein was released without bail at the expiration of his Federal prison term and on his arraignment more than a year ago before Judge McIntyre in General Sessions. His bail bond was lifted at the time, Judge McIntyre said, because the District Attorney had failed to proceed with the trial on the indictments, which were returned in February, 1920.

Joseph Shalleck, counsel for Arnstein, on being informed of Judge Rosalsky's decision, said he would appear in General Sessions today and urge the Judge to dismiss the indictments anyway, because inspections of the minutes of the Grand Jury which returned them revealed that there was no corroboration offered of the receipt of the bonds by Arnstein.

BOY'S DEATH INVESTIGATED

Parents, Christian Scientists, Face Charges if Diphtheria Was Cause.

If laboratory examinations of cultures taken from the throat of Aaron Levy, 13 years old, show that he had diphtheria when he died yesterday morning, charges against his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Levy, 830 Bay Street, Clifton, S. I., will be presented to the Grand Jury, District Attorney Albert C. Fach said last night. The Levy child was not attended by a physician, although his parents said that a Christian Science practitioner had visited him.

Three separate investigations of his death were started. Dr. George Mord, Deputy Medical Examiner, conducted an autopsy yesterday, which, he said, indicated diphtheria. Diphtheria, however, will not be entered on the death certificate unless the examination of throat cultures confirms Dr. Mord's finding. The Health Department was also conducting an examination independent of the District Attorney and the Medical Examiner.

SAYS MORSE FILES WERE DESTROYED

N. H. Campbell Testifies H. F. Morse and His Secretary Did Away With Correspondence.

TAX RETURNS ARE READ

Government Witness, Named in Indictment, Admits Aiding Prosecution.

Some of the files and correspondence in the office of C. W. Morse, 300 Madison Avenue, were destroyed by Harry F. Morse and his secretary, W. J. Lackas, according to testimony yesterday of Nehemiah H. Campbell, one-time treasurer of the Morse companies, at the conspiracy trial being conducted in the Federal court here before Judge Thacher. The indictment charges three sons of C. W. Morse, Harry F., Erwin A. and Benjamin W., and seven others with conspiracy to use the mails fraudulently in the promotion of stock sales in companies organized by C. W. Morse.

Two letters from Rupert M. Mnch, as President of the United States Steamship Company, to Campbell were read into the record after having been identified by Campbell. One of these said in part:

"The vanguard of the committee (self appointed) arrived this morning in the person of one Kenny, who made some demand upon me and seemed to be sorely disappointed. However, we can look for the fireworks from now on."

The other read, in part:

"The committee is still staying around and popping in here two or three times a day but thus far have not made any headway. I believe that we are well fortified and nothing but a complete surprise against which we have not planned will let them over the breastworks.

"Meanwhile we are holding the fort. We have not struck our colors and have only begun to fight."

The committee referred to in the letters represented the stockholders.

When the defense counsel took over the cross-examination of Mr. Campbell it was brought out that he had made a statement to the prosecutor. Mr. Campbell was named in the indictment but is not on trial at this time. S. Stanwood Mencken of defense counsel on learning of this statement demanded its production by Special Assistant Attorney General Fletcher Dobyns. Mr. Dobyns objected, but Judge Thacher ruled that the defense was entitled to it for use in examining the witness. The witness will be questioned concerning this statement at the session today.

The trial opened yesterday with the reading by Mr. Dobyns of income and profit tax returns for 1918. The prosecutor called attention to an item showing $1,336,637.42 as dividends paid on estimated profits. Deficit from operation was listed as $3,709,586.23 and a total deficit was placed at $5,046,223.65. In the 1919 return no income was shown, as against a net loss of $78,585.33. Both statements were signed by the three Morse brothers and Campbell.

2 ACCUSED OF EXTORTION.

Pair Held on Charge of Posing as Revenue Agents.

Accused of attempted extortion by Anthony Fisher, a Yonkers restaurant owner, Robert Kerrigan and Frank Langley, who said they were United States Internal Revenue Department agents, were arrested in Yonkers yesterday and held in $5,000 bail each by City Judge Charles W. Boote. Fisher said the two threatened him with arrest on a liquor selling charge unless he "came across."

Kerrigan said he lived at 125 West 126th Street, and Langley gave his address as 2,676 Dauphin Street, New Orleans. Chief of Police Edward Quirk of Yonkers was informed that Kerrigan had displayed a shield and printed card as evidence of his authority, while Langley had neither badge nor credentials, but insisted he was a Federal agent.

Denying the story told by Fisher, Kerrigan and Langley said they would endeavor to have the case against them transferred to the Federal District Court in Manhattan.

NEW HOTEL MANGER RECEIVES FIRST GUESTS

Twenty-Story Building Opens for Business—Lobby a Work of Art.

New York's third hotel in point of size opened its doors yesterday morning when the Hotel Manger, in Seventh Avenue between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets, officially began business and received its first patrons. When the annex east of the hotel is completed the Manger will have 1,750 rooms, exceeded only by the Pennsylvania and the Commodore.

Julius Manger, head of the Manger chain of eighteen hotels, sat proudly in his newest marble lobby yesterday morning while workmen were putting the finishing touches on the decorations and fixtures. This is the first hotel to be Manger-built, the others having been acquired after other interests had constructed them. The lobby will be one of the show places of the Times Square district, measuring 50 by 160 feet, unobstructed by columns. It is finished in marble and bronze, with a richly ornamented ceiling and costly tapestries on the walls.

The main dining room, beneath the lobby, will not be completed and ready for use for several weeks. It will seat 600, and has a large dance floor in the centre. Work is being rushed on the dining room as well as on the annex and the top floors, which are not yet ready for occupancy.

The building is of twenty stories, erected in four wings facing Seventh Avenue. H. Craig Severance of this city was the architect and Bing & Bing were the builders.

Sale Was at American Galleries.

In the account of the sale of the de Souhami collection of needlework, tapestries and Gothic furniture, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Sunday, the headline said incorrectly that the sale took place at the Anderson Galleries. The auction was held at the American Art Galleries, as the story itself said. It closed last Saturday with a grand total of $214,937.50.

Kennilworth

"The Supremely Different"

Follow the Shrewdest Men in America~ Invest in Kennilworth Now!

Men who are recognized leaders in finance, commerce and industry—some of the shrewdest in America—have their homes surrounding Kennilworth in the King's Point Section of Great Neck, Long Island. Men whose names are linked with big things chose this point of land as the ideal place for their home. These men do not indulge in idle dreams—they play safe! They always invest their money where it will bring the biggest dollar's worth. They invested in property here because it represents the choicest waterfront land obtainable anywhere—because of the impossibility of duplication—because it is destined to be the most valuable property on Long Island. You must admit the wisdom of following the judgment of such men. Surely you could never make a sounder or better investment!

Picture this home in Kennilworth, served by a superb Yacht Club, with an artistic 350-foot pier, and a beautiful bathing beach for the exclusive use of residents.

Then picture this same home but 17 miles from Times Square—less than 30 minutes from Pennsylvania Station—in a section of Long Island where land values are rising tremendously from year to year.

Kennilworth Is for the Man of Comfortable Means! The Millionaire Can Secure No Finer Property!

Situated in the King's Point Section of Great Neck—on the loveliest stretch of rolling land on the North Shore of Long Island—at Kennilworth azure North Shore of Long Island—at Kennilworth, azure of tranquil delight.

Jutting out into the Sound and Manhasset Bay, King's Point enjoys the distinction of being the choice of some of the foremost people in America. People prominent in finance and industry, arts and letters own large estates surrounding Kennilworth. People whose names are linked with great enterprises have chosen this point of land as the ideal place for their home.

Kennilworth was developed from the famous 160-acre Roland Mitchell waterfront estate. No financial limitation was allowed to dwarf the purpose of the owners to make it the last word in a Homesite Development. Freely endowed by nature—completely improved—enduring in construction—within the shadow of Manhattan—Kennilworth stands as a monument to all that makes for the most desirable in a carefully restricted home community.

So desirable is Kennilworth that the owners of the property themselves are building homes there. Many other beautiful houses are now going up. The wisest builders are erecting entrancing homes in Kennilworth. Two of these are now almost ready for occupancy. Month after month sees more and more homes being built. Families are moving into those already finished. Soon Kennilworth will be completely populated.

No matter what happens elsewhere, property at Kennilworth is bound to steadily increase in value, because it is confined to an area which nature will never again duplicate. With but a limited number of plots remaining out of a total of 200, the day is near when Kennilworth will be entirely sold out. Then there can never be another piece of land like it. Kennilworth will be Kennilworth in generations to come—a home community with traditions which will endure forever.

Come to Kennilworth any day during the week. Your idea of all that a perfect homesite should represent will be realized. You will "fall in love" with this property. Everybody does who sees it! The very trip will hold an unusual pleasure. If ever the opportunity presented itself to obtain the home of your heart's desire, with the additional assurance of unusual profit, this opportunity is yours today!

TODAY, plots in Kennilworth may be bought at attractive prices on moderate terms. The owners of the property are keeping prices down at this time as an inducement for quick purchasers. The limited number of plots remaining are going fast. Both homeseekers and investors are buying now. The former with the idea of building in the early Spring. The latter with a view to capitalizing the increasing demand for these plots on the part of home-builders when Spring arrives. Whether you want to buy a home for yourself, or make an investment in a place where the demand for homes is constantly increasing, you cannot ignore the opportunity that Kennilworth offers NOW.

KIDNAP CANDIDATE ON EVE OF ELECTION

Four Men Carry Off Policeman Mahan, Running for Mayor of Lowell.

THEY BREAK INTO HIS HOME

Mahan Returns Later, Having Eluded Captors in Providence After They Had Robbed Him.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 15 (AP).—John Mahan, policeman and candidate for Mayor of Lowell, who disappeared from his home early today, returned tonight in time to address an election-eve rally. He said he had been carried away to Providence by four masked men who robbed him of $138 and imprisoned him in a house. He escaped at noon today, he said, and made his way back to Lowell.

In his election campaign Mahan attacked bootleggers and grafters. In his speeches Mahan made charges against the police liquor squad, alleging bribery by bootlegging interests.

Mahan had a black eye. He was pale and he seemed ill. In his speech at the election rally, which was addressed also by the nine other Mayoralty candidates, he made no reference to the kidnapping incident. In a conference with newspapermen after the meeting, however, he told the story of his adventures.

The policeman candidate, who is more than six feet tall and has a reputation for fighting prowess, said that four men, three of whom were armed with revolvers with silencers, entered his bedroom early today and dragged him to an automobile. He was driven to Providence, he said, and there imprisoned in a house. One of the kidnappers remained on guard, but at noon, while the sentinel was at lunch, he escaped.

Mahan said he begged a ride on a motor truck as far as Milton, and there met several young men from Lowell, who provided him with a train ticket home. He said the money which the kidnappers took from him had been intended for advertising his campaign in Lowell newspapers. The election will be held tomorrow.

BEGIN DARING FLIGHTS.

Two Fliers Leave England for Australia in Moth Planes.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—One of the most daring adventures in the history of aviation began yesterday when, The Westminster Gazette announces, two British civilian pilots, Neville Stack and Bernard Leete, started in great secrecy from Hendon in two baby moth planes for a destination officially described as "unknown," but which they admit is Australia.

Pilot Stack said that each man would be his own mechanic, helping the other in the event of trouble. Their kit weighs only ten pounds.

The adventure is being financed privately to prove the practicability of long flights in small machines.

Heavy Sentences for Two Thugs.

Victor Schmidt and Charles Keogh, both of Brooklyn, who were convicted last Friday by a jury in the Queens County Court for robbery, grand larceny and assault in connection with a hold-up in Woodhaven in September, in which a $2,300 payroll of the Philip Diets Coal Company was taken, were sentenced by Judge Frank Adel in the Queens Court yesterday. Schmidt, a second offender, received a flat sentence of forty years in Sing Sing and Keogh from fifteen to thirty years.

LUIS IS INAUGURATED PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL

Notable Diplomatic Assemblage Present—Currency Stability One of His Problems.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 15 (AP).—Washington Luis, former President of the State of Sao Paulo, today was inaugurated as President of Brazil at a joint session of Congress, which was attended by diplomatic representatives especially appointed for the occasion.

President Luis, who succeeds Arturo da Bernardes, is the eleventh Chief Executive of Brazil. Senhor Mello Vianna, former President of the State of Minas Geraes, is the new Vice President.

Among those present was the American Ambassador, Edwin V. Morgan, whom President Coolidge appointed as his personal representative at the ceremonies. Three foreign warships brought special envoys from Argentina, Uruguay and Portugal.

One of the principal problems which President Luis faces is concerned with his promise to stabilize the Brazilian currency and to prevent fluctuations in the value of the Brazilian milreis. There has been much uncertainty among bankers as to what foreign rate President Luis believes will best serve Brazilian industry, but recent trading on the market indicates the general opinion that he desires a weaker milreis than former President Bernardes.

Another important problem is that of the construction of highways. The President is considered Brazil's leading good-roads booster, a reputation that is based on extensive road building in Sao Paulo during his term as State President.

Fifty automobiles arrived here for the ceremonies today from the City of Sao Paulo over an intercity road which, when completed, will be the first interstate automobile highway of importance in Brazil.

DISCUSSES ASIATIC LEAGUE.

Mrs. Hamilton Wright Says Situation Arose at Geneva.

The League of Nations fostered a situation allowing the formation of an Asiatic League, Mrs. Hamilton Wright of Washington, a former member of the League's Opium Committee, who has recently returned from Europe, said her yesterday.

"On my return from Europe I was interested to find a good deal of talk being given to a rumored alignment of Eastern powers under the significant title of an Asiatic League," she said.

"The League of Nations was fostering a situation never anticipated, and was, in fact, affording for the first time in history a rallying ground or focusing point for the nations of the East with a common grievance against the West. Here at last, as fellow-Asiatics, they could discuss their common antagonisms and resentments which in the past they had harbored in solitary isolation.

Vatican Denies Geneva Bureau.

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP).—The Vatican today officially denied a rumor circulated abroad that a project is under way to create at Geneva an international organization to observe the work of the League of Nations. Osservatore Romano, the official Vatican organ, says that neither the Holy See nor any other competent ecclesiastical authority is connected with the rumored project and that therefore such an organization would not have the right to use the designation "international Catholic."

"THE AMERICAN WEEKLY" IS THE MOST WIDELY READ MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD

In 5,000,000 homes The American Weekly helps to make up the buying mind

EVERY Sunday morning, from Boston to San Francisco, from Chicago to Atlanta, The American Weekly goes into 5,000,000 typical American homes. In these homes live 22,000,000 consumers—the largest single buying unit in the world! The consumers who live in these 5,000,000 homes constitute the most desirable market in America. They are well-educated, well-informed, truly American in their modern view-point and close contact with life. They know the good things of this world, and they want them.

They have the money to buy them, too. These 22,000,000 consumers live in and adjacent to fourteen cities which, in the aggregate, possess two-thirds of the total wealth of the nation. This money, represented by bank clearings, is actively in circulation, constantly being spent. And it is being spent largely upon those products and commodities which are widely and consistently advertised.

The American Weekly is the only advertising medium which concentrates on this tremendous market. With its peak circulation in fourteen of the most important cities in America, it taps the very nerve centers of national life, the concentration points of wealth and prosperity. And its widespread popularity and influence are rooted in the family—the economic foundation of modern civilization.

The source of this tremendous influence lies within the magazine itself. For The American Weekly contains the livest, most interesting reading matter being printed today—fiction, articles, news features, fashions, a household department—everything that a good magazine ought to have, plus the newspaper's distribution and flexibility. Its universal appeal has gained for it a universal audience.

Yet despite its manifold advantages, The American Weekly is not an expensive advertising medium. Its rates are the lowest, in proportion to volume of circulation, of all large-scale publications: $8 per line, $1.69 milline, $14,500 for an inside page (black and white), $15,000 for an inside color page, and $16,000 for a back cover in color.

The American Weekly is the only national medium in which the advertiser can take a full newspaper-size page in color. It is the only national medium with maximum circulation in the cities—where enormous buying power is concentrated, and where merchandising distribution is most easily obtained. It is the most effective medium in the world for getting that end and aim of all merchandising—large and lasting results.

Write today to the nearest office (see below) of The American Weekly, A. J. Kobler, President, for specific data on the world's most widely read magazine.

NEW WEAF OFFERS A GALA PROGRAM

Notables at Waldorf See Plan Designed to Better Radio Programs Inaugurated.

MARY GARDEN ON THE AIR

Her Songs From Chicago Broadcast—Advisory Committee Comprises Leaders in Public Life.

A gala radio program last night from 8 o'clock to midnight, featuring Mary Garden, soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and Will Rogers, inaugurated the National Broadcasting Company, of which WEAF and WJZ form the nucleus.

M. H. Aylesworth, President of the organization, opened the program with an announcement of the names of the members of the Advisory Radio Council, made up of representatives of various professions and phases in public life. This council, which will advise as to the best type of program from the public's point of view, includes:

Walter Damrosch, conductor New York Symphony Orchestra.
A. E. Alderman, President University of Virginia.
John W. Davis, lawyer.
Francis D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College.
William Green, President American Federation of Labor.
Major Gen. James G. Harbord, President Radio Corporation of America.
Rev. Charles F. McFarland, General Secretary Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.
Morgan J. O'Brien, lawyer.
Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, President Carnegie Foundation.
Henry M. Robinson, President First National Bank of Los Angeles.
Elihu Root, lawyer.
Julius Rosenwald, President Sears-Roebuck Company.
Mrs. Mary Sherman, President General Federation of Women's Clubs.
General Guy E. Tripp, Chairman of the Board, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.
Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Board, General Electric Company.

The navy's Chief of Operations and the Chief of Staff of the army have also been invited to serve so that the army and navy may be in constant touch with the broadcasting field, and so that the broadcasting facilities may be immediately available in time of national defense.

Artists on the Program.

The artists performing in the concert, which was heard at the Waldorf and broadcast by twenty-four stations, besides Miss Garden and Mr. Rogers, were Titta Ruffo, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Harold Baner, pianist; Weber and Fields, comedians; the New York Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Damrosch, the Goldman Band, the New York Oratorio Society, a light and apartment in Chicago and the words Lopez, Bernie and Rolfe dance orchestras.

The songs of Miss Garden were picked up by a microphone in her apartment in Chicago and the words of Mr. Rogers were sent through a microphone placed back-stage in a theatre in Independence, Kan., where he was performing last night.

"How to use our radio facilities wisely in the interest of the public is our greatest problem," said M. H. Aylesworth in his introductory address. "Not only is it important to know what are matters of public interest, but how to apportion the broadcasting time so that our programs may be wisely and fairly balanced, both from the standpoint of those who wish to send, and most of all from the standpoint of you who listen in. In order that we may be advised, from time to time, how best to solve this problem, we have created an advisory council.

"The National Broadcasting Company owns only one station and that is WEAF. It will manage Stations WJZ in New York and WRC in Washington. Using Stations WEAF and WJZ as centres of distribution, we are able to provide at least two networks of associated broadcasting stations throughout the United States and so insure a wide diversification of programs."

Miss Garden's Selections.

Miss Garden sang for her first selection "Annie Laurie" and this was followed by "Open Thy Blue Eyes" and "My Little Gray Home in the West." Radio equipment installed in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf, where 300 guests of the National Broadcasting Company were assembled, picked up Miss Garden's broadcast from WEAF and reproduced it by loudspeakers.

The engineers in the audience were startled when they heard what they termed a "beat note," a waxing and waning whistle, mixed in with Miss Garden's voice. They explained that this was caused by the interaction of some other wave with WEAF and showed how congested the ether was now.

The title of Mr. Rogers's talk was "Fifteen Minutes With a Diplomat," in which he reviewed his recent trip to Europe, travels through the West and his visit with President Coolidge at the White House.

At 9:45 a picture of Miss Garden, taken in Chicago just before she appeared before the microphone, was passed about the ballroom in the Waldorf, having been transmitted over telephone wires and received in New York thirteen minutes after it was taken.

Harold Baner arrived on the steamship Franconia late yesterday and was taken off the ship at Quarantine by special permission from Washington. A tug was chartered and he arrived at the concert hall in time to take part in the program at 9 o'clock.

Harry Sadenwater, chief engineer of Station WGY and operator on the NC-1 transatlantic seaplane in 1919, said that Station 2XAF, the world-wide short wave transmitter at Schenectady operating on 32.79 meters, was linked into the broadcasting circuit in an effort to send the program to foreign lands, chiefly England, South Africa and South America.

ROBBED, SAVED FROM FIRE.

Connecticut Man, Tied by Robbers, Helpless as Flames Spread.

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 15 (AP).—Tied up in his office, with a fire spreading rapidly toward him, Henry Scofield of Darien, one of the owners of the Davis-Scofield Grain Company of Glenbrook, was rescued by a driver this morning after robbers had rifled the safe.

Scofield reached the office early and was starting a fire in a small stove when two men seized him. He was tied up in a room in the rear of the office. The fire in the stove spread to papers on a desk and the furniture had caught fire when the driver arrived.

Scofield said that one of the robbers, armed with a knife, cut both sides of his shirt from top to bottom, the point of the knife leaving a slight wound. He believes the robbers were looking for money which they thought he might have hidden in his garments.

The robbers, who, the police believe, came from a near-by railroad camp, obtained $60 from the safe.

EX-CONVICT ASKS $1,736,500

R. E. L. Maxey, Now Here, Charges False Imprisonment in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 15 (AP).—Two suits, seeking damages totaling $1,736,500, were filed in United States District Court late today naming P. E. Thomas, Warden of the Ohio Penitentiary; members of the Board of Clemency and three bonding companies as defendants.

The suits were brought by R. E. L. Maxey, a former convict of the penitentiary, who was sentenced from Mahoning County on a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses. Maxey is now in New York.

In one suit Maxey charges that Warden Thomas willfully and maliciously attempted to injure plaintiff's reputation by writing letters to two persons concerning the plaintiff's character and record. He seeks $1,300,000 from Warden Thomas alone.

In the suit against Thomas, the Board of Clemency and three bonding companies, charging false imprisonment, he seeks $436,500.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF, WOUNDS SISTER-IN-LAW

Iowa Financier Threatens Entire Family, but Sleeping Children Escape.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Nov. 15 (AP).—In a fine old homestead where his parents, leading townspeople, lived for many years in the heart of Noh Hill, fashionable residential district of Council Bluffs, John B. Keeline, financier and sportsman, early today shot and killed his wife, wounded his sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Andreason, and then killed himself.

Two young children, Milton and Gloria, son and daughter of Mrs. Andreason, slept peacefully and escaped Keeline's expressed intention, Mrs. Andreason said, of wiping out the entire family.

A postman reached the house just as Mrs. Andreason, white with fear and pain from a gunshot wound in her shoulder, ran from the house screaming. She was carried to the home of a neighbor and the police summoned.

"He has shot her, he has shot her," the postman said the woman moaned as she fell into his arms.

When the police reached the house Keeline was found dead in a doorway, a revolver wound in his head. He had discarded the shotgun with which he shot the two women.

Circumstances, the Coroner said, indicated that Keeline shot his wife when she started to dress. Her unclothed body was crumpled up in a closet in their bedchamber. Mrs. Andreason, whose husband is in Gary, Ind., on a business trip, described how she pleaded for an hour with Keeline in an effort to induce him to desist from his murderous plans. Her condition is critical.

Keeline had been married three times. His first wife is dead and his second obtained a divorce after a sensational trial. He was 43 years old and his wife was about ten years younger. She was attractive and popular.

Heavy Duty — Light Duty

No. 486 Width 4½ inches — No. 772 Width 3¼ inches

They last twice as long

THOUSANDS of folks are now buying their first radio set. The vast majority of the new receivers have five, six and even more tubes. All radio sets operating a loud speaker should be equipped with Eveready Heavy-Duty Batteries because these big "B" batteries last twice as long as the Light-Duty "B" batteries. Smaller batteries, however, are often sold with a set as original equipment, in order to keep your initial investment as low as possible. This is a mistake.

As a matter of dollars and cents saved, it is battery economy to buy Eveready Heavy-Duty Batteries. These big, husky "B" batteries last twice as long, and cost only one-third more.

The exclusive construction of Eveready Layerbilt No. 486 makes it the longest lived and most economical of all Heavy-Duty batteries.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Mr. Shaw and the Guild.

PYGMALION, a play in five acts, by George Bernard Shaw. Directed by Philip Moeller; costumes and settings by Jo Mielziner; produced by the Theatre Guild. At the Guild Theatre.

Liza	Lynn Fontanne
Professor Higgins	Reginald Mason
Colonel Pickering	H. W. Austin
Mrs. Eynsford Hill	Winifred Hanley
Clara Eynsford Hill	Phyllis Connard
Freddy Eynsford Hill	Charles Courtleidge
Mrs. Higgins	Helen Westley
The Dustman	Henry Travers
Mrs. Pearce	Beryl Mercer

Whatever Mr. Shaw put into "Pygmalion" twelve long years ago the Theatre Guild seems to have brought out again in the revival mounted at the Guild Theatre last evening. Especially in the first scenes, to be sure, one misses the infectious high spirits and the passionate righteousness with which Mr. Shaw goes about even a minor tiff in the newspapers. Perhaps the current performance is a trifle frozen. But it would be captious to sigh dolorously about that in view of the fluid and supple last act, with Miss Fontanne and Mr. Mason acting their parts splendidly, and in view of Mr. Travers's dryly entertaining dustman and the generally pleasing design of the performance. After seven Shavian revivals, with appropriate, merely reasonable genuflexions toward Adelphi Terrace, the Guild has picked up the necessary tricks. Upon Mr. Shaw's own Mephistophelian head be these drum-beatings from the forgotten past.

For the truth seems to be that "Pygmalion," never the most brilliant play by this brilliant dramatist, has lost some of its lustre in the momentous years since it was written. In that dim period, if memory is accurate, there was a want "to do" about the use of the word "bloody" by the flower girl when Professor Higgins passes off as a duchess. The offending word was stricken out of the text and the tradition of "middle-class morality," at which Mr. Shaw ehies hi: sharp-cornered bricks, was pleasantly preserved. But now that no theatre is ever properly devastating without an entire evening of blasphemy, this sanguinary word of alliterative charm no longer raises the blood pressure. One of the most firmly planted quips of the second act, you will remember, is Eliza's modest confession that during the bath she covered the looking glass with a towel. Was that once upon a time a neat thrust at Victorian prudery? Last evening, at any rate, it passed with scarcely a ripple of amusement—a cloudy gibe at best. And now that every one takes pains to be saucy in his daily speech the sauciness of "Pygmalion" has lost some of its sting. As for duchesses, as for the glamour of people in high station—eh, have we not a full-blooded Queen in our democratic midst at this moment?

What remains most vividly is what Mr. Shaw understands more shrewdly than any one else: the jumble of human relations. As Eliza grows from flower girl to bogus duchess through the simple expedients of perfected diction and lovely gowning, Mr. Shaw keeps pace with her changing point of view. Since Professor Higgins, the phonetic wizard, remains just as he was in the beginning, a misogynist absorbed in his profession, and a stubborn man into the bargain, the clash between Eliza and him in the last act is the simple logic of the play. Of course, the occasion for all this, Mr. Shaw's sudden discovery of phonetics, is no great matter now, nor was it in 1914; we still mutilate "the language of the Bible, Shakespeare and Milton" whenever we open our lips. But Mr. Shaw is at his best in that final contretemps in which Higgins, the crotchety old bachelor, and Eliza, the ambitious young lady, remain true to their sexes and characters. You will remember that, driven to extreme exasperation, Higgins proceeds to wring Eliza's infernally beautiful neck; and the light of victory instantly gleams in her eyes. Nothing prodigious, of course, as things go in the theatre; but for all that a perfect expression of situation. Sometimes, as in "Pygmalion," the pedants may exclaim that Mr. Shaw does not write plays at all. They may be true. Nevertheless, he is a dramatist.

Although most of the humor runs heavily in this revival, the dustman holds his own extremely well. Through the mouth of this exponent of the "undeserving poor," who prides himself upon being a "thinking man," Mr. Shaw delivers his irrelevant philosophy—very wise, very comic, it is in its circumlocutions. Mr. Travers is excellently cast in the part. His dry, nasal voice and his general appearance of helplessness make his two appearances delightfully amusing. These are the brightest spots in the revival.

For the purist a production of "Pygmalion" in the American accent may seem like a monstrosity indeed. When the curtain first went up on these Londoners, certainly the fullness of their accent was disconcerting. Nor did Miss Fontanne's gutterish intonations convey the indigenous vulgarity proper to the play. But one soon forgot that detail in the development of the story. Miss Fontanne has a part to which she is suited; she acquits herself creditably. Mr. Mason does sufficiently well as Professor Higgins. Miss Mercer acts a charmingly simple housekeeper. Miss Westley, whose voice has boomed for years in Guild plays, throttles down in this one to the part of a cultivated lady. The other parts are also well taken.

Mr. Mielziner's settings are all excellent. His portico of St. Paul's Church during an evening shower is extraordinarily imaginative and effective.

'A PROUD WOMAN' PROSY, BUT SINCERE

Arthur Richman's Comedy, Intended as a Study of False Pride, Fails Somewhat of the Mark.

A PROUD WOMAN, a "new" comedy of character" in three acts, by Arthur Richman. Staged by John Hayden; scenery by Raymond Sovey; produced by Edgar Selwyn. At Maxine Elliott's Theatre.

Mrs. Merritt	Margaret Wycherley
Frank Baldwin	Percy Ames
Selma	Madeleine King
Senator Norton	Brandon Evans
Marion Taylor	Florence Eldridge
Logar Merritt	John Marston
Julia Catee	Ellen [illegible]
Wilbur Catee	Herbert Yost
Edith Norton	Anne Morrison

The new Arthur Richman play is billed as "a comedy of character," but what it really attempts to be is a study of false pride, and the result as exhibited at Maxine Elliott's last night falls somewhere in between. In the effort to create the study nearly everything else is neglected with the result that there is precious little play spread over the evening. But what ground "A Proud Woman" covers it covers thoroughly for most of the territory is gone over at least twice, and everything that happens is discussed at length both before and after it takes place.

The result of this, as is inevitable, is that most of the play is prosy, sincere and verbose. It has its few moments of situation, but after a brief uphill climb they invariably fall back into the placid flow of words and are carried along with it.

Mr. Richman's study concerns believable, everyday people in believable everyday situations—essentially the sort of thing that George Kelly does so well. There is, moreover, in the central figure, a resemblance to Mrs. Craig which any one who has seen the two plays cannot help noticing, but Mr. Richman's comedy somehow lacks Mr. Kelly's touch of reality—his ability to give importance and conviction within the four walls of the theatre to the commonplaces of everyday life, and to impart meaning and interest to the dead level of everyday talk.

The characterization is that of a narrow social conscious Mid-Western matron who enters the life of the family into which her sister is to marry on the day of the wedding. A suspicious, envious person, she distorts and falsely interprets the whole situation and, of course with the best of intentions, browbeats the bride-to-be into siding with her. The fact that her sister, who had come from a small town to New York and is marrying into a family of some means and position, is having an intimate and hurried wedding leads Mrs. Cates to believe that the girl is being patronized and being rushed into matrimony as speedily as possible so that her past can be forgotten.

Through her interference Mrs. Cates has the wedding postponed for a few weeks and made considerably more elaborate. In the meantime she becomes obsessed with the idea that all the family's friends and even its servants look down on and speak slightingly of her sister. This campaign to force the sister to display her independence and pride is considerably weakened by the circumstance that Mrs. Cates herself borrows money from the prospective bridegroom—a happening which shows how false her pretensions of pride really are and provides, in its disclosure, for what climax the play has.

As Mrs. Cates, Elizabeth Risdon led more than a few of the first nighters to contemplate whether garroting or just plain mayhem would be the best way of getting rid of her—which is high tribute to the excellence of her acting. Florence Eldridge as the sister was at her best in her scenes of denunciation. John Marston was always forthright, and there was a first rate performance by Anne Morrison.

'GERTIE' A SIMPLE PLAY OF POOR WORKING GIRL

Haphazard Handling of Characters in a Single Scene Mars Tadema Bussiere's Drama.

GERTIE, a "comedy-drama" in three acts, by Tadema Bussiere. Settings by Yellenti; staged and produced by Gustav Blum. At the Bayes Theatre.

Mrs. Flynn	Carrie Lowe
Jimmie	Elisha Cook Jr.
Jones	Alice Nagle
Amy	Marienne Francks
Joe	Jimmie Scott
Steve	Pat O'Brien
Gertie	Constance McKay
Sylvester Cunningham	Edward Reese
Jarvis	Waldo Edwards
A Policeman	Edward Goff

A slender little play entitled "Gertie," having for its central characters the poor working girl and the rich young man, was presented last night in the lofty Bayes Theatre by Gustav Blum, who seems to be developing the knack of expecting a sustenance out of the unimportant play. This one, the work of Tadema Bussiere, has moments when it pretends to be a study of caste, but in the main it is a simple tale of a poor girl who finds that the rich man harbors dishonorable intentions, and who thereupon confers heart and hand upon the steady garage mechanic who has hovered quietly in the background.

Its three acts are laid in the boarding house bedroom of its heroine, and the task of bringing all of the play's characters within the range of this single scene has occasionally imposed a severe strain upon the playwright's ingenuity. Miss Bussiere has solved the problem by just having them walk in; it was not until the final ten minutes of the play, as a matter of fact, that any of them even knocked. So constant was the stream of young men, indeed, that the arrival of a policeman in the last act was misconstrued by some as presaging an announcement that it was about to be declared a one-way bedroom.

It was largely this haphazard handling of characters that helped to cast an air of the unconvincing over the play, although the writing also conspired at times to create unreality. Now and then, in some of its simple scenes, the play would ring true—one felt that Miss Bussiere knew her characters, but had not quite the expertness with which to project them convincingly.

In this respect she was helped only slightly by the players themselves. An attractive young person named Constance McKay, in the title rôle, gave high promise as a comedienne, although she could not quite bring conviction to the play's climaxes. Among the others, Pat O'Brien, as the garage worker of loyal heart, was the most successful at being genuine.

LEONARD HAS NEW SONGS AT PALACE

With Dancers, Furnishes the Principal Feature of Vaudeville Entertainment.

TRINI IMITATES MELLER

Eddie Leonard, with a list of songs old and new and with the assistance of a good jazz band and some clever "hoofers," supplies the leading feature of the Palace entertainment this week. Leonard, with his pleasantly melancholy voice, registers his usual hit; yesterday afternoon he was recalled several times, and on his last response he sang "Rose-Marie"—certainly a number not customarily included in his repertoire.

That admittedly Spanish dancer, Trini, is another leading participant in the goings-on at this music hall. As usual, her act is handsomely and strikingly staged, and her dances with their castanet accompaniments are in the accepted Spanish manner. She again ventures into Raquel Meller's field without unduly conspicuous success in two of Señorita Meller's songs, "¡Ay! Cipriano" and "El Relicario," the latter of which she does as an encore in quite protean fashion, impersonating everything bnt the bull.

Chic Yorke and Rose King in "The Old Family Tintype," Eddie Nelson, a usually amusing comedian, and Florrie Le Vere, now doing a single with Lou Handman as accompanist, are others at the Palace who are well known to music-hall patrons. Then there is Ann Suter, a newcomer, who lives up to billing by singing her songs in her own eccentric way—at least it should be her own eccentric way. Several pleasant turns round out the bill.

The Hippodrome has what is reliably reported to be one of the most elaborate acts of its vaudeville career this week in Meyer Golden's Royal Court Symphony, which, it develops, is a women's orchestra. Other attractions there besides the photoplay are Mme. Donatella and her "Carnival of Venice" presentation, Tom Smith, Harris and Holley, the familiar Four Diamonds and those old reliables of circus and vaudeville Alf W. Loyal's Dogs.

CLYDE BURROWS IN RECITAL.

Is as Serious in Music as He Was Modest About Baseball Feats.

Clyde Burrows, as frankly serious in his musical profession as he was modest about having pitched for Pittsburgh's National League team in his days of baseball, sang at the Town Hall last night and confirmed a promising impression made last season. He was born a Connecticut Yankee, blessed with a gift of humor as well as a pleasant baritone voice.

With Emil Polak at the piano, and with a diction artistically clear but unobstructive, Mr. Burrows sang in four languages. First came the old airs of Buononcini, Bach and Beethoven. There followed Franz and Brahms, as well as some excellent works of Schubert, whose "Der Jüngling" had to be repeated. On recall after the German, the artist gave Stephen Foster's "Jeannie With the Dark Brown Hair," and prefaced his programed English bits with the simple old "Banks of the Allan Water." He ventured in conclusion four folksongs in the speech of the Ukraine.

ROVINSKY GIVES NOVELTY.

Pianist Plays a "Tone Diary of the Last Three Centuries."

Anton Rovinsky, pianist, presented at Aeolian Hall last evening a "tone diary of three centuries" under the title of music "sacred and profane." A criticism of the occasion need fall into neither category. The player's large audience found his program enjoyable, though there was overmuch effort in heavy transcriptions by Godowsky, Busoni, Liszt and his own version of Moussorgsky's "Great Gate of Kiev." Effort marked also Cesar Franck's serene "Prelude, Chorals and Fugue."

Diabolism entered, if at all, in the "Satanic Poem" and "Black Mass" sonata of Scriabin. There were later "modern" works of De Falla, Bartok, Debussy, Albenis and Stravinsky.

Labor Member Brings Up Subject in House of Commons.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The ordering out of Hyde Park of Dorothy Gish while she was being photographed for a British film was the subject of questions in the House of Commons today.

Harry Day, a Labor member, asked the Government for an explanation, and Captain Hacking, Under-Secretary in the Home Office, replied that film making was not allowed in the royal parks.

Lady Astor suggested that since it was the policy to increase the number of British films it was a mistake to withhold such permission. Mr. Day thought Captain Hacking might like to see Miss Gish and hear her version of what happened. The captain replied that he thought he ought to have notice of that suggestion.

MANLEY FOUND SANE AT GEORGIA HEARING

Trial of Financier for Fraud in Bank Failure Will Be Resumed Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 15.—The way was cleared for trial of W. D. Manley, President of the defunct Bankers and Trust Company, on eighteen indictments charging bank law violations, when a jury tonight in the Superior Court found the financier sane. This was the second time he has been declared sane since failure of his enterprises.

Manley is scheduled to go back on trial tomorrow morning on the count of fraudulent operation of the Farmers and Traders Bank, of which he was President. This trial was halted last week by a contention of the defense that the defendant was not mentally competent.

The Bankers and Trust Company acted as fiscal agent for a large chain of banking institutions in Georgia and Florida. Its failure brought about closing of more than 100 banks, many of which since have reopened under new arrangements.

At today's hearing a number of prominent bankers testified that Manley's operations and his entire conduct during their acquaintance with him indicated that he was in full possession of his senses.

TWO KANSAS BANKS CLOSED

Another Ends Run When Depositors Get Federal Reserve Guarantee.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 15 (AP).—The Waldo Stats Bank and the State Bank of Thayer, two small banks whose affairs were linked with the closed Federal Trust Company here, closed today, and the Park National Bank averted a run when cash reserves were called in and displayed. The latter turned the run into a public reception when W. J. Bailey, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, told about 200 depositors that the bank was backed by the Federal Reserve System and guaranteed them they would not lose "a cent."

Uneasiness which followed the closing of the Federal Trust Company and the Terminal Trust Company here caused the gathering of the depositors.

Officials of all the closed small banks said they were sound and that they would be reorganized as soon as the affairs of the larger bank were adjusted.

MAHARAJAH OF INDORE HERE

Indian Ruler, Traveling Incognito, Reaches Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 15 (AP).—Traveling incognito, the Maharajah of Indore, Central India, and a retinue of servants arrived here this morning and will remain until Wednesday. In the party are Mrs. N. Miller and her daughter, registered as "Miss N. Miller" of Seattle.

The Maharajah's name appears on the hotel register as "I. Raje." William Ewert, representing a travel bureau, who acts as spokesman for the Indian Prince, said the identity of the royal visitor had been preserved from his arrival in New York, three weeks ago, until he reached Salt Lake City.

Through his spokesman, the Maharajah said:

"I wanted to see America, not as Queen Marie is seeing it, but quietly, unobserved. I wanted to study conditions unhindered, and that is why I preferred my incognito of 'Mr. I. Raje.'"

The trip has included Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and Colorado Springs. From here the party will go to San Francisco and Los Angeles, returning East hy way of the Grand Canyon.

Mrs. Miller and her daughter first met the Maharajah in India several years ago. They met him again recently in France and joined the party in New York.

RABBI PARKER INSTALLED.

Joins Fort Washington Synagogue —Dr. Wise Praises Record.

Rabbi Benjamin M. Parker, a member of the first graduation class of the Jewish Institute of Religion, founded five years ago by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, was formally installed as rabbi of the Fort Washington Synagogue, 555 West 182d Street, at a special service last night.

In a short address, Dr. Wise praised the record of the new rabbi and asked the congregation to think of him as a man eager to help them. He described him as a man who had dedicated his life to furthering the condition of Jews and the best type of man that could take up rabbinical duties.

Rabbi Parker said he wished to be numbered among the new religious teachers of the Jewish faith with a desire to be sympathetic and understanding with members of his congregation rather than be aloof and regarded as a preacher of religious precepts.

Other speakers were Rabbi Alvin Luchs of the Temple of the Covenant and Philip C. Samuels, President of the Board of Trustees of the Fort Washington Synagogue.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Unbridled Humor.

LADIES AT PLAY, with Doris Kenyon, Lloyd Hughes, Louise Fazende, Virginia Lee Corbin, Philo McCullough, Hallam Cooley, John Patrick and Ethel Wales; adapted from Sam Janney's play, "The Desperate Woman," directed by Alfred E. Green; "In Vaudeville," an "Aesop Fable"; vaudeville acts. At the Hippodrome.

The Hippodrome was indeed a merry place yesterday afternoon, loud laughter blurting forth every few seconds at the action of a screen comedy bearing the title of "Ladies at Play." This footage of fun is based on Sam Janney's play, "The Desperate Woman," which was an early name for "Loose Ankles," the farce comedy now running at the Garrick Theatre. Needless to say that there is little resemblance to the original document in "Ladies At Play." It has already been stated that the film producers used only one idea from the stage effort to make the silent comedy. Anybody who has seen the play would never know that the picture had been inspired by it.

"Ladies At Play" is hilarious. There is no getting away from that. Whether the type of humor is as edifying as it might be is another matter. It commences with commendable restraint, but as it is unfurled it becomes decidedly unruly and the characters indulge in antics that are not far removed from those seen in Mack Sennett's famous efforts. One elderly woman spectator yesterday was frequently moved to explosions of mirth, and although she was unaccompanied, she followed her laughter more than once by uttering:

"How silly!"

The plot of this pictorial effort has no relation to that of the original that inspired it. An early chapter is concerned with the reading of a will to four expectant heirs, two spinster aunts and their two nieces. The elderly women hardly relish the news that a flapper niece is bequeathed $10,000 and that the other girl inherits $6,000,000, with the proviso that within three days she marries a man approved of by the maiden aunts. It therefore behooves the nieces, according to the story, to do their utmost to compromise the aunts. This is accomplished through two men who are flatteringly referred to as "lounge lizards." They make a specialty of compromising women who ought to know better.

Ann, the heiress to the $6,000,000, is played by Doris Kenyon. Ann has a weakness for Yale students and especially for Gil, the mail clerk in the hotel where she resides. She offers Gil $6,000 if he will marry her, and he is indignant. There is more than a mere suggestion that he admires Ann and would willingly wed her if she did not have the proverbial penny.

From the hectic action of this comedy, it might be assumed that Gil is himself compromised, although he never is intoxicated ae are the plain-looking spinsters. As time goes on these two aunts become too obstreperous, especially when the nieces are endeavoring to take a flashlight photograph of a giddy scene.

Virginia Lee Corbin is amusing as the round-eyed, vivacious flapper. Miss Kenyon is at times more subdued as Ann, but she has her energetic moments. Lloyd Hughes, despite his periods of embarrassment, is capable as Gil. He gives one the idea that the flighty conduct of the other characters and his own awkward predicament is distasteful to Gil. Louise Fazenda and Ethel Wales make facial sacrifices in their clever impersonations of the spinster aunts.

Mozart's "Magic Flute" Sung Again

Mozart's "Magic Flute," in its German text and its elaborate new dress of Soudelkine's scenic fantasy of seventeen pictures for the current season's Metropolitan revival, was seen and heard a second time at the opera last evening. The Monday subscription filled the house, virtually a sold-out assembly at all times, while the large cast on the stage was that of nine days ago, without exception, including the substitution of Miss Ryan for Miss Daloasy, who was thus absent, as one of the youths attendant upon the hero. The Misses Rethberg, Tallsy and Fleischer, Messrs. Laubenthal, Schuetzendorf, Whitehill and Bender again had leading roles and Mr. Bodanzsky conducted. Mr. Thewman was in charge of the stage and Mr. Setti of the chorus.

Lew Fields Fully Recovered.

Lew Fields, who underwent an operation in the Fifth Avenue Hospital three weeks ago, has returned to his home. Mr. Fields is fully recovered and will return to work in a few days.

Mr. Brock Pemberton:
My Dear Sir:

It was our great privilege to attend your play, "The Ladder," last evening. To say that we "enjoyed" it does not begin to express our experience. We did enjoy it. It is a wonderful production. The characters were all magnificent. Miss Antoinette Perry was superb. The message of the play gripped us.

Your play is the answer some of us have been longing for to the question, "Must we always have filth on our stage?" Those of us who have criticized the immoral play will show our appreciation of your effort by supporting your endeavor. I shall recommend "The Ladder" to my friends in private conversation and from my pulpit.

With all good wishes, I am,
Yours sincerely,
Fred W. Stacy.

DR. ERNEST L. CRANDALL
WALTER HAMPDEN

My Dear Mr. Hampden:—

You are indeed to be congratulated on finding such a strong and beautiful vehicle for your talent in the romantic play based on Browning's "Ring and the Book," and entitled "Capenacchi."

All the poetic atmosphere has been retained and yet the drama remains convincingly true to life. The piece has, I think, one of the finest endings I ever witnessed.

Your acting is satisfying always and your marvelous stagecraft in evidence at all times. The play is also otherwise very happily cast.

Cordially yours,
ERNEST L. CRANDALL.

GERMAN SUPERSENSITIVENESS.

The outcry in Germany over the action of the German Ambassador at Washington in ordering his flag up on Armistice Day seems to come mainly from the Nationalists. They consistently pose as the Bourbons of the Fatherland. They ask if anybody could imagine the French Embassy in Berlin hoisting the flag of France on Sedan Day. This very question shows their erroneous estimate of the present situation. Armistice Day is now a celebration less of victory than of peace. The emphasis has steadily been shifting, as the years have passed, to gratitude for the ending of the war and to tender remembrance of its dead. In this sentiment Germans surely may share. To them Armistice Day may well mean not only peace, but escape from Hohenzollern absolutism, and the founding of the German Republic. It is likewise true that Germany might now see in Armistice Day the symbol of a new spirit in the world, and of the return of Germany to the counsels of the nations, as they endeavor to restore international good-will and stability. Doubtless it was because Ambassador VON MALTZAN was animated by a sentiment like this that he wished to show by flying the German flag that his country considers herself now welcomed back to the circle of Great Powers, rejoicing in peace and willing to cooperate in work to insure it.

For the rest, attacks on Ambassador VON MALTZAN must appear to Americans to be badly directed. He has made himself singularly acceptable since coming to Washington. His frankness as a representative of the new Germany, together with the friendly attitude which he has shown toward the United States, while neglecting no duty in maintaining the positions taken by his home Government, has already won him high favor here. This certainly will not be lessened by his sympathetic act in placing himself in accord, so far as he could, with the feelings of Americans on Armistice Day of 1926.

THE POLICY OF MISCHIEF.

Again there is wagging of jaws in Washington about "forcing" President COOLIDGE to call the Seventieth Congress in special session. The means of doing so is to be a filibuster in the Senate against the passage of the supply bills. The Constitution says that the President "may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses or either of them." The unashamed proposal of the mischief-makers is that the Sixty-ninth Congress shall abandon its duty, creating by its own deliberate laches an "extraordinary occasion" entirely different from any contemplated by the Constitution. It shall temporarily starve the Government so that Mr. COOLIDGE must convene the next Congress. Various motives of malice and perverted "political strategy" lie behind this.

The La Follettian squad pants for the limelight. The business of the last session of this Congress is to go undone in order that the next may at once plunge into the Presidential campaign of 1928. Mr. BORAH, Mr. NORRIS, HIRAM JOHNSON are in perpetual session. So is that conciliabulum of sages, The People's Legislative Service. The clatter for a called session is purely political. If this Congress has a mind, it can put through the legislation necessary; and that is mighty little. An extra session would be simply a heated debating club. It is unlikely that an agreement could be reached, considering the mixed composition of the Senate and the Republican preponderance in the House, on any of the measures which it is now pretended are so momentous that the country can't wait for action on them until the regular meeting of the Seventieth Congress.

To Democrats capable of looking before and after it must seem incredible that representatives of their party in Congress will let the Republican insurgents and nondescripts lead them by the nose again. Do they enjoy disaster so much that they want to dump the party into it again by becoming catspaws of the Republican malcontents? The way to take advantage of Republican incoherence is to be a straight coherent Democratic Party and refuse to truck with the men who are doing their best to break up two-party government. Will the Democratic Party gain independent recruits by showing that it has no constructive talent or policy; that it has nothing better to offer than a combination with the enemies of both the great parties and a little cheap political legerdemain?

HAVE WE KEPT FAITH?

The lines by Dr. SHOTWELL in yesterday's TIMES, written on reading President COOLIDGE's speech in Kansas City, say in searching verse what prose has not the gift to utter. "Have we kept faith?" is its burden—faith first of all with those "who made for us the rendezvous with death" and "for us kept the trust?". We carve their names upon a stone, we make solemn pageants, we trouble with our praise "their dreamless sleep" or stand silent a moment for them "forever still." It was not this for which they died. Nor is all this the fulfilling of our pledge for which they gave their all.

"'Tis only we who failed" is the poet's answer to "their haunting cry." But the poet in this instance is a man whose task it has been to measure the economic displacement of the war, an economist, the voluminous sources of whose investigations would require 200 miles of shelving to file, culled from other documentary files that would reach the full length of the Western front. He is a statistician who reaches conclusions only with care and states them with precision. His conclusions as a poet are arrived at with like knowledge and conscientiousness. Unmindful of financial gain or loss, he thinks of our pledge to our dead and through our dead to the world, and of the fact that our "constructive efforts cease." When our high purposes were still upon us, we planned tribunals which now "are used by others for our peace" as well as that of the rest of the world without our active help or even sympathy.

The old Danube song is again recalled in which a soldier buried on the field of battle asks whether his comrades have been victorious, and being told that they have borne their banners in triumph from the field, says from his deep, dark grave: "I am content." But the voice of full content cannot yet be heard from the graves of those who died in the great war. Yet our efforts will not end—cannot end—in the faint-hearted utterance that led us down from that transfiguring monument in which our "tragic hopes" are recalled.

RUSSIAN PHRASES AND FACTS.

Mr. MATTHEW WOLL has addressed to President COOLIDGE a bitter arraignment of the Eddy report on Russia. It was built on the allegation that "the character of the Soviet Government has undergone a fundamental change since STALIN became chief dictator." For such assertions, declares Mr. WOLL, there is "no vestige of evidence." This is to fall into the error of overstatement that marks the Eddy verdict, though in the main Mr. WOLL's contention is sound. Before we speak of a fundamental change in Russia we need something more than a vestige, or a promise, or even a trend. We need preponderating evidence in the present. Beyond that we need the test of time. There are competent observers who do believe that great changes may be impending in Russia, but they prefer to wait and see.

Mr. WOLL does not quite prove his case when he argues that "STALIN has not renounced a single one of his recent and voluminous revolutionary declarations," and that Russia's strong man has recently reaffirmed his faith in the Third International as an instrument of world revolution. What STALIN does is more important than what he says. His avowed reason for ousting ZINOVIEFF from the leadership of the Third International is to strengthen the Communist movement abroad. His real purpose is undoubtedly to make an end of the Zinovieff marplot policies. At home STALIN accuses his opponents of being weak-kneed Socialists because they have no faith in the possibility of a Communist State. In practice this means concessions to the peasants. STALIN is not exempt from the duty of talking for home consumption.

The depth and permanence of STALIN's conversion must be judged from his acts. After that it must be shown that STALIN speaks permanently for the Communist régime. He is in the saddle today. He may be in the outer darkness in a year or two. Communist policy has been entirely shaped by expediency. It has shifted back and forth. Until a condition of stability has set in we cannot speak of a definite change, least of all of a fundamental change. In the long run we are free to believe that sanity will assert itself in Russia and the forces of health will triumph over the forces of destruction. But convalescence frequently has its relapses. Our Government, in the absence of compelling reasons to the contrary, will do wisely not to take chances on a sudden rise in the Communist pulse and temperature.

Russia must be viewed realistically. Scrutiny must be concentrated not on what is said in Russia but on what happens there; and not on what is reported by sympathetic or hostile observers. Russian paper programs have from the beginning been sadly out of joint with reality. On paper the Russian workman is master in his country. In fact he is worse off economically than he was under the Czar. On paper there flourishes in Russia an admirable system of popular education. In fact Moscow is overrun with hordes of homeless children. At the present moment Moscow announces the restoration of industry to a pre-war level. In fact the battles between STALIN and TROTSKY have been fought on the admitted fact that something is radically wrong with the Russian industries. TOMSKI, head of the trade unions, reports an increase of 19 per cent. in unemployment over last year. Nearly 1,200,000 trade union members are idle. Since the Russian trade unions have about 6,000,000 members, this would mean an unemployment ratio of 25 per cent. Since the Russian trade unions include Government employes, clerks, teachers and other intellectual workers, this may mean an unemployment ratio for bona fide industrial workers of something like 40 per cent. On such facts and not on doctrinal statements must be based the argument for or against the Soviets.

ITALY'S DAY IN THE AIR.

After the Italian success on Saturday Assistant Secretary WARNER sent his congratulations to MUSSOLINI. The dictator is head of War, Navy and Air. Recently he said:

> Italian aviation projects its forces toward the future with a passionate faith in the fundamental importance which, in modern civilization, attaches to every attempt at the mastery of the air.

In 1924-25 the Italian expenditure on aviation was 461,708,566 lire; in 1925-26 it was 549,000,000, and 629,000,000 lire was appropriated for 1926-27. Landing fields were built, navigation facilities provided. Three commercial services were early put in operation. Subsidies were granted for terms of years. "In the very near future Italian wings," MUSSOLINI said, "will cross the Mediterranean, connecting with an intimate link its western and eastern shores." Marchese DE PINEDO in 1925 flew from Rome to Tokio and back. His outward course was to Bagdad, across India, down the Malay Peninsula, around Australia, and thence to the Philippines and Japan. Coming home he touched at Rangoon, Bangkok and Calcutta.

The Italians make excellent planes and turn out motors, like the Macchi-Fiat, as good as any in the world. After BERNARDI had flashed past the winning pylon an American expert said: "We ought to quit 'kidding' ourselves that we have the foremost air engines in the world. Other countries are forging ahead and developing speedy racing engines and planes." But it is only fair to say that Italian operating companies have the benefit of State subsidies. For instance, the Societa Italiana Servisi Aerei of Roma receives 11.44 lire per kilometer flown up to a maximum of 328,000 during the year. It also has a liberal postal subsidy.

The record made by Major BERNARDI in the Schneider Cup contest at Norfolk, 246.496 miles an hour over a triangular course, was not, it is true, much faster than Lieutenant JAMES H. DOOLITTLE's time in the race last year, which was 245.713 miles. It was expected that if DOOLITTLE's record were broken the winner would be one of the American team, probably Lieutenant CUDDIHY. He had been flying very fast in practice, but was forced down on the seventh lap. Major BERNARDI, after the first lap, made at a speed exceeding 239 miles an hour, flew the other six in an average of about 245 miles. The second of Lieutenant SCHILT of the Marine Corps, with an average speed of 231.363 miles an hour, was in the nature of a consolation prize. But it was Italy's day. It was a triumph for the Italian engine as well as for Italian fliers.

PENSIONS FOR PREACHERS.

Ten years ago, under the leadership of Bishop LAWRENCE of Massachusetts, was raised a pension fund for the clergy of the Episcopal Church which went far beyond the amount at first thought necessary. Instead of the $5,000,000 originally sought, $8,500,000 was secured, and last year the fund had grown to $17,000,000. This made possible an extension of the system and has accelerated its full application. Certain other denominations, notably the Methodist Church, have made a pension provision, but none, it is probable, has one so widely and generously helpful as this. The Presbyterian Church, which has had a pension system in operation since 1717, is now setting out to raise $15,000,000 in order to put it upon a sound actuarial basis. The plan is for a contribution by the minister of 2½ per cent. of his salary and by the individual church with which he is connected of 7½ per cent. At 65 he is entitled to a pension equal approximately to one-half his salary over a term of years, the minimum being $600. Even that minimum is nearly twice the average pension paid to the 900 aged ministers and missionaries now on the pension rolls.

The merit of the new system is that the minister at the age of 65, or in case of disability, may claim the pension as a right and not as a charity. Once the $15,000,000 is assured the plan will become self-sustaining. Nothing can be more needed to give the workers in what Mr. WILL HAYS, the Chairman of the Laymen's Committee, calls "the world's one essential industry, religion," relief from anxiety for their families and themselves. The Church cannot do for those who give it a lifetime of devoted service less than big business does for its employes. Clerical salaries, with a few exceptions, are inadequate. Many young men are prevented from entering the ministry because uncertain of being able to get even a bare subsistence beyond their years of active labor.

A pension system based on actuarial experience should remove the bars that now keep out many a young man eager to serve. Forty thousand ministers have given their lives in the service of the Presbyterian Church. It is a modest claim that they have done their full share in the making of America. It is essential to the country's spiritual development that her best youth, as in the earlier days, should be recruited by the Church.

POINCARE PROGRESS.

Informal notification to the French Premier by Mr. McKENNA of the Midland Bank of London, that British and American investors are ready to take a French "resumption loan" when French public finances are restored and the debt settlements ratified, merely recognizes an existing position. That such a loan could be placed has been plainly enough proved by the large investment demand for outstanding French public securities; some of them sold last week on the New York Stock Exchange at the highest price in their history.

In the matter of French public finances, no obstacle seems to be ahead. The question whether the Poincaré Ministry's control of legislation would be helped or hurt by the rise in the franc was answered quickly by last Friday's proceedings in the Deputies. The Ministry's peremptory demand for a session devoted exclusively to currency reform bills was granted by a vote of 365 to 207. This means that all necessary budget legislation will be enacted.

As yet, POINCARE has not seen fit to raise the question of the American and British debts; apparently, that will go over to the new year. Yet ratification has been made a condition of banking aid. It has even stronger endorsement. The report on currency reform, submitted July 3 by a committee of French experts, was a highly important factor in the success of the Poincaré measures last August. Like the Cunliffe committee's report of 1920 on the program for British gold resumption and the Monetary Commission's report of 1911 on American banking and currency reform, publication of the thorough French report completely altered the situation.

Whereas previous Ministries with isolated proposals had been politically on the defensive, the comprehensive report of the experts put opponents of reform in that position. They could not challenge the expert plan unless by proposing an alternative of their own, and this they were unable to do. But one of the findings of the expert report was that the "indispensable resources" for stabilization "must be provided by foreign aid" and that this necessity "implied the settlement at the earliest possible moment of all our debts to our Allies." The committee, while recognizing all arguments against the plans proposed, stated their "unanimous view that these facts make it indispensable to ratify at once the Washington agreement."

It is not, therefore, unreasonable to expect such ratification. French political leaders long opposed bitterly to the Berenger arrangement are known to have changed their attitude. The argument of expediency, along with the argument that acceptance of the terms must necessarily leave revision a probability if they should prove to be impracticable, can hardly fail to have made its impression on the political rank and file. As matters stand, there is good prospect for completion of the program of gold resumption at an early date.

RACE, NATION AND FILMS.

When first the protests against the spread of American moving pictures throughout the world were made, they were received here as manifestations of commercial jealousy. But in recent months we have seen indications of something akin to a supersensitive nationalism in connection with the production of motion pictures. Two weeks ago the German Government asked that passages depicting Germans in a particularly unfavorable light be deleted from a film being shown in New York, and a few days later the French Government protested against the showing of two films which, it was alleged, reflected on the glory of France. For many years the Mexicans have resented the common use of Mexicans as "villains" in American scenarios. In fact, their grievance was re-aired in Europe in connection with the general proposition that pictures reflecting on any particular nationality should be eliminated or cut, as they tended to produce international ill will.

These objections are insignificant when compared to the growing protests from Europeans and Americans in the Far East about the deplorable impression of the entire white race which is being made on all Orientals by the films which have been shown there during the last few years. This complaint is not new, but it has received recent vigorous restatement in The London Times from a correspondent who has just completed a visit to Java, the Malay Peninsula and South China. From a former official in India comes a similar report about the effect of the moving pictures in that country. So low is the general character of the pictures shown, depicting for the most part sensational stories of love and violence, that the impression which the colored races get from these pictures about the white man in his home is deplorable. Furthermore, to the Orientals many of the films which we look upon as merely "off color" appear grossly indecent, owing to the difference in customs and morals in the East and West.

Fortunately, the American producers are constantly trying to improve the character of the scenarios as well as the technique of production. They are forced by the hope of markets abroad to consider the demands of foreign buyers. The principal danger lies in the possibility that Oriental tastes have been so "jazzed up" by the sensational quality of the films shown in the East during the last few years that they will look for a type of film that will prevent the producers from raising their standards.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Mute but Not Inglorious. "Single Speech" HAMILTON "did our green unknowing youth engage." But we found out that, after his maiden speech in the House of Commons in 1755, so much admired by HORACE WALPOLE, he made another there, and subsequently five in the Irish Parliament. If, afterward, he sat for over twenty years in the English House without opening his mouth, that was in order not to tarnish his first success.

The Dallas News introduces to us a nobler figure of self-restraint:

> Texas might well sing the praises of "SAM" D. W. Low of Brenham, who resigns after completing ten years of service in the House of Representatives. During the ten years he never made a speech or offered a motion.

None the less he was a useful member. His constituents were more than satisfied. He leaves to go on the bench. No doubt he will make an excellent Judge; yet one could wish that he had stayed in the House for ten or twenty years more—a monument of good service, a rock in the cave of the winds. The art of silence is perishing. All the ampler should be our gratitude to this Lone Star of legislative taciturnity. For some must spout, while some must work; so runs the world away.

Lo, the Oil-Royalties Indian! A topic apparently full of promise for the novelist and the playwright is the Osage Indian. The fault is not that of the press. The newspapers, in the course of duty, feature Oklahoma's most native son above every other tribal aborigine. The Department of the Interior reports the case of one twenty-year-old Osage brave who in the course of three years has incurred debts to the amount of $30,000, partly through buying nine automobiles.

Nation-wide publicity has been given to the grim case of an entire Osage family systematically murdered by a group of conspirators for the sake of rich oil lands. Fairly commonplace are items of Osage patriarchs in tribal blankets riding about in limousines.

With most of the available area of the West ransacked by the fiction writers in search of new material, here would seem to be a gold mine or oil well crying out to be exploited. One of the classic themes in literature is the child of nature brought into contact with the complicated advantages of civilization. Equally familiar is the theme of sudden wealth thrust upon honest and contented poverty with demoralizing results.

In Oklahoma the two themes would blend. An Indian tribe is fabulously enriched by the discovery of oil on its allotted lands. The results are sometimes comic, sometimes tragic, always interesting. For the purpose of puncturing our civilization, or putting human nature in its place, the twenty-one-year-old Osage with the nine motor cars should not be neglected.

The Younger Generation of Hoboes. The free and heedless life of the tramp appears to lose much of its gay carelessness under close scrutiny. Like the rest of the business men of the country, hoboes feel the bonds of brotherhood in a common occupation—or the lack of it—and are now organized, hold an annual national convention, appoint committees and field agents, and consider seriously what their world is coming to.

At the meeting in progress in Nebraska there has been much sentimental talk of the good old days when self-respecting tramps rode the rods or hopped freights. Now there are too many young fellows ignorant of the traditions of bumming. They are restless, discontented, imbued with the wildness of a younger generation. The veterans are disturbed. A strain of melancholy is heard in all the proceedings because the youngsters are upsetting the standards of long and honorable years.

In a practical age, even professional vagabonds must be hard-headed. So a field agent has been appointed to canvass the country, organize the "auto hikers"—those disquieting young hoboes who do not rightly value custom—and teach them the ways of the road. The formal vote was for a plan to "uplift and educate them to the ways of hobodom."

The Hall of Heroism. It is significant that in the international high school referendum on "heroes," no soldier except WASHINGTON and JOAN OF ARC qualified for a place among the twelve greatest. Similar referenda in France have put PASTEUR above NAPOLEON, and it was to be expected that he would have a place among the twelve. That he takes precedence of LINCOLN, COLUMBUS, WASHINGTON and FRANKLIN gives evidence that while the American vote was doubtless dominant, PASTEUR's name must have been on all lists.

It was probably the vote of other than American boys and girls which put in all the names which appeared in the list below WOODROW WILSON's name. A possible exception is FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE, whose name has come to be as widely known in America as in England, especially because of the rise of the nurse as a heroic figure in the war.

GUTENBERG was voted for because of what his art has grown to be; STEPHENSON because his steam engines have encircled the globe, and LIVINGSTONE because he opened to the light a dark continent. It is to the credit of these young voters that one who in his day was accused of being a corrupter of youth should now be the sole philosopher to sit in their Hall of Heroism.

RICHARD WATSON GILDER in his poem, "In Time of Peace," which began

> 'Twas said: "When roll of drum and battle's roar
> Shall cease upon the earth, oh, then no more
> The deed, the race, of heroes in the land," sang his citations of new heroes that had never had their heroic chance in war. The present list of world heroes not only gives presage of new types of heroes in the future but also re-appraises the heroisms of the past.

Patient Cause Becomes a Crusade.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The League of Nations Non-Partisan Association is very much indebted to you for your editorials of Sunday and Monday; also for publishing the beautiful poem by Dr. James T. Shotwell.

I wish now to pay my tribute to the leadership in international thought which THE TIMES has given us since the war. Surely there has been no deviation, no change or shadow of turning for any possible partisan of self-interested motives, on the part of your advocacy of the League of Nations and of the World Court. At all times you have been sound, scholarly and statesmanlike in your editorial utterances. The leadership which you call for at the end of your Sunday editorial you go a long way toward supplying.

If you could have seen the gathering of one hundred people of the New York Congressional district organization of the association, who met until late in the afternoon on Thursday, just as the news of President Coolidge's speech was published, you would have realized that he is changing a patient, quiet cause—that of our work for the World Court—into a flaming crusade. So far from being discouraged, our people have taken a new vow of consecration to that cause above all other causes—international cooperation for world safety and for minimizing the possibilities of war.

Why Not an American Artist?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in THE TIMES that a mural painting presented to the City of New York as a memorial to alumni of the Morris High School killed in the World War was painted by a French artist.

It is deplorable to find that a painting designed to commemorate dead American soldiers was executed by a foreigner. We have in our land many fully equipped artists, acknowledged to be able to hold their own with any artists in the world. Then why go abroad to place such an essentially American commission?

Is it not high time that the indiscriminate enthusiasm of the American for the foreign article, good or bad, should be shelved? Surely a prominent American high school might help lead the way.

A Disclaimer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Press notices of a conference held in Pittsburgh last week seem to imply that I assented to a program for the outlawry of war by way of the World Court. As I left Pittsburgh before this program was up for discussion my name should not be connected with it, for I am in disagreement with the method suggested.

As to the proposition for calling a disarmament conference, my views have already been stated in your columns. I did not recommend the acceptance of the report referred to and regard with some apprehension any effort to substitute the issue of disarmament for those other issues looking toward a stable organization of international relations which must precede any far-reaching effort in the limitation of armaments.

A Tribute to Ex-Speaker Cannon.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The country has lost a great man in the death of Joseph G. Cannon. I had known him intimately for more than twenty-five years and he was one of my best friends. He was a man of fine character and great ability, a great leader and always just and fair to his opponents. He had been a close friend of President Lincoln and told many incidents about him.

Would That Do Much Good?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If any man or woman in the United States, receiving the benefits of its laws and institutions, is too indifferent, too calloused, too ignorant to vote to uphold them, then it should be understood—no vote, no franchise.

LEGEND.

Blood of my blood is legend;
Bone of my bone is truth.
Adventure drives its wedge and
Down woodland paths of youth.
My fancies fly, but my feet are bound
To well-worn highways of solid ground.

Blood of my blood is story.
The wild winds break and cry
Across far fields of glory,
With banners floating high.
Bayard and Arthur and Lion Heart—
The bugles blare and my pulses start.

Bone of my bone is wonder;
Such strange things can be true.
Old fables still crash thunder
Down from my midday blue.
Deep in my heart they still have power
To nerve my will for its darkest hour.

Heart of my heart is Odin,
Minerva, Isis, Pan.
The chariot Hector rode in
Leads on my marching van.
Truer than all the laws of dust
Are these that keep my life in trust.

EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY.

Dr. Paton Would Utilize Athletics Dispute for Demonstration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every year at Harvard and Princeton professors tell their students how easily wars may be averted, conditions in Europe changed for the better and the entire mental outlook of the world's population improved. I have no intention of questioning the possibility of realizing these ideals, but simply wish to suggest that in Massachusetts and New Jersey there exists an excellent opportunity for a practical demonstration of academic skill in diagnosing and correcting belligerent tendencies by suggesting methods of draining backed-up emotional floods.

The present strained relations between Harvard and Princeton bring up a series of interesting educational problems. Why not use the present opportunity to demonstrate how successful educational institutions can be in educating public sentiment? Here is a very good chance to see to what extent we can depend upon centres of learning to prevent the traditional molehill from becoming the irremovable mountain. The difficulties in the situation are particularly interesting to the student who wishes to have an opportunity to see how conditions favorable for the incidence of wars or mental disorders originate.

In cases of "football shock," just as in other forms of "civilization shock," the reasons usually assigned by the patient to account for emotional storms, overvalued ideas and conventional humbug are not sufficient to explain the variety of symptoms. Harvard undergraduates, were they carefully questioned, would probably not find it any easier to give satisfactory reasons for being irritated by the presence of Princetonians in Cambridge than would the New Jersey representatives be capable of telling just why The Lampoon's thrust went home and seemed to have touched the same point where once "the mighty Edwards stamped his iron heel."

In this over-tutored and over-coached generation football is taken entirely too seriously. At the time of the war I was greatly interested in studying the mental attitude of the aviator toward his daily work, and was given permission by the Surgeon General's office to examine at any time of day or night any flier whom it might be considered advisable to study. After the armistice the idea occurred to me that possibly the mental attitudes of the modern football player toward his work might afford interesting comparisons with some of the reactions of the aviator in wartime. I applied for an opportunity to observe the members of a team before one of the chief games of the season, but was told that the event was so important no chances could be taken of upsetting the equilibrium of the team by subjecting its members to an examination by an outsider. A reference to the comparative importance of winning the war or the football game did not change the decision, and the examinations were not made.

Later a case was brought to my attention that showed that the right kind of examinations would often be serviceable in determining whether a student was in condition to stand the strain of playing in a large game. I saw a member of a team who had not only played through one of the chief contests of the season in a state of abnormal excitement, but as the result of being unusually aggressive and without any restraining sense of fatigue, even after prolonged effort, was the means of winning a very close contest; but paid subsequently for his athletic prowess by spending a number of months as a patient in a hospital. The peculiar form of aggressiveness and absence of fatigue shown by this player is a symptom-complex highly prized by many coaches.

Some day when football again becomes an amateur form of sport players showing symptoms of romantic and religious ecstasy will be carefully watched, and not be allowed to put themselves in positions where they can easily do considerable damage either to themselves or their opponents.

So much for football in general. Now what can be done at once to restore conditions favorable for the entente cordiale? A suggestion as to methods to be used may be found in the following anecdote: As an undergraduate student at Princeton, I happened to be taking tea at Prospect with Mrs. McCosh when Dr. McCosh unexpectedly arrived from attending the Harvard celebration. In response to Mrs. McCosh's question as to the reason why he had returned a day earlier than he had expected to do, Dr. McCosh said that "as Professor Y. had not been the recipient of an honorary degree, and Mr. Holmes had read a poem referring to my college in a way I did not approve of, without making any attempt to reply I simply rose and left." To which Mrs. McCosh replied: "Oh, James, I am so thankful."

Emphasis on Unfair Tactics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With reference to THE TIMES editorial yesterday on the dispute between Princeton and Harvard, it is stated that "it is not a question of alleged unfair tactics or foul play on the football field."

I am wondering if this is so. I think inquiry would prove that the difficulties between the two colleges are based on experiences of foul play and unfair tactics. It is my recollection that this was the cause on one of the previous occasions when for years there were no games between the two colleges. Nothing seems to be said about this publicly, as the sufferers think it unmanly to complain, and the reporters of the game never seem to think it worth while to mention it. In the last game between the two colleges the referee did not seem to see anything, but there was a good deal of booing in the stands at the perfectly brutal and unfair treatment of some of the players on one side by some of the players on the other.

I think it would tend to bring about decent tactics if the newspaper reporters of the games would give accounts of what they actually saw in the way of brutality. At this last game one of the teams was instructed by its coach before the game to play a straight game of football without rough and unfair tactics.

LAFAYETTE YOUNG, NOTED EDITOR, DIES

Owner of The Des Moines Daily Capital Succumbs in Sleep at 78.

ONCE SENATOR FROM IOWA

Member of Old School of Journalism Began Career as Printer—Nominated Roosevelt in 1900.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 15 (AP).—Death today claimed a member of the old school of American journalism, Lafayette Young, editor and publisher of The Des Moines Daily Capital and former United States Senator. His age was 78.

Mr. Young died from heart disease while asleep in the rest room of a [illegible] parlor. He had been under observation of a physician for several [illegible] but earlier in the day, while at his office, had appeared in normal health.

Mr. Young's paper, which reflected his personality, will continue under his family, without change in administration or policy, Lafayette Young Jr., business manager, announced after his father's death.

Mr. Young's first newspaper venture was at Atlantic, Iowa, in 1873. He carried the mechanical equipment a long distance, piece by piece, on his back, and built up a newspaper that developed into a flourishing daily. He obtained control of The Daily Capital in 1890, and continued in active charge until a few years ago.

Mr. Young entered politics at the [illegible] when a rôle in a Republican campaign was assigned to him. He served in the State Senate for twelve years and in 1910 was appointed to fill the unexpired term of United States Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver. He nominated Theodore Roosevelt for Vice President in the national convention of 1900.

He leaves a widow, who has been critically ill recently, and two sons.

Born on a Farm.

"Lafe" Young, as Iowans liked to call their noted editor, was born on a farm near Eddyville, Monroe County, Iowa, on May 10, 1848. His father, Jesse Young, was the eldest son of [illegible], one of the earliest settlers of Iowa. Jesse Young's ancestors came from England in 1680, settling in Baltimore. "Lafe" Young was also a direct descendant of Conrad Kersey of Revolutionary War fame.

Mr. Young spent most of his boyhood on the farm. When he was 15 he tried to join his older brothers by enlisting in the Civil War, but was rejected because of his youth. He then became a printer apprentice in Albia. He went to St. Louis as a journeyman printer. It was in Albia that he got his start as a printer-editor. With his small salary in St. Louis he saved enough to launch The Atlantic Telegraph at Atlantic, Iowa. There, also, he got his start in politics.

When Mr. Young went to Des Moines his first effort as a news writer was an interview for The Des Moines Register with General W. T. Sherman, who was visiting his brother.

After he became owner and publisher of The Des Moines Capital, in 1890, he set type, pressed, worked as printer, did his best in the shop; conducted the news department, wrote editorials and attended to the business of advertising and circulation.

His tremendous energy soon began to bear fruit. The newspaper grew and prospered. He lived to see hundreds of employes in the various departments that he once had conducted practically unassisted.

On the death of Jonathan P. Dolliver on Oct. 15, 1910, Mr. Young was appointed United States Senator, serving until April, 1911.

At Front in Three Wars.

During the Spanish-American War Mr. Young was a newspaper correspondent with Shafter's army in Cuba. Later he was a member of the Taft party to the Philippines. In 1912 he was a correspondent in the Balkan war and in 1915 spent four months as war correspondent in Europe.

During this trip abroad he was held as a spy by the Austrians, who thought that his name, Lafayette, indicated a connection with France. The United States Government secured his release. After the armistice the King of the Belgians conferred the Order of Leopold II on Mr. Young.

Mr. Young married Miss Josephine [illegible] on March 20, 1870. Three children were born to them—Lafayette Young Jr. and Harold Young of Des Moines and Mrs. Nellie Brown Young [illegible] of Olean, N. Y. Mrs. Herrick died in February, 1923.

He then went to Russia, where he reported operations of the Bolshevist Army. He was said to have been the first newspaper man to publish interviews with Lenin and Trotsky.

PATRICK F. O'CONNOR.

Broker Who Carried Out Stock Deals for Harriman Dies.

Patrick F. O'Connor, well known to Wall Street men, who executed for the late E. H. Harriman many of his stock market purchases, died yesterday at his home in Belle Harbor, L. I., from acute indigestion. He was 64 years old and had spent all but fourteen in the financial district.

Beginning as a runner for the old firm of H. L. Nicholas & Co., Mr. O'Connor later went to Watson, Armstrong & Co. According to a story current in Wall Street, Mr. O'Connor was a close friend of Harriman at the time the railroad builder was acquiring control of the Union and Southern Pacific. Each morning Harriman outlined the details of the day's purchases to O'Connor, who had them carried out through various brokerage houses in a manner intended to conceal the destination of the shares.

HIRAM ABRAMS DEAD; UNITED ARTISTS' HEAD

Was Associate of Mary Pickford, Fairbanks, Chaplin and Griffith.

Hiram Abrams, President of the United Artists' Corporation, died at his home, 128 West Fifty-ninth Street, last night, of heart disease, at the age of 48. He had been confined to his home for two months.

Born in Portland, Me., Mr. Abrams became a merchant there. Soon after the advent of the motion picture he entered the business as a distributer in Boston.

In 1916 he became President of Paramount Pictures, continuing in that office until 1919, when United Artists was organized, with him as President. Associated with him in the organization of the company were Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and D. W. Griffith.

He leaves a widow and a daughter.

The particular talent that brought Mr. Abrams to an influential position in the motion-picture industry was that of salesmanship. Before he entered the business in 1904, when it was an infant industry, he had sold almost everything from newspapers to pianos. He had started to earn money as a boy of 9 with a newspaper route in Portland. With the gains of the route he bought a cow and sold her milk.

Once engaged in marketing films, he showed exceptional skill at directing their distribution among theatre owners. He was at the head of a large distributing concern in Boston when, in 1916, he was elected President of the Paramount Pictures Corporation in succession to William W. Hodkinson.

When the "Big Four" of the pictures, Chaplin, Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, and Griffith, formed the United Artists Corporation, former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, counsel for the new organization, advised the selection of Mr. Abrams as President, on the ground that he was the best man to dispose of the company's products.

Funeral services will be held at half past three o'clock this afternoon in the West End Funeral Chapel, 200 West Ninety-first Street.

SIMPLICITY TO MARK UNCLE JOE'S BURIAL

But All Danville's Activities Will Be Suspended During the Funeral Today.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 15 (AP).—With all the simplicity of his Quaker heritage, Joseph G. Cannon's body will be borne to the grave tomorrow as that of a private citizen. Not even a flag will cover the coffin of the man who served for forty-two years in the National House of Representatives and for eight years as its Speaker.

Prominent men, headed by Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who will come to pay final tribute will attend the services as friends and co-workers, and not as envoys of the Government he served, although the Vice President will come as a representative of President Coolidge.

Business houses, schools and offices of Danville will be closed during the afternoon for the funeral. One of the hundreds of floral tributes which came today to the Cannon home was from the 3,000 school children of Danville, all of whom knew "Uncle Joe" as one who often walked among them. Every school child from kindergarten to high school gave a penny toward the tribute.

PRISONERS' FRIEND, UNCLE TOM, IS DEAD

Anderson, Worker in Salvation Army 25 Years, Succumbs to Accidental Shot in Leg.

HE FORMED LIFERS' CLUB

Determined Life Work When Falsely Imprisoned and Seperated From Family—Rites to Be Held Today.

Uncle Tom Anderson, for twenty-five years a member of the Prison Department of the Salvation Army, was waiting for a bus outside his home in Glen Rock, N. J., last Wednesday when a shotgun, carried by Harold Rasmussen, who lived in the same house as Uncle Tom, was accidentally discharged. The 73-year-old veteran received the charge in the right leg. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, in Paterson, where he died on Saturday night as a result of gangrene. All this became known yesterday.

The police investigated the shooting, but decided it was accidental, and Rasmussen was not arrested.

Today they will bury Uncle Tom, the founder of the Lifers' Club and the Brighter Day League. The funeral services will be held at Army headquarters, 122 West Fourteenth Street, and burial will be in Kensico Cemetery. Ex-convicts, many of whom have made good, are expected to attend the rites.

Uncle Tom's particular passion in life was "doing good for prisoners." Twenty-five years ago he was arrested for mailing an objectionable letter, a letter that some one else wrote and that Uncle Tom had not read. Sentenced to ten years in the Albany State Prison, he served ten months before the mistake was rectified. But during those ten months he joined the Salvation Army and formed his sympathies with prisoners.

Upon his release he became a bona fide Army worker. Finding that his wife and two daughters had either deserted or forgotten him, he threw all of his energies into aiding unfortunates behind bars. The first Sunday in each month he would go to Sing Sing and conduct Army services. Eighty per cent. of the 350 "lifers" in American prisons were members at the time of his death of the Lifers' Club, which he had formed. The function of the club was to cheer up the more fortunate prisoners who had slighter sentences. The Brighter Day League was another organization of prisoners.

In 1921, many years after his separation from his wife and daughters, Hazel and Gladys, his twin children, read in a magazine of their father and his work. They journeyed from Philadelphia to the Army headquarters in New York and there spent an evening with him. All was explained and forgiven. His wife was dead.

Uncle Tom spent his early years in Washington, where he sold papers and blacked boots on the street when Abraham Lincoln was President. He served through the Civil War as a mascot of the Fourteenth Indiana Regiment, commanded by Colonel Coon.

3 Great Playing Pianos!

EVEN the most exacting gourmet in town will admit some fifteen places that are possible for a dinner party. And the motor fancier will name certainly five cars that are fine. But when a great playing piano comes to be chosen, the musician can tell you of three—and no more.

Welte-Mignon is one of them—the only one that embodies the perfected reproducing action in the piano perfected to play for it. If you would appreciate this difference fully, hear the other two first.

Then, in a mood that is critical and challenging, let the Welte-Mignon play for you here at our studios. In its own lovely voice it will answer whether or no it is the one instrument you want to call your own.

Tito Schipa
Waldorf Astoria Ballroom,
November 18, 1926

FEW singers are such excellent judges of their own art as Tito Schipa. He is of original mind and chooses for singing only such pieces and parts as will suit perfectly his voice and his method. And these he sings with skill and imagination. That is why he is such a favorite throughout the country . . . and why the Schipa Records are so much in demand. For the wonder of the new Orthophonic Victrola captures the wholesome robust quality and the lyric smoothness of his voice and brings it to your home in all its beauty. Ask to hear the Schipa Records at any dealer in Victor products. You will particularly enjoy "Valencia" (1177). It is a record you will want to own.

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

DROPS HER CONTEST OF SHERRY'S WILL

Restaurateur's Granddaughter Opposed His Bequest to J. Bentley Squier Clinic.

SETTLEMENT KEPT SECRET

Surplus, If Any, to Be Divided According to Estate Law, Attorney Says.

Mrs. Dorothy Ingersoll of 1,435 Lexington Avenue, daughter of a deceased daughter of Louis Sherry, late restaurateur, ended her contest of his will yesterday by withdrawing objections to the probate of the document as the case was scheduled to go to trial before Surrogate Foley.

The contestant had alleged that a bequest of the residuary estate to the J. Bentley Squier Clinic of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Centre was invalid to the extent of the excess over one-half of the value of the estate under a section of the Decedents' Estate law.

Cortland Betts, attorney for Mrs. Ingersoll, declined to affirm or deny reports that a settlement had been made outside of court, but he said that in any case if the bequest to the Medical Centre exceeded one-half of the estate it would be distributed in accordance with the provisions of the statute. In this event the excess would be distributed as if Mr. Sherry had died intestate, the contestant and her sister, Mrs. Elsie Rosalie Post of Shippan Point, Conn., receiving the share that would have gone to their mother, the late Mrs. H. Heyward Morrill, while the remainder would be divided between Mrs. Marie Bertha Sherry, the widow, and Ernest Sherry, a son. Mrs. Ingersoll refused to make any statement.

A list of assets of Mr. Sherry's estate filed in the Surrogates' court last August showed that the net estate, so far as was known at that time, was not much more than $500,000. Of this amount Mrs. Sherry inherits $50,000 outright and a $6,000 annuity, and Ernest Sherry gets $50,000 outright. Specific legacies, aside from the annuity, amounted to about $150,000. The will, dated Nov. 30, 1925, provided that any legatee who contested it should forfeit his or her legacy.

Section 17 of the Decedents' Estate law, on which Mrs. Ingersoll based her chief objection, says:

"No person having a husband, wife, child, or parent, shall, by his or her last will and testament, devise or bequeath to any benevolent, charitable, literary, scientific, religious or missionary society, association or corporation, in trust or otherwise, more than one-half part of his or her estate, after the payment of his or her debts, and such devise or bequest shall be valid to the extent of one-half and no more."

THREATEN WOMAN WITNESS.

Onlookers' Gestures in Murder Case Lead Judge to Clear Court.

Gestures by several men in court which threatened a woman witness in a murder case caused Magistrate August Dreyer to order the Homicide Court cleared of all spectators yesterday.

Mrs. Ada Wolf of 74 Delancey Street, said to be separated from her husband, was testifying at the examination of Joseph Greenberg, 32 Walton Street, Brooklyn, and Albert Lazar, 206 Eldridge Street, in connection with the shooting and killing of Samuel Feldman, 107 Attorney Street, in the apartment of Lazar early last Nov. 1. She testified that she had seen Greenberg shoot Feldman. Her testimony corroborated that of Nathan Cohen of 292 Christopher Street, Brooklyn, that Greenberg and Feldman had quarreled over her.

Cohen and Mrs. Wolf are under $2,500 bail each as material witnesses. The Magistrate ordered the police to provide guards for them. Several women spectators fainted as the courtroom was cleared. Greenberg and Lazar were held without bail for the Grand Jury.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVES.

Mount Vernon Gets $37,000 on First Day—Other Suburbs Report.

Returns for the first day of Mount Vernon's Community Chest drive were $37,000, it was reported last night by Leon Mann, chairman. Among the larger were: Edward L. Mayer and Mrs. Pauline Hirsch Mayer, $2,500; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitmore, $1,250; Mrs. Clement M. Biddle, $1,200; D. H. Ball, Joseph Durst, Max Goldstein, $1,000 each.

Morristown, N. J. reported $148,000 up to last night in its campaign, with the drive due to close and $27,000 as yet unattained. In the Oranges, $365,000 was reported, with $65,000 needed to reach the goal. White Plains had obtained $66,510 from 2304 contributors, but although its drive was due to close last night it will be continued through this week.

The first day of the drive in Newark yielded almost $154,000. The goal there is $1,092,231. There were contributions from 3,218 persons. The largest individual givers were Uzal H. McCarter, President of the Fidelity Union Trust Company, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Conklin, who subscribed $10,000.

MYSTERY WOMAN IS ILL.

Taken From Shack in Woodside Where She Lived Alone Eight Years.

Woodside's mystery woman is in St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, in a weakened condition due to old age, exposure and lack of proper food. She was removed to the hospital late yesterday afternoon from her little shack in a clump of woods in Woodside after the police had been notified that she seemed to be ailing. Detectives are trying to locate some relative or friend who may be able to care for her.

For some eight years Mary Sanchez has lived in a shack in a clump of woods within the triangle made by Queens Boulevard, Hancock Street and Roosevelt Avenue, Woodside. It has been rumored through the section surrounding the location that she is wealthy but eccentric. She resented any attempted intrusion upon her privacy and made no friends. The shack was found to contain only boxes and crates and a small oil heater. About $160 in cash and 20 shares of stock in a Marconi wireless corporation were found in an old sock.

Club Curfew Hearing Friday.

Cabaret and night club proprietors will have an opportunity at 2 o'clock next Friday afternoon in the Aldermanic Chamber to voice their opinions on Mayor Walker's 3 A. M. On a Register of an Inn a Writer Writ—

"This is a Homelike Place."

This cannot be justly said of all large buildings, which are often the opposite of homelike.

Perhaps to some the outside of this mammoth house may bear a resemblance to an old gray barn. Take five minutes and come inside.

Wherever you walk there is so much to see, and the spaces are so well filled that the bigness of the building is lost.

In a pleasant way, each of the men and women attendants meets you as a guest, and you are free to say to any of them:

"Landlord—

"When will the Auditorium organ play?"

"Where is the Picture Gallery?"

"Direct me to the Restaurant!"

"Guide me to the rest rooms!"

Visitors are free of all and every obligation to become purchasers.

NEW JERSEY BOARD TO MAP CRIME WAR

Legislature Votes to Appoint a Committee of Both Houses and Bench to Report in January.

MOORE PROPOSES BILLS

One Measure Would Increase Penalty for Banditry, Other for Carrying of Weapons.

ONE CALLED "HYSTERICAL"

Proposals Are Not Comprehensive Enough, Say Senators—All Appointments Confirmed.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Whatever steps the Legislature may take to combat New Jersey's crime wave will be determined by a commission to be made up of two members of the Senate, two members of the Assembly and four members of the Court of Errors and Appeals.

This decision was reached tonight when both houses adopted a resolution introduced by Senator Emerson Richards, Republican, of Atlantic County. The commission is to begin a study immediately of the whole problem of detection, apprehension, trial, conviction, sentence, parole or appeal of criminals and is to report at the opening of the 1927 session of the Legislature in January.

The resolution was introduced tonight after Governor Moore had sent to the Legislature a special message urging immediate action on two bills that he introduced through Senator Alexander Simpson of Hudson County, the Democratic floor leader. One bill proposed drastic penalties for banditry and the other would remove the limitation that weapons must be concealed to be regarded as dangerous.

Attack Moore's Proposals.

Senators Richards, Harrison of Essex, Case of Somerset and Mackay of Bergen, all Republicans, spoke in support of the resolution, attacking the Governor's proposals as hysterical and insufficiently comprehensive to cover the whole ground. Senators Harrison and Case stressed the point that apprehension rather than punishment of bandits was the important thing to be accomplished.

The Governor's message, transmitted first, and the bills, introduced by Senator Simpson, were promptly referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee. It is presumed that any action will be delayed until the 1927 session, opening in January.

"Within the past few months there have been committed in this State a number of crimes of violence which, because of the boldness and daring of the criminals, seem to challenge the forces of organized society," said the message. "One of the crimes was accompanied by the wanton murder of a husband and son before the eyes of the terrified mother, who herself was thrown from a moving automobile.

"Those responsible for the enforcement of the criminal law of this State, as well as all thoughtful citizens, are alarmed over an evident increase in highway robbery and other acts of violence. Willingness to take human life recklessly and, indeed, almost unnecessarily, in carrying out holdups and robberies seems to become more marked with each successive crime.

"Under the conditions which have been developing and which are now existing, only stern measures in the nature of reprisals will do. This is no time to indulge one's self in planning the best way to show humanitarian kindness to the criminal. Just now we should be more concerned with saving the lives and property of our people.

Proposes Two Bills.

"Accordingly, I have asked Senator Simpson to introduce two bills, viz.:

"One defines the crime of 'banditry' or 'hold-up' as perpetrated by the present-day criminal, it not being adequately covered by existing laws. The penalty is fixed as follows: $5,000 fine, fifty years or life imprisonment at hard labor, in the discretion of the Court.

"The other bill removes the limitation of the present act that the weapon must be concealed, and makes the unlawful carrying of a dangerous weapon a high misdemeanor, instead of just a misdemeanor, as now provided by law.

"These measures embody the mature suggestions of the participants in the conference at the State House of Judges, Prosecutors, Chiefs of Police and Directors of Public Safety of the various counties and cities of the State on the subject matter of this communication.

"I earnestly and sincerely urge you to give them immediate consideration. In their passage, I believe, will be found an effective deterrent to the present tendency to crimes of violence.

"Neither of the proposed measures is regarded by me as a panacea. The problem is an involved one, difficult of solution. It is being studied in the hope that at the next regular session of your body there can be presented perhaps a more complete program to remedy the present evils, as it is generally conceded that our entire crimes act should be scientifically revised."

Nominations Are Made.

The Governor also sent these nominations to the Senate:

Judge of the Circuit Court—W. Frank Sooy of Atlantic City, to succeed Theodore Schimpf, deceased.

Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals—Joseph A. Dear of Jersey City, to succeed Walter P. Gardner, resigned.

Member of the Commissioners of Pilotage—John J. Scully of Jersey City.

Prosecutor of the Pleas of Salem County—William A. W. Grier of Salem, to succeed Daniel F. Summerill Jr., deceased.

Member of the Salem County Board of Taxation—Charles L. Smith of Penns Grove to succeed William A. W. Grier, resigned.

Ocean County Board of Taxation—Augustus L. Keil of Beachhaven to succeed E. Moss Mathis, resigned.

The Senate confirmed all the nominations.

After receiving the appointments, the Republican Senators went into conference. When they emerged a resolution adjourning the session until Jan. 11 was adopted. This is the day before the 1927 session opens and such a recess would prevent the Governor from making ad interim appointments.

Cooks Corned Beef for Jury To Show Steam Device Is Safe

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Burt J. Humphrey in Long Island City yesterday witnessed a practical demonstration by a Columbia instructor of how to prepare corned beef and cabbage in a steam cooker without danger to themselves.

This feature of applied domestic science was given in testimony that Mrs. Nellie O'Shea Hannigen, 35, a domestic employed in Flushing, was at fault in burning her face, chest and arms while preparing dinner for Swift Tarbell, General Manager of the Baltimore Lunch Company, at his home at 324 West 103d Street, Manhattan, April 14, 1923. Mrs. Hannigen is suing her former employer for $25,000.

She declared that in manipulating the cooker for the first time a cloud of steam enveloped her. Tarbell told the Court that his cook had not obeyed his instructions, and produced one of the machines, which Ralph Goodwin, 120 West Eleventh Street, instructor in civil engineering at Columbia, operated. As the savory odors filled the court room, court was adjourned until today. It was getting toward meal time, anyway.

HANSON IS FLOOR LEADER.

Assemblyman's Easy Victory Points to Repeal of Primary Law.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 15.—That faction of the Republican Party in New Jersey led by United States Senator Walter E. Edge and State Chairman Edward C. Stokes won a surprisingly easy victory here today when its candidate, Assemblyman Thomas L. Hanson of Middlesex County, was unanimously elected at a conference of Republican members-elect of the 1927 Assembly to be the majority's floor leader.

Up until a few hours before the caucus it had been expected that Hanson would face a stiff fight for the place from Assemblyman F. H. Groel of Essex. Groel was counting on the votes of Passaic and Union Counties, and these, in addition to his own delegation, would have left him only four more to get to win. But Robert Zachary, Senator Edge's secretary, appeared in the State House early in the day and he, with ex-Governor Stokes and the latter's workers, soon had the situation in hand. The result was that only Hanson's name was put in nomination.

Assemblyman Anthony Siracusa of Atlantic County was chosen Speaker of the House. The Senate Republicans also caucused and named Senator Francis R. Davis of Gloucester for President next year and Senator W. A. Stevens of Monmouth for floor leader.

Election of Assemblyman Hanson is taken to mean that the Edge-Stokes cohorts will have no trouble in putting through the proposed Primary law repealer. Its passage by the Senate is conceded. The followers of National Committeeman Hamilton Kean and former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen are opposed to the scheme. Kean and Frelinghuysen are both regarded as willing to enter a primary contest for nomination as Senator in 1928, while Mr. Stokes is expected to seek the nomination if he can put the convention plan across.

OLD BENNETT LETTERS TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

Collection Includes Papers Signed by Washington and Lincoln.

Historical letters and documents from the estate of the late James Gordon Bennett, who owned The New York Herald, will be sold at auction at the Anderson Galleries next Tuesday afternoon, by order of Rodman Wanamaker and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, executors, according to announcement yesterday.

The collection, of 132 items, includes letters from the Clinton papers, letters written by signers of the Declaration of Independence, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and letters regarding the threatened duel between James Monroe and Alexander Hamilton.

One letter in the collection is a "private and confidential" one from President Lincoln, dated Sept. 28, 1861, to the elder James Gordon Bennett, in which the war-time President said in part:

"Last evening Mr. Wickoff solicited me for a pass, or permission to a gentleman . . . to accompany our vessels down the Potomac today, as a reporter for The Herald, saying that the Secretary of the Navy had refused, when he had given the privilege to reporters of other papers. It was too late at night for me to see the Secretary, and I had to decline giving the permission, because the Secretary might have a sufficient reason unknown to me. I write this to assure you that the Administration will not discriminate against The Herald, especially while it sustains us so generously, and the cause of the country so ably as it has been doing."

EX-INSPECTORS SEEK WRIT.

Two Dismissed by Health Department Want Trial Reviewed.

Henry Corker of 423 Ridgewood Avenue, Brooklyn, and Isidore Merlis of 770 Tremont Avenue, the Bronx, former milk inspectors in the Health Department, who were dismissed on June 4, 1926, have applied to Justice MacCrate in the Brooklyn Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari. They allege that their dismissal was not in accord with justice and ask a review of the proceedings.

They were dismissed after trial by the Board of Health on charges brought by Harry Danziger, who was alleged to have been the go-between in the payment of graft to allow unauthorized milk and cream to enter this city. Corker said last night that they were dismissed, although Danziger could not remember where or why he paid the alleged bribe or how much was paid. He held that not only was his dismissal illegal but that, as former war veterans, he and Merlis were entitled to special consideration under the law. Although charged with taking a bribe, Corker said, their notices of dismissal said it was for "irregularity of duty."

The Health Department, through the Corporation Counsel's office, filed a general denial in reply to the petition for a writ.

TWO COUPLES KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH

Child Is Dying, After Mother Tried to Beat Express at Gloucester, N. J.

GIRL DIES IN BROOKLYN

Pushes Her Little Brother to Safety, but Is Hit by a Taxi—Others Die in Accidents.

Two men and two women were instantly killed and the six-year-old daughter of one couple was probably mortally injured, late yesterday afternoon, when her mother drove the automobile in which they were riding in front of an electric express train of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad at a crossing in Gloucester, N. J., a short distance from Camden. When several other motorists who had witnessed the accident ran to the assistance of the occupants of the crushed automobile, they found Frederick Schoettle, 34 years old, a contractor, of Gloucester, and his wife, Florence, 32 years old, the driver of the car, lying dead on one side of the rails, while a short distance away were the bodies of Wesley Ayres, 35 years old, and Mrs. Edna Rickson, 24 years old, also residents of Gloucester.

Ruth Schoettle, 6 years old, a daughter of the dead couple, had been hurled out of the automobile by the impact with the forward car of the train and when picked up unconscious, a short distance from the bodies of her parents, was found to have received a fracture of the skull and internal injuries. She was hurried in another automobile to the West Jersey Homeopathic Hospital at Camden.

The impatience of Mrs. Schoettle to cross the rails in advance of the approaching express train was attributed by the witnesses as the cause of the accident. Mrs. Schoettle was on her way to her home, a short distance from the railroad crossing at Railroad Avenue and Essex Street, when the accident occurred. Several motorists had stopped to permit the train, traveling at sixty miles an hour, to pass, when Mrs. Schoettle, they said, swung from behind them and attempted to dash over the crossing, which is unprotected except for a gateman. While the waiting motorists were shouting in an effort to dissuade the woman from her purpose, the swiftly moving electric train struck the automobile and hurled it thirty feet.

Josephine Fazio, 14 years old, of 5 Middagh Street, Brooklyn, lost her life yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a taxicab after she had hurled her five-year-old brother Philip out of danger at High Street and Liberty Plaza, near the Brooklyn entrance to Brooklyn Bridge. The girl and her little brother had started to cross the plaza when the taxicab, owned and operated by John Sharkey, 75 Montgomery Street, appeared beside them as they stepped from behind an automobile. Josephine had time enough to shove little Philip to one side, but the fender of the taxicab hit her and she was hurled to the street.

Sharkey placed the girl and her brother in his machine and hurried with them to Long Island College Hospital. Josephine died within five minutes of her arrival, however. Examination of Philip by surgeons revealed that Josephine had saved him from injury. Sharkey reported the accident to the Poplar Street Station, where he was held on technical homicide charge.

Norma Jaeger, 3 years old, of South Village Avenue, Lynbrook, was instantly killed yesterday near her home, the third child to die in motor vehicle accidents in Lynbrook since last Saturday. Witnesses said that in the absence of her mother the child strayed from her home to Ocean Avenue, near by, into the path of a motor truck being driven by Richard Radcliff of 169-23 Eighty-eighth Avenue, Jamaica, Queens. He was arrested on a technical homicide charge and later was held without bail, pending an investigation, when he was arraigned before Acting Coroner Neu.

Samuel Jacobwitz, 4 years old, of 132 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, was crossing the street near his home in the afternoon when he was struck and killed by a motor truck, the operator of which drove off without waiting to learn the extent of the little fellow's injury. Witnesses gave the police a description of the vehicle, and a general alarm was sent out calling for the arrest of the driver on a first degree manslaughter charge.

Harry Baily, five years old, of 450 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, was killed by an automobile moving van in the afternoon at Seventh Avenue and Fifteenth Street, near his home. The vehicle was being operated by Andrew Betz, 1,652 DeKalb Avenue.

Richard Scudder, four years old, of Sparta, N. J., standing in front of the Sparta Postoffice, with his father, in the afternoon, was struck and killed by an automobile. The driver of the car, Charles R. Birdsall of Hawthorne, was detained, pending an investigation by Coroner Clarence DeHart.

Mrs. Stella Searcy of Trenton, N. J., died on her way to the Princeton Hospital shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday morning from injuries received on the Lincoln Highway at Princeton in a collision of two automobiles in a fog. Her husband, Clarence, was removed to the hospital in a critical condition with a possible fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain. They were passengers in the car being driven by James E. Paterson of Trenton when it was in a head-on crash with the automobile being driven by Louis Kovatch of 560 West 160th Street, this city. Paterson and Kovatch were committed to the Trenton Jail without bail.

The men were arraigned later before Mayor Updike of Princeton on technical manslaughter charges. Mrs. Eileen Kovatch, wife of the driver of one of the cars; Andrew Kovatch, brother of the driver, of 92 Haven Road, this city, and the latter's wife, Elsie, were held in $300 bail each by the Mayor as material witnesses.

Motorcycle Patrolman Felix Hoffman was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when his machine was in collision with the automobile being driven by State Senator Thomas J. Walsh in Bay Street, St. George, S. I. The patrolman was removed in an ambulance to St. Vincent's Hospital. The Senator, who represents Staten Island in the Legislature, was driving his car but escaped injury.

Allowed to Keep Dam Near Estates.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—John W. Steele, a New York attorney, and his wife, Mrs. Marion L. Steele, who own a country estate near Mamaroneck on the Sound, won a legal victory today in an action brought against them both by Mrs. Olivia Hoe Slade to compel them to remove a dam across a millpond adjoining their estate, when Supreme Court Justice Frank L. Young dismissed the complaint. A main point in the suit was whether Van Amringe's millpond, where the dam is located, was navigable water, but Justice Young said the depth of the water did not determine its navigability.

State Budget for 1927-28 Put at $200,000,000; Jump Over Present Fiscal Year $14,000,000

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP).—Tentative estimates of the Legislative Budget Committee place the cost of State government for the fiscal year 1927-28 at more than $200,000,000. The cost for the present year will approximate $186,000,000.

The principal increase will be in the cost of maintaining the State's educational program. Here an increase in appropriations of $11,000,000 for local school districts is mandatory, and $4,000,000 in salary increases is scheduled. Other big items are expected when the budgets of the Tax Department and the Department of Public Works are available.

A further reduction in income taxes is problematical, the committee believes. A reduction will depend entirely on the limits in which appropriations for the next fiscal year may be held.

The cost of the State government has nearly trebled in ten years. The figures for these years are:

1917, $79,742,835; 1918, $81,525,271; 1919, $95,840,983; 1920, $145,219,906; 1921, $145,798,092; 1922, $149,363,752; 1923, $161,322,866; 1924, $158,122,187; 1925, $173,397,940, and 1926, $185,896,833.

LARGE FEES ASKED IN BROWNING SUIT

$25,000 for Wife's Counsel and $15,000 for Medical Research Requested of Court.

$4,000 A MONTH ALIMONY

Affidavits Filed Indicate Trial of Suit Will Be Sensational—Court Ruling Next Week.

Affidavits indicating that the trial of the separation suit brought by Edward W. Browning, real estate operator, against his 16-year-old wife, Frances "Peaches" Heenan Browning, will be sensational were filed yesterday with Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser at White Plains, after an argument for alimony and counsel fees. Mrs. Browning asked for $25,000 counsel fees, $15,000 for medical research and consultation and $4,000 a month alimony pending trial of the suit.

The item for medical research is due to the nature of the defense which Mrs. Browning will offer when the case comes to trial. Mr. Browning asks for separation on the grounds of cruel treatment, due to his wife's refusal to live with him, and abandonment. Henry Epstein, attorney for Mrs. Browning, argued that there could be no abandonment if the husband, by his cruelty, drove his wife from their home.

"From the first instant of their marriage, she claims," said Mr. Epstein, "he pursued conduct toward her which made life impossible."

"Do the affidavits show that?" asked Justice Morschauser.

"Yes," replied the lawyer, "but I do not want to go into that now."

"I am glad you do not," said Justice Morschauser.

Mr. Epstein justified the large fee asked for on the ground that Mr. Browning's income is at least $300,000 a year, basing that estimate on an appraisal of his personal holdings and his holdings in the Edbro Realty Corporation, in which he is a stockholder. The real estate held in Mr. Browning's name, he said, had a market value of $1,382,000 and was assessed at $946,000, while the realty company holdings amount to $5,029,500.

The lawyer also estimated that the Browning Rolls-Royce and two chauffeurs represented an expense of $800 a month. Mrs. Browning, on the other hand, he said, had no resources at all.

Justice Morschauser interrupted to say that there was no doubt that Mrs. Browning was entitled to an allowance, that, in fact, she must have one for the purpose of defending herself, the only question being how large it should be.

"He invited her into court. He started the machinery," he said.

But when Mr. Epstein spoke of the need to retain eminent counsel, indicating John W. Mack, who has been retained to aid Francis C. Dale, Mr. Browning's attorney, Justice Morschauser somewhat deprecated the suggestion.

"Facts are what you want, not counsel," he said with a smile. "You can get any kind of counsel, but you can't buy facts."

Mr. Mack said he had no desire to oppose a reasonable allowance for counsel fees and alimony, but that his client wished to get the matter over as soon as possible and did not wish to be burdened with heavy expense pending a trial which might be delayed unnecessarily.

Decision as to the counsel fees and other expenses will be reached some day next week after affidavits are submitted to Justice Morschauser on Saturday. The trial is set for Dec. 4, but the Court assured Mr. Epstein that he would not be required to go on at that time if he was not prepared, and intimated that a date in January might be fixed.

SHOOTS WIFE, HIMSELF AS CHILDREN LOOK ON

Man Whips Out Pistol in Dispute Over Moving—Little Hope for Either of Couple.

In the presence of their five children, ranging in ages from 9 to 17 years, John Plock, 49 years old, shot his wife, Martha, in the breast last night in their new home at 173 Russell Street, Greenpoint, and then inflicted a wound in his right temple that may cause his death. The Plocks, with their children, the eldest a girl, 17, and four boys, came to this city from Baltimore two weeks ago.

Plock, according to the stories told to the police by the five children, made unsuccessful efforts to obtain employment. When he returned home last night he informed his wife, who was 42 years old, that he intended to move back to Baltimore. Mrs. Plock protested, and in a quarrel which ensued her husband whipped a pistol from his hippocket and sent a bullet into her left breast. As his daughter and the older of the boys started toward their mother on the floor, Plock turned the weapon on himself.

An ambulance surgeon from Greenpoint Hospital said that there was little chance that either the father or mother would recover. Plock, however, was formally arrested for shooting his wife.

MINISTERS ISSUE DRY CALL.

Binghamton Association Seeks State Drive Against Modification.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP).—A call for action against modification of the Volstead act was issued today by the Binghamton Ministerial Association.

The call was in the form of an appeal addressed to "all good citizens throughout the State of New York," and urged a general conference for the purpose of launching an aggressive campaign against all parties or organizations seeking to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment or modify the Volstead act, and for the election of officials who will make the prohibition amendment more effective.

MASON AND OWEN GO FREE IN CHICAGO

State Senator and Former Dry Director Are Acquitted of Dry Law Conspiracy.

JURY OUT TWO HOURS

Government Will Proceed With Trial of Two Others Named in Same Charges.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—State Senator Lowell B. Mason and Major Percy Owen, former Prohibition Director of Illinois, were found not guilty late today by a Federal jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The jury deliberated less than two hours.

Both defendants and their wives were in court when the verdict was read.

Senator Mason declared himself gratified, "not only for my own sake but because of my family and friends, who have stood by me, and the 24,000 voters who expressed their faith in me at the election while the case was still pending." Mason was re-elected to the State Senate on Nov. 2.

Michael Feinberg, the attorney who represented Major Owen, said the quickness with which the verdict was returned was proof that the prosecution had no evidence, and that the District Attorney "had no business to indict public officials on such evidence as he had."

The State alleged that thousands of gallons of sacramental wine had been diverted into illegal channels and that the graft amounted to thousands of dollars.

Assistant District Attorney Leo Klein declined to make any statement when asked about the disposition of the case against Ralph W. Stone and Harry R. Schlau and others who testified on behalf of the Government and were indicted in the same case. Mr. Klein said: "Neither has pleaded guilty. Their trials will come up in the near future."

In charging the jury, Judge Carpenter said that the Government had alleged thirty or forty overt acts of conspiracy to withdraw wine illegally.

"If you find," he said, "that the Government has proved to your satisfaction the commitment of just one overt act beyond all possible doubt you are to find the defendants guilty."

BROOKHART URGES AN EXTRA SESSION

Iowa Senator-Elect Says It Can Be Forced by Holding Back Appropriation Bills.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Senator-elect Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa advocated today a special session of Congress next Summer to enact special farm relief legislation, which he believes should be started in the session opening next month and which, he declared, should precede the appropriation bills, which could go over until the extra session.

"I want to congratulate the farmers of Iowa upon their emphatic victory, because it was their victory and not mine," Colonel Brookhart said. "The victory is not due to any strict party alignment, and those who arose above party demands to support the farm program are entitled to the greatest credit.

"A survey of the situation shows that the farm bloc easily has the balance of power in both houses of the new Congress. It also shows the Administration still in opposition to any adequate farm bill. Being opposed to farm relief, there is no chance that the President will call an extra session unless the appropriation bills are displaced until after March 4. This can easily be done by a dozen Senators, in spite of the wrath of the Vice President, and I see no reason why it should not be favored by a majority of the old Senate."

If farm legislation was passed and then vetoed, Mr. Brookhart said, it would be the issue of the national election.

"Since about a million farmers have lost their property or their homes during the last six years, and the vast majority of them are now facing disaster, the most speedy and drastic action is demanded," he added. "Anybody who thinks this battle can be won by whistling 'Yankee Doodle' needs the attention of a psychopathic specialist."

GARMENT STRIKERS MEET.

40,000 Hear Peace Agreement—To Vote on It Today.

The striking garment workers, 40,000 strong, met yesterday in halls throughout the city, and listened while their leaders explained the terms of the peace agreement with the inside shop manufacturers. The agreement has been signed by Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Louis Hyman, head of the Joint Committee, who has been leading the strike, and by Henry M. Finder, President of the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., for the employers. Today the workers will vote on accepting the terms, and tomorrow and Thursday are expected to see the strikers back at work after twenty weeks of idleness.

Some of the largest meetings were in the Stuyvesant Casino at 140 Second Street; Webster Hall, 119 East Eleventh Street; Bryant Hall, 725 Sixth Avenue; Hennington Hall, 214 Second Street, and in Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Forty-seventh Street.

EDWARDS DEMANDS NATIONAL DRY POLL

Senator Calls Repeal Our Gravest Problem Since the Constitution Was Adopted.

SEES LIBERTY VOTED AWAY

He Tells American Rights Association Only 7,286 Legislators, Not the People, Voted on Issue.

A nation-wide referendum on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, which he said he considered the "gravest" problem which has arisen since the adoption of the Constitution, was urged by Senator Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey at a meeting at the Hotel Biltmore last night under the auspices of the Non-Partisan Association for American Rights. Fewer than 100 persons attended.

Assemblyman Phelps Phelps, author of the New York Referendum bill, which was carried at the election, Nov. 2, presided. The Senator's appeal for the adoption of the joint resolution which he offered at the last session of Congress, and which he said he should actively urge as soon as Congress opens in December, was applauded.

The resolution provides for the repeal of the prohibition amendment after the repeal has been ratified by conventions in three-fourths of the States. These conventions, it is provided, are to be held prior to the Presidential election of 1928 and are to be made up of delegates elected by a majority of the voters in the several States. The number of delegates and the time and place of the conventions are to be settled upon by the various State Legislatures. A vote of the majority of the delegates to each convention is to decide the issue in that particular State.

"The object of my resolution is to give the people of the United States the right to vote directly to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment," Senator Edwards said. "The people have never been given an opportunity to vote on this question. As every one knows, the Eighteenth Amendment became a part of the Constitution when it was ratified by three-fourths of the legislatures of the several States. The members of the State Legislatures are the only individuals in this country who ever voted on the amendment.

"In giving the people this chance to exercise their legal right to vote on this question, I am raising what I believe to be the most momentous issue ever presented to the people of this country; an issue which necessarily and directly involves the power and ability of the American people to govern themselves.

"It is an issue which raises the question whether the American people are a nation of free men or a nation of slaves; a nation where certain of our representatives—to wit, a majority of the legislators of three-fourths of the States—have greater power than the people; a nation where the rights of free men may be taken from them without they themselves having had any opportunity to vote directly for or against, upon the assumption that when they adopted the Constitution they expressly authorized the Legislatures of three-quarters of the States to vote away their hard earned liberties, without giving them an opportunity to vote them back again."

SEARCH FOR DERBY HAT LEADS TO 2 ARRESTS

Accused Are Held on Charge of Swindling Waldorf Jeweler Out of Watch.

Six and seven-eighths is not an unusual size for a derby hat, but it was sufficient to cause the arrest yesterday of two men, charged with having swindled a jeweler in the Waldorf out of a $450 platinum wrist watch.

The accused are: Arther Sebastian, alias John J. Harris, and Vincent Ligget. About a week ago the two registered at the Waldorf, and about the same time they registered at the Hotel Roosevelt. A few days ago they selected a platinum wrist watch at Drouve's jewelry store in the Waldorf, and asked to have it sent to their room.

When Miss Caroline Kane, a clerk in the store, took the watch to the room, Sebastian is said to have told her to charge it on his hotel bill. It was said he picked up the telephone and pretended he was calling the credit manager. Miss Kane said he told her that everything was arranged, but that when she called on the credit manager he knew nothing of the conversation, and when she returned to the room the two men were gone.

A short time after, the manager of the jewelry store told the manager of a hat store next door of the swindle. The hat store man remembered the men, and said that they had been in his shop, one of them wanting a black derby hat, size 6⅞, but that he did not have it in stock. Believing the men might try other hat stores, an alarm was sent out. This led to their arrest in the Roosevelt. The watch was recovered later from a Sixth Avenue jeweler to whom Sebastian sold it, the police said.

DRY HEADS ON TRAIL OF MAIL ORDER RING

Syndicate Here With Customers All Over Country Is Hinted At in Arrest of Two.

$180,000 IN EIGHT MONTHS

Audited Books Showing Business of "Tiptop Service" Found—Codes Also Discovered in Office.

Assistant United States Attorney Robert B. Watts said yesterday that United States Attorney Buckner had information indicating the existence here of a mail order liquor syndicate with customers in every State of the Union.

This announcement came after United States Commissioner Cotter had held Albert Goldstein of 250 West Ninety-ninth Street and Sidney Bobis of 9 East 118th Street in $1,000 bail each for examination, charged with violating the prohibition law. Mr. Watts said that the investigation would probably go much further than the questioning of these two.

Goldstein and Bobis were arrested Saturday as they were leaving the Brokaw Building at 1,457 Broadway. They were carrying two packages, according to Mr. Watts, which had been wrapped for mailing and addressed to persons in the West whose names he refused to make public.

He said the two men had occupied Room 910 in the Brokaw Building, operating under the name "Tiptop Service." On the door were the names I. Cooper and Al Goldstein. Examination of the room disclosed, Mr. Watts added, books and papers of account showing that the "service" had done a business amounting to $180,000 in the last eight months.

The books, Mr. Watts said, had been audited recently, as they bore the notations of a public accountant. There were also codes for the use of customers and salesmen, according to the Assistant United States Attorney, and several cancelled checks and vouchers. The codes, he declared, were in figures, various numbers indicating the quantities of "merchandise" ordered.

In sentencing three women, two of them mothers, to the Tombs yesterday for operating illicit stills, and fining two others for possessing and selling liquor, Federal Judge William Bondy said from the bench in the United States District Court that there was plenty of honest work for women and that women bootleggers could expect no leniency from him.

Mrs. Mary Jabolsky, mother of four, was sentenced to fifteen days in the Tombs following her plea of guilty to a charge of having two stills in her home at 108 First Avenue. Mrs. Mary Allen, also a mother, was sentenced to serve twenty-one days for having a still in her home at 513 West 180th Street.

STILL NEAR YALE BOWL CONFISCATED BY POLICE

Capacity of 1,000 Gallons—Labels Proclaimed 'Whisky 11 Years Old'—Three Arrests.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15 (AP).—A 1,000-gallon still in full operation almost under the earthen walls of the Yale Bowl came into possession of West Haven police today.

A two-story cottage was found to be given over entirely to the distillery. William Ursini leveled a gun at State Trooper Schatzman as the latter entered an inner room, the police said.

"I thought you were a hi-jacker," Ursini explained, "they got 400 gallons a week ago, and I wasn't taking any chances." William Ursini and his brother Carl were arrested.

Harry Mitchas, proprietor of the neighboring Derby Falls Inn, is being held on a technical charge as a result of the raid.

On the first floor were found twenty-four 52-gallon drums and 812 5-gallon tins of the finished produce, while a garage at the rear yielded twenty-four drums of the same size filled with denatured alcohol.

NEW BOOK BY CHILD POET.

"The Singing Crow," by Nathalia Crane, Goes on Sale Today.

A new volume of verse, "The Singing Crow," by Nathalia Crane, 13-year-old poet, who has already published four books which have attracted wide attention, will be placed on sale today. Albert and Charles Boni are the publishers. The present collection of poems, it was said at the office of the publishers, showed a tendency to greater simplicity of style and vocabulary than the earlier work of the author.

In one poem, "Spooks," the red-haired youth who figures in "The Janitor's Boy," perhaps the best known of Nathalia's poems, reappears. In this piece, as in several others, there are frequent flashes of humor.

Col. Friedsam Honored at Dinner.

Colonel Michael Friedsam, Chairman of the Governor's Commission on School Finance and Administration, appointed last year by Governor Smith to investigate school financing, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner at the Waldorf, given by the other members of the commission. A bound copy of the report submitted last April by the committee to Governor Smith was presented to Colonel Friedsam.

MEDICINAL WHISKY NEARS DEPLETION

Andrews Drafts a Bill for the Production of 3,000,000 Gallons Yearly.

SAYS EMERGENCY EXISTS

Imported Liquor Could Not Be Properly Inspected Here, the Treasury Holds.

CONGRESS FIGHT EXPECTED

Drys Are Said to Be Opposed to Manufacture of Liquor for Any Purpose Whatsoever.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement, announced today that a bill would be presented to the coming session of Congress authorizing the manufacture of more whisky for medicinal purposes. He referred to a threatened shortage as a situation creating an "emergency." Secretary Mellon also indicated approval of the proposal as a public necessity, inasmuch as the supply of good whisky available for medicine is running low.

In the past all bills sponsored by the Administration have had as their chief purpose to make the country a drier place to live in, and there are reports that stout opposition will be raised by advocates of prohibition when the proposal to make more whisky for any purpose whatsoever is placed before Congress.

Treasury officials, however, feel that the step must be taken, and they are opposed to a policy of importing whisky for medicines, because of the virtual impossibility of setting up American Government inspection to determine the purity of the liquor supply thus received.

General Andrews said today that distillation would be authorized under the proposal only for legitimate medicinal needs. At the same time he admitted that the amount of whisky distributed for use as medicine was steadily increasing and that the number of persons licensed to dispense such whisky had more than doubled in the last two years.

2,000,000 Gallons Yearly Used.

It was said that the present demand for medicinal liquor was at the rate of about 2,000,000 gallons a year. There were estimated to be about 50,000,000 gallons in storage in November, 1921, and some estimates are that there should be about 23,000,000 left, although, due to processes which are known technically in the whisky trade as "shrinkage, evaporation and absorption," it is possible that all but 14,000,000 or 15,000,000 gallons have disappeared.

Under such conditions it is felt by General Andrews that there should not be long delay in authorizing the manufacture of more whisky to meet the medicinal demand, as it is necessary that such whisky should age for at least five years before distribution in order to acquire the qualities essential to a good brand of liquor.

However that may be, the bill authorizing the manufacture has been drafted in tentative form and is before Secretary Mellon for his approval before being transmitted to Congress. It is understood that the Government would permit the manufacture of about 3,000,000 gallons annually, figuring that this would be sufficient to meet the demand, even after shrinkage, evaporation and absorption are taken into consideration.

Federal prohibition headquarters take the position that the bill is a necessity because under the present laws it is essential that provision should be made to meet legitimate demands for medicinal liquor. As the supply is depleted, it was said, there was no other way than to ask Congress for authorization by legislation to manufacture more.

Present Supply in 37 Warehouses.

Medicinal liquor is used legally in twenty-six States, and some State laws prohibit distribution, even for this purpose. Colorado stipulates that it may be sold only in quarter pint bottles and some other States, including Ohio and Michigan, restrict the size to half pints. Most of the States permit the sale, on prescription, of a pint at a time.

The medicinal liquor under Governmental control is now concentrated in thirty-seven warehouses, and many restrictions have been set up to prevent any of it from leaking into bootleg channels. General Andrews expressed the opinion today that there was less diversion of whisky from that source than at any time since prohibition became the law.

The manufacture of whisky for medicinal purposes was continued under prohibition until shortly after the adoption of the Willis-Campbell act, approved Nov. 23, 1921. On account of the large amount of effort and expense required, a check-up of the exact amount in stock has not been made for some time, but it is planned to have a scientific gauging of the supply as soon as the new legislation is adopted.

A. A. U. Approves Sprint Marks Set by Paddock and Locke

PADDOCK'S RECORD ACCEPTED BY A. A. U.

Convention Approves His 9 5-10 Seconds for '100' and Locke's 0:20 5-10 for Furlong.

BUT DROPS TYPE OF WATCH

Will Allow No More Timing in Tenths Until I. A. A. F. Gives Definite Ruling.

HOFF'S MARKS ARE TABLED

159 Others Adopted While Non-Citizen Rule Is Killed—No Action on Paddock Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 15.—At its annual convention here this afternoon, the Amateur Athletic Union established Charley Paddock, Coast sprinting star, as the "fastest human" so far as American competitive standards are concerned, when the delegates of the A. A. U. from every party of the country voted acceptance of the Californian's record of 9 5-10 seconds for the 100-yard dash. At the same time the convention voted acceptance of the record of 20 5-10 seconds for the 220-yard dash, made by Roland A. Locke, University of Nebraska sprint star.

These two remarkable sprinting standards were foremost among thirty-five track and field records recognized by the convention and 124 swimming marks by men and women aquatic stars, which the convention also approved. A total of sixty-five track and field marks had been submitted for consideration by the Record Committee, of which Louis N. Goldsmith of Philadelphia is Chairman, and the committee also had under consideration 152 swimming marks. Practically all of the marks recommended for rejection by the Record Committee, were records for events for which better marks had subsequently been made.

Vote Is Unanimous.

In accepting the marks of Paddock and Locke, the convention followed the recommendations of the Record Committee, reached after a five-hour debate last night. Contrary to expectations, not a dissenting vote was heard when Chairman Goldsmith took the floor to read his report containing the recommendations for acceptance of these as well as the other marks.

Thus, the 100-yard marks of Dan Kelly, Howart Drew, Paddock himself, and Cyril Coaffee, all boasting 9 2-5 seconds for the century, will be surpassed on American record books. And the record of 20 4-5 seconds for 220 yards, made by Paddock, will be surpassed by that of Locke.

Whether these two sprinting marks will receive recognition as world's records, however, remains to be seen. Sentiment and opinion here this afternoon were that although in the natural course of events the records must now go to the International Amateur Athletic Federation for confirmation, it is extremely doubtful that the recognition will be forthcoming, in view of the Federation's opposition to the use of tenth-second watches for timing. Doubt as to the interpretation and application of the Federation's ban creates the speculation which exists on the question of world recognition for these marks.

In this respect the convention went on record this afternoon, on the recommendation of the Record Committee, in favor of the abolition of the tenth-second watch in American timing after Jan. 1. Gustavus T. Kirby of the I. C. A. A. A. A., whose organization uses the tenth-second watch, advocated the retention of the timing piece, but his negative vote, when the question was placed before the convention, was drowned in the storm of "yeas" which echoed over the meeting room.

Old Marks to Remain.

On the recommendation of Kirby, however, a resolution was adopted that the fifth-second records now recognized be retained in the record books, along with the tenth-second marks of Paddock and Locke, pending definite information on the attitude of the I. A. A. F. A committee of three was ordered appointed to investigate the technical issue involved as to the accuracy and reliability of the tenth-second watches.

This action is similar to that taken by the I. A. A. F., for in banning the tenth-second watches the federation appointed a committee to look further into the reliability, accuracy and desirability of the timing pieces.

With respect to the amateur status of Paddock, the convention took no action as a whole. The National Registration Committee, investigating the standing of the Coast star as an outgrowth of publication of Paddock's picture in connection with a gasoline advertisement, referred this action back to the Registration Committee of the Southern Pacific A. A. U., of which Robert S. Weaver, who championed the Paddock record, is President.

The seven pole vaulting records of Charley Hoff, Norwegian star, were tabled on the recommendation of William C. Prout, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, in view of Hoff's present status. Action on these marks, of which the best is 13 feet 8¼ inches, will be deferred pending settlement of Hoff's eligibility, now a subject for court action. The broad-jump record Hoff made last Winter in New York, when he cleared 23 feet 7⅝ inches, was rejected because it was eclipsed by De Hart Hubbard's subsequent leap of 24 feet 7¼ inches in New York.

All Swim Marks Approved.

On the recommendation of the Record Committee the convention placed the official stamp of approval on all men and women aquatic marks, except those which were eclipsed subsequent to the date the applications were filed. Even the three breast-stroke records of Erich Rademacher, German star, and the two breast-stroke marks of Walter Spence of Brooklyn were approved, although this involved a reversal of an original recommendation by the Record Committee.

It was explained in this connection that while reports indicated cause for complaint with the legality of the styles employed by Rademacher and Spence in their respective record swims, the fact that the swimmers had received their prizes for the victories involved left no alternative.

Standardization of swimming records and a recommendation that in future only those noteworthy performance marks be accepted which eclipse existing marks, advanced by Chairman Goldsmith, also were approved.

The proposed amendment to the rules which would debar from competition a resident non-citizen was rejected without a voice being offered in support of the measure, although Bill Kennedy, veteran marathoner, had declared last night he would advocate its adoption.

The recommendation of the Legislation Committee that the high jumping implements be changed to eliminate cause for criticism with the styles of jumpers was adopted, but the subject of decreasing the Marathon distance from 26 miles 385 yards to 22¾ miles, as has been established as the exact distance between Marathon and Athens, was referred back to the Distance-Running Committee, of which Herman Obertubbesing of New York is Chairman.

Cuddy Proposal Approved.

The recommendation of William H. Cuddy of the Boxing Committee that a member of the committee be designated annually as the A. A. U. representative to the International Amateur Boxing Federation was approved, along with a recommendation that the delegate appointed this year be instructed to resubmit to the federation proposed amendments to the rules, which include an amendment to international boxing rules stipulating that the referee must be inside the ropes for all bouts.

Under another resolution adopted, relay races will not figure in the point scoring for team championship honors at track and field title meets in the future. The proposal to inaugurate the Olympic system of starting was rejected, the convention, on the recommendation of the Legislative Committee, voting to retain the system now employed here. The recommendation of the Track and Field Committee eliminating association relay races from the national senior outdoor track and field title program was adopted.

Recommendations of the Registration Committee for reinstatement of Clarence Steer, Baltimore; William Lacroix, Colfax, La.; Elmer Hooker, Chicago, and Joseph Rainey, Philadelphia, athletes who were ineligible, were approved. The application of Jerry Kelleher, New Orleans, was held over for five years, and those of Charles Elsasy, Baltimore, and Sophie Rosenberg, New York, were referred back to the South Atlantic A. A. U. and to the Metropolitan A. A. U., respectively.

Mayor Welcomes Delegates.

Mayor Howard W. Jackson officially welcomed the delegates in an address, which opened the convention proper this morning at 9 o'clock and at a luncheon at noon Colonel A. W. Woodcock, United States Attorney, addressed the officials.

In his report at the morning session, President Murray Hulbert disagreed with the theory that professionalism against amateurism in athletics in this country constitutes an issue, and asserted there will always be plenty of room for amateur sport, especially so long as Olympic and other international competitions are provided for.

President Hulbert also took occasion to express gratification at the progressive steps recorded in all amateur sport, particularly in women's athletics, and at the noticeable increase in the field of cooperation between the Y. M. C. A. and the A. A. U., especially in swimming, volley ball, basketball and handball.

At the annual dinner tonight, addresses were made by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, General L. Douglas MacArthur, commander of the Third Corps Area, U. S. A.; Dr. John Brown Jr., Secretary of the Physical Department of the International Council of Y. M. C. A.'s, and President Hulbert.

President Hulbert will succeed himself as head of the Amateur Athletic Union when the convention reaches the election of officers for the ensuing year at tomorrow's closing session, if the expectations of assembled delegates are realized. At a caucus held tonight prior to the dinner, the delegates pledged their support to Hulbert, who has served as President for the past two years.

Dr. Walsh Denies Invitation.

Dr. J. J. Walsh of the St. Anselm's A. C., sponsor of the amendment to the A. A. U. constitution which aimed to bar all non-citizen athletes from competing in this country after a three-year period and which was voted down at the A. A. U. convention in Baltimore, yesterday denied the report that he had received an invitation from Metropolitan Association officials to attend the meeting.

"The report," said Dr. Walsh, "that I had been asked to attend the convention and had failed to put in an appearance has made it look as though I had run out on the proposal to place the amendment before the meeting in person. As a matter of fact I was quite willing to go, even at my own expense, but no invitation to attend the convention was received by me from either the Metropolitan Association or any other A. A. U. officials."

DORFMAN TO BOX SMITH.

Featherweights in Feature Bout at Pioneer A. C. Tonight.

Sammy Dorfman, east side featherweight, and Steve Smith, New England battler, will meet in the feature bout of six rounds at the Pioneer Athletic Club tonight. The bout has aroused considerable interest among east side boxing fans, as Dorfman has been advancing steadily in the 126-pound division and has yet to meet his first setback. In Smith, Dorfman is expected to meet the most formidable opponent he has yet been called upon to face.

Action also is promised in the six-round semi-final in which Davey Abad, Panama bantamweight, will oppose Johnny Green of Harlem. The principals in the other sixes will be Murray Layton vs. Willie O'Connell, Danny Terris vs. Ray Reveria and Frankie Tropia vs. Steve Jennings. In two four-rounders, Dave Fullam will tackle Jack Peralata and Benny Salacco will square off with Bobby Vetti.

A card of ten three-round bouts will make up the amateur boxing tournament to be held tonight in the Hunts Point Palace in the Bronx. Among the entrants are Manny Marcus, Henry McCrystal, George Daggett, Henry Flaherty, George Cohen and Harry Levy.

Ten Bouts at Starlight A. C.

A card of ten special bouts has been arranged for the amateur boxing tournament tomorrow night at the Starlight Athletic Club, 170th Street and Third Avenue.

YALE ROWING PLANS FOR 1927 OUTLINED

Blue Fixes Harvard Regatta for June 24 and Lists Two Triangular Events.

USUAL SCHEDULE FOLLOWED

Oarsmen Will Compete in Eight Events, Including Tentative Dates —Columbia Among Rivals.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.—Yale will make no changes in its general rowing plans for the 1927 season. The regatta with Harvard on the Thames, the triangular races with Columbia and Pennsylvania and the three-cornered regatta with Princeton and Cornell will again form the headline events of its annual campaign. The schedule, which was announced tonight by Horton Spitzer, acting manager of the crew, calls for eight races in which Yale oarsmen will take part, one being tentative.

Yale and Harvard varsity, junior varsity and freshman crews will meet on June 24 at New London as usual, while the other important races for the varsity will be on May 7, when Yale will meet Columbia and Pennsylvania at Derby in the annual triangular regatta between the varsity, junior varsity and freshman crews, and the annual Yale-Princeton-Cornell regatta at Princeton on May 21.

While arrangements have been tentatively made for the meeting between Yale, Harvard and Princeton 150-pound varsity crews at Princeton on May 21, it is not known at this time that these crews will hold their annual triangular race. A definite announcement regarding this race will be made later, the crew management stated tonight.

Yale, Columbia and M. I. T. 150-pound crews possibly may meet May 14 at Derby, but definite acceptance of the invitation to Columbia has not been received.

The complete schedule follows:

May 14—Yale, Columbia, M. I. T. varsity 150-pound at Derby (tentative).

May 14—Kent vs. Yale freshmen 150-pound at Derby.

May 21—Yale, Harvard, Princeton varsity 150-pound at Princeton (tentative).

May 21—Yale, Princeton, Cornell varsity, junior varsity and freshmen at Princeton.

June 24—Yale vs. Harvard, varsity, junior varsity and freshmen at New London.

Fred F. Robinson of New York City is captain of this year's varsity crew and Frederick Sheffield, son of the Ambassador to Mexico and a member of Yale's Olympic championship crew, who is now a student in the Yale Law School, is beginning his first year as Chairman of the Graduate Crew Committee. Ed O. Leader is again head coach and his assistants are George W. Murphy, who handles the freshman crew; Sam Shaw, the class crews, and Don Grant, the 150-pound crews. These men were all on the coaching staff last year. All came here from the University of Washington.

VIDABECK STOPPED BY M'TIGUE IN THIRD

OKUN OUTPOINTS SMITH

Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, knocked out Billy Vidabeck, the sturdy fighter from Bayonne, in the third round of their scheduled ten-round engagement at the Broadway Arena last night. A right upper cut to the chin stopped the Bayonne hattler.

Apparently the winning blow had just enough power behind it to daze Vidabeck for the required ten seconds. Vidabeck staggered to his feet at the count of ten, but Referee Jim Crowley waved him to his corner.

A capacity crowd of 4,000 was in an uproar after McTigue scored his quick victory. Vidabeck did well against the more experienced McTigue, but the craft and guile of the veteran nullified his best efforts and forced him to miss repeatedly or end his punches on the shoulders or arms of the Irishman.

McTigue Lands on Jaw.

Both boxers were accorded a fine reception when they entered the ring. McTigue opened hostilities by crossing over with his right to greet Vidabeck with a blow to the jaw. The Bayonne boxer bored in, only to be met with a storm of punches from the veteran. In the second Vidabeck continued to lead, but he rarely drove in any damaging blows, so clever was Mike's defense.

In the third the wary ex-champion sailed in after his adversary. Whenever Vidabeck attempted to fall into a clinch the battle-wise Mike would tie him up completely. It was after the boxers had clinched that McTigue drove a succession of right uppercuts to Vidabeck's chin. One particularly vicious right landed cleanly on the point of the jaw and McTigue stepped back and Vidabeck dropped to the canvas where he was counted out.

Smith Loses Decision.

In the semi-final engagement Yale Okun of the east side easily defeated George Smith of Newark in a ten-round battle. Okun was far too clever for his opponent. Smith put up his best exhibition when he seemed on the verge of being conquered.

Although Okun gave a pretty display of boxing, the crowd was not content with watching his skillful manoeuvres but clamored for a knockout. Yale was marvelously accurate with all his punches, but he could not seem to land a finishing blow. Okun tipped the scales at 173½, with Smith a half pound heavier.

Both boys took things easy in the first round. In the next session Okun took the aggressive and landed several punishing rights to Smith's body and jaw. Yale jumped into the lead in the third, handing Smith a lacing. The fourth and fifth rounds saw Okun running up points by taking the offensive and landing the more frequent and more damaging blows. Yale rocked Smith with a succession of rights and lefts in the sixth and Smith was rapidly becoming more battered and more cautious as he progressed.

In the seventh Okun tore after Smith, who seemed to be tiring. Okun looked as fresh as when he started. Okun had Smith on the run in the next session, but just as a knockout seemed imminent the bell rang to save the tired Smith.

Smith started off the eighth with surprising strength and held Okun even in the first part of the round, but another assault by Yale brought the encounter back in his favor again. In the final round they punched cautiously. Okun was content to win on points and did not strive for a knockout in the final session.

Abd-del Kedir Is Victor.

In the first of three ten-round bouts Abd-del Kedir, 161 pounds, of Morocco, gained the decision over Julius Weise of Germany, who scaled at 154 pounds. It was a closely contested match, with neither having much of a lead over the other. From the opening to closing gongs the fighters stood toe to toe and slugged away. At the finish the German had one eye closed and the other was rapidly approaching that state. The Moroccan bore off a badly cut eye and a lip that bled profusely.

Mickey Durano, weighing 118½ pounds, knocked out Mike Gatti, 122, in the first round of their scheduled six-round engagement. Gatti started after Durano as if he were going to knock him out in short order. However, his slashing assault was of short order. Durano mixed in and a heavy blow to the jaw dropped Gatti after two minutes and thirty seconds.

In the opening four-rounder Joe Ademes of Brooklyn knocked out Lawrence Devnute of the east side in the second round after one minute of fighting. Devnute was knocked down once in the first round and twice in the second round.

FINNEGAN IS VICTOR OVER CHICK SUGGS

Wins World's Featherweight Title, According to Massachusetts Boxing Body.

BATTLE A GRUELLING ONE

Dorchester Fighter Covered With Blood at Finish While 15,000 Look On at Boston Arena.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan of Dorchester, his face and body covered with blood the last five rounds, received the decision over Chick Suggs, game little negro boxer from New Bedford, at the Boston Arena tonight in a ten-round bout which was recognized by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission as being for the world's featherweight championship.

More than 15,000 fans watched the fight and the boxers split a purse of $20,000. Finnegan also received a $1,000 belt from the Suffolk A. A., emblematic of the world's title. His share of the purse was $12,000.

Finnegan weighed in at 126¾, having had some difficulty in the process, and there was some question as to how he would stand this. He was in the pink, however, when the fight started, as was Suggs, who weighed in at 124½.

Crowd Acclaims Victor.

Finnegan was accompanied by a band and a large following of rooters from his Dorchester home and was received with wild applause when he entered the ring in the newly remodeled arena. Suggs, too, had a large following of fans, and was warmly greeted as he entered after Honeyboy, though the welcome was not as boisterous as that accorded the victor.

Finnegan will be asked to defend the title here within ninety days. The decision made by Referee Jim Walsh was well received by the fans.

Finnegan was credited with seven out of the ten rounds. His left hook was his best weapon, while Suggs counted on his right, and had his reach been longer—he lacked two inches of Finnegan's—it might have proved more effective.

In the sixth round, perhaps the hardest of them all, Suggs opened a terrible gash over his opponent's right eye, and from then on, despite all that his seconds could do, Finnegan was a mass of red from head to foot, part of the time blind in his right eye but dealing out powerful and certain blows all the same.

Finnegan knocked Suggs all over the ring constantly. In the ninth he sent the negro to the floor for the count of one. Finnegan was the aggressor throughout. Even in the sixth, when Honeyboy looked as if some one had poured a case of red paint over him, he was the better of the two. In this round, after his eye had been opened, he clinched and both fell to the floor in the middle of the ring, with Finnegan on top. In the tenth he nearly knocked Suggs out.

Finnegan Gains Early Lead.

Finnegan took the first round by a wide margin. He scored with left hooks to body and head while Suggs was on the defensive, trying to solve Finnegan's southpaw style. In the second round Suggs opened his attack with fast left and right to the head and held the round even. But in the third Finnegan kept hooking his left into Sugge's face and won the round.

The fourth was Suggs's round. He punished Finnegan with seven lefts and rights to the stomach. But Finnegan carried off the fifth with body blows.

Finnegan started the sixth with a very good left uppercut to Sugge's chin, but Suggs smashed over a wicked left hook to Finnegan's right eye and cut a long gash over it. Finnegan was blood from head to foot, but he won the round.

Suggs came out for the seventh very fast and hit Finnegan with a left hook, making the cut over the eye worse. Finnegan was blinded by the blood, but nevertheless punished Suggs severely and won the round. Suggs opened up the eye again in the eighth with the first blow, but, though handicapped, Finnegan knocked Suggs all aronnd the ring with his left. He knocked Suggs down for the count in the ninth with a left hook to the head. Suggs seemed worn out and could not keep pace with Finnegan. He was game, however.

With blood still streaming from his face, Finnegan staggered Suggs with a left hook to the chin in the tenth and it looked like a knockout, but the negro, game throughout the terrific punishment he was receiving, weathered the storm and kept to his feet.

Wop Manolin of Dorchester received the decision over Frank Senk of Springfield on a decision by Referee Johnny Brassill that the fane booed. Arthur Flinn of Boston won from Billy Garvey of Clinton in a six rounder.

ENGLISH CHAMPION BEATEN

Hood Is Outpointed by McVey in Newark—Down for 9 Seconds.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 15 (AP).—Jack McVey, New York, negro, tonight received the newspaper decision over Jack Hood, welterweight champion of England, in a twelve-round bout at Laurel Garden. McVey weighed 153½ pounds, and Hood 150.

A knockdown for a count of nine and his aggressiveness throughout the bout won the decision for McVey. The Englishman finished strong.

Abis Bain, Newark middleweight, earned a draw in a ten-round semi-final with Jimmy Darrah of San Francisco. Bain weighed 163 and Darrah 160 pounds.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—Ralph Greenleaf fell into a tie for the lead in the national pocket billiard championship by bowing to Harry Oswald tonight, 125 to 107, in fifty-three innings, after having held the lead for a few hours through the defeat of Erwin Rudolph of Chicago in the afternoon by Tom Hueston. The latter beat Rudolph by 125 to 71 in nine innings. Greenleaf and Rudolph are now tied at six victories and one defeat.

Hueston flashed the skill which marked his play when he was a champion. He was the master cueman, had only two misses of called balls and his stroking, position play and all-round execution made his achievement a surprisingly easy one. He led, 104 to 3, at the end of the sixth inning. Here Rudolph staged a plucky rally, but he was not equal to the task of overcoming Hueston's big advantage.

Pasquale Natalie, Baltimore, bettered his standing in the first of the night matches by staging a brilliant rally late in the contest to defeat Frank Taberski, 125 to 96, in thirty-nine innings. Natalie's high run was 39, scored in the thirty-fifth inning. Taberski's best mark was 20.

Taberski got off to a good lead. Natalie having four scratches before making a point. In the twenty-eighth inning Natalie ran 21, but Taberski led, 52 to 34. Taberski ran off his high run of 20 in the twenty-ninth, increasing his lead to 72-34. Later Natalie pulled up slightly and went into the lead in the thirty-fifth, playing a combination which drove the No. 4 ball into the lower right-hand pocket to start the clicking off of thirty-nine balls, giving him the lead, 106 to 97. He virtually clinched matters in the next inning with a run of 17.

Harold Pindle beat Charles Harmon, 125 to 96, in the opening game. It was Pindle's final game and made his record two victories and seven defeats.

BRILL BROTHERS

GENTLEMEN PREFER BLUES

NO matter how early you get up nor how late you stay out, a Blue Overcoat is correct—it can get away with anything from a daytime date to a dinner-time appointment—it is equally becoming with a sack suit or a Tuxedo—and it is therefore the one-overcoat-choice for a one-overcoat-man—remember, of course, that the tailoring has something to do with it—and don't forget that we have something to do with the tailoring—ours are strictly personal-specification Blue Overcoats.

Bowie Opening Feature Is Captured by Bulletin from Celidon

BULLETIN IS FIRST IN PRINCE GEORGE

16 to 1 Shot Beats Celidon by a Nose in Handicap That Marks Bowie Inaugural.

HARRY BAKER IS VICTOR

Scores Over Chink by Five Lengths—Lounger Wins by Neck—Large Crowd Sees Opening.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.
Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 15.—Paying $35.10 for each $2 invested, H. G. Bedwell's Bulletin carried off the money in the seventh running of the Prince George Handicap, which held the place of honor on the card for the opening day of the Autumn meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association this afternoon. Although he figured to be right with the leaders, the chestnut son of Atwell and Marsand was almost neglected in the betting, the players going down heavily on the Rancocas Stable's Celidon and E. B. McLean's Prince of Wales, while not a few fancied the chances of the Seagram Stable's Gaffsman.

The Prince George Handicap was a dash of six furlongs out of the chute, and eleven faced the barrier. Bulletin was in well under 106 pounds, and with McCrossen in the saddle the colt ran the distance in the fast time of 1:27 flat, only four-fifths of a second slower than the track record for the distance. The race was worth $6,700 to the owner of the winner.

A fine crowd turned out for the opening of the final meeting of the Eastern racing season, despite unfavorable morning conditions. It had rained heavily at intervals during the night and dark clouds threatened as the race enthusiasts left Baltimore and Washington for the popular little course. But before the running of the first race the sun came out as hot as on an August afternoon and furs and topcoats were quickly discarded.

The course had dried out with surprising quickness, aided by the warm sun and a gentle southerly breeze. It was good before the running of the opening number and grew fast as the afternoon wore along.

Bulletin Takes Lead.

Bulletin drew the post position on the inner rail and had clear sailing all the way. Although Flat Iron showed in front when the barrier rose for the start of the Prince George, after five minutes at the post, McCrossen quickly took Bulletin into the lead and he was never headed thereafter. Walter J. Salmon's Ursa Major raced close to the leader, but could not hold the pace, giving way to the B. B. Stable's Apostle on the far turn.

Celidon, with Fator up, was away slowly and made up a lot of ground in the run down the back stretch. Fator made a hard finish and appeared an almost certain winner, only to hang at the last instant and lose the decision by a nose. Apostle held on to take third money, while Gaffsman was up to take fourth money. The fractional times of the race were as follows: 0:23 3-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13, 1:27.

Senator Patrick F. Joyce's Harry Baker and H. G. Bedwell's Cudgeller were the choice of the talent in the Combat Purse, at a mile and 70 yards, and both were in the money, running first and third respectively. They might not have figured if Chink and Thistlewood had not run out at the final turn when both were beating the ultimate winner. Bourassa, after that, had an easy row to hoe and brought Harry Baker home a winner by five lengths over Chink, which led Cudgeller by half a length. The winner paid $8.40 in the mutuels and ran the distance in 1:45 2-5, just a fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Light View Is Beaten.

Lounger, Sam Louis's five-year-old Sweep gelding, made every post a winning one in the claiming event, at a mile and a sixteenth, beating Robert Odom's Light View, the favorite, by a neck. Light View was last to get going and Malben had to make up a world of ground to get up and take the place from E. B. McLean's filly Cupids Curse, which had chased the winner all around the oval. The winner paid his backers $7.40 for each $2 ticket.

J. B. McGovern's Pomonkey had the honor of winning the first race of the meeting, the event being a dash of six and a half furlongs out of the chute for the juveniles. The winner was an outsider and paid $29.20 for each $2 ticket. John Farrell Jr.'s Encamp, one of the mutuel field, provided the sensation of the race, leading from the rise of the barrier until the final jump, to be beaten only a head. He was one of the mutuel field and paid $54.70 for the place. Pomonkey was right with the leader throughout and Mergler just got him up on the outside to gain the decision. A. C. Bostwick's Indian Light, another long shot, came in for third money.

GREAT SPORT WINS IN LEXINGTON MUD

Splashes Home Five Lengths Ahead of Rosebec in Feature Race—Little Visitor Third.

ONE-TWO FOR AUDLEY FARM

Audley Belle Scores Easily in Second Race and Her Stablemate, Harp o' the Winds, Gains Place.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 15.—Reveling in the muddy going, the Southern Stable's Great Sport sprinted away from his field in the feature number over the Futurity course here today, winning by five lengths. J. L. Knight's filly Little Visitor, with which the winner was coupled, closely followed Great Sport, which was in front from the start, until the last furlong, when she tired and lost the place to Rosebec by a length. The entry was a 9-to-10 favorite.

The Audley Farm ran one-two in the second race, also over the abbreviated six-furlong course, Audley Belle leading her stablemate, Harp o' the Winds, to the wire by four lengths. Audley Belle raced Quince Delight down in the early stages and moved into a comfortable lead, which she had no difficulty in retaining. Sunny Hours nosed out Quince Delight for the show.

Taxi Gouging in New Haven On Football Days Is Banned

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15 (AP).—The high cost of taxicabs on the days of major football games in Yale Bowl is to be cut down by police order. It has been a practice, even in the days of the horse-drawn cab, for drivers to charge flat rates of $5 to $10 for the trip from the railroad station to the Bowl, or as much as the traffic would stand above the minimum. Chief Philip T. Smith today notified taxicab companies and others that all must stand by the fixed schedules and that cabs must run "flag down" and charge no more than meters call for. Arrests are to follow if exactions are detected.

Taylor of Maine was the individual winner, in 28 minutes and 45 1-5 seconds, just ahead of Norman L. McClintock of M. I. T. and Ralph B. Littlefield of New Hampshire.

KAWLER-PILKINGTON DRAW.

Meet for Fourth Time in Feature Six-Rounder at Star A. C.

Nat Kawler and Johnny Pilkington, lightweights, fought for the fourth time last night in the feature six-round bout at the Star A. C., and a draw was the result. Both men boxed warily. The decision was well received by the crowd of 2,000.

In the semi-final of six rounds Eddie Elkins and Pete Nebo, featherweights, also fought to a draw. Both boxers were willing to mix, and at the end there was little to choose between either man.

Enters Six-Day Bicycle Race, Which Starts at Garden Dec. 5.

Freddie Spencer, former professional bicycle champion of America, signed a contract yesterday to ride in the coming six-day bicycle race which will start in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 5. No partner yet has been selected for Spencer, but Manager John M. Chapman said yesterday the rider has named Alf Goullett, Cecil Walker, Alex McBeath and Tony Beckman, any one of whom would be suitable to him.

Dallas Links Get 1927 P. G. A. Title Tourney

PRO GOLF TOURNEY AWARDED TO DALLAS

P. G. A. at Annual Meeting Here Names Texas City for 1927 Championship.

PIRIE IS NEW PRESIDENT

Is Elected to Succeed Sargent, Who Receives Watch on Retiring After Six Terms.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

In order to defend his P. G. A. championship next year, Walter Hagen, who won the title for the third time in succession at Salisbury a few months ago, will have to travel to Texas, for Dallas was the site chosen for the 1927 tournament at the annual meeting of the professional golfers' organization held here yesterday. The fixing of the place for next year's championship was the most important business transacted at the session, which will be concluded today.

New officials were selected, Alex Pirie of the Old Elm Club in Chicago succeeding George Sargent of the Scioto Country Club at Columbus, Ohio, as President. Sargent stepped down after serving six terms at the head of the organization.

Several bids were made for the 1927 championship, but Dallas presented the strongest claims, and as a result the tournament will be held in the South for the first time in history. The choice will mean a change in the time of holding the event. Heretofore the tournament has been held in the Fall, generally in late September. According to present plans, however, the tournament will be played either late in October or early in November, for it is then that the Texas courses are in their best condition and the weather most favorable.

Marks a Departure.

Awarding the championship to Texas marks a departure from the geographical location of tournaments in previous years. Until now New York has been the scene of the majority of championships, one of the metropolitan district courses having been used on five of the eight occasions that the championship has been played. Chicago has seen two championships, Pittsburgh one and French Lick Springs, Ind., one.

The poor attendance at Salisbury, where the event was held this year, may mean that the event will not be returned to the metropolitan section for some time, although Fresh Meadow is making overtures for 1928. The decision to go South in 1927, though, was not due to the lack of a gallery at Salisbury, for the aim has been of late to hold the tournament in the East one year and in the West the next. It was the West's turn to get the 1927 event, but the officials decided that holding it in Texas would strengthen the cause of the P. G. A. in the South.

A new idea was introduced at yesterday's meeting, that being the plan of adding to the list of Vice Presidents. Next year there will be three—Willie Ogg of Worcester, W. H. Way of Cleveland and Neil Christian of Yakima, Wash. This innovation will add representation to the board of officials, giving the East, Middle West and Far West each a place on the Executive Committee.

Ernest Anderson of this city was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer. Ex-President Sargent was presented with a platinum watch as a token of appreciation for the work he has done for the association, the presentation speech being made by J. B. Mackie of the Inwood Country Club, a former Vice President of the organization.

Next Meeting in Detroit.

Detroit was named as the place where the next annual meeting will be held. This, too, means a departure from the usual practice of holding the meetings here.

The meeting was the most representative in the history of the P. G. A., twenty-two out of the twenty-three member districts being represented by delegates. Those present and the districts represented were: John Caldwell, Missouri; Eddie McElligott, Minnesota; W. H. Way, Ohio; Jack Mailey, Southern California; Stewart Gardner, Illinois; Willie Ogg, New England; Jack Gordon, Northwestern New York; Herbert Jewson, Philadelphia; Fred Brand, Pittsburgh; Alex Pirie, Illinois; Howard Becket, Atlanta; Roy Boyer, Kansas; Neil Christian, Washington; Charles Mayo, Metropolitan; Russ Conroy, Northern California; J. M. Anderson, Michigan; George Sargent, Ohio; John Bredemus, Texas; Joe Mitchell, Metropolitan; Ernest Anderson, Metropolitan, and Jack Mackie, Metropolitan.

COLGATE SQUAD EASES UP.

Will Rest Until Thursday Before Final Drive for Brown.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The Colgate eleven rested this afternoon following the bitter struggle with Syracuse Saturday. Coach Hauser decided on a complete lay-off rather than take a chance of having his pupils go stale.

The squad came out of the Syracuse battle practically intact, Shaughnessy's aggravation of an injury in the Michigan State game being the only casualty. The fullback will return by the end of the week. The unbeaten Brown eleven is the object of Colgate's final drive for the Thanksgiving Day clash at Providence.

CARR BACK IN UNIFORM.

Fleet Syracuse Star Practices Place Kicks, Despite Limp.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP).—"Whippet" Carr, Syracuse's fleet tripie-threat fullback, donned a football uniform today for the first time since Oct. 16, when injuries received in the Army game sent him to the hospital. Carr still was limping today, but he spent a half hour practicing placement kicking before being sent to the showers. Coach Pete Reynolds said it was still doubtful whether Carr will be in condition to play against Columbia at New York Thanksgiving Day.

Princeton Captain Greeted by Gun Salute As He Ignites Big Three Title Bonfire

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Princeton's Big Three championship football team was honored tonight at a mammoth bonfire whose flames mounted nearly 100 feet into the sky. The celebration opened when the Princeton band marched through the archway of the library, followed by an old-time hearse. Painted on the glass sides were the letters "Princeton 12—Harvard 0" and "Princeton 10—Yale 7."

Following the hearse came the entire student body, snake dancing as it proceeded to the "funeral fire," which was built this afternoon by the freshmen.

Before the fire was lighted a red fire truck from the Princeton Fire Department drove on the campus and prepared its apparatus for action in case the conflagration should spread beyond control. The powerful searchlight from the fire truck was trained on the belfry of Nassau Hall, in which the bell was ringing, adding its part to the celebration.

Captain Johnny Davis was given a rousing salute as he applied a torch to the pile of debris. A 75-mm. French gun was fired twenty-two times to signify the total score rolled up by Princeton's championship team against its Big Three rivals.

The material which went to make up the celebration fire included more than a dozen junked Fords, old signs, ancient horse-drawn wagons, twenty-five gallons of kerosene and five barrels of tar.

Captain Davis, speaking to the group, gave credit to the coaches for the development of the championship team. Jack Winn, end coach, in turn praised the scrubs. Other members of the eleven also spoke from the steps of Whig Hall.

The Yale Club Class C squash tennis team took an undisputed lead of the metropolitan Class C league last night when it defeated the Princeton Club on the Yale courts, 6 matches to 1.

Harvey K. Cross, who early in the evening had gained a startling victory in the Fall tournament over Gavin Brackenridge, helped his teammates to win the match by defeating W. N. Rothschild in the No. 2 match, 15—9, 15—2. J. S. Davidson conquered L. F. Page in the lead-off contest after a bitter struggle, at 15—10, 16—17, 15—10.

The Columbia University Club, league champions; the Harvard Club, the City A. C. and the Interfraternity Club were the other winning teams in the third series of matches. Columbia won six of seven matches from Gramercy Park; Frank Ward's City A. C. team, which is playing for the first time in the league, scored a clean sweep over the Short Hills Club; Harvard took all seven matches from the Heights Casino and Robert Cahill's Interfraternity Club team triumphed over the Crescents, 5 to 2.

Six Teams Deadlocked.

Six teams are now tied for second place. They are Princeton, Columbia, City, Harvard, Interfraternity and Crescent. Each of these has won two matches and lost one. The Whitehall Club has dropped out of the league and the victories scored by default over it the first two weeks of play have been thrown out of the standing of the teams.

The City A. C., which surprised by defeating Columbia last week, won by decisive margins in all except one of its matches last night, but both Harvard and Columbia were hard pressed in most of their matches, though they triumphed by decisive scores in the final result. No less than five of the matches at Gramercy Park went to three games. Frank Sleverman lost to R. B. Livermore of Columbia after taking the first game and carrying the score to 15—13 in the third.

Johnson Tires and Loses.

The queerest score of all occurred in the match between Merle Johnson of Gramercy and Frits Culman. Johnson won the first game at love and was within a point of victory in the second, only to lose it at 17—16. He tired in the third and got only three points.

The summaries:

CROSS WINS MATCH IN SQUASH UPSET

Former Yale Lineman Is Victor Over Brackenridge on the N. Y. A. C. Courts.

TERRIFIC DRIVES TRIUMPH

Enable Class C Player to Beat Class A Man—Goldburg Loses to Kleinert in Another Unexpected Defeat.

Harry K. Cross of the Yale Club, who formerly used his 250 pounds of avoirdupois in the Yale line, scored one of the biggest upsets of the squash tennis season last night when he defeated Gavin Brackenridge of the Princeton Club in the first round of the annual Fall scratch tournament which began at the New York A. C. The score was 17—14, 2—15, 15—10.

Brackenridge ranks eighth in the national list, while Cross is unrated and is playing in Class C. It is not often that a player in Class B defeats an A man, so it can be appreciated how surprising was Cross's triumph last night. The Yale man used all his poundage in his mighty swipes, which carried such terrific speed that Brackenridge, like Hewitt Morgan in his match with Frank Loughman last week, was unable to play his best game.

Cross cracked badly in the second game, after winning the first by a narrow margin, but recovered in the third and won by a fairly wide margin after a hard-fought struggle.

The defeat of Brackenridge was not the only surprise of the opening night of play in the tournament. Arthur Goldburg of the Yale Club A team fell an unexpected victim to E. W. Kleinert of the Crescent A. C., after winning the opening game. The score was 7—15, 15—10, 15—13. It was either man's match until the last point.

Edwin Muller of Princeton won in three games from C. W. Dingee of the Interfraternity Club, L. H. Sonneborn of Yale triumphed over Rowland H. George of the New York A. C. and Armin Riley of Princeton decisively defeated S. R. Greene of the home club at 15—6, 15—6. Barnwell Elliott of the N. Y. A. C. advanced at the expense of J. C. Lyons of the same club, while Francis Day of Yale and D. W. Richert of the New York A. C. won by default.

The summaries:

First Round—Armin W. Riley, Princeton, defeated S. R. Greene, N. Y. A. C., 15—6, 15—6; L. H. Sonneborn, Yale, defeated Rowland H. George, 15—11, 15—10; Harry K. Cross, Yale, defeated Gavin Brackenridge, 17—14, 2—15, 15—10; Francis Day, Yale, won from Auguste J. Cordier, Yale, by default; D. W. Richert, N. Y. A. C., won from Carroll T. Cooney, Yale, by default; E. W. Kleinert, Crescent, defeated Arthur Goldburg, 7—15, 15—10, 15—13.

Second Round—Edwin Muller, Princeton, defeated C. W. Dingee, Interfraternity, 5—15, 18—15, 15—3; G. G. Davidson, Crescent, defeated J. O. Tredwell, Crescent, 10—15, 15—6, 15—9; Barnwell Elliott, N. Y. A. C., defeated J. C. Lyons, N. Y. A. C., 15—7, 15—13.

PENN STATE GETS REST.

With Final Game Ten Days Away, Coach Bezdek Declares Holiday.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 15.—Coach Hugo Bezdek gave the Penn State football squad a complete holiday today, following the grueling game with Bucknell on Saturday. That the Lion gridders are in good condition was evidenced by the fact that only one substitution was made in the Bucknell game, and with the final Pittsburgh game ten days away it was decided to lay off practice until Tuesday.

Starting tomorrow the Nittany Lions will centre their efforts on the game with the Panthers. As is always the case, this promises to be one of the hardest games of the year for Penn State. The Lions are in good shape, however, and by putting in some hard work this week they should be ready to give the Panthers a fight on Thanksgiving Day.

ORDERS SECRET PRACTICE.

Ben to Hold for Remainder of West Virginia Football Season.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, West Va., Nov. 15.—The West Virginia University football field was enshrouded with an air of mystery today as Coach Rodgers ordered secret practice for the balance of the season. Big Ed Morrison donned a uniform for the first time since the Missouri game, participating in the signal drill, although he limped perceptibly.

Trainer Art Smith stated that he would not know definitely whether Morrison would be able to play at quarter in the Carnegie Tech tilt at Forbes Field on Saturday. The nature of the practice was entirely secret.

COLUMBIA SCHEDULES PENN

Cornell Also to Be Met on Same 1927 Date as This Year.

The Cornell eleven will be played at Ithaca, Oct. 29 and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Nov. 12 next year, according to an announcement made by Columbia athletic authorities yesterday.

A third team that has been definitely scheduled is Williams, which will be played at Baker Field Oct. 22. The rest of the Lion schedule is not yet completed.

The dates for the Cornell and Pennsylvania games correspond to this year's. Penn resumed football relations with Columbia Saturday after a year's lapse.

N. Y. U. SCRIMMAGES AGAINST FRESHMEN

VIOLET DEPARTS TOMORROW

Party of Forty to Make Trip to Lincoln for Nebraska Game—To Practice in Chicago.

The New York University squad had its next to last home drill of the 1926 season yesterday and Chick Meehan surprised his players by running them through a short scrimmage with the powerful freshman eleven. Although the combination which faced the yearlings was for the most part the varsity outfit, some of the regulars were excused from the more strenuous rigors of the practice.

The squad came through the unexpectedly stiff encounter with Davis and Elkins in fine physical shape. John Miller was the only first-string man who was removed from the game because of an injury, but he is now fit to play.

Unless Meehan orders another scrimmage today, yesterday's was the final one of the year. He worked most of the squad in order to pick some reserves for Saturday's fray with Nebraska. He is well satisfied with his varsity, but wants to have his replacements in shape for the next and final game of the year. If N. Y. U. can pass this hurdle it will have completed the season with a spotless slate, a mark for which Meehan has been striving from the start of the campaign.

The New York University entourage will embark on its 1,700-mile journey to Lincoln, Neb., tomorrow. A party of forty will compose the traveling company. The Violet group will leave Grand Central on the Wolverine at 5 o'clock and will arrive at Chicago Thursday afternoon.

The Chicago depot is only a short distance from Stagg Field, the gridiron of the University of Chicago, and as there is a three-hour stop-over the team will disembark and run through a short practice session. The squad will arrive in Lincoln on Friday morning.

The players who will make the journey are Captain Frank Briante, Jack Connor, Kenneth Strong, Archie Roberts, Bill Wexler, Charlie Roselle, Edward Buckley, Edward Orloff, Ed Fisher and Arthur Norton, backs; Charles Riordan, Otto Loss, Earl Ashton, Frank Cestari, Bob Barbee and Ralph White, ends; Al Lassman, John Miller, Ed Weiner and Miguel Bliss, tackles; Dave Skudin, John Bunyan, Dave Satenstein and Dave Weiner, guards; Bob Dunn, Al Higgins and Charlie Vye, centres.

In addition Chick Meehan, Mort Starobin, Bill McCarthy and Joe Schwarzer, who compose the coaching staff; Graduate Manager Al Nixon, Dr. Michael Tetelman, the team physician; the trainer, the team manager and four assistants will all make the trip.

PRACTICES TRICK PLAYS.

St. John's Eleven Has Severe Workout for Two Hours.

Coach Lynch sent his St. John's football players through a long workout yesterday in preparation for the coming Saturday's game with Canisius to be played on the Buffalo college's gridiron. Practice yesterday consisted in experimental formations to be used in the last game for the Brooklyn eleven. Lynch had the first and second elevens lined up for the better part of two hours in perfecting these trick plays, after which a short scrimmage was ordered.

Saturday's game will probably mark the last appearance of Captain Phil Weiss in a St. John's football uniform, as the popular back field star expects to graduate next June. However, it is more than likely that Weiss will be heard of in both basketball and baseball, the big fellow being equally at home on the court or diamond.

MANHATTAN AT LEISURE.

With St. Thomas Game Week and a Half Off, Squad Has Rest.

With a week and a half to go before the season's closing contest with St. Thomas College at Scranton Thanksgiving Day, Coach Jim McCarthy of Manhattan called off practice yesterday afternoon. The Green and White mentor was well pleased with the showing that his team made against Upsala Saturday.

BROWN REGULARS RELAX.

Iron Eleven Enjoys Day's Respite—Man Praise Harvard Line.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 15.—Dave Mishel was the only Brown regular to report at Andrews Field today, all the remaining members of the "iron eleven" taking a day off after their strenuous game in the Harvard Stadium. Mishel did not work out. With the practice for the varsity cancelled, Coach McLaughry spent part of the afternoon with Edgar J. Staff's freshman squad.

Tomorrow the team begins its preparation for New Hampshire, which plays here Saturday, and Colgate on Thanksgiving Day. Dummy scrimmages with a short practice battle between the Varsity and Team B Wednesday will be the high spots in the week's work.

No injuries have developed, although a number of the men are nursing bruises.

Harvard, according to the Brown players, has the best line they have faced this year and opinion among the players is evenly divided as to the outcome of the Yale-Harvard game Saturday.

GRANGE SCHEDULE CHANGED

Play Wildcats Sunday at Yankee Stadium—Other Games Revised.

The American League of professional football at a meeting held last night at the Hotel Astor revised the league schedule. The Grangers on Sunday will meet the George Wilson Wildcats in place of the Philadelphia Quakers at the Yankee Stadium in the first change to affect the New York eleven. The schedule is as follows:

Nov. 20, Philadelphia against Wilson Wildcats at Philadelphia; 21, Wilson's Wildcats against Red Grange's New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium; 23, Philadelphia against New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium; 27, New York Yankees against Philadelphia at Philadelphia; 28; Chicago against New York at Yankee Stadium.

Dec. 5, New York Yankees against Chicago at Chicago.

According to the American League officials, over whom President Big Bill Edwards presided, a post-season game between the Giants and the Yankees, if arranged, will be played at either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds on Dec. 12.

COLUMBIA ELEVEN RESUMES PRACTICE

Crowley Praises Line Defense Against Penn, but Blames Weak Offensive Charge.

PLAYERS IN GOOD CONDITION

Heavy Work for Thanksgiving Day Wind-Up With Syracuse Will Get Under Way Today.

The Columbia football squad resumed practice at Baker Field yesterday after its defeat by Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Saturday. Heavy work for the Syracuse game at the Polo Grounds Thanksgiving Day, which will terminate the Lion's season, will start today.

In his usual Monday lecture to the squad Head Coach Charley Crowley stated that the weak offensive charge of the line handicapped the backs in getting started against Penn, but the defense shown by the line was quite satisfactory.

Crowley said that with somewhat better work on the part of the line in the Penn game Columbia probably would have been placed in the scoring position in the fourth quarter, as the Lions missed a first down by a margin of a yard on Penn's 25-yard line. There were no substitutions in the Columbia back field, and every man who took part in the game is in good condition.

The second and third string men came in for considerable attention yesterday in an attempt to develop capable reserve material for the Syracuse game. Teams B and C went through a twenty-five-minute scrimmage, but neither team scored.

The line-up for the second team was Glenn and K. Williams, ends; Davenport and Cornell, tackles; Shaw and Alkoff, guards; Lambart, centre; Kumpf, quarterback; Green and Thorsland, halfbacks, and Norrie, fullback. The first eleven had a light workout, consisting of passing, kicking and a signal drill.

FORDHAM RETURNS TO WORK AT ONCE

Stiff Drill Replaces Ordinary Monday Relaxation After Close Call Saturday.

Following its scare by City College, practice for Fordham began in earnest yesterday in an attempt to finish the season with a victory over Georgetown at the Polo Grounds Saturday. The usual easy day of practice at the start of the week was changed by Coach Gargan into an afternoon of labor.

Despite the fact that Gargan was disappointed with the Maroon's showing against the Lavender, he is not despondent over prospects for the Georgetown game. Every member of the squad is now in good condition, including Ralph Buckley, probably the fastest member of the squad, who has seen action in only part of one game this year. His reappearance in the back field will add the power which the Fordham ball carriers have lacked in most of the games.

The usual Monday blackboard drill was more intensive than it had been this season. The many faults committed against the Lavender were enumerated by the Maroon coaches, with stress on the poor play of the line, especially since Georgetown boasts one of the strongest forward walls in the East.

The freshman eleven, which closed its season last Saturday, will be kept out to be used as scrubs in the scrimmages and dummy scrimmages which will occupy the team's attention this week, according to Gargan's present plans.

Kicking and signal drills followed the session in the classroom yesterday, and the practice was marked by a determination on the part of both coaches and players that seldom has been found on Fordham Field. The entire squad was on the field and will be driven at a rapid rate for the remainder of the week.

YALE ELEVEN ACCEPTS.

Team Again to Attend Annual Bern Party at Montclair Dec. 11.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15 (AP).—Yale's football squad will attend the annual "win, lose or draw" party in Nick Roberts's barn at Montclair, N. J., and the date has been set for Saturday, Dec. 11.

Captain P. W. Bannell today notified the Yale Club of Montclair of acceptance of the invitation to have his men at the gathering. Yale alumni already have swamped Secretary Herbert S. Snead, '09, with applications for tickets, and the prospects are that Mr. Roberts will either have to fix a waiting list or build a new barn.

Secretary Wilbur Approves Army-Navy Ticket Scale

ARMY-NAVY SALE CAUSES PROTESTS

Congressman Objects to Scale of $10 and $15, but Secretary Wilbur Defends Prices.

SCALPERS BUSY IN CHICAGO

Are Charging as High as $50 and $75 for Seats—Commissioner Denies Responsibility.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Gate prices for the annual Army-Navy football classic are causing some complaint, but the unprecedented demand for seats continues as usual.

One of the protests registered with officials here came from a member of Congress, who objected to Secretary Wilbur that the $10 and $15 scale fixed by local authorities in Chicago, where the game is to be played, is beyond the means of the ordinary football fan. The War Department also has received a few scattering complaints.

The sale of the big block of tickets allotted to Chicago authorities is regulated by the War and Navy Departments as none of their affair, however, and no objection to high prices is made here so long as the public is willing to pay. Some Chicagoans have telegraphed here saying they saw no prospect of getting into Soldier Field, even at $10 or $15 apiece, and were willing to go much higher.

All Tickets Are Gone.

Neither department has any tickets to sell. The Government quota has been allotted as usual to graduates of the two academies and to public officials who get limited quotas at $2.50 and $3.50. The pressure exercised by the friends of the fortunate has been unusually heavy this year, and the seats available from that source have been snapped up long ago.

Every year some of the tickets fall into the hands of scalpers, but officials here have received no complaints thus far regarding the activities of speculators.

Hoover on his Pacific Coast expedition, Secretary Wilbur said, he saw nothing wrong in charging $10 to see an Army-Navy game when they charge as much as $5 to see a Stanford-California game.

"A price must be set," said the Secretary, "and since the Chicago Park Commission was the only body willing to underwrite the expense of the game, I think it is justified in asking enough to get a fair return."

Find No Trace of Scheme.

One communication reaching the War Department protested against a proposed entertainment of the visiting cadets in Chicago on condition that the hospitality would be returned voluntarily by each cadet turning over one of his tickets. The hostesses in the entertainment program presumably would be the ticket beneficiaries. The War Department, on inquiry, could not learn that any such plan was afoot.

Members of Congress are receiving from the West Point Athletic Association on application two seats each which they state that the tickets are desired for the personal use of the members. They do not pay for these tickets. Formerly they received the tickets free, but because of indications of ticket scalping that practice was abandoned and the application system substituted. The Navy Department, however, has made members of Congress honorary members of the Annapolis Athletic Association, and as such they are permitted to buy not more than four seats each at the regular price of $3.50 per ticket.

Senators, and even Cabinet officers, who have attempted to buy more than four seats each have been held strictly to their allotment.

Chicago Scalpers Have Tickets.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Large blocks of Army-Navy football tickets have found their way into the hands of speculators, who are doing a brisk business in selling $10 seats for $50 and $75. The authorities disclaim all knowledge of the means by which the speculators secured the tickets.

In discussing the situation tonight, George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South Park System, said:

"We civilians are outsiders at this game. We are lucky to be getting in at all. West Point and Annapolis had first call on the tickets. The rest of us got what was left.

"When we were making arrangements for the game with Admiral L. M. Hutton of Annapolis, the Admiral told us just where we stood.

"'Gentlemen, we might as well understand each other right at the outset,' the Admiral told us. 'This is not Chicago's game; it is the Navy's game. Next year's game will be the Army's wherever it is played. This year's game is the Navy's. We are taking your field, but the game is ours.'

"And he was right. Ordinarily the Academies take almost all the seats for the Army-Navy game. They made a tremendous concession when they agreed to let the South Park Board sell 40,000 tickets, for they depend on this one game for almost all their athletic funds.

"However, we talked them into giving us 20,000 tickets outright and selling us 20,000 more at $3.50 each. Out of these tickets we have had to get the expenses of the game. That's why we are charging $10 and $15 for ordinary seats and all we could get for boxes. The game will cost us about $300,000. We don't want to make anything on it, but at the same time we don't want to spend any of the taxpayers' money. The people who see the game will pay the bill."

Ticket Numbers on Record.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP).—All ticket numbers and locations for the Army-Navy football game are recorded here, so that it is possible to tell to whom each ticket of the Army's allotment was issued, Major W. A. Cunthorne, graduate manager of athletics, said today. He said officials knew of no investigation of the ticket allotment.

No Tickets Here.

Upon inquiry at numerous ticket offices in the Times Square district last night, it was learned that no tickets for the Army-Navy game at Chicago were available here.

Bronx Park Casino Bowlers Win.

The Bronx Park Casino team won all three games from the City Hall bowlers in an American National tournament match at Thum's last night. The scores were: Bronx Park Casino, 971, 899, 990; City Hall, 887, 911, 967. Leo Marino was the high scorer, with 338.

Friars Plan Amateur Bouts.

Elmer McGovern, Chairman of the Friars Club Athletic Committee, has arranged a program of twelve amateur bouts to be staged by the Friars at their clubhouse Nov. 24.

Excellent All-America Team In Notre Dame-Army Squads

It Would Be Possible to Name Entire Eleven From Evenly Matched Rivals—Cothran of Lafayette and Carey, Cornell Captain, Are Outstanding Stars on Other Teams.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Each successive Saturday as the football season drawe to a close finds the number of unbeaten teame dwindling, but the roster of candidates for All-America honors waxing larger and larger. One week certain playere stand ont prominently, only to have their lustre dimmed the following Saturday by the exploits of others. More and more it becomes evident that, unless he names the Haskell Indians and lets it go at that, the All-America nominator is more to be pitied than ecorned.

If he does hie task conscientiously, it means that he must scan the records and get reports from every small college that has reared its head above the mass of mediocrity, as well as those of the outstanding teams. There was a day when to go out of the Big Three was a radical departure for the All-America picker.

Now it is not only insufficient that he give consideration to the ranking teams of the Atlantic seaboard, the Middle West, the South and the Pacific Coast, bnt he also muet look for his men on such teams as Geneva, Marquette, Maryland and Oklahoma, all of which have distinguished themselves during the season.

A search of this all-embracing scope is the only kind that can mean anything if the team eelected ie to be a representative All-America one, but, on the other hand, it does not mean that the team will be the strongest in the land. It is possible that eleven men could be selected from two or three colleges who would make just as formidable an outfit. As a consequence, the tendency is to select the talent nearest home whose names have become familiar to the public, with an occasional player from the provinces thrown in to ehow the "conscientiousness" of the nominator.

For instance, it would be possible to pick a formidable All-America eleven from the two teams that lined up against each other at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday, and it would also be possible to choose it, both a first and second team, entirely from the Notre Dame squad. It is a toss-up as to which would be the first All-America and which the second. So far, no team in the country has given evidence that it is any stronger than Notre Dame, and it is likely that the South Benders would be able to hold their own against a consensus team picked from the opponents of Notre Dame, including Minnesota, Northwestern and Army.

We should say that Flanagan is as high class a ball carrier for the wide sweeps as there is in the country. We haven't seen any one travel faster or hit harder in busting a line than Harry O'Boyle, and in Wallace Notre Dame has an end who, for defensive play, probably has no superior and few equals. The way Wallace streaked down the field under punts on Saturday to nail Harding and Wilson in their tracks was a delight to watch, and when he wasn't scattering the interference to stop the runner around his own end he was getting him from behind around the opposite wing. No wonder Wilson couldn't get loose.

Voedisch, who escorted Flanagan to the goal line, became famous overnight, but Wallace was the better end of the two. Other All-America candidates on this Notre Dame team are Boeringer at centre, the man who did such a neat joh at the position that Rockne decided to make an end ont of Maxwell; Miller, tackle, and Myer, guard.

Nelnic is as versatile a back as they make them, and Dahman as a defensive back is to be compared to Mehler of Colgate. The only time that Wilson got loose during the game was the one time that Dahman missed him, and if he hadn't missed Army would probably be without the services of Lighthorse Harry for the Navy game.

Dahman came np so fast that he was through the line before the Notre Dame forwards, hurling himself through the air in a magnificent dive. It was only by a hair's breadth that he missed Wilson 5 yards behind the line of scrimmage. O'Boyle was the same kind of a tackler. The flying tackle has been ruled out of the booke, hut the rule is never enforced, which is something to be thankful for. There isn't anything prettier in football than to see a tackler sailing through the air to nail hie man, and these Notre Dame backs and forwards all know how to do it.

The only member of the Army line who didn't start against Notre Dame last year was the man who stood out most prominently. This was Harbold, who occupied the place at end, left vacant by Baxter. It seemed that there was hardly a play in which Harbold did not figure on the defense, both on the line of scrimmage and down field. Daly was also a conspicuous figure in getting down under punts.

Murrell at fullback ie good enough to play on anybody'e All-America. He was the only man in the Army back field who could make consistent gains, and for the first quarter he was pretty nearly the whole Army team, kicking, knocking down passes and backing up the line, in addition to making a 28-yard run, along with others of shorter length.

Baby Dahl, a huge hulk of a youth, is likely to be heard about in the Navy game. He didn't get into the Army back field until near the end, hut in the ehort time he played he threw the cadet cheering section ffito an uproar with his plunges. Of course, the Notre Dame line was not at its freshest at the time, hut just the same Baby Dahl is bad news.

One of the leading candidates in the East for All-America honors was suspended by Coach Herb McCracken of Lafayette on Sunday. Cothran is his name, and if any one wants to know anything about him let him ask Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson. There is no player on the Eastern team who has contributed more to the unbeaten record of Lafayette than Cothran.

Cornell's season hasn't heen anything to rave about this year, though the victory over Dartmonth after last year's rout hrought about the strange spectacle on Saturday of college students tearing down their own goal posts. But in Emerson Carey, Captain of the Big Red team, Cornell has a guard who deserves some serious attention from the all-America pickers. It was Carey who kicked the field goal that won the Dartmouth game, just as he won the Columhia game last year, and who kicked the three goals after touchdown on Saturday.

Another nominee for all-American honors is Moon Baker of Northwestern, who has been knocking at the portals of fame for three years. There isn't anything a back is called upon to do that Baker can't do, and if you ask the Notre Dame players what they think abont him they will tell you that he is about the best they have faced this season.

At the reception given at the Hotel Vanderbilt Saturday evening some of the players stated unequivocally that the toughest team they have met this year is Northwestern. The score of the game was 6-0, and, according to some of the South Bend men, Notre Dame was lucky to win. "They pushed us all over the field," they said, "and every man in the back field was hard to stop."

Notre Dame, they said, did not fear the Army as much as it did Northwestern. The players knew what to expect, because practically all of them had faced the same Army team in 1925. Also, Notre Dame had scouted Army so well that they were prepared for any changes in the cadets' style of play under Biff Jones. They knew that Hewitt would not be in the back field, and they had coped with Murrell, who had replaced Hewitt, when he played on Minnesota.

It is evident from this estimate that Northwestern must be placed among the strongest elevens in the country, and if it wins its game this week with Iowa it will win the Western Conference championship unless Michigan defeats Minnesota.

NO ALIBIS OFFERED FOR ARMY'S DEFEAT

Coach Jones Bends Efforts Toward Preparation for Navy —Team Hears Lecture.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 15.—While there was general disappointment here over the outcome of Army's engagement with Notre Dame, there is a disposition in the Army camp to give the Hoosiers their just due for the fine victory. All agree it was a clean, hard fight. Army would liked to have won but has no alihis for its defeat.

There is one home game left, and that with Ursinus next Satnrday, hut Army expects to take it easily, and will, therefore, bend all its efforts toward the game with the Navy two weeks hence.

Today Biff Jones asked nothing of his men except an attentive ear and the hig squad assembled in the gymnasium to listen to Jones's post mortem, which occupied over an hour.

The Cadets returned home in good physical condition except for minor bruises. Sprague has a charley horse. It took him out of Saturday's game hnt he is expected to round to in a few days. With the reserves heing assigned the task of doing the most of the work against Ursinus, the hig team will take things rather easy for a day or two.

LEHIGH CLOSES GATES.

Wendell Wants No Distractions as Team Prepares for Lafayette.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 15.—Not because Coach Wendell has any terrors for scouting hnt intent on avoiding any distraction whatever while his Lehigh eleven is preparing for Lafayette, the barrier at Taylor Stadium was drawn tighter than ever today. In no other game this season have Lehigh's foothall men emerged in as excellent physical condition as they have from the Rntgers victory last Saturday. The entire varsity was called out this afternoon for a practice, which was carried on an hour after the big spotlights were turned on the field.

Captain Littell, who got into part of the Rutgers game, was out in uniform and showed no ill effects of his recent injuries. The shifts in the line and back field noted last Saturday no doubt will be kept intact for Lafayette. That the coaches have found the right position for Jack Levits at end is their firm belief.

PENN PLAYERS REST BEFORE FINAL DRIVE

Minor Injuries to Wascolonis and Singer Only Casualties in Columbia Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—Head Coach Lou Young gave Pennsylvania players a rest today before jumping into the strennous work before the final battle with Cornell.

With the exception of Fullback Al Wascolonis and Don Singer, veteran end, all the Red and Blue players came out of the Columhia game in good physical condition. Wascolonis's twisted knee gave him considerable pain yesterday, hut the ligament hopped back in place again and he was improved today. One of Singer's weak ankles went back on him against Columhia and he gave way to Folwell Scull. With a few days' rest Singer will be ready to take up his flank post again and expects to start against Gil Dohle's eleven on Thanksgiving Day.
